Lacy and Connemara had returned rather soberly from their unsuccessful hunt for the buried fifty thousand, to find that Aunt Celimena, having regained that miraculous composure which is breathed into any right-minded woman by the accessibility of a dressing table and the presence of a mirror, had once more suddenly become her old self. The company recognized this by a certain lift of her eyebrows. It was a lift that Connemara knew well.

Said Aunt Celimena with decision: "We shall now go home."

"Suits me," said Sweetie, "as long as I stick with the party. Where's home?"

"Mr. Lacy," she pursued, "will you tell me where I can secure a motor? I desire to take my niece back to Moorelands. If Constance Mary insists upon the presence of this"—she transfixed Sweetie with a glare—"of this young woman, I suppose I shall have to take her as well. And I want Bing to come, because I shall not sleep a wink tonight unless there is a man in the house."

"How about me?" David asked with a grin. "Don't I qualify?"

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT ON UTILITIES

In carrying on the business of the Commission, sitting as a board of directors of an ordinary company would, there is no play made for newspaper advertising. The business of the Commission is taken so seriously by its members that they become forgetful of personal publicity. It must not be forgotten, however, that the press must be induced to become more interested, so that the people may get full information through the columns of the paper.

This year I would recommend that as soon as the operating reports and annual statements for 1925 are received by the Commission, that the same be published and a copy placed in the hands of each consumer.

In presenting the report of last year I am going back beyond that time in order to give the connecting link that brought about the work that was accomplished, also the work in hand for the future.

The Utilities Commission had taken up a very aggressive policy in 1921, but not before it was needed. The City water was very bad and dangerous to the extent that a great deal of disease was traceable to this source, besides being obnoxious to the taste, and not pleasing to the eye.

A filter plant of the most modern design, with a large reservoir was constructed after plans had been prepared by the best experts in the country, assisted by our local engineer, with the result that no better or purer water is found in any city, and this pure, clear water is furnished at a cost less than the householder paid for raw, unfiltered water before the City took over the waterworks system.

After this was finished the Commission turned their attention to the old sub station, which was a veritable death trap to all who worked in or came near it, besides being an inevitable junk heap, a relic of an old makeshift, which was likely to leave the entire City without light or power at any moment.

Plans were prepared by the engineering staff of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission. The construction and installation of the electric apparatus was in the hands of the engineers of the Canadian General Electric Company of this City. A constant inspection of the electric apparatus during its construction at the factory and of its installation in the sub station was in charge of the engineers of the Hydro Electric Commission, who finally handed over to the City a perfect running sub station, a model of efficiency.

The construction of the filtration plant and the sub station, one immediately following the other, presents a very unique and unusual condition in civic affairs, inasmuch as the filter plant was estimated to cost $350,000 and was built for $325,000, making a saving of $25,000. The sub station, estimated to cost $150,000, was built for—$130,000, making another saving of $20,000, or a total of $45,000.

Next a building was erected to provide accommodation for the operating department, complete with work shops, electric meter testing departments and storerooms. A garage was also built to take care of and house the motor trucks of both departments, and this was all dnne with the $20,000 saved on the contract of the sub station. The architectural design and exterior finish has been made to a group plan, and the completed structures present a neat and pleasing appearance and are a credit to the City.

This year the Commission undertook, at the request of the City Council, an improved street lighting system, which is the first advance along this line in twelve years, and this will be continued as the City Council approve of the changes, until all day burning lamps will be entirely eliminated and a much improved lighting system installed. In January, 1925, a specimen of street lighting installation was placed on George and Water streets, north of Smith street, and during the latter part of the year the operating department designed a permanent installation for East City, under the approval of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission engineers and City Council.

A street lighting patrol has been established whereby a district is covered each night and the entire city completed in a week.

The electric meter department has been a busy place this last year, having changed and had up for government inspection by the Department of Weights and Measures, 1248 light meters and 72 power meters. Many of the power meter installations have been re-wired and placed inside of the factory, thus permitting the manufacturer to have constant supervision of his power demand.

Just recently the operating department have completed maps of all electric circuits in the City, showing the distribution system and all street lamps, thereby placing the electric department on the same up to date condition that the waterworks has always been.

The operators in the sub station have also been provided with maps showing the districts covered by the numerous primary circuits and the switches controlling same. This is very important, and is a safety first measure.

The installation of a store department for all material purchased for both the electric and water departments has been recently placed in operation under the supervision of a competent stores keeper. All material is under lock and key, and is issued only on requisition, thereby insuring a proper and correct record of all material used. This will result in a real saving over the loose methods heretofore in vogue.

Plans and estimates for rebuilding the old lines in the western part of the City have been just finished by our Engineer and approved by the Hydro Electric Commission, and the financing of same has been arranged for.

An extra heavy direct power line has been constructed from the sub station down to and across the river to the city disposal plant, by the operating department, during the last few months.

The Ontario Hydro Electric Commission during the year rendered for the first time the accumulated bill for the last six years, being the adjustments of the cost of power between the Hydro and the City, amounting in all to $35,385. The local Commission were able to pay this out of the surplus reserve.

The Manufacturers' Association met us in reference to their power problems, which required careful consideration and following which, after conferring with Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, we took steps to obtain instruments for giving manufacturers information as to their continuous operating conditions and thus assist if possible in improving their efficiency.

In the waterworks department that section of the large force main around the western part of the City was completed at a cost of less than $9,000. This will relieve the force mains in the centre of the City and provide a high pressure in the west and south City, and a more adequate fire protection throughout the entire City.

The quantity of water used other years caused us some anxiety, with the result that No. 6 filter bed was equipped and put into use. This additional filter bed gives us a total capacity of 6,000,000 gallons of pure water per day, which should be ample for the city's requirements for some time, particularly since our pumpage is less than the year 1921, making our filter plant capable of supplying a much larger population than was anticipated at the time of its construction.

1st. The manufacturers' power problems. In this way we may have to consider the advisibility of obtaining the services of an industrial expert in the application of electric power to manufacturing problems.

2nd. The carrying out of the reconstruction of the electric circuits in the western part of the City.

3rd. The completion of the street lighting installation over the whole of East City.

4th. The annual inspection of the commercial electric installation as they affect the connected load.

5th. The cleaning up of the Campbell Flour Mill controversy to the satisfaction of the public.

These are some of the more important problems which face the Commission at the beginning of this year, and which will require our prompt and earnest thought and consideration for their successful completion.

RELIEVED PAIN AND SWELLING OVERNIGHT

Long-standing case of rheumatism helped in a few hours

After having suffered with rheumatism for years, and tried all kinds of remedies in vain, thousands of people have at last found a way to get quick, sure relief.

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for years," writes one woman from Washington, D. C. "At times my hands are terribly swollen. Sloan's always gives me relief in a very short time. I have tried other liniments, but nothing equals Sloan's."

The marvelous effectiveness of Sloan's is due to its stimulating effect upon the circulation. Straight to the sick, aching tissues, it sends a healing tide of fresh new blood—clears out rheumatism germs—kills pain.

So pleasant and clean to use, too. You don't even have to rub. Just pat it on gently and you will get immediate results. All druggists—35 cents.

SEEK OSHAWA JOBS.

Army of Unemployed Invade the City.

OSHAWA, Jan. 8.—An army of unemployed has been marching to this city during the past few days as a result of the stories being circulated that General Motors of Canada would be operating on full time early in the new year. Their hopes of obtaining employment, however, are slim, as C. J. Wilcox, of the Government Employment Service, says there are sufficient unemployed in this city to take care of the demands that General Motors may make for some itme, and officials of General Motors say they will give Oshawa residents the preference.

Sam.—You have marked engineering ability and the power to vision great things. There is, however, a recent trend toward small things that is not good to see. Do not allow your outlook to become dwarfed; retain your high ideals and build upward to them. Make use of the great powers with which you are endowed. Take a course in draughting, or some other subject in fine with your abilities, and keep on improving. Seize every opportunity that occurs for advancement or for gaining knowledge. Your color is brick. You were born on a Saturday.

O. T.—You are fitted for business pursuits, but also excel in music. You have a good degree of will-power and decision of character, but are willing to change your opinion if convinced your viewpoint is wrong. You have an understanding sympathy with all, and are ready to help any who require assistance. Let things take their natural courses on the day you name. You were born on a Friday. Your color is tan.

E. T.—You are aspiring and lofty minded, but not particular in the small things, that are the basis of all achievement. Bring your mind down to the present, and build a good foundation, without losing your high aims. You have a good appreciation of your own worth, without false pride. Your charming manner has gained for you many real friends. Learn to concentrate, finish one job before starting another. Your color is brown. You were born on a Wednesday.

Bar X.—You are limited in your conscientious scruples, and squeeze the last cent possible out of a transaction. When you do right, it is not from moral scruple, but because it suits your purpose. You value yourself and others at a low worth; have little ambition and less energy. Unless you snap out of it soon, you will find yourself old—and useless. Life has no primrose path for your steps in their present staggering uncertainty. You were born on a Monday. Your characteristics vibrate to no color, hence your keynote is black, the absence of color.

T. R.—You are economical to a fault, depriving yourself and your family of the luxuries of ordinary life. This is not good, either for you or for your family. Certain dainties might almost be classed as necessities, according to our present-day standards, and certainly neat dressing is one of the most important aids to success. Look past the penny pinching attitude you have drifted into, and, without squandering money, make life comfortable. You have good mental powers, and appreciate music and art, but will not sacrifice much for them. Your color is mauve. You were born on a Thursday.

A. W.—You are methodical and tidy, appreciate system but do not let it rule your life. You use detail as a means to an end, and keep your gaze fixed steadily on your objective. There are great achievements ahead of you if you continue this course, especially in music. You would be an exceptionally good dancer. You will yield to persuasion, but never to force. Your colors are blue and cream. You were born on a Thursday.

P. H.—You would be successful in business, but must realize that there is a great deal of fun to be gone through before success is gained. Do not try "strong-arm" methods to gain your ends, but pursue the line of diplomacy. Be kind to others less fortunately situated than yourself, and pay more attention to the amenities of life. Look well at all sides of a question before deciding; you are not apt to judge hastily. You are very affectionate, and display your ardour rather more than is seemly. Your colors are silver and gray. You were born on a Tuesday.

S. J.—You are very determined and hard to stir once you have formed an opinion, forsaking a position with regret even when it has been made untenable by the logic of others' arguments. The reed that bows before the storm lasts longest. Be more flexible, see both sides of the shield, or at least admit that there IS a second side. You have a natural aptitude for making things, and would be adept in a position requiring dexterity. Your color is blue. You were born on a Sunday.

McCLINTOCK SUIT.

Both Sides Rest Case in Estate Claim.

CHICAGO, Janary 8. — Both sides rested on Thursday in the McClintock million dollar will suit in which William D. Shepherd seeks to obtain the estate of Billy McClintock, "millionaire orhan."

Attorneys for the nine cousins of Billy and Miss Isabella Pope, Billy's fiancee, did not put on witnesses, depending on arguments to the jury to prove that Shepherd exerted undue pressure in having Billy sign the will in his favor.

Last year Shepherd was acquitted of the charge that he murdered Billy by feeding him typhoid fever germs.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

— By Blanche Silver —

DORIS MAKES A COMMON MISTAKE.

When Doris went out to look at her little garden that she had planted some time before, she was almost heart-broken to find it just as she had left it. Not one seed had sent up a single tiny green shoot.

"It serves me right for not letting Brother gather those horrid old Earth Worms for his fishing trip that day," she almost sobbed. "They have eaten my seeds all up, I'll bet my——"

"Wait a second, wait a second," laughed a merry voice, and Doris looked down to see the happy face of a little Wood-elfin smiling at her. "Be careful what you bet, I'm standing on the same spot with you."

"Oh Squeedee, you dear," cried Doris. "I'm glad you didn't let me finish that sentence, for I would be sure to lose my bet. But tell me, Squeedee, if those horrid old Earth

"Mr. Earth Worm, This is Doris."

Worms don't eat my seeds, who does?"

"What's that I hear about horrid old Earth Worms?" piped up a tiny voice, and there sat Mr. Earth Worm himself by the side of his hole in the ground. "Do you know, Squeedee, if I could write, I'd print a sign and tack it up on every blade of grass in this yard. 'Earth Worms do not eat your flower seeds'."

"It's true," sighed Squeedee, "you Earth Worms do get a lot of blame you do not deserve. Mr. Earth Worm, this is Doris. This is the garden she planted some time ago and is just a little discouraged to find her seeds have not sprouted."

"All I can say is that I haven't harmed them at all," said Earth Worm sadly. "Every day after she planted them, I cam and wiggled in and around them, trying to soften up the ground so that they would grow for her. That's the duty of every good little Earth Worm—to see that every seed that is planted, in his section, has a chance to grow and bloom. We are the underground gardeners. We must keep the ground soft, so the tender seeds can push through the dirt. I did my duty until old Grandmammy Long-legs came along and laid her eggs here. Then when her youngsters hatched, they began eating your flower seeds. All I could do was to wish that they would stop, but they didn't stop until every seed was gone. Now the busy little larvae have moved from this section of the garden. I'm almost sure if you plant some more seeds, they'll grow in no time, for the ground in this spot is lovely and soft. My house of many halls runs around underneath this spot, and I'll do my best to keep it in good condition." Then, nodding politely, he wiggled back into the hole in the ground.

"I do wish he had given me time to say that I was sorry I had accused him of eating my seeds," said Doris "But you tell him, the next time you see him, Squeedee."

"I sure will," laughed the elfin. "Now you run and get more seeds and plant them."

Doris ran to the house after more seeds and when she came back, the elfin was gone. She planted the seeds and, sure enough, just a week from that day, the tiny green shoots were up so she could see them—thanks to Mr. Earth Worm.

NO DEMAND ON HUNGARY.

Indemnity in Counterfeiting Case Not Claimed.

PARIS, January 8. — Canadian Press. — Usually well informed Bourse circles aver that the French government has demanded from Hungary two hundred million gold francs indemnity in the notorious franc counterfeiting case. This however is officially denied.

M. Clinchant, the French Minister to Hungary, arrived in Paris this evening and conferred lengthily with M. Berthelot at the foreign office, while the chief police inspector, Benoit, returned from Milan, and reported to the Ministry of the Interior. Absolute silence is being maintained.

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan. 8. — Counterfeit bank notes of 100 and 500 pesetas denominations have been discovered here. The notes are of the latest issue of the Bank of Spain. Several arrests have been made.

SOVIET ARCTIC TRIP PLANNED

LENINGRAD, Russia, Jan. 8. — (Canadian Press).—A Russian expedition of exploration is to start shortly for the little known and remote desert island of Nicholas II., land in the Arctic Ocean, recently re-christened Lenin Land. Announcement of this expedition has called public attention to the fact that there at least 27 Russian scientific expeditions now at work in various parts of the Soviet's territory, working to add to the world's knowledge of geography, archaelogy, ethnology and other sciences.

About 900 miles south of the North Pole, Lenin Land, a huge island, was discovered by the Russion explorer Vilkinsky, in 1913. It has never been explored nor properly charted. Its shores, which are believed to extend far into the Arctic Ocean, have never been established.

Great importance is attached to this expedition, because it is believed the island may serve as a base for aerial and wireless communication between Europe and Asia. Owing to its extreme northern location, Russian scientists believe it offers an excellent spot for observation of meteorological conditions and the movement of the Polar ice.

DON'T FORGET TRINITY CHURCH CONCERT.

On Monday night, Jan. 11th, Peterboro music lovers will have an opportunity of hearing one of Canada's famous lyric soprano singers in the person of Mme. Marguerite Homuth Craigie, at Trinity church concert.

The following accounts from the press are suffcient evidence and proof of the quality of the programme that is in store for the expected "capacity" house on Monday night.

Marguerite Homuth Craigie is well known for her singing in many large cities, such as Toronto, Chicago, etc., where she is always received with great ovations.

"Mme. Marguerite Homuth Craigies recital filled the hall to capacity. Her pure coloratura soprano voice of fine timbre and exceptional range, gave much pleasure in operatic arias followed by groups of German, French and English songs of many different periods. Pantocks "From the Tomb of an Unknown Woman,' was sung with great expressiveness and depth of feeling."

"To Madame Craigie should go no small part of the credit for the success of the concert. Her lyric soprano voice has rarely been surpassed, even by any visiting artists. In her numbers she showed a fine dramatic expression. Madame Craigie is above all a singer of moods. Her group of songs expressing the four moods were a decided delight.—Toronto Daily Star, December 5.

"Madame Marguerite Homuth Craigie sang in English and French and revealed rare gifts as an artist. Her numbers displayed the range, power and tone qualities of her voice and the audience was most appreciative." — Kingston Whig.

"Mme. Marguerite Homuth Craigie made a sensation in the 'mad scene' from 'Lucia' (Donizetti.)" — Chicago Music News. 1d7-3896

PRINCIPALS IN RUMANIAN ROYAL FAMILY TROUBLES

Crown Prince Carol (No. 2) after having been missed from Bucharest since he left to attend the funeral at London of Dowager Queen Alexandra some weeks ago, has renounced his rights to accession to the Rumanian throne, communicating his request to his father, King Ferdinand (No. 4) in writing He has also relinquished all the prerogatives which were his as Crown Prince. The king has accepted the renunciation, and Carol's four-year-old son, Michael (No. 1) by his marriage with the Princess Helen of Greece (No. 3) is to be proclaimed as the new heir. Queen Marie (No. 5), who is known throughout Europe as one of the cleverest "matchmakers," thought the union with Princess Helen would prove lasting, but they were soon separated, and now she is reported to be seeking a divorce.

IN MEMORIAM.

At dawn an angel softly came,
Whispering gently, "Follow me."
Sadly though we watched you leave us,
God willed it so to be.

With a peaceful smile you left us,
When he called you home above,
Oh! what solace in believing
That you're happy in His love.

You were ever pure and gentle,
How we miss you day by day,
But we cherish sweet memories
That shall never pass away.

Suffering much but ever patient,
You made home a place of cheer.
Home is not the same without you,
Dearest, how we miss you here.

Husband and Daughter.

Declines Feature Weak Toronto Exchange Market

TORONTO, January 8.—Canadian Press. — General weakness characterized the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, though the volume of trading was fairly heavy.

Brazilian and Consolidated Smelters were the leaders, and both declined substantially during the session. Brazilian sold down to 81, recovering to 81½ at the morning close for a loss of a point and 1-8. Smelters touched 183 during the session but rallied to 185, a loss of one and 1-8. Steel of Canada opened strong, and recorded a good advance but it sold down to 114½, only strengthening half a point more at the morning close 115, ½ a point lower than yesterday. Atlantic Sugar, British Columbia Fishing, F. N. Burt, Twin City and Winnipeg all sold lower. The mines also showed some reaction.

Wheat Price Fluctuates Corn Also Shows Strength

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—Wheat scored an early upturn in price here to-day, influenced by the unlooked for strength of Liverpool quotations and by reports that forty per cent. of the wheat yield in Northern Argentina is unfit for milling. An advance in prices at Buenos Aires also was given attention. On the rise value here profit taking sales enlarged, and a reaction ensued, but rallies quickly followed.

The opening, 3-4 to 2 cents higher. new style, May 177 1-4 to 177 7-8 and July 153 3-8 to 153 1-2, was succeeded by a downturn that in some cases went below yesterday's finish, and then by a fresh upturn.

Corn developed independent strength owing largely to the offers to exchange merchandise for corn on the basis of dollar a bushel corn within six months. After opening 1-2 to 1 3-8c. higher, May 87 1-4 to 87 3-4, corn made additional gains and July delivery touched 90 cents.

Oats sympathized a little with the strength of other grain. Starting at a share to 1-4c. up, May 45 5-8 to 45 3-4c., cats continued firm.

Provisions were upheld by the action of corn values and of hogs.

Flood Of Selling Orders Carries Prices Down

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—A flood of selling orders, released by professional traders, broke upon the floor of the Stock Exchange at the opening of to-day's market as a result of unexpected increases in the New York Federal reserve re-discount rate. Prices were carried down 1 to 4 points when strong buying support appeared, and about half of these initial losses were recovered by the end of the first hour. Another period of weakness developed around noon, with the result that Woolworth was carried down 8¼ points, and nearly a score of others from 3 to 5 points, but buying orders again appeared and another rally started in the early afternoon. The afternoon market was rather unsettled, the sharpest losses taking place in such issues as Dupont, Sears-Roebuck, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, and United Cigar stocks, all off 4 points or more. The maintenance of a four per cent. rate for call money acted as a steadying influence.

LOWER TAXATION IS ANNOUNCED AS HOUSE OPENS

Speech From Throne Also Announces Rural Credits and H. B. R. Completion.

TARIFF BOARD.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—Guns boomed from Nepean Point this afternoon as His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy formally opened Canada's fifteenth Parliament. The clattering mounted guard accompanied His Excellency to the Parliament Buildings and lined up before the building was a guard of honor. Within the buildings, too, were all the glitter and show, and formality of days gone by. The Senate Chamber, where His Excellency read the Speech from the Throne, was bright with color. Glittering uniforms, scarlet and ermine of the Supreme Court judges, the evening gowns in the ladies' galleries gave color and light to the scene.

It was a few minutes to three when the members of the Commons met in their own Chamber with Mr. Speaker Lemieux, who was unanimously elected yesterday, in the chair. The Commoners were then summoned to the bar of the Senate, where Mr. Speaker Lemieux informed His Excellency of his appointment as Speaker of the House. After the customary formalities His Excellency the Governor General rose with the Speech from the Throne announcing the sessional programme of the Government. Members of the Lower House, headed by the Speaker, then returned to their own Chamber to begin the actual business of the session.

1—Substantial reductions in taxation.

2—The consolidation of certain public departments.

3—Measures to retain the agricultural population on the land, to encourage return to the land of urban dwellers, and repatriation of Canadians.

4—Tariff advisory board (for which provision was made the last session.), to be appointed forthwith.

6—The Board of Railway Commissioners instructed to include in its general rate investigation now in progress, a special inquiry into the causes of diversion of Canadian grain and other products through other than Canadian ports The board also to take such action under the Railway Act as it may deem efficient to ensure the utilization of Canadian ports for Canadian traffic.

8—Royal Commissioner to enquire into Maritime rights.

9—A bill to transfer the natural resources to Alberta and to amend the Dominion Elections Act.

The speech has words of affectionate remembrance of Queen Alexandra and indicated that a resolution of sympathy will be submitted to Parliament. It speaks of the "growing prosperity of our favored land," and emphasizes the increase in Canada's export trade and the greatly improved earnings of the National Railways. It announces further that simplified forms of public accounts will be issued periodically, in order that the people of the Dominion may have an exact knowledge of the sources of revenue and objects of expenditure. It intimates that the Canadian West Indies trade treaty will be submitted for the ratification of Parliament. The Speech further expresses the view "That a general increase in the customs tariff would prove detrimental to the country's continued prosperity," and it lays down the principle that "the incidence of taxation should bear as lightly as possible upon the necessaries of life and on agriculture and other primary industries."

Continuing, the Speech says: "An agreement has been made between the Government and the railroad companies, providing a larger measure of co-operation in immigration activities in the British Isles and on the continent of Europe. An agreement entered into with the British Government has already been instrumental in stimulating immigration from Great Britain, which it is of importance to attract new settlers it is equally, if not more important, to assist those who are already established on the land by reducing the cost of agricultural production. To this end, a measure will be introduced offering wide facilities for rural credits."

After dealing with tariff matters, the Speech continues:

"A tariff advisory board will be appointed forthwith; this board will be expected to make a careful study of customs. The revenue to be derived therefrom and the effect of tariff and allied factors on industry and agriculture."

ERRONEOUS WEATHER FORECAST INDICATED TROUBLE FOR RUSSIA

Message From Flagship Iron Duke Told of Fair Weather —Cyclone Arose.

KITCHENER SAILED

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 7 (Canadian Press)—"One reason why Russia is what she is today is that a wrong weather forecast was made by British sailors on the flagship Iron Duke on a June afternoon," says an article in a Toronto journal, discussing Prof. Alexander McAdie's book "War Weather Vignettes" which is quoted as authority for the statement. In this book there is a consideration of the events leading up to the death of Lord Kitchener. The article continues: "The question was raised in the House of Commons recently and an official denial was made of the oft repeated rumor that the Hampshire was sunk as a result of the work of a German spy. No doubt the rumor will continue to arise, for it has shown already remarkable resiliency under contradiction. Indeed, we probably have not heard the last of the twin rumor that Lord Kitchener was a German prisoner died in a prison camp and was secretly buried. The truth seems to be that a combination of circumstances which could not have been foreseen by those who had to make decisions was responsible for the disaster to the Hampshire. The mine that the vessel struck was one sown on general principles by the Germans. They could have had no idea that Lord Kitchener would ever be in the vicinity of it. Certainly they could have had no idea that at the moment the mine was struck there would be raging such a violent storm as to make the launching of boats impossible.

"Finally nobody could know that the weather forecasters on the Iron Duke would make the bad guess which, according to Prof. McAdie, was primarily responsible for the disaster. He tells us that on June 5, 1916, Lord Kitchener arrived at Scapa Flow from Thurso. He was bound on a confidential and vital mission to Russia at the request of Czar Nicholas, who desired him to formulate a scheme for closer co-operation between the armies of Russia and those of the other Allies. The weather was bad at the time and Kitchener was weary when he arrived. No salute was fired in his honor and he and Sir John Jellicoe had lunch together and he heard for the first time the true story of Jutland. Later there was a discussion between the Admiral and Kitchener's staff as to the route to be followed to Archangel by the Hampshire. It was decided that she should steam out of the Flow by a Western channel and proceed north in the lea of the Orkneys. Of this momentous decision, Prof. McAdie writes:

"'The decision proves that those present did not comprehend what type of structure prevailed at the time. For within an hour the storm centre passed and the wind backed sharply to the northwest. The conditions were exactly the reverse of those anticipated. Even fiercer than the north-east gale was the northwest blast that swept the swelling waters against a jagged coast. Analysis of the storm structure shows that a definite well known type of cyclone was passing from the Atlantic to the North Sea, and about to recurve before heading northwest into the Arctic regions . . . The council of the weather-wise would have been to wait and follow the depression rather than to try to precede it.'

"At five o'clock the Hampshire was on her way to her doom speeding so swiftly that the two destroyers which were accompanying her dropped behind and were obliged to turn back. Forty minutes later, a mile and a half off the Brough of Birsay, she struck the mine, sank bow down, and disappeared in fifteen minutes. There were twelve survivors of that gallant company and the last that any of them saw of Kitchener he, with the captain and his secretary, was standing on the bridge staring out over the sea while death rushed towards them."

UNITED CHURCH WEEK OF PRAYER

The services which are being held in Trinity United Church this week, were continued last night with a large attendance. Rev. J. E. Todd had charge of the service, and Rev. R. T. Richards gave a very strong and inspiring address.

In dealing with his subject, "Jesus and Society," Mr. Richards took for his text the words of Jesus to those who stood around the open tomb from which Lazarus had just been raised: "Loose him and let him go." Even though life was in Lazarus, and potentially he was capable of doing much, yet so long as he was bound in the grave-clothes he was helpless.

Using this text as a point of departure, Mr. Richards brought his thought to bear upon the problems we are facing in our own land. We hear much of the rich resources of our country—it is rich in minerals, forests, fisheries, industries and agriculture; but before these great resources can be of any service to Canada, there must be brought to bear that power which shall bring about their release—they must be set free.

But in our country we have another kind of resource, viz., the latent capacity for ministry which is lying dormant, the moral resources of our people, truth, integrity, purity, and the capacity for brotherhood and service. These, too, are our potentially, but they need to be set loose. There are so many of these powers of ours which are being used for merely selfish purposes—the satisfying of personal ambition, the gratifying of every whim and desire for pleasure—surely this misuse of our fine resources is to invite the oncoming of senility decay and death. One outstanding problem which the world faces today, was used to illustrate his point, the great question of war. New engines of destruction are being planned; ways and means are being devised whereby one nation can secure an advantage over other nations; can all this be Christian? Is there any room for all this in the Kingdom Jesus came to establish? There is, of course, only one thing to conquer hate, envy, jealousy, all of which are breeders of war, and that is a power which is stronger and which we find potentially in our possession, and that is love. Love alone will conquer hate, and solve our great problem. This was Napoleon's confession as he sat in his self-induced exile—"The Babe of Bethlehem always has conquered brute force."

The conclusion of this helpful address was reached in a stirring appeal to his congregation that they should co-operate in this great work of bringing in the Kingdom. He pointed out two ways in which this could be done.—1, by putting meaning and content into those words which Jesus used most frequently, such as Love, Father, Home, Friends, Goodness and Sacrifice; 2, by bringing the need and the supply together. Very few men find their way into the Kingdom alone; how often it is through the kindly influence of a parent, friend or loved one that we do enter in. All these resources are in our keeping, and shall we not loose them for the great work of the Kingdom of God?

BOOTLEG LIQUOR KILLS FOUR MEN

ANOTHER BLINDED.

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., January 8. — Canadian Press.—A New Year's celebration ended yesterday in the death of four striking coal miners. A fifth, blinded and crazed by alleged bootleg liquor, is wandering in the woods near a lumber camp at Hancock.

News of the fatalities was brought to the Thomas Kerry Chemical Company, operators of the camp, by the sixth member of the party, who collapsed after he entered the company's office. A relief party found three men dead on the floor of the camp. A fourth, taken to his home, fell dead in the kitchen.

JOHNSON AMONG GREAT BATTERS

Only 15 Pitchers Since 1887 Have Hit .400.

1925 MARK WAS .433

When Walter Johnson finished the season of 1925 with an average in batting of .433, he joined the ranks of the pitchers with a batting average of .400 or better. There are only a few on this select list. From 1887, the names of only 15 can be found who reached the unusual mark of .400. Many of the pitchers who touched this charmed record played only a few games.

In 1887, there were three major league pitchers in the .400 class and they were the first on record to achieve the feat. Al. Maul and Charlie Ferguson, of the Phillies, were the first National League pitchers to reach that mark. In 1887, Bobby Carruthers, star of the St. Louis Browns of the American Association, was the first pitcher in that circuit to bat .400. In 1887, Carruthers stepped into the select circle by piling up an average of .459 in the 424 times he came to bat. This is the highest batting average made by a pitcher who played in 15 or more full games.

Great All-Round Star.

Charlie Ferguson was the star of the Philadelphia Nations from 1884 to 1888, also considered the greatest all-round player the game ever had. In 1887 he batted .412 in the 69 complete games he played. Al. Maul was a noted pitched back in the eighties and nineties. While with the Phillies in 1887 he had an average in batting of .450, but he played in only 16 complete games.

Goodall, pitching for the Louisville club in 1890, stepped to the plate 45 times and drove out 19 hits, which gave him the splendid mark of .422 in batting.

The records of Carruthers and Ferguson, of the old school, and W. Johnson and Jack Bentley, of recent years, are the only ones to be considered, for all took part in 30 or more games and all came to bat 90 or more times.

Bentley Hardest Hitter.

Jack Bentley, of the Giants, with a life-time mark in big league baseball of .329, is the hardest hitting pitcher in the same today. There is no fluke about the batting of this husky left-hander, for during his time in minor league baseball he was a terrific hitter with a mark of over .350. He record of .427 in the 52 games he participated in during his first season out was sensational and placed his name at the head of the batting list of 1923. Bentley's record for 1923 is the best since the days of Carruthers, Maul and Ferguson. Walter Johnson, last season, shaded this record of Bentley's by six points.

Here is the list of pitchers who finished a season in big leagues with a percentage in batting of .400 or better.

Theatre

AT THE REGENT

TOM MIX SHOWS SKEPTICAL MINER—HE'S A BEAR WITH SAXAPHONE

Up in Central California, there is an old prospector who thought he had the laugh on Tom Mix—until Tom got wise and fooled him.

It seemed that in "The Best Bad Man," Fox Films Western starring the famous Texas ace, now at the Regent Theatre, Mix is supposed to play all kinds of musical instruments In fact, he is cast as an itinerant musician and is known as "Jingle Bells"

One day, while Director J. G. Blystone was filming the musical sequences, an aged spectator turned to Tom Wilson and sneered:

"I been watchin' him for an hour and I'll be darned if he's played a tune on one of them things yet. Still, down in the city, people will go to see him—and pay big money for it—Why do they say all the derned fools live in the small towns!"

Instantly Goodman began playing "Asleep in the Deep."

At the same instant Mix went into action—while Clara Bow, Judy King, Paul Panzer, Frank Beal, Cyril Chadwick, Tom Kennedy, Buster Gardner and other members of the cast listened attentively. Mix ran through the piece with Goodman and then handed the instrument to Wilson.

"Guess that ought to convince you!" said Wilson. "He played the hardest tune in the world on a saxophone—an' never fell down once!"

AT THE CAPITOL

"FRANCOIS," IN MIND READING AND HYPNOTISM.

Monsieur Francois, who made his initial visit to Peterboro some time ago, is back again at the Capitol Theatre for the last three days of this week, and is giving a demonstration, with new features, of his powers of mind-reading and hypnotism. Yesterday afternoon and last night he had excellent audiences for his performances and kept his patrons thrilled and excited with his skilful work. A number of local young men acted as assistants for his demonstrations yesterday, the afternoon performance being so realistic as to cause one energetic youth, engaged in chasing an invisible butterfly, to climb half way up the side wall of the theatre and another to essay a descent by way of the balcony railing.

Last night, the hypnotised youths treated the audience to a repetition of the alphabet in loud tones, and circulated through the house calling the advantages of a certain type of corn salve. They also did a hulahula dance in appropriate costume, much to the amusement of the onlookers.

An entirely new and extremely exciting event was the "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" impersonation, carried out by Francois and his assistants, so thrilling as to cause loud shrieks from the feminine portion of the audience, one of whom retired from the balcony in hysterics. This item has to be seen to be appreciated fully and is a weird demonstration of the powers of hypnotism over the mind.

Francois also answered a number of questions in a mind-reading portion of the entertainment, much to the diversion of his hearers. Queries as to absent husbands, best boot-leggers and romantic entanglements came in for careful consideration and witty replies.

The picture programme includes a clever cartoon Fable and a feature in "The Half Way Girl,' with Doris Kenyon, a very likeable star, supported by Lloyd Hughes and Hobart Bosworth.

"The Half Way Girl" is a characterization of a girl who was "not good and not bad,' and liable to generous impulses at the wrong moment. As Poppy La Rue, Occidental drifter in the Orient, a hostess in a big hotel at Singapore, Doris Kenyon does some excellent work. The drifting son of a Criminal Investigation officer, falls in love with her, and she helps him to escape after he fights with and kills "The Crab," keeper of a notorious resort in the notorious "Malay street" of the foreign quarter of Singapore. The father, ignorant of the identity of the criminal hounds him and his accomplice He sends Poppy to "Malay Street," from the dives of which she is rescued by the proprietor of the Hotel Orient, who takes her away on the steamer "Mandalay." Here is secreted in the hold the man who loves her, and when the ship takes fire, the two escape and are finally rescued by a passing boat.

The scenes depicting the burning ship are realistic in the extreme. The fearful struggles of the passengers, their attempts to get into the crowded boats, their inability to get away, and the escape of a tiger from the hold of the burning vessel, make a wonderful section of an interesting picture.—Jeanette.

LINDSAY RINKS IN CONSOLATION

DEFEATED REESOR

LINDSAY, Jan. 8.—Two local rinks played off in the final round of consolation series of the abbreviated bonspiel, Herb Wood defeating Walter Reesor by 6 to 5 in an extra end.

The bonspiel started on soft ice and conditions practically grew worse as the event narrowed down in the various draws. There happened to be less water on the ice on the last day and night, but the ice had become glassy and grimy. Despite this great handicap, the 'spiel went merrily on, everybody seemed to be contented, had a good time, and the event was undoubtedly a success as far as it went. The condition of the ice was a keen disappointmnt to all who love good curling, and the lack of good ice conditions undoubtedly prevented a great number of outside entries.

Chairman O'Connor expressed the wish that Dunsford would enter a rink in the District Cup competition, which takes place at Bobcaygeon this year.

They have no electric lights at Dunsford, but the electric floor lamps won by Skitch's quartette could not be bought for $100.00.

Skitch had to win five straight games to land the Primary event, but Woods took part in seven games to land in the silverware in the Consolation event, five games being played in one day.

Scott's Toronto rink defaulted in the Consolation event. They were all in, but stated that they had enjoyed themselves.

Charley Snow, vice-skip for the Lakeviews, is well known in Lindsay. He has curled here before, and also was official starter at the horse races held at Lindsay Fair last September.

John Carew has been patron of Lindsay Curling Club for some fifteen years, and in that time has been a great help. Mr. Carew has promised another cup for another bonspiel to be held this season.

"We are not mud hens," said Skip Besse of Claremont, "but we have just as good a chance as the other fellow, and are enjoying the bonspiel."

Claremont have but two sheets of ice, and many of their players come from the farm. They are good sports, and Besse, the popular skip, has been going to bonspiels for years.

Mr. O'Connor, chairman of the Bonspiel Committee, stated that the bonspiel had been a success, despite the mild weather conditions He appreciated the entry of outside rinks, and in a sense regretted that Moore, of Keene, for instance, did not carry away a prize. He had curled in Lindsay twelve years ago, and was a fine fellow. However, congratulations were due to Skips Woods and Reesor. He was quite satisfied that both the win of Dunsford and Skip Woods were popular ones.

TWO TIE GAMES IN N. H. LEAGUE

SCORES 1-1 AND 2-2.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press)—Ottawa and Montreal battled 20 minutes overtime to a 1-1 draw here last night before a wildly excited crowd of 10,500 fans. Without the peerless Frank Nighbor at centre, who is suffering from laryngitis, the league leading Senators started Hooley Smith at centre and the former Canadian Olympic player led the Capital City players in their uphill fight. The Senators battled with determination which could not be halted, even the team was exhausted in the overtime.

At New York

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 8 (Canadian Press)—Boston Bruins and New York Americans battled eighty minutes in their National Hockey League fixture here last night to a two goal draw verdict. Replete with thrills, spills and hard checking, the match was productive of many penalties, serious injuries to a pair of players and dazzling fast hockey but no verdict could be reached because the Americans back checked the Bruins too strongly while the Hub Town goalie held the New York sharpshooters in hand.

FIRST DIVISION TEAMS IN THIRD ROUND CUP PLAY

"Big Leaguers" of English Soccer Go Into Action Saturday.

SPURS AND HAMMERS

Vigorous Game Expected Between London Teams—Other Pairings.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The third round of the English Football Association Cup is scheduled for play on Saturday, and, despite the innumerable qualifying rounds that have gone before it is not until tomorrow that general interest in the annual competition becomes enlivened. Teams of the First Division of the league are introduced for the first time into the game, the previous tourney having been fought out among the Third Division and amateur combinations with a small sprinkling of second string teams engaged. Under these circumstances, it can hardly be said that the contest has really begun, for not until the "big leaguers" get going does the struggle take on anything like national importance.

The draw for Saturday sees some curious pairings, and not the least remarkable is the all-metropolitan engagement that brings Tottenham Hotspurs face to face with West Ham. The ancient rivalry of these teams has often been inudged and takes the form of particularly strenuous play. Cup-tie football being what it is, the fans here feel that Saturday's tilt will not lack in vigor whatever else it may be deficient in. The 'Spurs have already met the "hammers" on their own ground—the locale of Saturdays encounter—in this season's game, and the 'Spurs were victorious. Since then, however, neither team has shown any particular brilliancy and the upshot of the tilt tomorrow is doubtful. It will be a case of the survival of the fittest.

Easy For Cup-Holders.

The cup-holders, Sheffield United, are presented with a specially easy mark in entertaining Stockport County at Bramall-Lane, the latter being a second string aggregation that . . having a hard time to keep themselves even in that company without aspiring to such dizzy heigths as winning English cups. Soccer men feel that the "Blades" have a walkover.

The runner-up in last year's final, Cardiff City, confront Burnley and judging by the play of both teams, there is nothing to draw between them. Cardiff's terrible drubbing at the hands of Sheffield on New Year's Day has been very discouraging to the Welshmen, but they may redeem themselves to the extent of travelling some distance at least in the cup fight. Burnley are not formidable.

The draw sees three amateur combinations in action, Clapton, winner's of last year's amateur cup, Boston, and Chilton Colliery. Clapton are confronted by Swindon Town, while Chilton travel to South Shields. Of the two games, that at Shields will be the hardest for the amateurs to win, for the home club is making excellent progress in the second division. Boston have a somewhat hopeless task at Sunderland.

No Menace Here.

The league leading Arsenal Club will be the guests of the second string team, Wolverhampton Wanderers; Huddersfield Town engage Charlton Athletic; Newcastle United meet Aberdare at Newcastle; Manchester United play aawy from home at Port Vale; Aston Villa are drawn against Hull City; Derby County are at home to Portsmouth. In none of these fixtures do enthusiasts see any menace for the teams of the senior divisions, while . ne are inclined to the belief that Derby County will be one of the aggregations that will advance quite a distance.

Leicester City, who were one of the sensations of last year's cup play being the team that were responsible for the downfall of Newcastle United, are facing Notts County. Neither team has shown good league form this year and the fans do not think that the annual cup-sensation will come from that direction.

The fourth round will be played January 30.

TEAM DEFAULTED.

Brownton Failed To Visit Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 8—On Saturday morning the M.M.M. team, resplendent in their nifty new uniforms of blue and yellow, were ready for the scheduled game with the Brownton all star team of Peterboro who had arranged to play the locals in what was expected to be a fast game of junior hockey. The Brownton all stars evidently did not wish to venture so far afield and neglected to notify the manager ofthe M.M.M. team so when local fans arrived there was no game. A team of Rink Rats, five men strong, all being larger boys, gave the disappointed youngsters a game of sorts, which the big fellows won easily. William Hamblin handled the bell to the satisfaction of all.

On Friday night the Rink Rats will pay Warsaw in the Lakefield district hockey league and promises to be a fast game.

Australia had 483 brides under seventeen years of age in the year 1923. The youngest was only thirteen.

CAMPBELLFORD WON T.V.L. GAME FROM HASTINGS

Score Was 6-3 in Opening Game of the League Schedule.

CLOSE CONTEST.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8. — Campbellford Intermediates signalized their return to Trent Valley League hockey by defeating Hastings 6 to 3 at Covert's Arena last night. Hastings with "Dit" Clapper Hill and Doonan missing, were only a remnant of last season's good team and only the tireless efforts of "Scotty" Clapper, Stevenson and Gould kept them within striking distance, till near the end of the game, when the locals pulled away by scoring two goals in quick succession.

Both teams showed flashes of good hockey, but the checking was so close neither team could get going properly.

Hastings tried very little combination, relying on checking the puck carrier coming out, and taking a long range shot, and Fox was kept busy heaving the rubber into the corner. McArthur and Cowell were good defensively, and it was seldom the Hastings forwards tried to go by them, preferring to shoot from outside.

Blue, at centre, played the best game he has yet shown. He had more speed than anybody on the ice, played his position, and backchecked all the way, and lost his bad habit, that of hogging the rubber, in the dressing room. He scored two goals, o nlone rushes and was deprived of another sure goal, when and his specialty was robbing an opuck went in the net, but Hastings claimed he shoved it in with his hand, and it was not allowed. Wood showed some clever stick handling in spots, but is not in condition to stand the pace.

Clapper was the best of the Hastings gang, and though he started on the defence, he was up on the line most of the time. Not as fast as some of the rest, he is a good check and his specialty was robbing an opponent of the puck, and shooting it at the Campbellford net.

Gould and Sevenson were good in spots. Evidently both lacked condition.

The game was clean, only three penalties being handed out; Lucham for the home crew, and Clapper and Gould for Hastings drawing enforced rests, all for minor infractions.

Lucham put the homesters ahead before the first rest on a pass from Blue. Both goalies had plenty to do in the second period, but turned everything [illegible], and there was no score.

Hastings evened up again when Stevenson went down the side, was run into the corner by McArthur and his pass out in front glanced in off Flint's stick.

Then "Bill" Blue went on a rampage all his own. He grabbed the puck at centre, skated around the Hastings' defence, right in on top of Dodd. He repeated a few minutes later on another lone rush through the whole Hastings team. He was in alone again, but fell at the goal mouth.

"Scottie" Clapper kept the visitors in the hunt when he sizzled one between the defence that beat Fox.

Wood and Cowell carried the rubber down and Blue slammed in the rebund off Cowell's shot. Cowell went down the boards alone and picked up the rebound off his own shot for the last goal of the game.

There was a good crowd for the opening game, a fact appreciated by the boys in thir efforts to keep the game going in town.

Line-up:

Hastings (3)—Goal, Dodd; r. defence, Clapper; l. defence, Tait; centre, Gould; r. wing, Stevenson; l. wing, Way. Subs, Cassidy and Scriber.

Campbellford (6)— Goal, Fox; r. defence, McArthur; l. defence, Cowell; centre, Blue; r. wing, Labrash; l. wing, Wood. Subs, Sucham and Flint.

Brintons have joined the parade and now have a rink, keeping company with the Raybestos and Cognawaga clubs. With the teams having good facilities for practice, the fans will see a lot of fast hockey in the City League.

BOUCHER REINSTATED.

Had Been Suspended More Than Week For Attack on Official.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—Bill Boucher, who was suspended after the Canadien-Montreal game at the Forum last Wednesday for an attack on Goal Umpire Ernie Russell, has been reinstated by President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League, and will start at right wing for his team when they meet the New York Americans at the Arena Saturday.

BOWLING

AT K. OF C. ALLEYS.

Ladies' teams bowling at the Knights of Columbus' alleys last evening were the West Ends (Mrs. J. J. Doris, captain) who took three games from the Bluebirds (Miss Carmelita Fitzgerald, captain), and the Owls (Miss Katherine McDonald, captain), who took two games out of three from the Poppies (Miss Katie Radey, captain). High score of the evening was 181, made by Miss Genevieve Kelly, of the Owls' team.

HOCKEY NOTES

Jack LeBarr and Harold McDougall, of last year's local Junior O.H.A. team, will renew acquaintances to-night, when St. Mike's with LeBarr in goal and Owen Sound with McDougall at centre play an exhibition game at the Sound.

Some changes may be made in the line-up when the Junior Petes play in Markham to-night, but not until the youngsters get a chance to show what they can do on fast ice. Tuesday's slush placed the kids at a big disadvantage.

Wednesday night's schedule of games in the city loop will be played next Wednesday night. St. Andrew's and De Laval, the only two teams to report wins on the opening night, meet St. Peter's and Raybestos respectively. These games are arousing great interest among the fans.

FANS OUT FOR REFEREE'S HIDE

NORTH BAY WON.

NORTH BAY, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press)—In a game that ended with hockey sticks used as battle axes and with about a hundred and fifty of the spectators on the ice after Referee "Spike" Hennessy's hide, North Bay was on the long end of a 7-3 score in the second junior N.O.H.A. clash with Sudbury here last night. Hennessy's refereeing was a sore spot with the North Bay fans from the first two minutes of the game. As a result of the fracus "Wick" Barclay has a gash in his head that required three stitchs to close. Allan Duncan of the Sudbury team had his leg ripped open with a skate during the melee.

SKATER'S TRIBUTE.

Making a special trip to this city the Finnish flash placed a wreath on the grave of Donoghue, whose records for distance of more than 25 miles still stand. Accompanied by relatives of the former world's pion, Thunberg also visited Donoghue's birthplace.

MATCHED FOR TORONTO BATTLE

Harry Greb, of Pittsburg, the middleweight champion of the world, this week accepted terms to meet Roland Todd, of England, middleweight champion of Europe, in a 12-round bout in Toronto, January 11th. This is the most important bout Canada has had in 20 years.

BIG CROWD TO SEE THE SENIOR GAME TO-NIGHT

Reserved Seats Have Been In Demand For O.H.A. Battle.

PADDLERS STRONG.

Bill Box's Youngsters Are in Great Shape For the Test.

A capacity crowd will see Toronto Canoe Club and the Petes battle in their Senior O.H.A. fixture at Brock Street Rink to-night, judging by the demand for reserved seats. A fine sheet of ice is ready for the teams, and there is every reason to expect a fast exhibition of Canada's national winter sport. The Petes finished their training with a lively half-hour's work-out last night, and will go into to-night's battle in good shape. The team will line up as follows:

Goal—Dwyer.
Defence—Parker and McLeod.
Centre—Collins.
Right wing—Bailey.
Subs—Cox and Bogardis.

Toronto Canoe Club will have the clever Joe Stark in the nets, Taylor and Ryder on the defence, and Grant, McPherson, Foster and McIllwaine up in front. The Paddlers are in the pink and confident of victory.

Referee Mike Rodden will send the teams away at 8.30 o'clock sharp.

OAKLAND BIDS FOR GREB TITLE BOUT

Accepts Offer For Fight With Leo Lomski.

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— A ten round boxing contest February 3 with the world's middleweight crown, worn by Harry Greb, at stake, was virtually assured for Oakland yesterday when Tommy Simpson, promoter, announced he had received telegrap'ic acceptance from Greb and Leo Lomski, Pacific Coast titleholder.

Articles have not been signed but Simpson said his terms were agreeable to both boxers. Accordingly, a match here between Lomski and Ray Pelky scheduled for January 20, was cancelled by Simpson.

Lomski won the coast title a few months ago by a knockout over Bert Colima in Seattle. Of late Lomski has scored ten-round decisions over Ted Moore, of England, and Mickey Rockson, of Boise, Idaho.

ALL METAL AIRSHIP TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Will Be Covered With Metal Instead of With Fabric.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. — Canadian Press. — Plans for constructing two dirigible balloons, one of the largest all-metal airships in the world, were announced last night at a meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in the Engineers' Club, by Carl F. Fritsche, of the Aircraft Development Corporation of Dearborn, Mich.

One ship will be of 200,000 cubic feet capacity, or one tenth the size of the Shenandoah, Mr. Fritsche said, and the other to be covered with metal inste l of fabric, will have 500,000 cubic feet capacity.

RUTH SHEDS WEIGHT.

Gym Work Reduces Weight To 215 Lbs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.— (Canadian Press.) — Asserting he has reached the best physical condition of his career at 215 pounds, Babe Ruth yesterday said he proposed to carry his training campaign from a New York gymnasium to the golf links of Florida next month in his effort to regain the home run hitting honors he lost last year to Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Four weeks of intensive exercising here have not only reduced the waist line of the Yankee slugger seven inches, but have made him one of the most skillful handball players of the gymnasium. Calisthenics and boxing have also been included in his daily routine.

HOCKEY GROWING IN CHICAGO FAVOR

Game Handicapped By Lack of Indoor Rink.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Strong attempts are being made to organize ice hockey on a sound basis in Chicago. One aspect of this movement is the attempt to get a charter in a national professional league for the city; the other side of the effort is to set up a number of teams here so that the fans may have a better chance to see the game well played and at the same time arouse a wider circle of followers.

The north-side circuit is a good organization and displays an excellent brand of the variated shinny; in their first appearance of the season on last Sunday the players turned in a good exhibition despite the mushy footing. The outfits are composed mostly of former eastern college men, Harvard, Yale and Princeton being particularly well represented.

The I. A. C. players are coming along in great shape under the futelage of Jack Marks, who managed the Tom Murrays and the I.A.C. teams in 1910 before he covered himself with glory as a member of the Quebec Bulldogs, a pro organization. His material is excellent and a number of Canadian stars have greatly augmented the lineup.

Sportsman to Equip Team Here.

Rumor is current that a team to be equipped by a Chicago sportsman, recruited from Canadian players now in the city and coached by a former Canadian pro., will make its bow here this winter if a hockey surface can be secured. This aggregation would prepare for a big splurge next year.

The greatest handicap that the shinny artists have to overcome is the lack of an indoor rink. With the weather so uncertain, the ice is in good shape one day and soft the next. As a consequence the teams often are reluctant to schedule games in advance for fear that the ice will not permit play by time for the game.

Indoor Rink Needed.

With an indoor rink the sport should increase in popularity by leaps and bounds in the Chicago district. The rules are simple enough so that any one can follow the play, and still, science is required to such a marked degree that the fascination of the sport holds one. Excitement is plentiful and every exhibition is almost sure to be replete with thrills. It is not at all unlikely that ice hockey, a graduated form of shinny which every kid has played, may become in the near future one of the city's leading winter sports.

CONNACHER INJURED.

Operated on Last Night For Broken Nose—Fractured in Game.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press) — Lionel Conacher, Pittsburgh professional hockey defence player, was operated on at the Royal Victoria Hospital last night for a broken nose. The former rugby star received the injuries in the Montreal-Pittburg game here recently. The nose was found to be fractured in three places.

By Giving the Eyes Needed Attention
Many a person has increased the volume and value of his work. When this result is so easy to secure and when the rewards are so sure, isn't it surprising that so many neglect their eyes? But tens of thousands of folks at this minute are below par in efficiency just because their eyes do not function as they should. We can help such people.

A. E. Bohn Disappears After Leaving Plant of C.G.E. for Noon Lunch

Mystery Shrouds Missing Machinist, Who Was Last Seen Punching Time Clock Yesterday—Had No Overcoat and Little Money, If Any.

POLICE FIND NO CLUE.

Wife Says Her Husband Had No Worries But About Machines—Outlying District Combed in Vain Search All Day—Leaves Child.

Albert Edward Bohn, 413 London street, left his home about half past six o'clock yesterday morning for his work at the Canadian General Electric Company, and has not returned since. He had his lunch with him and his wife did not become anxious about his whereabouts until last evening when he failed to return home for supper. Even then, she thought he might be working late or possibly have gone to the home of a friend who was trying to interest him in a radio outfit. It was not until this morning that she notified the Police Department, who, with men from the brass department of the C.G.E. are now searching for the missing man. Rumour reports having seen him on Chamberlain street yesterday afternoon, but the last authentic information about him comes from a man who met him on the stairs in the factory yesterday at noon, after he had punched the time clock. This man asked Mr. Bohn if he was going to work, and he said no.

Worried by Machines

For a couple of weeks back, ever since certain new slotting machines were introduced into the brass department in which Mr. Bohn was employed, as a machinist, he has been complaining about his work. The new machines worried him and he has been in the habit recently of coming home at night, with a very sleepy and tired feeling, and going to bed early. His wife says that he had nothing to worry about, outside of his work. As far as she knows, he had little or no money on his person, as he was in the habit of being careless with money and losing it, and did not carry much as a consequence. He would not wear an overcoat, even in cold weather, and was clad only in his working clothes.

Mr. Bohn was born in England but has lived for a long time in Peterboro, having been an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company for the past twenty years. He was about forty-two years of age and was well known in the city, being a drummer for many years in both the Salvation Army and Peterboro Rangers' Bands. He is described as being a stout man of medium height, with hair of medium fairness and blue eyes.

Mrs. Bohn, who is almost prostrated with anxiety concerning her husband's whereabouts, was informed this morning by her husband's sister, Mrs. Panter, of Monaghan Road, that his father, who died when his son was only a baby, was in the habit of wandering away from home at times.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohn have only one child, a daughter of twelve years of age.

No Clue

The police have scoured the countryside without result and volunteer searchers have likewise failed to pick up a clue to Mr. Bohn's whereabouts.

CARDINAL WORSE.

Mercier Unable To Take Nourishment.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—The advanced age of Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, makes his recovery from the effects of his operation last week doubtful, it was said in medical circles yesterday.

The 74-year-old cardinal continued to lose strength Friday owing to his inability to take nourishment. It is now reported that he is also suffering because an ulcer on his leg refuses to heal.

Lad Climbs High Tree To Rescue a Cold Cat

A very decent and humane act was performed by a young lad this morning which deserves mention. A cat has been in a high tree on Wolfe St. West for the past two days, no doubt suffering with cold and huger. The lad noticed it this morning and climbed to the top to get it down. It was no small risk he took and many spectators waited with bated breath until both he and his rescued friend the kitten were safe.

Forged French Notes, Creating Furore in Europe Possibly Made in Munich As a German War Measure

LONDON, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press) — French 1,000 franc notes forged in Budapest which are creating an international sensation are believed in well informed quarters to have been prepared in Munich as a war measure by the German government, late in 1917, but never used. These plates were made after the conference between German and Austro-Hungarian financial experts as the best means of attacking allied credit. It was desired to forge bank of England notes but this plan was rejected as it was impossible to duplicate the water mark and paper.

When the war began to go badly for Germany the plot was not carried out through fear of financial reprisals after peace.

Cost Of Dying Increases By More Than 25 Per Cent.

MOSCOW, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—The cost of dying is increasing in Soviet Russia. Owing to the scarcity of suitable wood and draping materials, coffins have advanced in price during the last six months by 33 per cent, while owing to congestion in the cemeteries, graves have gone up 25 per cent.

Issue Quickly Joined After Formal Opening Of the New Parliament

Motions of Confidence and Non-Confidence Sweep Rapidly Across the Scene—Galleries Packed With Spectators Fresh From Senate's Calm.

MEIGHEN DISCREDITS OPPONENTS.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe Makes Surprised Move That Plunges Parliament Into Debate — Conservative Leader Moves Non-Confidence, But Discussion is Carried Over.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press)—The first session of Canada's 15th Parliament opened in a storm. The first day in the House, usually little more than frills and formality, saw the issue between Government and Opposition sharply joined. Motions of confidence and non-confidence in the Government swept across the stage so rapidly that even old parliamentary onlookers were bewildered and confused. The galleries were packed. Long rows of evening gowns told how guests for the opening had hurried from the placid atmosphere of the Senate to the troubled scene of the House. Members wildly cheered their leaders again and again as point after point was made. It was such an opening day as the Canadian Parliament has probably never seen before.

The commoners had but just returned from the formal opening in the Senate when the battle began. In the Upper House there was all the old glimmering display, all the old traditional ceremony. Then, scarcely had the members taken their seats in their own chamber again when Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting Government leader, rose with the formal motion of confidence. He moved that, in the opening of the House, the Government was justified in retaining office, in summoning parliament, and entitled to retain office "unless defeated by a vote of this house."

Surprised Meighen

Mr. Lapointe's motion obviously came as a surprise to Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader. He protested that it was out of order on the ground that no notice had been given.

He described the procedure as a discourtesy to Parliament and a contempt of Parliament.

Mr. Lapointe returned that the Government was taking the earliest opportunity of appealing to its judges—Parliament—whether or not it was entitled to confidence. It was a physical impossiblity to give notice of the motion. Parliament only met yesterday. Legal notice could not be given before Parliament met.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, urged that the decision on the motion would be momentous and far-reaching. He thought it reasonable that the motion should be regarded merely as notice and the matter stand over for full consideration till Monday. In this view Henri Bourassa concurred. Speaker Lemieux, too, deferred till Monday his decision on the point raised by Mr. Meighen that the Lapointe motion was out of order without notice.

Yet scarcely had this motion passed temporarily from the scene when the House was plunged into a debate on the Conservative motion of non-confidence. Mr. Lapoints had moved the customary motion of the opening day that consideration of the Speech from the Throne be given precedence.

Immediately, Mr. Meighen moved non-confidence. His amendment recounted that nine Ministers of

EARTHQUAKE IN TUSCANY INJURES SCORE OF PERSONS AND DAMAGES SEVERAL HUNDRED FARM HOUSES

Vesuvius Rumbling Angrily and Lava Threatens Cavallo Valley.

TUSCAN TERROR.

ROME, Jan. 9.—A violent earthquake which shook Tuscany for twelve second causing casualties and property damage, and a renewal of portentous activity in Mount Vesuvius, marked a reawakening of Italy's seismic and volcanic forces Friday.

Both these phenomena are believed to be results of the same mysterious subterranean forces which during the past ten days in various parts of the country have caused panic-stricken crowds to flee as the earth trembled or the famous volcano belched angrily.

The earthquake in Tuscany centred in the region around Monte Amista, and resulted in minor injuries to a score of persons and damage to several hundred peasant houses. The first shock was felt at 10.15 a.m., and this was followed by a tremor of smaller intensity. The quake inspired widespread terror, driving the inhabitants of several villages from their homes.

The towns suffering most were Abbadia and San Salvatore, the centre of the mercury mining district, where all the houses were damaged. Most of the damage took the form of crumbling masonry and warped boards.

Recent Series of Shocks.

The Tuscan tremblor followed a series of shocks which have been felt in recent days in districts as far separated as the southern tip of Calabria and the northern frontier of Jugoslavia. Tuscany had not been shaken until yesterday, when smaller quakes and minor tremblings were also reported from Gonzaga, in Lombardy, and Reggio, in Calabria.

After seeming somnolent Friday morning, Mount Vesuvius resumed heavy rumbling, and this was followed by an increase in the flow of lava, which now covers the crater for a distance of a thousand feet a foot in depth.

The great flow is coming from a new cone a hundred feet wide. The fiery liquid is threatening to come down the Cavallo valley at the north side of the base, which usually happens during period of activity. While the lava flow is violent, there have been no serious explosions.

Mount Aetna, the Sicilian volcano, had a minor eruption on January 3, but is quiet again, according to a member of the Aetna observatory staff just returned from a trip to the crater.

FOURTH IN PHARMACY

NORWOOD, Jan. 9.—In the recent examination at the Toronto College of Pharmacy Russel Gardner, Dummer and an ex-pupil of the Norwood High school made an exceedingly good showing in a class of one hundred and sixty-nine. Russel served his apprenticeship in a drug store in Peterboro.

Norwood is justly proud of the many brilliant students who have passed through her schools.

Canada's National Debt Is Reduced 36 Millions

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—The national debt is 36 millions less this year than last, according to a statement issued by the department of finance. The total net debt at December 31 was $2,381,735,027, compared with $2,417,745,930 at December 31, 1924. During the month of December there was a decrease of $881,856 in the debt, while in the corresponding month last year there was an increase of

DUTCH FARMERS RISK LIVES TO PROTECT STOCK

Floods Shift Their Danger Front Northward—Meuse Dyke Shaken.

LOOTERS ACTIVE.

AMSTERDAM, January 9. — Canadian Press. — Th floods in Holland still present a grave problem. The centre of danger sh ed northward yesterday from the province of Brabant to c provinces of Gelderland and Ove-Ysel.

The région of Borculo, swept by a cyclone last August, is ubn erged. Much anxiety prevails over the ability of the Meuse dyke near Lassbommel, midway between Hertogenbosch and Nymegen, to withstand the force of the waters. The dyke is already dam in several places and many of the inhabitants of the district are seeking a safer location.

Criminal elements are taking advantage of the unusual conditions and the authorities have been obliged to prohibit the use of boats and rafts after dark by unauthorized persons in order to prevent pillaging. The The police have been given permission to fire on persons caught in the act of looting, if necessary. Farmers everywhere are risking their lives through their reluctance to seek safety for themselves and leave their live stock behind at the mercy of the elements.

Pope Pius has sent 20,000 florins (more than $8000) towards the relief funds for flood sufferers.

BELGIANS NEED MONEY.

BRUSSELS, January 9. — Canadian Press. — Public subscriptions to the fund for the relief of flood sufferers have reached 10,000,000 francs (about $450,000) But this sum will be entirely taken up for food and clothing for the homeless, without anything available for the repair of damages. The government, in view of the difficulty it is having in balancing the budget, is loath to float a reparation loan as was done during the war.

In the town of Seraing and the Liege district alone 12,000 persons out of 48,000, have lost their all; 8000 are penniless, while bedding and clothing is needed for thousands.

Excellent Programme Marks Successful Affair in Empress Hotel.

Kiwanis Ladies Night, held by the club last evening at the Empress Hotel, was a very successful affair, marked by the cheerfulness and jollity that characterizes the functions of the club at all times. Installation of new officers was carried out last evening by the Lieutenant Governor for this Kiwanis District, Wm. R. Cockburn, of Toronto, whose after-dinner speech was a witty and interesting portion of an enjoyable evening. Between 60 and 70 people were present in the grill room of the hotel, where the banquet was held, their number including 29 ladies. The evening concluded with a dance, for which excellent music was provided by Fred Chenhall and Ken Blood, several of the guests also playing cards in one of the small rooms. Community singing during the meal was led by Hugh Niven, and the programme included two splendid readings by J. John, with a very dramatic number in "The Death of Montrose"; some pretty Hawaiian guitar numbers by a member of Francois' troupe and very fine singing by a quartette from St. Paul's Church, Messrs. F. Pratt, F. J. Gandy, W. Northrupp and Paul Manning. Mr. Niven took Mr. Manning's place in the quartette in the latter's absence later in the evening. Martin Chenhall, Senior, presided at the piano. The quartette sang "Keep a Goin'," "I've Been Workin' on de Railroad," and "Rolling Down to Rio."

Charles Cook, the president of last year, presided during the early portion of the evening, giving his place later to Lt. Gov. Cockburn, who inducted President J. J. Craig into his place of honor. Art Blade acted as sergeant at arms, and J. A. McKone

Valentino Film Howled Off Screen By Italians

BERGAMO, Italy, Jan. 9.—Rudolph Valentino's film, Monsieur Beaucaire, was howled off the screen in a local theatre Thursday night. The demonstration is attributed to the feeling aroused by the Italian actor's recent application for U.S. citizenship.

A movement to boycott Valentino's films in Rome recently brought personal orders from Premier Mussolini that they were not to be interefered with.

INVESTIGATE DEATH.

Funeral of Oshawa Girl Postponed.

OSHAWA, Jan. 9.—The authorities here are investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of Gwendolyne McMahon, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McMahon, 181 Albert Street. It is alleged that there was lack of medical attention given the girl. Her parents are Christian Scientists. On December 8, Dr. C. W. Slemin of Bowmanville, attended the girl. He did not again see her, but when the parents notified him that their daughter had passed away, he issued a certificate of death. Dr. Slemin states that he did so from what he knew of the case. Dr. F. J. Rundle, coroner, says that in all probability inquest will be held. He is taking the matter up with Crown Attorney J. F. Grierson. The death certificate says death was due to "acute endocarditis." Mr. McMahon denies that his daughter's death was due to neglect, but further than that steadfastly refuses to be interviewed and considers his daughter's death nobody's business but their own. This is the second child to die in this family in two years. Coroner Rundle has ordered that the funeral be postponed until it is decided whether an inquest will be held.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN NORWOOD PLANT

Butter Factory Gutted Early This Morning—Cause Unknown.

NORWOOD, Jan. 9—The butter factory here was completely gutted in a disastrous fire which occurred early this morning. The building was enveloped in flames before the fire was discovered and as yet no reason has been assigned for the outbreak. The factory is the property of Walter Bitten one of the village Councillors.

OTTAWA FORCES MARSHALLING FOR RESUMPTION OF BATTLE ON TWO CONFIDENCE MOTIONS

Progressives in Caucus Discussing Policy of Party, But No Statement.

MEET MEIGHEN.

Robert Forke and Executive in Conference With Conservative Leader.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9. Canadian Press. —The Progressives met in caucus this morning to determine their attitude towards the motions of confidence and non-confidence moved in the House yesterday. Later the executive of the Progressive party, headed by Robert Forke, went into conference with Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader.

To-day sees much scurrying around and marshalling of forces for the resumption of the battle on Monday.

On all hands, the question is asked, "How will the Progressives and Independents vote" Here, as they hold the balance of power, lies, it is generally felt, the answer to whether the government will survive the storm or go down to defeat.

There is a rumour that the opposition may get some independent support but of this there is yet no confirmation.

Several individual Progressives questioned to-day took the ground that little advantage would be gained by turning out the government at the present juncture, and putting in a Conservative administration.

Some days ago Robert Forke sent a form of questionnaire to each of the leaders asking for their definite views on such questions as the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway, and the lowering of freight rates.

There is no official announcement yet available but it is believed that the conference in progress this morning between Mr. Meighen and the Progressive executive has to do with the formation of the Conservative attitude on the questions which Progressives consider of the most vital interest.

BUSINESS HELD UP.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9. — Canadian Press. — The government will not go ahead at once with appointments contracts, etc., which have been held up since the elections. This was made clear to-day when Premier Mackenzie King was asked what would be done in this direction.

"If we had not been challenged in the House," he said, "we would have proceeded with such matters at once—but we have been challenged and we must await the decision of Parliament on the question of confidence."

BRAZILIAN ENVOY ANGERED CROWD

STRUCK POLICEMAN.

TOKIO, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press) —Only interference of the police saved the life of the Brazilian ambassador, R. Delima E. Silva, from a mob yesterday morning after he broke the police line at the sidewalk and attempted to cross the street with his wife in front of a car of the Prince Regent as the latter was leaving the palace on his way to a military review.

First a Japanese and then an Englishman caught the ambassador from behind as he disregarded the regulations, but Silva, who is a big man, turned and knocked the policeman down and used his cane on him while his wife pressed forward and kicked at the officer, with her dog barking viciously beside her. Silva kept shouting "I'm the Brazilian Ambassador."

The crowd began crying, "Kill him, kill him," thinking an open insult to the Prince, who was approaching behind a horse guard, had been intended.

Whether Inquest Should Be Held at Sarnia.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—If any further action is taken by the authorities in regard to proving the cause of the deaths of Robert Liddell ad Leslie Isaacs whose bodies were recently found on Russell Island in the St. Clair River under peculiar circumstances, it will be taken at the instance of the Attorney-General's Department at Toronto. This was the view taken by Crown Attorney F. W. Willison Friday.

A statement made by Dr. F. A. Stringer, the coroner at Algonac who authorized interment of the bodies without an inquest, is to the effect that he is willing to hold an inquest even now if the police investigation suggests its necessity.

PROPOSAL TO PROBE PROFITS OF U.S. RUBBER INDUSTRY REJECTED

Investigating Committee Uncurious About Domestic Phase of Business.

"PASSING THE BUCK."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Expansion of its enquiry into foreign monopolies in rubber, coffee and other raw products to include the profits made by United States rubber and coffee manufacturers was disapproved Friday by the House commerce committee.

A resolution by Representative Parks, Democrat, Arkansas, to broaden the investigation to include the United States industry was rejected by the committee in executive session. A number of Democrats on the committee supported the proposal, which reflected a move already apparent along the minority to bring into the inquiry the administration's attitude towards methods at home.

After the committee rejected his proposal, Mr. Parks introduced a similar resolution in the House and announced he would press for its consideration. It would call for an inquiry into the "means and methods of manufacture, price and distribution of automobile tires and of all rubber goods sold in the United States, and also the price, sale and distribution of coffee."

He said the resolution was designed to ascertain what part of the increased price in rubber and coffee in this country could be attributed to manipulation by the British and Brazilian Governments, and charged that United States manufacturers of these products were attempting to "pass the buck" for high prices.

Geese Shod With Tar As March To Market Begins

BERLIN, Jan. 9. — Holiday geese driven many miles from Poland to markets on the German frontier, are shod with a tar preparation in order to stand the strain of the long walks. The tar sticks to the feet and prevents bruising.

What roast turkey is to the Anglo-Saxon dinner, roast geese is to the Germans. A goose in the hands of a German housewife is utilized as completely as the pig in an American slaughter house. The fat and even the entrails are used in making "drippings", a delicacy which takes the place of butter on the family table.

WINDSOR CASTLE AN ISLAND

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9. — For the first time in the many centuries of its existence, Windsor Castle stands on an island. England's turn in the international floods has come, heavy rains having flooded the Thames and its entire valley from Oxford to Reading. The resulting 60 mile lake, is no longer a picturesque aquatic phenomenon, but a serious menace to the countryside. Windsor, Eton and other towns are cut off and the main streets of Maidenhead, Sherperton was booster of the evening. J. Marsh ' the second booster, absent through illness, sent a prettily wrapped parcel of waxed paper for each lady present at the banquet. One of the features of the entertainment programme was a comic stunt put on by J. A. McKone and W. Huffman. Winners of prizes last evening were Mrs. Chas. Cook, Mrs. J. H. Gilgour, Mrs. Mark Bredin, Mrs. Frank White, Mrs. J. J. Turner, rs. Art Blade and Miss Catheleen McCarthy.

KIWANIS OFFICERS

Officers Installed.

Lt. Governor Cockburn installed the new officers, outlining their duties to each, in a speech made very entertaining by numerous references and anecdotes and also referred to the community ideals furthered by Kiwanis organizations. In reply, Dr. Craig, who was greeted with unison singing of the chorus, "See Him Smiling," thanked the club for making him their president, and spoke of Kiwanis anniversary week, from January 17 to 23, when commemoration will be made of the birth of the Kiwanis movement, in Detroit on January 21, 1915.

The new vice president, Isaac McNabb, and District Trustee J. I. Allen, also acknowledge their election briefly, the latter taking the opportunity to draw the attention of the members to the International Conference in Montreal next June.

Lt. Governor Cockburn referred in very complimentary terms to the work of Hugh Niven, the secretary of the club, saying that his reports were a model at all times, characterinzing him as one of the best, "if not the best," secretary in the Ontario-Quebec District, and congratulating the club on having Mr. Niven as its secretary.

The treasurer, Walter Kidd, was also inducted into office, and new directors were referred to, in Kiwanians W. Oke, H. Huffman, J. A. McKone, George Henderson, C. S. Browne, H. Perry and, J. J. Turner.

The speaker referred briefly to the District Convention of Kiwanis to be held in Toronto in September.

Three rousing cheers and a tiger were given for President Craig, when he was invested with the president's button by Lt. Governor Cockburn, and an equally rousing demonstration for Charles Cook, on the conferring of a past president's button by J. A. McKone, who eulogized Mr. Cook's work as president during the past year, referring in especially appreciative terms to his outstanding quality of humor at all times. The singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," was also accorded both officials.

The past president, in a few words, thanked the members of the club for their loyal co-operation, and wished President J. J. Craig "all the luck in the world."

ISSUE QUICKLY

the Crown had been defeated at the polls, that the Conservatives had secured in the elections by far the largest support of the popular vote and substantially the largest number of members of any party in the House.

His amendment added:

"Those who now assume to be His Excellency's advisors have among them no Prime Minister with a seat in either House of Parliament, and under such circumstances are not competent to act as, or to become, a committee of Parliament, commonly known as the Government, or to address Parliament through His Excellency, and their attempted continuance in office is a violation of the principles and practice of British constitutional government."

The debate on Mr. Meighen's non-confidence amendment ran on well into the evening, and then likewise went over till Monday. Mr. Meighen argued that a Government could not function in Parliament unless the Prime Minister were a member.

Claims Popular Majority

"We find 133 members elected by the people of this country against candidates of the Government. The significance of this, surely the whole of this Dominion comprehends."

The Government's own candidates were returned to the number of 100 yet the Government had the assurance for a vote of confidence.

Mr. Meighen reviewed the popular vote, pointing out that Government candidates had received 1,266,000 votes while Conservative candidates had received 1,466,000 votes. There was an excess of 200,000 votes in favor of the Conservative party.

Mr. Bourassa interrupted: "Does the Hon. member include votes given to Patenaude candidates."

This was followed by Government applause.

"I ask this simply as a matter of fact, not to raise applause," added Mr. Bourassa.

"If it were not asked to raise applause, no man knows why it was asked," retorted Mr. Meighen. The Government had obtained a little less than half a million votes lower than candidates who were almost wholly antagonistic to them. These facts concerning the election were indisputable. Yet the group—who were mostly absentees — came to Parliament and announced they proposed to carry on for four years.

Nine Ministers Gone

Mr. Meighen reviewed the fate of the Government, pointing to nine defeated Ministers. "Half the Government was defeated, I don't know whether it was the upper half or the lower half," added Mr. Meighen.

"The better half," interjected S. W. Jacobson.

The interruption raised a laugh.

Mr. Meighen continued that no Prime Minister without a seat in either house could act in the continuance of office; that a government with 101 seats out of 245 should seek to hold offic was unprecedented. Never in the history of British parliaments had a government from an election, under its own auspices, ventured, as a minority group to hold office.

Mr. Meighen referred to "rare precedents" in which defeated governments had endeavored to meet parliament. The Government was asking the house to vote confidence while it marked time so far as the country was concerned.

The powers of the Prime Minister were very great. The functions and duties of the Prime Minister were supreme in importance. He was not only leader in the House of Commons but the spokesman of the nation and was the only medium between parliament, as parliament and the crown.

The Prime Minister had the right to choose his colleagues but a government could not function in parliament unless the Prime Minister was a member of one of the two houses.

No Right to Office

The house, stated Mr. Meighen, should not and ought not to take into account any speech from the government which came from Government through the lips of the Governor-General, "where the government has not a Prime Minister in this house or in the other house." Had the Prime Minister accepted the verdict of the people, he would not have found himself in the position he was now in.

The Government, Mr. Meighen continued, no longer had the right to be in office. All proceedings instituted by their members were "null and void," and an assertion of power which they did not possess.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Meighen went on, had stated at different times throughout the recent campaign that the government could not govern Canada without a sufficient majority. In fact the Prime Minister had pointed out that the government had only a "visible majority of one." It had to depend on Progressive support.

"I suppose," commented Mr. Meighen, "that the Progressives represented the invisible majority." Where was now even this "visible majority of one." The "visible majority of one" had been turned into a minority of 40. Yet, notwithstanding the repeated assertions of Mr. King that the election was being held to obtain a sufficient majority, it now presumed with a minority of members in the house to function as an administration.

"We returned with the strongest group to the House," stated Mr. Meighen, "and we ask for the right to present our programme to Parliament."

"The Government long ago rost the confidence of the country, but it has now earned its contempt," Mr. Meighen declared. "Surely we believe in constitutional government," he concluded. "We want the voice of the people to rule in this country, the voice of the people to be obeyed."

Accepts Challenge

Hon. Ernest Lapointe replied: "The leader of the opposition has given his challenge and I am rising to take it up." The Government, Mr. Lapointe said, invited the discussion which was now in progress. It wanted to how the country that it was not usurping office and that it wished to place itself in the judgment of the House of Commons.

"The result of the election was not as decisive as some of us on both sides of the House would like to see," Mr Lapointe went on while members in all parts of the chamber laughed.

"I rise today to defend the honor of the leader of the Government and to say that not only was he right in doing what he did but that it was his duty to do so. Any other course would have been a breach of trust and an infringement on the rights of Parliament."

"Parliament must be the judge of the government's position," Mr. Lapointe contended. The people of Canada were represented in the House of Commons and their representatives must decide on the executive of the country. He quoted authorities to show that the executive must be selected by parliament. When the House overthrew a government, it must be in order to select another government which would better represent the will of the people. It was for the House of Commons to say if another party could better represent the people.

The suggestion that the Progressives should not take part in the decision was a mistaken one, declared Mr. Lapointe. It was the duty of every member to express his views on the matter.

Mr. Lapointe asked why Mr. Meighen was so anxious to force his motion of non-confidence. Was he so anxious to assume power that he could not wait for a vote of the Commons in the usual way? In any case the government was going to be vindicated in the vote of the chamber and the present action of the Conservatives would be ineffectual.

Quoted Precedent

Mr. Lapointe proceeded to quote precedents in British Parliamentary practice for the continuance of a government in office which had not a clear majority over all in the House. Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion (Fort William) questioned the analogy of one case and Mr. Lapointe retorted with a quotation — from Cromwell, he thought — "In the name of God, my friends, get it into your heads that you may be wrong."

"Whether we like it or not," added Mr. Lapointe, "the existence of more than two parties will bring about such a situation as that we face here now. The important thing is that the people should be represented. The thing to do is accept the situation as one accepts the weather—and let Parliament decide who is going to rule."

All the party leaders had suffered defeat at some time or another, Mr. Lapointe maintained. This was not an extraordinary thing when they were expected to look after the campaign all over Canada as well as in their own constituencies. In 1878 Sir John A. MacDonald was defeated by a man named Gunn and in commenting afterwards said "he didn't know the Gunn was loaded." This was at a time whe his party swept to victory.

King's Course Correct

Having advised the summoning of parliament and having refrained from making appointments to public office the Prime Minister had to take the only possible step to secure a seat in the Commons, said Mr. Lapointe. Mr. Meighen, when defeated, had appointed a member of parliament to public office. The Conservative leader was now saying that when the Prime Minister was defeated there was no government. But when Mr. Meighen made that appointment to secure a seat—though defeated himself — he acknowledged the existence of the government.

Mr. Meighen interrupted to say that his claim was that parliament could not function without a prime minister.

Mr. Lapointe read from Premier King's statement made at the time Mr. Meighen secured an appointment for the member from Grenville in order to secure that seat himself Mr. King had described his action as "high-handed and unwarranted," also as "usurption."

"My honorable friends opposite were not so scrupulous when they took this doubtful expedient. The Prime Minister will enter this house pretty soon and he will do so by the main entrance," said Mr. Lapointe.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

The Religion Of The Man In The Street

By Glenn Frank.
(Copyright, 1925, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

We may be a bit bashful about admitting it in the free and easy conversation of smoking car, office, and factory, but most of us are incurably religious.

There is more religion in Canada than shows in statistics.

There is a lot of what Phillips Brooks called "the simple, personal, unchurchly religious impulses which make up so much of the world's religion."

Some of us are avowed churchmen and pay an open devotion at the altars of cathedral, synagogue, or chapel. Some of us are among the irregulars, the swearing saints and the praying sinners. But even with the most irregular of us, somewhere in some corner of our lives there is a secret shrine where our minds kneel in worship, even if it is a sort of anonymous worship.

For months religion has been filling column after column in our newspapers alongside sports and politics and revolutions. There is, of course, a reason for this sudden news value of religion.

A war is on in the churches.

The Fundamentalists are on one side; the Modernists are on the other.

I am not a doctor of theology, so I shall speak for neither side.

But I should like to say a word in behalf of the innocent bystander, the layman. In these battles of doctrine the man in the pew has often felt strangely neglected.

I think I know how most of the men in the pews feel about it. I am one of them. And so I venture to speak for them.

We are interested in the mystery and the mastery of life.

This is what religion means to us. We are neither pure scientists nor pure mystics. There is a little of both in us. When we go to church we want light on the mystery of life and leadership in the mastery of life.

Some of us are Fundamentalists; some of us are Modernists. We may differ in our beliefs, but we agree in our desires. We want spiritual leadership in the problems of life more than we want intellectual leadership in the problems of doctrine.

This does not mean that we want no intellectual leadership from the church. It means only that we have discovered that "we live our way into our thinking more than we think our way into our living." And so we want doctrine kept in its place as an explanation of life rather than a substitute for life.

We want our religious leaders to study theology, but we want them to use the results of their study to give them a point of view from which to talk to us about the problems of life. We do not want a carpenter to give us his tools; we want him to use his tools to build us a house in which we can live, in which we can find protection, comfort, and refreshment that will better fit us for our work.

We are not interested in the roots of theology.

We are interested in the fruits of theology.

We laymen are asking for the bread of life, but in the heart of religious controversy we are likely to get only the stone of logic.

HIGHEST BIDDER TO GET PIANO BENCH

Institute's Meeting Had Small Attendance Because of Stormy Weather.

MOUNT PLEASANT, January 9.—The January meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Joshua Eggleston. Owing to the stormy condition of the weather there was a small attendance of 11 members.

The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada," with the president, Mrs. G. Lowes, in the chair, after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

Mrs. Thomas Graham was appointed secretary for the meeting in the absence of Mrs. G. Shield, the secretary.

The selling of a piano bench, the property of the Women's Institute, was discussed, and it will be sold to the person paying the most for it. It was also decided to accept an invitation to put on the play "Mrs. Jones Entertains the Women's Institute," at Cavan, from the Cavan Womens Institute, some time in January. The date is not yet set.

Mrs. Thomas Graham and Mrs. G. Jamieson was responsible for the programme, which consisted of a debate: "Resolved, That the Woman of Fifty Years ago did more for her Country than the Woman of Today," which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The debaters on the Affirmative Side were Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mrs. W. H. Lowes, Mrs. Geo Jamieson and Mrs. Clue Morden, on the negative were Mrs. Beryl Morden, Mrs. Gertrude McLean, Mrs. Ira Lowes and Mrs. Norman Fee. the judges were Mrs. Hannah Rutherford and Mrs. Joshua Eggleston, and after some discussion announced their decision in favor of the affirmative, stating that they thought the points about tied.

The roll call was answered by all the members with a New Years resolution, after which a collection was taken and the meeting brought to a close with "God Save the King."

A social half hour was spent while the hostesses for the day, Mrs. Joshua Eggleston, Mrs. Clue Morden and Mrs. Hannah Rutherford, served a dainty lunch.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ira Lowes.

and Cookham Yards are under water. Thousands of bungalows are flooded and approachable only by boats.

Heavy rains fell Thursday making the 17th consecutive day of rainfall—a record even for England.

Little Actual Privation.

There has been little actual privation thus far, the distressed area being near to London, which serves as a refuge for the villages near the flooded districts. Still a highly critical situation is expected if the rains continue indefinitely, for the water will become polluted.

Windsor and Eton are completely surrounded by water, and Windsor castle dominates a soggy newly made island. In some places the Thames has overflowed its banks. The ordinary 60 foot channels has been transformed into an angry churning lake, 1000 yards wide in places. On its surface float fences, signboards, refuse and dead animals. Floating there are also hedges and even a few boathouses and bungalows.

YOUNG FARMERS TO BROADEN OUT

Want Larger Hall at Bailieboro—Launch Membership Drive.

BANQUET AS PRIZE.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 9.—At the fortnightly meeting of the South Monaghan U.F.Y.P.O. Club, there were about 20 members present, with the president, Roy Rutherford, presiding.

It was decided, during the business part of the meeting, to approach the Township Council to arrange for enlarging the dance floor of the hall. It was also arranged to commence a membership campaign to secure more members for the club. The girls are to work against the boys in attempting to secure new members, and during the winter months, the side which secures the greatest number of members win, and the losers are to give a banquet for both sides.

Miss Sylvia Rutherford then gave an excellent report of the annual U.F.Y.P.O. convention, which was held in the Massey Hall, Toronto, during the month of December. Miss Rutherford and Miss White were delegates from this club to attend this convention. The report covered fully the details of the convention, and it showed plainly that the U.F.Y.P.O. clubs throughout Canada are doing splendid work, and have splendid devices for broadening the mental abilities of the boys and girls of the farms, as well as planning means by which the farm young folk may have good times in their club meetings that will not only afford them enjoyment alone, but will also be interesting and instructive.

Guelph Convention.

F. Barnard also gave the report of the Junior Farmers' Improvement Association convention, which was held in Guelph on Nov. 24th, at which more than one hundred junior farmers, representing 16 counties in Ontario, were present, and held a most unique and successful convention. Twenty-two names were on the programme, and every junior farmer was present to take his place. Another unusual feature was the number of short addresses which were kept to the time limit by the speakers themselves, thus allowing the programme to be carried through according to schedule. Junior farmers upon this occasion demonstrated their executive ability, and showed plainly that in future years the rural business of Canada will be conducted with order and despatch. The convention was given over principally to problems peculiar to local associations, and also county association activities. E. Hutchison and F. Barnard attended this convention.

Trip to Scotland.

Harry Campbell took the latter part of the programme and gave a most interesting talk on his trip to the Old Land. Mr. Campbell advised all the young men present that if they were ever afforded the opportunity to take a trip to Scotland, that he was sure they would never regret having taken it. The speaker went overseas as foreman on a cattle ship and stated that his trip over was a most successful and pleasant voyage. The scenery along the shore of Scotland, while sailing up the Clyde River was beautiful and the grandeur of it will long linger in his memory.

The speaker also told of visiting the great war memorial in Glasgow, where thousands of visitors visited this great memorial yearly, and also of the wonderful fish market in Aberdeen, known as the greatest fish market in the world. He also told of staying a week on the farm of his cousin, and it was on this farm his grandfather had lived previous to coming to Canada, as one of the early settlers. He also helped his cousin to take a number of pure-bred Shorthorn cattle to the Agricultural College in Aberdeen, and had the pleasure of attending a banquet given at the college to the Shorthorn catle breeders of Scotland.

The farms in Scotland are much like they are in Ontario, only there are numerous stone fences, while the roads do not run straight, but have numerous turns.

The tax paid for driving a Ford car in Scotland is $115.

Mr. Campbell surprised his hearers by stating that in some parts of Scotland he passed through, there were places in the roads where snow four or five feet deep had been shovelled out.

The farmers there grow from 40 to 50 acres of turnips yearly, while they chief grain crop is oats. He stated that when he explained to his cousin that at home they usually grew about half an acre of turnips his friends thought Canadians must surely farm on a small scale.

On his return home he was in charge of a shipload of racehorses, and about mid-ocean they encountered a terrific storm which delayed them about two days.

The speaker stated that his accommodation on board the vessels was splendid, and while on board he had his meals with the officers of the ship.

The time taken to make the trip to Scotland was 9½ days, while the return trip took 11½ days.

The address was thoroughly enjoyed by all present at the meeting.

The Christmas dance which was held under the auspices of the South Monaghan U.F.Y.P.O. Club in their hall at Centreville on New Year's Eve was quite a successful dance. The committee in charge was the president, Roy Rutherford, Miss M. Anderson, and K. Huggins. Stewart's four-piece orchestra furnished the music for round and square dancing.

Quite a number were present from Peterborough and district. The receipts of the dance amounted to about $66.

Have Retained Lawyer to Defend Brother of Russell.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—Attorney William Scott Stewart has been retained by the Detroit club women who employed him to save Russell Scott from the noose, to aid in the defense of Robert Scott, his brother, now believed to be confined in a California prison. Russell, now at the Chester Hospital for the Criminal Insane, also wired the attorney Friday, asking him to defend his brother. Robert Scott will be brought to Chicago to stand trial for the murder of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk, in a robbery, the same charge upon which Russell was found guilty, as soon as he can be obtained from California authorities.

The announcement of the retention of Stewart by the club women came from Mrs. Thomas McGraw, president of the Twentieth Century Club of Detroit.

WINNIPEG MAY GET DAILY AIR SERVICE

Plan to Link With Chicago and Minneapolis.

FARGO, N.D., Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—Beginning June 1, Fargo is to be on a commercial air route, with flying service twice daily both ways between Winnipeg, Minneapolis and Chicago, according to a letter received by the Fargo Commercial Club from Captain J. M. Clarke, aeronautical engineer fo the International Air Trunk Lines, with headquarters at Duboio, Pa.

Captain Clarke has enclosed a provisional summer schedele, which shows that it will be possible, if this schedule is finally adopted, to leave Fargo at 9.30 a.m. and arrive at Minneapolis at 11.30 a.m., leave Minneapolis at 5 p.m. and arrive at Chicago at 8 p.m. Going the other way, it would be possible to leave Fargo for Minneapolis at 6.15 p.m., arriving Minneapolis at 8.30 p.m., while still another would leave Fargo for Winnipeg at 5.30 p.m., arriving at Winnipeg at 8 p.m.

"It has been decided to charge a passenger rate of 12 cents per mile," says Captain Clarke.

AMERICANS FIGHT FOR THIRD PLACE

N. H. L. Game in Montreal To-night With the Canadiens.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—New York Americans and Canadiens meet here tonight in a game which will have third place in the National Hockey League as the prize. Canadiens are at present one-point ahead of the Americans, each having played 12 games. The two teams have divided in the two games played between them to date, each winning the away-from-home game, so that this game will decide the rubber in the first three of the six games the teams play in the season.

Canadiens are well rested, not having played since defeating St. Pats here Tuesday night. New York will be handicapped through the heavy game they had with Boston Thursday night and the road trip here. Red Green and Ken Randall were badly bruised in the clash with the Bruins and, unless they rapidly recover, the Americans will be hard put to it, as they have few substitutes available to relieve the regulars.

COLLIDED TWICE.

British Vessel Damaged at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press). — The United States Shipping Board steamer West Nosska, from Baltimore for Birkenhead with a cargo of cattle, was in collision Friday with the British steamer Radnorshire, while entering the Mersey. After a violent impact the boats parted, but when they swung around they collided again at the sterns. The Radnorshire suffered considerable damage and had to be docked immediately. The other vessel was able to continue up the river to unload its cargo.

VICTIM OF CANCER.

Grandson of Famous Poet Dies Penniless.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Alan Launcelot Southey, grandson of the famous poet who was poet laureate 100 years ago, has died in Swansea workhouse infirmary at the age of fifty-three.

He was the son of a Yeovil clergyman, and a man of culture, yet he made a humble living at gardening, haymaking, or general farm work whenever he could obtain it. His tall, lean figure, and weatherbeaten face were familiar to Gower country folk, and he often slept in the open because he hated towns.

He died from cancer of the throat after a painful illness. When visited recently he said, smilingly, "I know that I shall die here, but I am not afraid of the beyond." Friends brought him frequent gifts of flowers and cigars.

He served in the South African war and, joined up again for the European war at the age of forty-two.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 9, 1926.

A PROGRESSIVE VICTORY.

The prediction that the Progressive party, although coming back to Parliament with greatly reduced numbers, would be able to successfully exert a much greater influence than before, has been fully verified by the Speech from the Throne.

The two questions in which the Western Progressives are most earnestly concerned are the Hudson Bay Railway and a system of rural credits.

The Speech from the Throne promises the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway forthwith and the installation of a plan of credits for farmers.

In view of these concessions, it is almost certain that the support of the Progressives will go to the Government of Hon. Mackenzie King, and the chief interest in the political crisis at Ottawa will centre upon some of the Eastern followers of that Government.

Irrespective of political allegiance ,the Hudson Bay Railway project has never been popular in the East.

It has been condemned by Eastern newspapers of all shades of politics as a waste of public funds upon an undertaking of very doubtful value, and at this time when there is a very insistent demand for national retrenchment a proposal to complete this work will not be a very appetizing morsel for Eastern members to swallow.

Political deadlocks, however, sometimes produce unexpected consequences, and Canada will have to wait and see what happens.

So far, however, it looks as if the Western Progressives are the r winners of the election.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

The Workmen's Compensation Board for the Province of Ontario has just issued a statement showing that the Board awarded $5,565,443.39 in benefits during 1925.

While compensation awarded has been less, the total number of accidents reported has been greater, amounting in 1925 to 60,012, as compared with 58,575 during 1924.

One notable feature of the accident statistics, however, is the decrease in fatalities, the total number of fatalities in 1925 being 345, which is considerably less than the figures for 1924, which were set at 402.

This alone is a most important item to the whole Province.

It is evident from the figures issued by the Board that while minor accidents show an increase, probably due in part to better reporting, the serious and more costly types of accidents are on the down grade.

In this connection, Mr. V. A. Sinclair, K.C., Chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, giving out the figures for 1925, states:

"There has been a great deal of attention paid during the present year to accident prevention work, which no doubt has been in some measure at least responsible for the lessened cost of compensation, and the safety organizations are expecting to carry on a much more intensive campaign during the coming year and they are in hopes thereby to reduce the frequency, severity and costs of accidents in all classes."

During the year the Workmen's Compensation Board handled an enormous amount of mail, this averaging each day between 5,000 and 6,000 letters going in and out.

The average number of claims per day was slightly over 200 and the average amount paid out each day was $18,500.

THE LIBRARY REPORT.

The annual report of Mr. F. M. DelaFosse, Librarian of the Peterboro Public Library, indicates that while the library has been used to a very considerable extent by the public, there has been a falling off in circulation to the extent of some 5,000 volumes during the year.

In view of the fact that the annual report has usually shown an increase, the decrease, which is largely accounted for in a lesser fiction circulation, 52,890 in 1925, as compared with 58,586 in the previous year, would be somewhat surprising were it not for the fact that the explanation is readily at hand.

The appropriation made by the Council to the library last year did not allow of the usual amount of current fiction being purchased, and as a result the books already in circulation were subject to more than the usual wear and tear, resulting in more than 2,000 having to be placed in the repair department.

Libraries, like other institutions, cannot be starved without showing the effects of such treatment, and is obvious that if the Peterboro library is to continue to give satisfactory service to the public it will be necessary to see that a reasonable amount of new fiction is added each year, otherwise, as last year's experience shows, the circulation is bound to fall off.

Peterboro's public library is splendidly housed and efficiently managed, and has been a source of education and pleasure to a very large number of citizens.

It would be a pity indeed to allow its usefulness to deteriorate and its popularity as a community centre to diminish for lack of funds to keep the organization at concert pitch.

With the exception of this falling off in the adult use of the library, the past year has been a splendid one, the children's department showing an increased attendance and a more extended use of the library's services.

SOMETHING NOT TO BROADCAST.

The interesting suggestion is made in Hamilton that the proceedings of the City Council should be broadcast. It might work in Hamilton, but it would be an intolerable bore in Toronto, says the Toronto Star.

People would learn how much their representatives talk and how little they say. They would learn how trifling a subject may be made the topic of a two-hour debate. They would learn how rapidly the city fathers sometimes dispose of big issues, and how they linger over little ones.

People would learn these things if they kept listening. But it is doubtful if they would even listen. An attachment guaranteed to tune out the City Council would be the most popular accessory on the market.

If there were a broadcast of the private agreements made among members, the secret caucuses of little groups, the vote-swapping arrangements entered into in the corridors—if these were put "on the air," the public would be both enlightened and intrigued. But it is doubtful whether the members could be induced to make their private bargains in front of a transmitter!

There is another aspect to the proposal—an alarming aspect. A broadcast Council meeting might last even longer than meetings already last. For if a deputation of one dozen electors can inspire the city fathers to talk endlessly on an unimportant issue, no one can conjecture what might happen if they imagined an unseen audience of countless thousands hanging on their every word.

Not that the Toronto Council is worse than any other Council. But if the deliberations in Hamilton and Toronto are to be broadcast, why not those in Orillia or Oshawa? The fact is that Council meetings are not the stuff of which successful broadcasts are made. And it is suspected that the Mayor of Hamilton must have had a twinkle in his eye when he suggested it.

WAR MYTHS AND SUPERSTITIONS.

One of the curious psychological phenomena of war under modern conditions is its effect upon the imagination. Under the stress and shock of conflict combatants and non-combatants are susceptible to mental impressions that are purely illusory and have no relation whatever to fact. It is a time when things are not always what they seem and there are visions about, when the only romance there is in war takes the form of picturesque invention, and human belief is an easy mark for the incredible. And what, perhaps, is the most remarkable feature of it all is the persistency with which the delusions, once formed, are maintained and perpetuated.

The armageddon on Flanders fields furnished numerous illustrations of this singular credulity and no less strange insistence upon the mythical. There was the universal acceptance of the story of the great Russian army's passage through Scotland and England on its way to France in the early stages of the war. Thousands of people claimed to have witnessed the transportation of the Russian horde in trains that formed a continual procession for days, if not weeks, from John o' Groats to Land's End. Everybody believed it; to doubt it was less majeste; and even today there are those who hesitate to believe that the Russian host was a gigantic myth.

There was likewise the beautiful story of "the angel of Mons," which first made its appearance in the work of a well-known English author, and thereafter became one of the accepted miracles of the war, corroborated by the testimony of many soldiers who claimed to have beheld the vision, and credited by all and sundry as an actual manifestation of the partiality of Providence for the cause of the Allies. And less worthy of credence, though not less generally believed, was the tale, recently branded officially as false, of the German "cadaver factory," a tale founded upon a piece of pernicious propaganda of which, it may be hoped, the last has been heard.

But of all the delusions created by the war none seem so difficult to shatter as those inspired by the sinking of H.M.S. Hamphire and the tragic fate of Lord Kitchener. The shock of the disaster was such that many people refused to credit the official announcement of the great war lord's death. It was stated, and in not a few quarters believed, that the intimation of his passing was a blind, that K. of K. had gone to Russia to reorganize and train a vast Russian army for the field, or had, for reasons not disclosed, decided to pursue his war activities in secrecy, if not in disguise. At one time he was supposed to be in France directing operations under an assumed name; at another, he was the invisible power behind the Government at home.

Where Kitchener's death is accepted as a fact—and there are people in England today who believe he is still alive—the circumstances attending it are from time to time the subject of doubt and questioning. A popular tradition is that the Hampshire was sunk by a German submarine guided to the spot by information furnished by German spies in England who knew of her sailing. That supposition has been repeatedly refuted by the authorities, but it continues to prevail. Another version of the tragedy, which found currency, was that the Russians were responsible. That too has been officially contradicted, only to give rise to still more preposterous canards.

The latest is that before the Hampshire went down, spies were actually found on board, and shot. This story having recently appeared in several English newspapers along with the statement that the Admiralty had withheld from the public important documents which would throw a new light on the disaster, the First Lord of the Admiralty has found it necessary to issue a denial, characterizing the report as "a ridiculous, wicked fabrication."

One would think that such an authoritative and emphatic refutation, coupled with the reiterated declaration that the Hampshire struck a German mine and sank in from ten to twenty minutes, would once and for all set at rest doubts as to the manner of Kitchener's death; yet it is safe to say that by many people the tragedy will continue to be regarded as a mystery whose sinister significance appeals to their credulity and enables them to swallow any idle tale or foolish suggestion that is put forward. War superstitions do indeed die hard.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux took all the honours in the first day of the new session. All parties are agreed on his qualities as speaker if they can find no other ground for agreement.

The inaugural meeting of Peterboro's new Council takes place on Monday. May a successful, harmonious and progressive year's municipal service commence with the inaugural proceedings.

A cynical citizen arises to remark that if Mr. Dobbin's spectacles are really locked up in a ballot box there is more vision in the latter than is usually to be found among a bunch of ballot papers.

The fact that London headed the list of Ontario municipalities with a voting strength of 65 per cent. of those on the lists shows that the secret of interesting the people in civic affairs has not yet been found.

A THOUGHT.

GRATITUDE

When I see so many men with limited education, half-sick bodies, tired nerves, little money and large families—when I see these men putting up a brave fight for their homes and for the ones they love—when I see so many handicapped humans struggling uncomplainingly to keep up with the procession—human history rises sublimely before my mind to rebuke any disposition to be dissatisfied, and then I settle down to work with gratitude in my heart for all of God's blessings.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The following interesting letter appeared in The Globe. Mr. Ellis was formerly editor of Farm and Dairy, Peterborough.—

UNCLE SAM AND WAR PROFITS

It was with keen regret that I read your editorial, "The Squealing Go-Getter," in the issue of Jan. 4. One of Canada's greatest assets is the friendship of our big neighbor to the south, with the unguarded frontier that that friendship makes possible. Heaping ridicule on the people of the United States as your editorial does, is ill calculated to maintain or promote that friendship. The attitude you have assumed is all the more reprehensible because accompanied by slanders that are as untrue as they are unkind.

At some length you picture the people of the United States as possessing untold wealth "wrung from the dire needs of the nations engaged in fighting for the freedom of mankind." In this are the people of the United States any different from the people of Canada? If my memory serves me rightly, the Canadian people, aside from the men at the front, were engaged in doing the same thing at the same time. Our workmen during that period drew fabulous wages, and were ever striking or threatening to strike for higher wages still. Canadian manufacturers declared unheard of dividends. When the excess profits tax was imposed many of them started large additions to their plants, paid for out of profits, to avoid the tax that represented their share of war taxation.

If the United States wished to quote precedent for her position in the first years of the war, she would not need to go far back in American history to find it. Only a little over a half a century ago the United States was engaged in the greatest war in history up to that time. It was not a war to end war (?), but for an even higher purpose—to banish from this continent the intolerable evil of human slavery.

And where did Canada stand when that great issue was being decided? A few hundred of our young men crossed the line and joined the Northern armies, even as a few hundred of their young men came here and signed up for the Great War. The rest of our people enjoyed unusual prosperity supplying the necessities of war and life to the stricken people of the Northern States. Worse stil, an all too influential element in high circles in Canada was in sympathy with the slave owners of the South, as was also the Government of Great Britain.

It cannot even be said in extenuation of our position that we finally did see the error of our way and joined in the fight for human liberty. When the United States emerged from that war, with her credit almost ruined, we accepted her currency at 60 cents on the dollar, but waxed very indignant when, at a more recent date, our own currency was discounted by less than half as much. Surely we are in a poor position to assume a holier than thou attitude toward our neighbor!

In the eighteen years that I have read The Globe I have learned to expect a sane, reasonable discussion of international topics on your editorial page. The editorial under discussion was in such contrast to your usual tenor that I for one must express an indignant and regretful protest.

OLD BOYS RECALLED BY DOURO RESIDENT

Women Walked to Peterborough With Pails of Butter on Their Heads.

A man who has lived many years sees startling changes in the trend of affairs; especially is that true of one who lives in this day and age, for this is the era of mighty mechanisms and ingenious inventions. James McCliggott of Douro, in his eighty-fourth year has exceeded his allotment by fourteen years and during his life he has seen Peterborough develop like a moth from a pupa case.

He was born at Bletchers Corners near Port Hope on November 29, 1841 and came to Douro with his parents in 1894, being but a small boy.

His father, Mr. James McCliggott, senior, was a tailor, having been in business at Bletcher's Corner, having made suits for many of the Cavan Blazers. Mr. McCliggott relates a story about Patrick McCauley formerly residing on Lot 10, Concession 6, who had his father's wedding suit, which had been brought from the old country made over as a wedding suit for himself, Mr. McCliggott doing the work. Mr. Patrick Horan, at one time a Douro resident, had his wedding suit made over for his second wedding.

Mr. McCliggott, senior, bought twenty acres off Lot 8, Concession 6, from William Lally. This small farm is at the corner where the sixth concession line crossed the Dummer road and the corner is still called "Cliggott's Corner", though the land is now owned and occupied by Mr. John Garvey. The subject of this sketch made his home with his father till his marriage in 1866. He worked out with farmers and worked in the lumber woods and drove the river.

Mr. McCliggott remembers seeing women walking to Peterboro, carrying pails of butter on their heads and a basket of eggs in each hand.

On account of his father's occupation, Mr. McCliggott was very familiar with the clothing materials of the early days. Full cloth was all wool pressed and sheared and frieze was a cotton and wool mixture. Both were used for wedding suits. Pilot cloth was a heavy all wool cloth.

Mr. McCliggott threshed and sawed for forty seasons and never sued or was sued. He has moved his threshing outfit ten miles after night.

He has driven square timber from Lake Ketchawana to Quebec, down the Trent waterway to Lake Ontario.

In 1866 Mr. McCliggott was married to Johanna Sullivan, daughter of the late Michael Sullivan. Mrs. McCliggott, in her later years, was one of the heaviest women in this part of the country. Many boat passengers who had seen her about her home when the family resided at Lock 4 (between Peterboro and Lakefield) have marvelled at her size and weight.

Mr. McCliggott first entered the Douro council in 1876 and remained continously till 1889; elected deputy reev in 1889; defeated in 1890 he came back as councillor in 1893 and remained councillor for four years. In January, 1897, he was elected reeve and held the position till the end of 1900.

He was then appointed lockmaster at Lock No. 4, now known as Lock 23, and held the opsition continuously till 1922 when he was superannuated. During his term as lockmaster he saved three persons from drowning. The last was a small boy. A little girl ran to him telling him a boy was in the water. He got a pike pole but was afraid to throw it but later did so and catching it in the child's clothing succeeded in bringing him to shore. The youngster is now a young man doing well.

Mr. McCliggott is still hale and hearty and mentally bright at 84; his sister, Mrs. John Brown is 86 and living.

He resides with his daughter, Mrs. Patrick McMurray on the seventh line of Douro. His wife died some fifteen years ago.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. McCliggott consisted of eleven children of whom four are dead, viz: Annie, Edward, Michael and Mrs. Maurice Moher. The seven who survive are: Mrs. Jamse McManus, Lakefield; Mrs. Elizabeth Barry of Vancouver, B.C. and Mrs. Patrick Murray of Douro, Miss Teresa in Peterboro, William and James of Peterboro and John of Toronto.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press). — Fresh egg markets still continue weak under heavy production and Toronto is again lower today. Montreal is holding fairly steady at recent declines.

Montreal—The eggmarket is weak with stocks accumulating. Dealers paying country points fresh extras 45, firsts 40; jobbing, fresh extras 50, firsts 45.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba wheat on the Montreal market today was fairly good, there being some firm bids in the market for full cargoes, but owing to the advance in future prices at Winnipeg they were thrown out of line and the volume of business accomplished was small. The enquiry for oats and barley from the United Kingdom continued steady, but the prices bid were a fraction below working basis. The demand for cash grain in the domestic market was slow, but the undetone was steady and prices unchanged.

The trade in potatoes on spot continues rather quiet owing to the fact that most of the large operators seem to be still fairly well supplied and the impression is that until they work off some of their holdings there will not be much activity in he market. There is no pressure on the market. There is no pressure on maintained.

The receipts of cheese were 170 boxes, as against nil for the same day last week, and 234 for the corresponding day a year ago. The volume of business in this department of the trade showed no improvement, but cable advices received were more encouraging as they reported the English markets stronger for Canadian goods at 106s to 108s for early makes. On spot prices were nominally unchanged, with early makes quoted at 20 1-2c to 21c per lb, and current receipts at 17 1-2c to 18c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 8 (Canadian Press).—Immediate all-around enhancement of grain values today followed notice that one of the largest corporations in the United States would accept corn at the rate of $1 a bushel on purchases of farm machinery.

Much better domestic demand for red winter wheat, cash delivery, did a good deal also to bring about higher grain prices. Wheat closed strong, 1 3-8 to 2 1-2 cents net higher, new style, May $1.78 5-8 to $1.78 3-4, and July $1.53 1-2 to $1.53 5-8. Corn finished 1 5-8 to 2 1-8c up, and oats at 3-8 to 1-2c gain. In provisions, the outcome was unchanged to 7c lower.

Lively speculative buying in the corn market and the consequent upward trend of prices for corn eclipsed at times the interest regarding other grain. The fact that the offer to barter merchandise at once on the basis of dollar-a-bushel corn was accompanied by predictions that the corn market here would advance to $1 within the next 90 days, gave decided impetus to corn buying as soon as today's trading began.

Wheat prices were helped upward not only by the strength of the corn market and by more urgent domestic milling demand for wheat, but also by talk of probable reduced unofficial estimates of the Canadian wheat crop. Besides, reports were current that 40 per cent of the wheat yield in Northern Argentina is unfit for milling. No. 2 Red Winter wheat in Chicago, available for use at once, commanded a premium today of 14 cents a bushel as compared with the price of May delivery.

PARIS FIGURES FLOOD LOSS AS DANGER PASSES

Experts Predict Seine Will Reach Peak To-day and Recede.

WEATHER CHANGES.

Loss About $18,000,000—Wine Cellars Flooded—Casks Float Off.

PARIS, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Paris is saved from a flood catastrophe, in the opinion of an official of the Ministry of Public Works after an extensive survey of the flooded areas, but the damage to property will amount to something like 500,000,000 francs (approximately $17,500,000 at the present rate of exchange).

Technical experts who have ventured all sorts of prophecies since the floods began concerning the probable rise and fall of the rivers, now say that the dry and somewhat colder weather which set in Friday will hasten the limit of the height of the water, and that the Seine, after rising another 10 or 12 inches, will begin to recede to-day.

The Marne, Meuse and Oise valleys are the worst stricken areas outside Paris, which has been ravaged by the ever-mounting Seine. Wrecked bridges, undermined railways and roadbeds, houses and factories destroyed or rendered uninhabitable and ruined fields of winter wheat make up the list of damage caused by the incessant rains and melting snow.

Many Homes Flooded.

In the capital only a few hundred persons have been forced to abandon their homes, these along the banks of the Seine, but in the northern and eastern sections of France, homes have been wrecked or flooded by the score.

The water of the Seine last night had reached 6.16 metres (20.21 feet) at the Austerlitz Bridge, which is still seven feet lower than the high water mark of 1910. At the present time there are only about two miles of streets under a thin layer of water, and circulation through these streets has not been seriously interrupted. Officials of the Ministry of Public Works were greatly satisfied with this, pointing out that in the serious floods of 1910, when the water was at virtually the same level as was registered at the Austerlitz Bridge Friday, seventeen miles of Parisian streets were submerged.

A number of wine cellars have been flooded.

Salvage Wine Kegs.

Two crews were set to work yesterday at the great wine warehouse at Bercy, inside the walls of Paris, salvaging kegs of wine which were floating down the stream. Many volunteered in assisting the crews and the barrels were removed to places of safety. One of the best known champagne establishments at Rheims has had its immense cellars flooded, but no damage was done beyond necessitating complete re-labelling of the bottles.

A number of special boats with crews arrived in Paris from Cherbourg last evening, having been asked for by the Ministry of Marine for use in the work of relief. They were pressed into service immediately in the great manufacturing suburbs of Asnières, Puteaux and Courbevoie. The crews worked tirelessly, manoeuvering their boats with the skill of lumberjacks driving logs in swollen streams in the spring. Many times their work was cheered by the people they were helping to move.

Rats Routed Out.

The high water in the vicinity of the Invalides Station, the Quai d'Orsay and the Austerlitz Bridge has routed thousands of rats from their usual haunts. They have scampered away toward dry land, invading parts of the Latin Quarter. Here some of the venturesome students are to be seen chasing the rats with sticks as weapons.

M. De Monzie, Minister of Public Works, told the newspapermen last night that the daily conferences which have been held at the Ministry since the situation became precarious will no longer be held, "it having been demonstrated that

STRIKE SESSION TO-DAY INSPIRES HOPE OF PEACE

Impression From Coal Conference That Agreement is in Sight.

NOT CONFIRMED.

Miners' Representative Says No Basis For Rumors of Agreement.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press). — Anthracite miners and operators who are attempting to negotiate a new wage contract to end the long coal strike adjourned last night until this afternoon without announcing any agreement.

The only official word that came from the conference room to the public was as follows:

"At today's session of the anthracite committee there was a continuation of the effort to reach an agreement. At the suggestion of the chairman, an adjournment was taken until two o'clock Saturday."

An impression had gone abroad that the negotiators would follow custom and not sit on Saturday, but when the announcement of a session today came, immediately the question was raised whether the conferees were getting anywhere. This was strengthened by a report that one of the miners' representatives earlier in the day had said a plan was receiving favorable consideration. Spokesmen for the miners said there was no basis for such a report.

Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the anthracite operators' negotiating committee, and John L. Lewis, head of the miners sub-scale committee, were appealed to for an amplification of the brief official announcement. After consulting with their respective press representatives, it was made known to the newspapermen that there was nothing on which to enlarge the statement.

LETTER FROM OMEMEE BOY NOW A MISSIONARY IN WESTERN CHINA GIVES A SURVEY OF DISTURBANCE

Anti-Foreign Spirit More Potential Than Actual Threatened Servants.

NO SETTLEMENT YET

Outbreak is Culmination of Years of Upheaval—Extra-Territoriality Responsible.

OMEMEE, Jan. 8.—The following letter, which was read at the Young People's League on Monday evening, will no doubt be of great interest to people in this locality, coming as it does from Howard Veals, an old Omemee boy, who now with his wife represents the Lindsay District of Young People's League in West China.

Luchow, Sze, China.

Dear Friends in the Homeland.—I am afraid that it is some little time since any of you have heard from me, but it is not because we have not been thinking of you and have not been grateful for the prayers that we know have gone up for us all, through these troublesome times. What a summer this has been between anti-foreign agitation and local civil warfare but we are every thankful to have come out safe and sound and still more thankful that our work is able to go on this fall, much as usual. During the month of July, it looked very much as though we would have to leave, so high was feeling running, but from about the first of August on, there has been a gradual improvement and when it came time for us to open our schools in September, we were able to open without molestation of any kind, which earlier in the summer, we had little or no hope of being able to open at all.

Anti-Foreign Spirit.

You may, perhaps, be interested to know some of the things which happened this past summer. The foreignism was really more potential than actual; that is, it was more what might have happened than what actually did happen. We did not go on the streets much, at that time, but when we did go, it was evident that everyone had been well informed of the awfulness of the foreigner. Little smirky smiles, looks of curious contempt, and bold vacant stares were to be seen on all sides. A few, bolder than the others, called us foreign dogs, or foreign devils, and some others called out "strike," and occasionally one heard "strike dead." That thing which alarmed us most, however, and which made us think of the necessity of leaving, was the threat to intimidate our servants and force them to leave our employ. One who lives in a land such as Canada cannot well understand the seriousness of this move. It would have left us without food and water, for in this land where we are strangers, we must depend upon our native servants for these things. If they had carried that through, they could very soon have driven us out. Fortunately, they soon saw that the use of such methods would reflect very badly on themselves in the eyes of all the world and they gave it up.

Discredit Missions.

There is still no settlement of the Shanghai affair, and until there is, we will not feel that all is quite as before, but the heat of the agitation has sufficiently passed to make life quite livable again. I am wondering what you folks are thinking of the Shanghai affair. I notice that the home papers have many conflicting accounts of, and many diverse opinions concerning it. It is a political matter, and as missionaries, we are really not concerned with it, but the very fact of our nationality makes it impossible for us to keep clear of it. The Chinese insist upon regarding us representatives of our several countries, as well as ambassadors of the Cross. The idea is prevalent amongst them, that we are sent hither by our Governments. I think, the more enlightened at last, know that this is not true, but they use it as propaganda against us to discredit us as foreign agents to the common people. But, of course, though we are not Government agents, we are, after all, Canadians and not Chinese.

One cannot renounce his nationality, especially not a Western for an Oriental nationality. We are separate and different people in almost all our ways of living and of thinking. We seldom, if ever, look at anything from the same angle, and so when all is said and done, we are foreigners and they are Chinese, and no matter how sympathetic we may be to them or they to us, nothing can make us anything else but what we are. Hence, the very great difficulty of any settlement being reached in Shanghai. If the dispute had been between two bodies of Chinese then some kind of a compromise would have been made long ago. Some money would have been paid over here and there without any special regard to the rights and wrongs of the case or of any principle, and as long as everyone's face was saved, that is as long as no one felt that his pride was injured, then all would have been well. But between foreigner and Chinese it is different. The foreigner, and especially the Britisher, has his idea of what is right and justice, and heaven and earth will not move him from it. If the police were justified in firing, then they must be upheld and the paying of hush money cannot solve that, one way or the other. Even, at this distance from Shanghai, and with a Chinese background to help, it is very difficult to say just how far the police were justified with the evidence that we have to hand. But be that as it may, every one, in China at least, knows that this outbreak is the culmination of what has been going on for years, rather than simply the result of what happened in Shanghai on May 30 and subsequent days. The truth seems to be, that China has come to such a pass that life is scarcely bearable, and some of the most enlightened, if often mislead, people in casting about for the cause of China's misery lay at the door of the privileged position of the foreigner in China, and the same foreign control of certain of China's industries and utilities in short to the presence of the foreigner in China with the backing of his home Government and the right to be judged by a court of his own nationality and not subject to the Chinese courts. This is what is known as extra-territoriality and that, along with the trade treaties, make up what are called the unequal treaties. On the face of it and to one who does not know China, these unequal treaties are unjust and burdensome and most irksome to a proud people like the Chinese, but with China in her present condition there seems little doubt that foreign residence for business people, at least and possibly for missionaries, too, would be impossible without some special rights enforced by powers outside of China. We all, especially all missionaries, sympathize most deeply with China's aspirations, and we want her to be strong and free and absolute mistress in her own house of foreigners as well as of her own people, but many of us feel that she must become mistress of her own house and able to control the lawless elements in her own population and give justice to her own people before foreigners can be expected to yield to right and be tried by their own courts and come under Chinese law. No doubt many of you have seen the letter by Dr. J. L. Stewart in the August 5 number of the Outlook, which we have just received here. It will be ancient history to you now, of course. There you have the viewpoint of a man who is very sympathetic with and very tolerant of the Chinese, and one who understands them better than most. I think the difficulty often is that the business man understands the Chinese not at all. Many a business has no sympathy with Chinese aspirations because he has not taken the trouble to understand Chinese character. As a rule he comes in contact with only the coolie classes, and if he does meet the better classes, it is usually in the way of business. So it has come about that the twain are distinct and neither understands the other. Of course, there are exceptions and some one who reads this letter may know of some, but I am speaking of the general run of business men in China. The missionary, of course, tries to break down this partition wall. He is by no means always successful, but I am becoming more and more convinced that it is only as he is able to do so that he can do any really worth-while work. As Dr. Stewart says, the fight is on in China today. There are many who say that we missionaries ought not to have come proselytizing the Chinese who have an old and venerable system of their own, and that the West has itself to thank for the upheavel in the Orient today. Following that line, there would be no progress anywhere and the world would die of decay. But we are here, and it is too late for us to sound the retreat now even if we would and please God. The forces of right, whether led by Chinese or foreigner, will never sound the retreat in this great land of four hundred million souls. Isolation is not the word of the twentieth century—it is a past word, it can have no place in this modern world of mid communications. It must, though the scoffer may smile at the impractibility of it, be replaced by universal brotherhood or the race must destroy itself. Pray for us that we faint not.

Yours in the great work,
MR. AND MRS. HOWARD VEALS.

POLLING RECORDS ESTABLISHED UNDER COMPULSORY VOTING ACT IN PAST AUSTRALIAN ELECTION

Counting of Votes for Senate Not Yet Completed—Must Have Quota.

LABOR NOT READY

Election Forced by Seamen's Strike and Laborites Clamored for It.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—The most interesting feature of the Federal Elections, held last month, was the fact that voting was compulsory. The measure providing for this was introduced by the Nationalist-Country Party government during the term of last Parliament. As such a measure was designed to ensure full and proper expression of the people's wish, no Party coud possibly offer any opposition.

Although at the time of writing, it is nearly three weeks since the elections were held, the counting of votes for the Senate continues. This is due to the system of preferential voting, by which no candidate is declared elected until he has obtained what is called a "quota." In the State of New South Wales there are about one and a quarter million voters. A little more than 90 per cent of these voted—as voting was compulsory. It will be January before the results are definitely known; but it is doubtful whether the Labor party will secure even one of the 22 seats that were contested. These vacancis among the 36 forming the total, were caused by the retirement of half the number of Senators, they having concluded their three-year terms, and the deaths of four.

The last Parliament contained 33 Nationalist members, 13 Country Party members, and 29 Labor members. Mr. Bruce, Nationalist leader, and Dr. Earle Page, the Country Party leader, formed a coalition government, in the ministry of which the Country Party secured five of the 12 portfolios. The leader of the Opposition was Matthew Charlton, Labor leader.

When Mr. Bruce announced in October that the elections would be held on November 14, his Labor opponents, who a few weeks before had been clamoring for an election, were somewhat taken aback. They had thought that the appeal to the people would not be taken until March, 1926. But events happened which caused Mr. Bruce to make up his mind quickly and go to the country at once. The British seamen's strike was the principal reason. Labor in Australia had dabbled in this and encouraged the men from overseas to hold out. The country was annoyed at having an "imported" strike thrust upon it, having enough strikes of its own. Mr. Bruce sensed the feeling of the majority of the people and took the plunge. Thereby he gained his first tactical advantage; for although Labor had clamored for an election, Labor was not prepared for one.

Nationalist-Country Party Sustained

The result of the eltcions is a decisive victory for the Nationalist-Country party coalition. The counting of votes for the House of Representatives is now complete. The Nationalist-Country Party coalition, headed by Prime Minister Bruce and Dr. Earl Page, treasurer, secured 52 seats (38 Nationalists and 14 country patry) to 23 which went to Labor.

Although the Nationalists have a majority over the combined forces of Labor and Country Party, it has been announced that the coalition will continue. It is expected, however, that the Country Party will not be so lavishly treated in the allotment of cabinet seats as was the case in the previous government, when they held five of the 12 portfolios, with only 12 members in a House of 75.

Labor has lost six seats at this election, having held 29 in the previous partliament.

An outstanding feature of the lection was the defeat of E. G. Theodore, who resigned the Premiership of Queensland to contest a Federal seat in the north of that state. He was defeated by 250 votes by a redico Dr. L. W. Nott, in a poll of about 45,000.

Compulsory Voting Effective

The poll, under the Compulory Voting Act, constitutes a record for Australia. Nearly 85 per cent of the electors recorded their votes. At the previous election only 57 per cent of the votes were polled. Naturally the result must be acknowledged a more representative expession of public opinion than that of three years ago.

Compulsory voting is not new to Australia. It has been in force in the State of Queensland for some years. But this was the first trial throughout the Commonwealth and the Bruce-Page Party at least are quite satisfied with the results. A penalty of £2 is provided for persons who did not vote; unless, of course, they can show valid excuse.

Repulse of the Labor Party.

In five of the six States (Victria is the exception) there are, at present, Labor governments in office. The success of Labor in State elections seemed to justify the belief that a similar wave would either wash Mr. Bruce entirely out of office or would leave him there with a greatly decreased majority. The reasons why he will go back with greater power and heightened prestige, therefore, are of the highest significance; his victory brings to strong relief a dominant trend in the Australian mind, its ultimate commonsense.

The election was fought in the light of the strike, and in the light of the numerous blunders committed by the political and industrial leaders of Labor in connection with that strike. Labor made a great mistake, in the first place, in allowing a non-Australian wasteful and absolutely hopeless strike to be foisted upon the country. Their second mistake lay in the silence of the leaders of Labor; the public naturally interpreted it as the silence that gives consent. The third remarkable blunder was the sluggishness of the States, particularly West Australia and Queensland, in enforcing the law against men guilty of quasi-piracy. The Communists, naturally, read these related facts as sympathy for job-control, and direct action, and as showing a lack of a due sense of responsibility for the maintenance of law and order. The moral for the Labor party is that it needs to retract its steps. Some time back it took the wrong turning in leaving the road of advanced democracy and associating itself with irresponsible persons who are the advocates of extreme opinions and the stormy petrels of industrial troubles.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 11.

Sunday's horoscope is full of contradictions. A stirring day is seen bringing great benefit. The environment may suddenly change for good, and clouds show a silver lining.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an unusual year, with sudden change of environment and circumstance, with adversities bringing signal benefits. A child born on this day may have an eventful and picturesque career, with final success after many ups and downs.

Monday's astrological forecast shows particularly lively proceedings, with the nature under the high stimulus of Mars, strong by lunar and mutual configuration. The disposition may be bold and enterprising, but affairs should not be muddled by rash and impetuous conduct.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively and adventurous year which they should not spoil by rash and wild moves, especially in speculative enterprises. A child born on this day may be bold, enterprising and resourceful.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

TOMMY AND TIMMY MOUSIE GO FOR A STROLL.

"No-sir-ee," squeaked Timmy Mousie, one bright, beautiful morning, "I'm not going to stay in this old barn another second."

"But where are you going?" asked his younger brother, Tommy Mousie. "We've been all over the farm yard and there's nothing new to see around here."

"Better find something to do and stop that nonsense," grunted an old Grandad Mousie. "Little Mousie Boys that grow discontented with their surroundings soon get into mischief. Here you know the dangers and have a nice hole to run to for cover. Wha would either one of you do out in t meadows where you have no Mama to keep you out of mischief?"

"Where are you going?"

"Just the same, I'm going for a stroll," snapped Timmy Mousie, "and if you want to go, Tommy, come on," with that, he strutted across the barn yard to the cornfield.

They crawled through the weeds under the fence that skirted the cornfield and hurried down the path towards the woods.

"I'm not afraid of anything," squeaked Timmy Mousie.

"Neither am I," agreed his brother, but he kept close to Timmy's heels.

They soon left the path and scrambled through the bushes out into the great big meadows.

They stood there wondering just which way to go when something cast a shadow over their heads and down it jumped right in front of them.

Timmy and Tommy Mousie jumped and caught hold of each other's coats. Then a merry laugh sounded and there stood the cutest little Mousie they had ever seen. His coat was a dull yellow, darker on the back than the sides and he wore a pretty white vest. His hind legs were very long and his front ones rather short, but he had the prettiest tail Timmy and Tommy had ever seen on a Mousie.

"Thought you weren't afraid of anything," he chuckled. "Don't be frightened of me. I'm Johnny Jumping Mousie. I was—"

"Jumping Mousie!" exclaimed both Timmy and Tommy in one voice. "Why, how can a Mousie jump?"

"You could do it easily if you had long hind legs like mine," chuckled Johnny Jumping Mousie. "Where do you live, boys? Have you come out here to stay?"

"Just for a stroll," replied Timmy Mousie, who down in his heart was wishing he was back in the barnyard. "Where do you live?"

"Among the weeds at the edge of the meadow," replied Johnny Jumping Mousie. "In the Winter time, I burrow under the ground as the meadows are cold in the Winter. Better come and burrow next to me."

"In the ground?" exclaimed Timmy Mousie. "No, I think we'd better be going." Just as they turned to follow the path back to the barnyard, down swooped a great big hawk and the three little mice had to do some scampering to get under cover. When the bird, disgusted with his failure, flew away, Timmy and Tommy Mousie scampered back to the barnyard as fast as they could go. That was the last time anyone ever heard of Timmy and Tommy Mousie taking a stroll.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is such a common ailment I'm not surprised at the number of letters I get asking about nasal catarrh. The causes, prevention and cure of this disease are in many minds.

Lining the nasal cavities is a delicate tissue called the nasal mucous membrane. It is continuous with the lining of the throat and with the lining of the tube leading to the ear.

Opening into the nasal cavities are other cavities called the nasal sinuses This arrangement is made possible because the bones of the face are hollow the spaces communicating with the nose. Lining these cavities and continuous with the lining of the nose is the same mucous membrane.

The mucous membrane is a soft an velvety structure. It is rich in blood vessels and contains many glands Some of the latter throw out a watery fluid and some produce a thick mucus

Any inflammation of a mucous membrane is called a catarrh. If it is the lining of the stomach which is involved, the disease is called "catarrh of the stomach." If the mucous lining of the bladder is affected, the trouble is called "catarrh of the bladder." So when the lining of the nose is the location of inflammation, it is called nasal catarrh.

A common cold is an acute nasal catarrh. At first there is a flow of hot, watery fluid, because the congestion makes these glands—the serous glands—work overtime. After a while the more sluggish mucous glands become disturbed and then there is a flow of thick, yellow, sticky mucus.

But it isn't the acute cararrh, the cold, that we set out to describe. It is the chronic form we have in mind just now.

Chronic nasal catarrh is the result of repeated and neglected colds. One attack follows another. The mucous membrane becomes thickened and the glands never stop throwing out quantities and quantities of mucus. It clogs the nostrils and drops into the throat. To clear the throat and get started in the morning is a disagreeable job. The sinuses fill up with mucus, and to keep free from it requires almost constant use of the handkerchief.

Cleanliness is the first rule of treatment. But how to get to the bottom of the cavities and to free the spaces is a real problem.

When a catarrh has run on for months and years, the entire mucous lining becomes thickened—hypertrophied, the doctors call it. The membrane is thickened on both sides of the nose, so much so indeed that the two sides are in constant co tact. This chafing and rubbing causes increased irritation and more mucus.

In a good many of these cases there is no relief until some of the thickened tissue is removed to give space and to overcome the irritating contact. A spray of some agreeable alkaline solution will help.

Bad teeth and tonsils and other causes of ill health cannot be overlooked. Anything which lowers the vitality provokes the nasal catarrh.

Another time we will go more into detail. Today let me stress the importance of fresh air and cleanliness of the nasal tissues, as preventives of chronic nasal catarrh.

LIBRARY REPORT

I beg herewith to present my Report on the work accomplished in the Public Library during the year 1925.

In some respects I am able to report that the Library has been the means of doing satisfactorily for the public. Our reference room has been extensively used as also have been the Reading Rooms. The Children's department, under the management of Miss Hood, has also had a very satisfactory year.

Our circulation in the adult section has however, gone back several thousands over the previous year. I can only see one reason for this in the fact that we have not been able to provide the public with the same amount of current fiction as in former years and because the books in circulation have been subjected to additional wear and tear on account of the shortage, rendering them in many instances uninviting to the borrower.

Over two thousand books have had to be placed in the repair department and there are at the present time quite five hundred awaiting attention.

The figures appended will show our circulation. For purposes of comparison I am including the figures for 1924.

The total circulation for both Adult and Juvenile departments for the year was 113,098. The circulation in 1924 was 118,116, a decrease of 5018. During the year just past we received many volumes as gifts, although not as many as in former years. The number of books presented, as well as those obtained by purchase, were as follows:

Ninety-eight books were presented to the Library, the principal donors being Mr. Cowan, Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. Hodgson.

Nine hundred and thirty-one books were added to the Adult department during the year—135 of this number were part of the late Mr. Fessenden's library and were not new vooks.

One hundred and ninety-eight volumes had to be withdrawn from the Juvenile department and 431 volumes from the Adult section—making a total of 629 volumes.

The attendance in the Reading Rooms for Adults was noticeably larger than in former years.

In the Children's department Miss Hood estimates the attendance in the Reading Rooms for the year at 10,963.

The Story Hour averaged an attendance of 53. Miss Hood gave in addition four talks during the year to visiting classes from the schools.

There is no increase noticeable in the number of cards taken out by out-of-town borrowers.

In closing my Report, I wish to testify to the willing co-operation of the staff and to the work that they have accomplished during the year.

The thaw is settling the snow. The upper end of the boundary was pretty well filled but conveyances go through all right. Cars have kept off the boundary, but they still run on most of the other roads. Near Michael J. McManus' farm the snow was deep and the motors have torn it up so that it is very nasty going with a runnered vehicle. Hilliard Clements has his motor sleigh out.

Many farmers are busy getting out their year's supply of wood. A few have wood to sell and are drawing to Peterboro market or to Curtis' brick-yard.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid met last Thursday at Mrs. Tucker's home when they decided to omit meetings during the winter months, but to carry on again in the spring, as they could help the Sunday school. A very pleasant afternoon was spent, Mrs. Tucker served refreshments.

When the awards were given pupils of the United Sunday school last Sunday, little Mima Moore received a certificate (not the diploma) for regular attendance during her little life, as she is the first baby on the cradle roll, who has attended regularly since her life began, having missed only one Sunday She could not receive the diploma for attending forty-five Sundays during the year.

ARTICLE No. 25

How many players thoroughly understand the type of hand that justifies a fourth hand bid, when the first three players have passed? One expert claims that many more games are lost by failure to bid in this position than is generally realized. If such is the case, what is the real test of a sound fourth hand bid? Most of the authorities seem to stress the importance of having a game-going hand before opening the bidding fourth hand. They say: "Don't make an original fourth hand bid unless you can go game." The writer is of the opinion that this view is unsound. The real test is: "Can I save game if I open the bidding, irrespective of what my opponents may bid?" If you can answer that question in the affirmative, you have a sound fourth hand bid but not otherwise. Why wait for an overwhelming hand before making a fourth hand bid? Always be willing to take a chance for game yourself if by so doing you don't also give your opponents an equal chance. Here is the rule: "No player should make a fourth hand bid unless sure of saving game at any bid opponents might make." This is the real test to apply in determining whether or not you have a justifiable fourth hand bid.

The writer was watching one of the great experts of the game the other night and noted how closely he followed the foregoing rule for fourth hand bids. Many hands that other players would pass out were bid by him, and not once did he suffer a loss. Here are two good examples:

Hand No. 1

	Hearts — 10, 8, 3 Clubs — A, 6, 4, 3 Diamonds — 9, 7, 2 Spades — K, J, 3
Hearts — A, 4 Clubs — Q, 10, 5 Diamonds — Q, J, 10, 4 Spades — Q, 10, 7, 5	A Z Y B	Hearts — Q, 7 Clubs — K, J, 9, 8, 2 Diamonds — A, 6, 5 Spades — 8, 6, 2
	Hearts — K, J, 9, 6, 5, 2 Clubs — 7 Diamonds — K, 8, 3 Spades — A, 9, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed, as did A and Y. B, the expert, was now up against a pretty problem. Ninety-nine players out of one hundred would have passed, but not the expert. He figured that if the other three hands were evenly divided as to strength, there was little chance for his opponents to go game. On the other hand, he would need very little help from his partner to make game. B bid one heart and all passed. Z opened the queen of diamonds and B made four odd in hearts and thus profited by his bold fourth hand bid.

Hand No. 2

	Hearts — A, K, 7
Y	Clubs — 8
Z	Spades — K, J, 5, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed as did A and Y. B, the expert, bid one diamond, Z one no-trump, A two clubs and Y two hearts. Here's where B made another bold bid. He figured that A didn't have tops in clubs so that a game in clubs was doubtful. On the other hand, A should have either tricks in clubs or another suit and, therefore, help for a no-trump. B, therefore, bid two no-trump and all passed. He just made three odd and scored game and rubber.

The writer was watching a very good player the other evening and was surprised to see him lose a game by failing to make a very evident play. See if you would have won the game or "chucked" it as he did.

	Hearts — 8, 7 Clubs — 4 Diamonds — K, 10, 8, 6 Spades — none
Hearts — none Clubs — ? Diamonds — none Spades — ?	Y A B Z	Hearts — Q, J Clubs — ? Diamonds — none Spades — ?
	Hearts — 9, 3 Clubs — A, Q, 9 Diamonds — Q, 2 Spades — none

No score rubber game. Z was playing the hand at diamonds and six tricks had been played. Z knew that A had no hearts or diamonds and that B had no diamonds. He did not know how the spades or clubs were divided. He had already lost one trick so that if he was to make game, he could only lose one more trick. Y, the dummy, is in the lead. How should Z play the hand so that he can go game against any defense? Z should play the four of clubs from Y's hand and cover any club played by B. No matter whether A wins the trick or not, YZ must score the balance of the tricks. If A wins the trick, he must either lead clubs or spades. If the former, Z can discard two losing hearts in the dummy. If the latter, Z can discard a heart in dummy and trump in his own hand. He can then discard the other heart on the ace of clubs. Play this out, placing the clubs in different hands and see how it works out.

Answer to Problem No. 12

	Hearts — A, 9, 7 Clubs — none Diamonds — none Spades — 9, 7
Hearts — J, 10, 8 Clubs — none Diamonds — none Spades — 10, 4	Y A B Z	Hearts — Q, 6, 3 Clubs — none Diamonds — 8, 3 Spades — none
	Hearts — K, 4 Clubs — 10 Diamonds — J, 6 Spades — none

Clubs are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can he win all five tricks against any defense? Z should lead his ten of clubs. On this trick, A should discard the four of spades, Y the seven of spades and B is forced to discard the three of hearts. He cannot discard a diamond or both of Z's diamonds would be good. Z should then lead the jack of diamonds. A is now forced to discard either a heart or the ten of spades. If he discards the [illegible] are good; if he discards the latter, Y's nine of spades is good. This forcing of the discards is popularly known as the "squeeze" play, and in the example given, Z was able to force the "double" squeeze; that is, force both opponents to discard winning cards. It is an easy little problem but should be carefully studied and understood for there are many opportunities to apply its principles.

SLEW WIFE AND THREE CHILDREN THEN KILLS SELF

Young Chauffeur, Returning Home, Found Man Flirting With His Wife.

RACKET HEARD.

Died With Body of Baby Boy in His Arms—Baseball Bat Was Used.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—Five bodies, the entire family of Thomas King, young chauffeur, were found lying on a bed in his apartment yesterday, under circumstances that mutely outlined an unusual tragedy.

Last time the family was seen alive was Wednesday night. When King returned home the police said he found his wife flirting with another man, who left. The neighbors then heard a great racket. Marks on the walls of the home showed that King had chased his wife and children from room to room. He killed them all with a baseball bat, a Christmas gift to the oldest boy from his mother. Children ranged from 1 to 5 years old, two boys and a girl. He piled all the bodies on one bed taking that of the baby boy, aged one, in his arm he lay down beside them and cut his throat. An autopsy last night disclosed that Mrs. King would have become a mother in about two months.

UNIVERSAL SEX EQUALITY SEEN

Dutch Suffrage Leader Believes Movement is Gaining.

WOMEN'S PROGRESS.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 9—Equality of the sexes in all social aspects has been the ideal of Aletaa H. Jacobs and largely through her influence Dutch women have acquired much greater political and economic independence in the last 30 years. Dr. Jacobs' name stands first among the prominent women of present-day Holland.

When she was born, nearly 72 years ago, women did not count for much except as wives or daughters. Dutch universities did not dream of admitting women to their medical schools when Aletta made up her mind to become a doctor. At 25, however, she had gained the degree of doctor of medicine from Groningen University and began practice as the first woman physician in The Netherlands.

Since then, few international women's congresses have been held without her conspicuous presence. Collaborating closely with Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, and in personal contact with all the feminist movement leaders in Europe, Dr. Jacobs blazed the trail for women's rights and franchises in the face of a full blast of sex prejudice.

Retains Spirit.

The suffrage leader retains full possession of her old fire and spirit, despite her advanced age. The reactionary spirit which she says came all over the world in the matter of women's social position after the war, did not come unexpected to her.

"The men felt themselves heroes and superior beings, compared with women," she told the Associated Press correspondent, "despite the fact that the war was their work and would never have happened had we lived under a world government of men and women for some decades."

The World War came as a tremendous illusionment to Dr. Jacobs, whose firm conviction it had been that modern society, had become too advanced to tolerate such a catastrophe. She threw herself heart and soul into pacifist propaganda.

Visited Wilson

Following a world tour in 1912 with Mrs. Catt, when they were acclaimed champions of their sex in many world countries, Dr. Jacobs and Jane Addams in 1915 undertook the task to urge the anti-war resolutions of The Hague International Women's Congress upon the governments of the belligerent states, the pope, and of the President of the United States.

Travelling in war time, and for such a purpose, was fraught with the greatest perils and all manner of difficulties, but Aletta Jacobs never faltered. She was received Sept. 15, 1915, by President Wilson at the White House. Her visit was a disappointment.

In 1892 Dr. Jacobs married Carl Victor Gerritsen, municipal councillor of Amsterdam, but elected to remain known under her own name.

She still recollects her indignation at being obliged to promise to "obey," in accordance with Dutch law.

A Dead Letter.

"I have never since ceased to agitate for the omission of that word," she said. "Everybody knows it is a dead letter, so why lie about it?"

Referring to the post-war situation of women, Dr. Jacobs said:

"Although since 1918 women have been enfranchised in more European countries, in the United States and even in some parts of Asia, the social position of women generally is worse than before the war.

"Must we, women who have devoted our lives to uplift our sex, regret this reaction? I say, No.

"The younger generation of women obtained their improved position in life too easily.

Forget Past.

"They forget that the greater freedom they now enjoy was gained by the hard and strenuous exertion of their mothers, but that its possession is still weakly held and could be taken from them if they do not continue the struggle for complete emancipation.

"They can do that more easily than their mothers and grandmothers before them, because they now receive a better education and because they wield the power of the vote.

"As soon as they understand to use both aright, they will regain what they lost in the last few years, and all other rights as well.

"Before this century is ended, women all over the world will have taken their proper place on earth—that is, as full co-equals of men under all laws."

MUCH PRODUCE BUT POOR ATTENDANCE

There was plenty of produce on the market this morning, but the attendance was only fair. Eggs were selling from 50 to 55 cents a dozen, chickens from 25 to 28 cents a pound, while butter was 40 cents a pound. Beef ranged from 10 to 12 cents per pound. Wood ranged all the way from $9 to $12 a load.

Many a man has discovered that the bonds of matrimony are not gilt-edged securities.

Many a woman doesn't know what trouble is until she has married the man of her choice.

Woman Says Prohibition Is Speedily Driving Youth of United States To Take Up Drinking

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — (United Press).—America's oncoming generation will be a "race of confirmed drunkards" unless Congress liberalizes the Volstead prohibition enforcement law, Mrs. Florence Kahn, of California, Republican Congress woman, declared to-day in an exclusive interview with the United Press. Only the legalizing of beer and light wines would remedy conditions and pull America's youth from its flundering in the poisonous alcohol despond, Mrs. Kahn said.

"The real menace of the youth to-day," Mrs. Kahn declared, "is the hip pocket flask. Prohibition has caused it, and is not the cure for it. By permitting the sale of beer and wines we will soon find the condition of the youth on a much higher plane. Take away the inhibition," she continued, "and you will find that the youths will stop drinking."

"More than 90 per cent. of the young folks carry flasks and drink because they think it is smart," Mrs. Kahn believes. "They all do it in a braggadocio way. If the present conditions continue, nobody can say where the oncoming generation will wind up."

HUGE SKELETON OF DINOSAUR IN ONTARIO MUSEUM

Reptile Was More Than Fifty Feet Long and Lived Three Million Years Ago.

ENORMOUS HEAD.

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (By Canadian Press).—A specimen of the largest known Canadian dinosaur—scientifically known as the Edmontosaurus, after the city of Edmonton, Alta.—is being mounted by five men at the Royal Ontario Museum.

This huge pre-historic pretilian monster was more than 50 feet long and it has taken two years to bring its skeleton out of the rock. It was cut out of the rock of the Red Deer river valley by one of the annual summer expeditions sent out by Dr. W. A. Parks, of the University of Toronto. One other speciment of this type is at Ottawa and another at New York.

Although the Edmontosaurus is not of a new variety, it is a fine specimen and will far exceed in size any hitherto mounted. So huge are the bones of the monster that the mounting operations look like the construction of a building. The case is spread flat on the floor. Gradually the background is built up with stucco netting and plaster. Over this sand is spread. The great case will be eventually pulled upright by blocks and tackle to a specially made framework of wood.

The skeletons of two other dinosaur are being unearthed and ultimately will be added to the rare specimens in possession of the Royal Ontario Museum.

The enormous head of the Edmontosaurus, almost five feet long, demonstrates, from the skull, one of their peculiarities. Their brains were disproportionately small. The brain was greatly exceeded in size by the spinal ganglia, which governed the automatic movements of the limbs and tail.

According to Professor Parks, these ponderous, cold-blooded reptiles roamed about the prairies of Western Canada probably three million years ago. At that time tropical conditions prevailed and the dinosaur lived along the edge of a great inland sea which then covered a wide expanse of what is now the Prairie provinces. When the reptiles died they sank into the peat by their great weight, and finally turned into rock.

Through time what is know now as the Red river was formed. The stream, wearing through the sandstone revealed the bones of this ancient reptile.

In searching for dinosaur bones, the Parks expedition floated down the Red river in a scow. When bones were seen, projecting out of the cliffs, the treasure-seekers commenced operations with picks and shovels. Days and weeks of arduous labor finally disclosed the Edmontosaurus and the other dinosaurs brought to Toronto from these expeditions. Following the discovery of the bones, the work of quarrying the ton or more of stone in which the skeletons were embedded was undertaken and the final untombing done at the museum with drill and chisel.

WOLF HUNTERS' EXCITING TIME

Got Three Wolves From One Round, Having to Shoot One.

ONE WOLF DROWNED

PEMBROKE, Ont., Jan. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—Michael Chartrand and Isadore Paquette, who live at Black Bay, which is just south of the conflux of the north and south branches of the Petawawa river, are entitled to the wolf hunting honors according to the folks in this part of the country.

Both Chartrand and Paquette are what is known as natural woodsmen. In the summer time they are firerangers in Algonquin Park. In the winter season, their occupation is trapping, but not until the present season have they confined their operations almost entirely to timber wolves.

The two French-Canadians knew where there were plenty of wolves and set out to lessen the wolf population. Following up their line which was laid out with the utmost care, and reaching their first trap, they found a real live wolf. The wolf had been trapped only a few hours, and was caught only by a small portion of the paw. He became rather active as soon as he saw his new acquaintances.

The two trappers decided to try and keep this wolf alive, and bring him to Pembroke, where he would be placed on exhibition. The first that had to be done was to protect themselves against an attack from the animal. A wire noose was made and to it was attached a stick. This was shoved over his head, a rope was pulled over this and tied behind the wolf's neck, and another was tied to both of them and made as secure as possible. The noose was shoved over the head, nose and ears, and this kept him from being able to bite anyone. When this was completed another rope was fastened to the two already on him and this was supposed to be used for a lead. Up to this stage everything had gone nicely but when the trappers started out with their prize he wanted to lie down, and was not very keen on going where his new acquaintances wished.

Two other traps had to be visited, and it was the intention of the men to bring this wolf along with them, as the other traps were not a great distance away. Between dragging, pulling and shoving they managed to get to the second trap, and to their surprise another wolf had fallen into the steel jaws. This one had been in for some time and was dead. Chartrand was on the end of the rope with the live one, and Paquette went over to release the dead wolf in the trap. He did so and lifted him up in the air to show him to his partner. As soon as he did this, the live wolf leaped into the air, howled as only a wolf can, pulled Chartrand after him, tore the noose from his head with his front paws, and caused so much excitement that the men were bewildered. Chartrand, sizing the situation yelled at Paquette to shoot it, and quicker than it takes to tell, the hunter put his rifle to his shoulder and fired, and the wolf that had to be dragged, pulled and shoved along was now lying dead on the snow.

One more trap was to be visited and, it was about one mile distant. To this trap was attached a small thin log about ten feet long. Upon arrival at the place where the trap had been laid, it was found trap, log and everything had disappeared. A trail had been left where the log and trap had been dragged and this led the trappers to a small lake. It was found that the ice on this lake was quite thin, but the hunters continued their way up the lake, following the marking till they came near the head of the lake. Traces of where trap and log had been dragged disappeared completely at one point and the hunters could not figure out where their prey had gone. So back they went to the spot where the marking had ended.

Sure enough a small hole was found in the ice. The men began to chop around it and suddenly the axe hit a piece of wood. It was the small log attached to the trap. The wolf had fallen into the hole in the ice, and with the weight it had attached to it was unable to free itself and had perished there. Taken from the ice he was placed with his two dead brothers and brought back to Black Bay.

Michael Chartrand and Isadore Paquette returned to their homes that night with their three scalps and, in addition, an experience that will remain fresh in their memory for many years to come.

Y.W.C.A. DRIVE.

Groups Enter Friendly Rivalry For Number of New Members.

The annual drive for new members conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association, is now in full swing. In former years it was the custom to divide the present members into two groups but this year each class comprises a group and their success in getting new members is registered on clocks, each new member counting as one hour. There are prizes for the members who bring in the most new members and judging by the manner in which some of the clocks are moving, this year promises to be a record one in the history of the association. Each member who brings in a new member will be invited to a complimentary banquet at the close of the campaign. At the present time there are 420 members in the gymnasium ranging all the way from two years old and up.

Seniors—Blue—Gertrude Gimblett.

Boys—Green—Ross Latimer.

Dancing — Mauve—Grace Wilson and Arleigh Comstock.

STREET CARS IN LONDON START

BUSSES PROBLEM.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 9.— Without injury to the feeling of either side, and with no referee's decision, a group of London business men, who broke into the street railway conference late Wednesday, arrived at a basis of temporary settlement of the street railway dispute, and the cars started on the streets Friday. The seventy-day tie-up accordingly ends on conditions which have been available for some days, and which have been repeatedly proposed.

The points at issue have varied from day to day, but during the last few days there has been one crucial question. The majority of the city council held the ground that the company must restore the service before the council would negotiate or make pledges. The company held that it had not been standing on its dignity, that it was ready and anxious to operate, but that it had not the money. It claimed that it could meet operating expenses over a temporary period of 60 days if independent bus competition were eliminated. The company asked for some assurance that if it did return the service the competition would end.

Wednesday at a council caucus, a proposal that this promise should be given was put forward, but was beaten by a majority vote. Thursday however, this point was yielded, and the company is assured that within a few days some suitable action will be taken and that both parties will then get down to friendly negotiations leading to a permanent settlement.

Dies Where Battle Began.

Thus the controversy, after waging over a variety of fields, came home to die on the ground where the battle began. The company a couple of months ago commenced its lusty cries to be saved from the busses, and set forth its financial statement, showing that before the busses came a profit of only $36 remained on the operations of the month of October. In November the competition of the busses cut the street car revenues and a loss of $2,000 resulted. In December the company fared worse, and at the end of the year it threw up the sponge, saying that it could not go on if the bus owners secured renewals of their licenses for 1926.

The company then offered to augment its service with new bus lines in East London and South London, the latter to have a fine type of bus and a sevn-cent fare in consequence. South London aldermen were against a seven cent rate there with five cents elsewhere in the city, and during the last few days the company amended its offer with a proposal to install a cheaper type of bus under the temporary agreement, and thus make the five-cent fare universal. Some of the aldermen had then become annoyed at the street railway company's withdrawal from the streets, and even those who were originally inclined to believe that the independent busses would have to go, refused to promise the ousting order. The refusal of this promise kept the war waging for the last three days.

It is generally agreed in civic circles that while the 1926 administration has had a srenuous baptism, it it quite possible that good will come out of it. About the worst that could happen has happened, and it is believed that the resultant enlistment of the active interest of representative business men will prove of valuable assistance to the city council.

It is now the intention to proceed without delay to consideration of the general settlement, and, if possible, the terms will be worked out in principle before the termination of the temporary operating period.

Aunt Celimena bowed deeply. "You qualify, Mr. Lacy, but unless I mistake myself I just heard you say that you would be forced to leave us in order to go over some private matters with your friend McTish. I believe that's the name you mentioned."

"It's the name, all right," Lacy agreed. He hesitated, then turned to Connemara. "That sort of puts me in a hole," he said to the girl. "I really ought to check in on Mac. As the advertisements say, there's a reason. But don't for a minute think you've seen the last of me. In fact—and I might as well go on record in front of this charming group of witnesses—you're going to see so much of me that some day you're going to say, 'Dave, my dear, don't you really think a man and a woman ought to get away from each other for one day after forty years of married life, however happy those years——'"

"Say!" yelped Sweetie and jammed her elbow into Connemara's side. "Didn't I tell you that guy was a fast worker?

He begins where the others leave off."

"Is that so?" growled Bing. "Now listen here, Connemara——"

But the girl herself, who was staring blankly into David Lacy's burning eyes, suddenly laughed.

"And which way do you want me to do my hair?" she said.

"Any way," said Lacy. "Wear a pink wig, for all I care. By golly, you could wear a pink wig."

And Celimena raised her hand. "That will do, Mr. Lacy. Perhaps you have never heard that personalities are seldom in good taste. If you will secure us a car——"

"I'll drive it," said Bing.

"And I'll oil it," said David. "I'll oil it and gas it and water it and dust it, and presently I'll follow it in a somewhat faster car—and after that I shall simply let the splendid discriminatory powers of Miss Moore do their natural work." Suddenly he wheeled to the girl, and his eyes grew soft. "Eventually, why not now?" he pleaded.

"At the first sign of rain put on your chains," said Connemara solemnly.

Lacey grinned. "That one is aged in the wood," he returned. "Still, mother's the health doctor. Just the same, I'm going to be the lucky one in five. That's the insidious thing about me. And I know," he bowed, "that you'll accept no substitutes."

Connemara's eyes were twinkling. "Make good on the car," she said. "I'm asking the man who owns one."

"Good kid," said David Lacy warmly.

Ten minutes later Bing, his eyes surly, was driving one of Lacy's cars down the smooth road to the Bayville ferry. In the seat beside him sat Sweetie. Behind them huddled Aunt Celimena and her niece.

"Take that swaddling band off your head," snapped Aunt Celimena presently. "I don't like it. And it looks silly."

But Connemara only smiled. "Not yet," she said cryptically.

At the ferry house Aunt Celimena suddenly observed in a perfectly natural tone of voice: "Why, there's Saltonstall! Isn't that odd? Ask him in, Constance Mary."

Connemara's eyes followed her aunt's. "Oh, merciful heavens!" she gasped. "Poor old Salt! I'd forgotten entirely that he was in fancy dress. Oh, Auntie, look how he's skulking along, as if he was ashamed of himself. Oh, I'm sorry for him!" A sudden twinkle flicked into her eyes. "No, I'm not. He's funny. He's the funniest thing I ever saw in all my life." And now she began to laugh.

"My goodness, Bing, are you co.or-blind?" Connemara gulped out. "Good Lord, for the last half mile I've been staring ahead at that red thing and thinking to myself, what a funny-looking gasoline pump! Oh, Bing, go over and grab him before he commits suicide or something."

Bing leaped out of the car, grasped the astounded Saltonstall by the arm, and led him back amid the chuckled plaudits of the ferry-house crowd.

"Oh, Mama," shrilled a tiny girl, "there's Little Red Riding Hood's daddy! Look, Mama."

A lot of admiring small boys swarmed after the red-clad young man in somewhat the manner of a tail escorting a flaring comet. "Get out," blared Bing at the small boys. They withdrew to a safe distance.

Then Sweetie spoke. "My Gawd," she breathed in awe, "if it isn't Archibald again! Say, Percy, I didn't really get them pants in the dark last night. Did you lose a bet on Harvard or are you really a chorus boy after all? I just adore chorus boys."

Said Salt harshly: "Shut up." Then his eyes found Connemara's. "Haven't you a blanket or a robe in the car?" he pleaded. "Oh, thank Heaven! Here—give it to me." He clutched at the proffered robe, flung it about his glistening redness and climbed stiffly into the automobile.

"I've had a rotten time," he announced wearily.

"Well, it hasn't been a strawberry festival for anybody," Connemara gently reproved him. "I'm glad you're all right, though."

"I assure you I'm very much all right," said Saltonstall Cabot Adams, to whom the enfolding blanket had completely restored his wonted dignity. "I'm not only all right, Connemara, but I have here"—he reached beneath his shirt and dramatically drew forth the shimmering auburn coil—"I have here your token of our engagement."

Bing snapped his head to the rear. "Don't be an ass," he growled. "I told you what that meant last night."

But Aunt Celimena spoke up. "Gentlemen, please," she protested. "We have all had too much. This is no time——"

"Once in a while you say a mouthful, Aunt Celly," agreed Connemara with a tired smile. "Besides this——"

"No more discussion, Constance Mary! Not, at least, while this terrible shadow of uncertainty hangs over us."

"Uncertainty?" Salt demanded. "What do you mean?"

"I mean exactly what I say. Those horrible men—and their fiendish associates!" Her lip curled just perceptibly in the direction of Sweetie. "I tell you I shall not sleep a wink until they are every one in jail. That is why I want Mr. Brewster and both Saltonstall and Bingham to remain with us at Moorelands tonight. I feel in my bones that something is going to happen."

Sweetie wheeled in her seat, faced the group in the rear of the car and deliberately winked.

"Us poor defenceless women!" she murmured. "Ain't it the truth?"

From the ferry house came the shouted warning, "All aboard! Bing threw in the clutch and the car moved slowly forward, toward Moorelands—and the night that lay ahead.

TO THE MOTHERS OF ALL PALE GIRLS

If Your Daughter Shows Signs of Anaemia a Tonic Is Needed.

Anaemia is simply a lack of blood. It is one of the most common and at the same time most dangerous troubles from which growing girls suffer. It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls often overwork and overstudy. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach and because of its tendency to grow steadily worse. Every growing girl should occasionally take a tonic to ward off this insidious trouble. It is because of their powerful action in rebuilding the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made a world-wide reputation. The case of Miss Claire Sullivan, Pincher Creek, Alta., amply proves the value of this medicine. Miss Sullivan says: 'During my school days I suffered a grat deal from thin and watery blood. I was continually weak and tired; my appetite was poor, my sleep unrefreshing and I was troubled with backaches. To make matters worse I was attacked with acute appendicitis and the operation left me in a very weakened state. My mother, learning of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, had me take them and after using them for some time I can say the result was simply wonderful, as they completely restored my health, and now when opportunity occurs I always recommend these pills to weak, pale girls suffering as I did."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The trustees for the ensuing year will be: Messrs. James Curtis, James Boggs and John Payne. Mr. Boggs will be the secretary-treasurer. The business was transacted in short time and the auditors found everything in good shape. Mr. Melville Bowins was appointed auditor for the coming year.

On New Year's night, L.O.L. No. 82 held a concert in their hall. The programme consisted of a play entitled "Bar Haven," given by the Tyrone Dramatic Club. The play was well given and between the acts the Tyrone Orchestra gave several selections. Miss Evelyn Brent also sang several solos which were much enjoyed. The characters of the play were:—

Brackett, Howard Brent; Mrs. Wardell, Evelyn Brent; Kate Wardell, Lola Richards; Florence Wardell, Margaret Moore; Spray Hopper, Florence Down; Arabella Wortendyke, Gladys Woodley.

A good crowd was present and enjoyed the play for over two hours. The Orangemen and their ladies served a dainty lunch to the performers after which a dance was held which the majority of the young people enjoyed till the wee small hours of the morning.

Probably the oldest voter to use her franchise on Monday was Mrs. Esther Payne. She is in her 85th year, and has lived in this locality practically all her life.

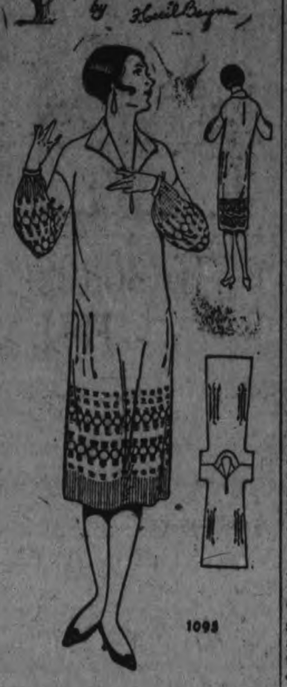
ECLIPSE FASHIONS

Exclusive Patterns by Hazel Bryan



1095

Bordered Materials a Feature of Attractive Frocks

Bordered materials are to be a vogue in themselves for the coming season. This slender-fitting frock of rich bordered crêpe achieves lower fulness by means of groups of small tucks at the front and back of the hips. Again let me emphasize that to be smart, the tuck is made on the inside of your frock and only the seam shows on the outside. The collar turns down, and the opening at the front is cut low enough to allow the frock to slip on over the head. The long full sleeves are joined to the short kimono-shoulders and gathered into narrow bands at the wrists. The diagram shows the simple design of No. 1095, which is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 bust requires 3¾ yards 36 or 40 inch, or 2⅛ yards 54-inch bordered material. Price 20 cents.

The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her desires fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

DANISH SCULPTOR SUBJECT OF PAPER

Mrs. R. Gliddon Presented Address on Famous Thorwaldson—Art Study Club.

A meeting of the Art Study Club of the Women's Art Association was held this week at the home of Mrs. V. S. Foster, Gilmour street, when a very interesting paper on Thorwaldsen, the Danish sculptor, was given by Mrs. R. Gliddon. The response given to the roll call was the name of a sculptor.

The genealogy of the famous sculptor was noted by Mrs. Gliddon, who traced his descent from Thorfinnie and his wife Gudrid, Icelanders who came over to New England in the year 1006 and landed at what is now Mount Hope, Rhode Island, where their son, Snome, was born. As mythology teaches that all respectable Icelanders trace their descent from a king, so Thorwaldsen traced his back to Harold Hildstand, king of Denmark, and also to the mythical god Thor, so the family name was Thor-Vald, with the "son" added to show that the man was the son of Thorwald.

Bertel Thorwaldsen is claimed by "two islands, one city and the open sea." The date of his birth ranges, according to authorities, from 1770 to 1773. His parents were Icelanders, and the little Bertel lived in early years in an abandoned canal boat, tossed up on the beach at Copenhagen. As a child, he helped his father to carve wooden figureheads for ships, and attracted the attention of a ship-owner who had him work with his own designers, and sent to the Academy to be taught designing for half a day at a time. There he received a prize for clay modelling and had special interest in his work shown by the painter Abildgaard, who noticed the shy, reticent character of the boy and his habit of postponing a task as long as possible, then falling to and despatching it within an hour, possibly.

Armed with a three-year travelling scholarship, Thorwaldsen later started for Rome, at the age of twenty-six years. In Rome, the spell of his lethargy seemed to fall from him and he worked very hard, until finally he stood in the shoes of the great Flaxman. In Rome he met Anna Marie Magnani, destined to exert a strong influence upon his life. He realized, however, that a union with a woman of her type, a passionate daughter of Southern skies, would prove a dead weight to his ambition, and he favored a marriage with a man who had taken a fancy to the girl also. After six months of married life, however, she came back to Rome, declaring that, although her husband was kind to her, she would prefer to be a slave to Thorwaldsen than the wife of any man upon the earth. She continued to live with the sculptor, who, although engaged at one time to marry an English lady, Miss McKenzie, never brought his intentions to pass. One child was born to Anna Marie and Thorwaldsen, who was legally acknowledged by him as his daughter.

Thorwaldsen continued to grow in his work, and the King of Bavaria decorated him on the occasion of a visit to Rome. His vogue was no doubt due to his remarkable personal appearance and his social qualities, along with his ability to do the right thing at the right time. Thorwaldsen received scores of medals and decorations at this time and notables of every type outdid themselves in according him honor.

Of his works, the famous Christ figure in the Church of Our Lady at Rome is paramount, with the life-sized statues executed by him, depicting the twelve Apostles. In the building known as the Thorwaldsen Museum are countless examples of his art, including 80 statues, 130 busts, 240 relief subjects and three large frescoes. "The Lion of Lucerne," a memorial to the Swiss Guards who died at the Tuileries, guarding Louis 16th, in 1789, is also a wonderful piece of art, carved from the living rock.

The next meeting of the club will be held on January 19th, at the home of Mrs. W. R. Widdess, when a paper on the painter, Vermeer, will be given by Mrs. B. L. Barns.

SMART, NEW HAT STYLES

The accompanying sketches show hat shapes which have been received and sponsored by the smart woman. Simplicity remains the keynote, and the shapes feature velour, felt and combination treatments as the most popular.

Above at the left we have a smart hat in black prince velour, that dark wine color which distinguishes the velvety sweet pea of the same tone. The brim is an abbreviated affair of black velvet, and there are tiny ornaments at the side.

Below this is a hat in the carelessly graceful English sports type, which is so smart on the Continent and in this country. It comes in all the shades seen in men's hats, and in the sketch is shown in a soft beige tone, with darker brown grosgrain ribbon for trimming.

The centre hat exploits a very smart shape originated by a famous Parisian designer of hats, who makes her models with crowns higher in the back than in front. This one is of soft velour in new antelope shade, trimmed with matching grosgrain and a pearl and onyx pin.

At the upper right we have an unusual model of stovepipe shape, shown in bright red velour, with pleated grosgrain ribbon at the side of the crown. The brim to this, too, is quite narrow, being not over an inch and a half in width, like so many of the brims of to-day.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A STUNNING EVENING WRAP.

Madame has had a very busy season designing wraps for evening. Today she remarked:

"It seems to me that every one of my clients has ordered one evening wrap or more. I have had lots of fun designing them."

She was at work on a lovely affair of black velvet and brocade, and I was watching her with an approving eye.

"That garment makes Miss Brown look as slim as she wants to," I remarked. "And Miss Brown is always wanting to look slim, although she really is delightfully so already."

The wrap in question has the entire lower part brocaded in silver and white, and the upper part is plain black velvet. The velvet extends down upon the brocade to make a point in the front and back, and this particular feature makes the coat ever so slim in effect.

"Miss Brown has a passion for fox fur, so I am banding this entire model in gray fox," Madame explained.

About this time Miss Brown came in for her final fitting, and I was delighted to see that the coat was quite as becoming as I had expected.

"Don't tell me you are still dieting," I replied in answer to the client's remark about her figure.

"Oh, I try a liquid diet every few days, just to keep my lines really thin," she answered.

I assured her that this seemed unnecessary, and I felt more confident than ever that Miss Brown probably is one of those dieters who live on liquids at meals and eat anything tempting between times.

She did look lovely in the wrap, and seemed pleased with it, for, on the spur of the moment, she decided to order a new evening frock.

Black velvet was decided upon, as carrying out the ensemble idea when worn with the new wrap.

M.T.—It is your mission in life to do good, and right effectively you are doing it. You are sympathetic in a high degree, not easily given to anger, tolerant of the mistakes of others, and quick to give help where needed. You are just inclined to neglect your own welfare too much, and should give your own interests a little more attention. Your family appreciates you, but does not fully realize all you do. Be not weary in well-doing—but at the same time don't kill yourself. Your color is silver. You were born on a Sunday.

F.M.—I am glad to accede to your request to give a reading of the young man you propose to marry, all the more so since there is no outstanding feature about him that will distinguish him from a hundred similar young men in Peterboro'. That may seem harsh—to you—but I hasten to assure you that he is very estimable young man, progressive, moral, and affectionate. He will not show as much affection as he feels; he is self-conscious, though less with you, probably, than with others. He has considerable salesmanship ability, is a fluent talker and a clear thinker. Encourage him to throw off the shackling self-consciousness and forge ahead on his merits. And after all, there is one thing that sets this young man off from the other hundred—his love for you. And that, after all, is the principal thing. He was born on a Thursday, and his colors are pink and yellow.

D.A.T.—You are musically inclined, but have more will than power to produce sweet sounds. In fact, you have no ear for divine strains, and no adequate sense of time. With your quick perception, your love of beauty, and your deft fingers, I would advise you to take up painting as an outlet for your artistic sense, since the music is denied you. Physical conditions are not so clear to me as are mental manifestations, but I judge that you are slightly deaf. You will be successful in a plodding way in business; marriage is not indicated in your reading. Try to be useful to others and sympathetic with them. Your colors are red and brown. You were born on a Tuesday.

L.O.Y.—You tire easily of the humdrum of every day life, and are constantly seeking new adventures or new fields of effort. Concentrate your resources. You will need all your ability to make your way in the world without frittering away your resources over a wide field. You have aptitude for the sciences, and you have considerable deftness with your hands. Find out for what you are most suited, then determine to make a success of that, and forget all else. Your color is brown. You were born on a Tuesday.

J.M.T.—You have considerable ability in thinking out problems, and coupled with great powers of analogy this fits you for a position where planning power would be at a premium. Perhaps you would succeed as an executive in a large concern, with many ramifications. You have the ability to keep your hand on many things at once, and would be effective as the manager of a many-sided business. You are not affectionate, though kind hearted. You are destined to play the lone wolf. Your colors are white and yellow. You were born on a Sunday.

F.F.P.—You have had so many bouquets thrown at you that you are overpowered by the sense of your own importance—wholly unmerited, if your mentality manifests itself correctly in your reading. You have very mediocre abilities, only average mentality, and a great deal too much self-satisfaction. Take an inventory of your capabilities and education, find just where you stand, and make that a starting place for your real effort toward success that will not taste as ashes in your mouth because of your realization of your own unworthiness. You should be in a position where you would be capably and sympathetically directed by someone for a period. Then you might, with advantage branch out for yourself. Your color is red. You were born on a Monday.

E.C.E.—You are directing your energies with great enthusiasm, but in the wrong direction. You have the mentality to succeed as a financier, or in a business career, but certainly not as an electrical engineer. You are better at reading men than plans, and you can form accurate opinions of a man whom you have just met in a space of time little more than enough for you to become dismayed by the intricacies of a blue print. However, it is for you to analyse your powers and training and find into what niche in the great world you best fit—and if there is not one to fit, hew it out. Think well before acting, but do not delay too long. You were born on a Tuesday. Your colors are cream and white.

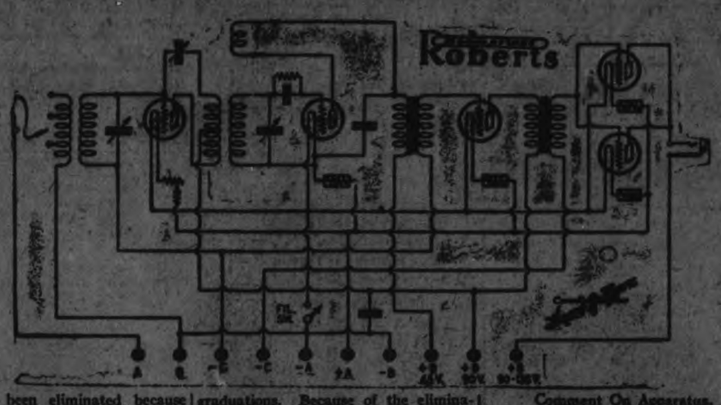
ONCE UPON A TIME ONE-EYE, TWO-EYES AND THREE-EYES—III by W. J. ENRIGHT.

An Improved Five Tube Receiver!

By Harry J. Mara.

The judgment of radio fans is final in deciding the efficiency of a circuit. What better proof of the value of a circuit than the continued popularity, extended to the Robert s Knockout receiver? Still, every circuit is in a state of continuous evolution. The greater the popularity the more there will be experimenting with it. This has been the case with the Roberts which has now been crystallized in its final form as the Hammarlund-Roberts circuit.

The circuit as it is shown in its final form, figure 1, is the result of the painstaking experimental work and final judgment of ten of our foremost engineers. It has been designed and balanced and in addition so simplified that the layman of radio fans need only to follow the simple details of instruction in order to build a set that will absolutely duplicate the original just like a manufactured set.



The Circuit.

Here is a circuit employing tuned, neutralized radio frequency amplification of unusual efficiency, a regenerative detector, then a stage of normal audio frequency amplification, followed by a new form of power amplifier that employs a Lyric audio transformer but requires two tubes in parallel connection. This last arrangement is the best method in which the volume that is delivered from the second stage can be utilized with absolute clarity of reception and that high degree of tone quality which is so desired by the more critical fan.

It is apparent that the circuit embodies and incorporates every important and worth-while refinement of control and accuracy of design that is known. But all this careful attention of design is based on the importance of using the apparatus as specified and around which the entire receiver is designed.

The reflex feature of the old Roberts Circuit has been eliminated because of the difficulties that every fan has encountered in the construction of reflex sets. This elimination has also been instrumental in the unusual improvement of selectivity of the set.

Although a home-constructed receiver, it resembles the best of manufactured sets in appearance and surpasses them in performance. A sloping panel, regularly engraved and with gold finish marking will make the most skeptical fan prone to boast of his set.

Circuit Operation.

The coils are of exceptionally low loss type, designed especially for this circuit. This provides for tuning over the entire broadcast wavelength range and with that degree of selectivity necessary in order to eliminate powerful interference from local stations in order to bring in the long distant ones.

Straight line frequency condensers provide for proper separation of stations on a basis of uniform spacing of dial graduations. Because of the elimination of the reflex features the first tuning circuit is much more effective in separating the stations than before. The efficiency of the detector circuit tuning is obvious when we stop to consider the regenerative feature. The little tickler control is the guardian of selectivity and at the same time it desired on long distance stations.

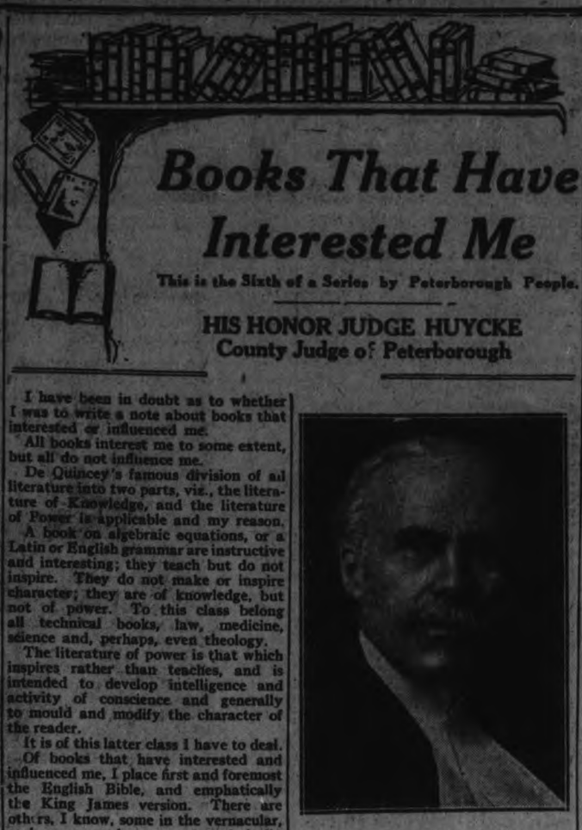
Volume is controlled by means of a rheostat for the radio frequency tube. This controls volume right at the input tube and therefore avoids the distortion due to overloaded detector and audio tubes.

There are two major controls—the condenser tuning dials, and two minor—the tickler for selectivity and the rheostat for volume. What could be simpler and more desirable for the home where every member of the family wants to know how the set works so as to use it themselves?

Comment On Apparatus.

In the usual set construction article—the fan must lay out his panel, drill and countersink the holes, rarely has he the opportunity of owning an engraved panel. In this case the drilled and engraved panel, with a drilled sub-panel and even brackets for mounting can be purchased as a unit. The products are all nationally known, so there is no difficulty in obtaining them anywhere. The complete parts for building the set but without a cabinet will run a few cents over sixty dollars.

Considering the individual variations in set construction as described in various publications, and the difficulties encountered by the fans in altering layouts and circuits to suit their fancies, it is not hard to appreciate the attractions of a plan which minimizes the dimensioning, layout and assembly of a set.



Books That Have Interested Me

This is the Sixth of a Series by Peterborough People.

HIS HONOR JUDGE HUYCKE
County Judge of Peterborough

I have been in doubt as to whether I was to write a note about books that interested or influenced me.

All books interest me to some extent, but all do not influence me.

De Quincey's famous division of all literature into two parts, viz., the literature of Knowledge, and the literature of Power is applicable and my reason.

A book on algebraic equations, or a Latin or English grammar are instructive and interesting; they teach but do not inspire. They do not make or inspire character; they are of knowledge, but not of power. To this class belong all technical books, law, medicine, science and, perhaps, even theology.

The literature of power is that which inspires rather than teaches, and is intended to develop intelligence and activity of conscience and generally to mould and modify the character of the reader.

It is of this latter class I have to deal.

Of books that have interested and influenced me, I place first and foremost the English Bible, and emphatically the King James version. There are others, I know, some in the vernacular, and some, perhaps, more technically and literally correct translations, and of these others the most attractive to me is the Reader's Bible, by the late Dr. Richard Moulton.

But each and all of them lack the dignity and majesty of the King James' book, the greatest piece of English literature extant.

It is remarkable that in the Elizabethan era in one century, indeed in barely one half century, were produced the three masterpieces of all English literature, the Bible, Shakespeare's plays and Milton's Paradise Lost; these three, and the greatest of them is the Bible.

Milton has not appealed to me as has Shakespeare, the greatest of Englishmen, whose Hamlet and Tempest, are, I think, my favorites of his writings.

When a mere child I was taken to hear a great war lecture; I forgot the lecture, even its title, but the learned gentleman had recently returned from Europe and referred incidentally to a trip to the Trosacho and Lock Katrine, and just mentioned the "Lady of the Lake," as a desirable book for young people. I had never even heard of it, but my curiosity was roused. In some way I secured it and this led to and inspired a life-long devotion to the "Wizard of the North."

Sir Walter has ever since interested me, but now his novels more than his verse.

I was brought up on Bunyan's Pilgrims' Progress, have read it many times, and love and revere it now more than ever.

In my early manhood I learned to admire greatly what is, in my opinion, still the world's greatest poem, Homer's Iliad. Its rolling periods and majestic verse, in the most beautifully euphonic language the world has yet known, are unequalled in literature, and we have, as well the tragedies, and some times comedies too, in the lines of the gods as well as men.

The Aeneid of the Romans is, at best, a poor imitation of the earlier book. It may be more precise, and perhaps more potential, but it lacks most of the glory and all the majesty of its prototype.

One of our greatest books, of both interest and influence upon my life and thought is Sir Thomas Mallory's "Le Morte D'Arthur." The title, as well as the source, is French, but the book is English and one of our greatest English classics. It was selected by Caxton, the inventor of the printing press, as one of the very first to be printed by him and given to the English-speaking peoples as a priceless heritage. This book has tinged all subsequent literature and art to a greater extent than any other work I know. I love its old world flavor, and find therein courtesy and kindness, chivalry and courage, portrayed as nowhere else.

I do not speak of law; that is my work and my profession, not my recreation, not very essential inward life.

My economic views are founded largely on Plato's Republic and Statesmen; Adam Smith and Professor Walker. Darwin's books were a revelation to me and Sir William Hamilton was the foundation of my philosophy.

Biography I regard as a most essential part of literary life and education. Plutarch, Boswell's Johnson and Morley's Gladstone are, I think, the greatest, but Hendrick's recent Life of Walter Page is not greatly inferior, and in my opinion the finest biography of our generation.

Poetry I love and have no space to enlarge thereon; I have already referred to Milton and Shakespeare, but Herrick and Johnson, Chaucer and Spenser, Marlowe greater than either still remain, and remain, sad to relate, largely untasted and unknown; they are old, it is true, but like old wine, they are of the best.

I am still old-fashioned enough to appreciate and admire Longfellow. Rupert Brook, the martyred genius of the late war commands my pity, but my admiration too, as does also Francis Thompson. His Hound of Heaven is, I think, the greatest religious poem in centuries. The two greatest, however, of modern times, are undoubtedly Browning and Tennyson.

Browning declared he did not write for men with cigar in mouth and feet on table to read; he wished his readers to work and think to understand and appreciate. His desire was that he should be difficult to read and he usually accomplished his desire.

I have for many years been a Tennyson enthusiast; it is true his works are not of uniform excellence, but still he holds me spell-bound. His purity of motive and diction, his accuracy of observation and expression, and his high human sympathy and understanding are most remarkable, while the music of his verse, his mating of sound with sense, are without parallel. Homer is his only superior in that respect.

Tennyson in his day was a true interpreter of English thought and sentiment, and probably as well, the greatest religious teacher of his age. He was the poet, the prophet, and the seer. If I had to choose for exile, one only of his works I would take "In Memoriam" as my vade mecum.

PETERBOROUGH'S WINTER IS FULL OF SPORT INTEREST

Ski-ing, Tobogganing and Snow-Shoeing Are Among Best.

ALL FACILITIES.

Boosting of District as Winter Resort Starts From Outside.

(By C. J. B.)

Why do people go to Switzerland, or to Quebec, or to Banff, or to any of the thousand and one other famous winter resorts, when the ice in Peterborough is just as smooth, the air just as bracing, and the hills provide just as much variety in slope as one could wish for in tobogganing and ski-ing?

Apparently it is because the people of Peterborough have been content to enjoy all these facilities for healthful winter sports themselves without making any attempt to capitalize them by encouraging visitors to come and make use of them. The fact that a young man from the United States, who came here for his winter vacation, went away proclaiming his enjoyment and his intention of coming back is evidence to the fact that the facilities around Peterborough, which the citizens are prone to take for granted, are what people of less favored cities are willing to travel a long way to enjoy.

Take ski-ing, for instance. In a rolling country such as this, all kinds of opportunities are given. There are low hills with gentle slopes where the beginner can practice. There are steep slopes for the adept. There are plenty of pretty scenes for the man who prefers ski-running across country to the more thrilling sport of speeding down hill at exhiliarating speed.

The pleasures of snow-shoeing are known to many of the local people, and parties may be seen out almost every day. The hills, and dales, woods and swamps of the surrounding country provide a varied panorama of winter scenery, and a snow-shoe tramp over crisp snow on a clear cool morning is good for both the artistic and the physical well-being of its participants.

A Long Walk Back.

Tobogganing and bob-riding are allied sports. The toboggan can be used on any fairly smooth hill, and is coming more and more into favor every year. Bobs are heavier, and because of their runners, require a fairly hard surface, as they will not slide over soft snow like the toboggan. Both provide a swift ride down hill followed by a long walk back, but when the weather is good the favorite hills around the city are fairly alive with boys and girls, and men and women.

Through private enterprise and municipal activity Peterborough is blessed with a large number of skating and hockey rinks. These vary from the Brock street arena with its accommodation for hundreds of spectators and warm dressing rooms, through varying degrees of convenience on privately owned rinks to the city rinks, where a shack provides shelter for changing boots and beyond that to little rinks cleared on the lake or river where a snow bank is the seat and only windbreak to protect the foot during the transition from one boot to another. Large or small, free or paid, each rink has its quota of skaters, sometimes playing hockey and sometimes enjoying the pleasure of straight skating.

Ice-boating and sail-skating are very little practiced around here, probably because the lake and river are usually covered with snow, which impedes the feet or runners while the sail is being forced forward at a rapid rate by the wind. Whenever wind and frost combine to provide a clear sweep of ice both make their appearance, but little opportunity is given for their use.

A Favorite Sport.

An enjoyable outing which the parents, aye, and the grandparents, of the present generation practiced, but which is still very much in vogue, is the sleigh drive. At its best, it consists of finding a farmer friend who has a big house, and an equally big heart, who is willing to drive in with his hayrack full of buffalo-robes and pick up a happy, noisy party, which will make the welkin ring all the way out, and keep the house fairly shaking with their hilarity until an early hour of the morning. At times, however, it is necessary for the men of the party to provide funds to hire a bus to convey the party to the scene, the ladies, of course, providing the eats, while sometimes, no kind, rural resident being available, it is necessary to hire a hall or to return to the home of the organization or one of its members, after a drive around the city or out to Nassau. These latter outings lack the pleasure of a trip in an old hayrack to a big farmhouse, but nevertheless provide their meed of enjoyment.

With all these winter sports Peterborough is indeed fortunate, and it is not probable that the benefits enjoyed by the citizens will remain much longer known only to them, so that an increasing number of people from places not so fortunate can be expected to come here every year.

'How I Earned My First Dollar

DR. W. T. ROGERS, V.S.

Some time in October 1886, a neighbour of ours by the name of Donald McEachern asked me to drive five cows to the fair held in the town of Woodville for which he gave one dollar. This was the first dollar I ever earned. I left home at 4 a.m. and walked thirteen miles, barefooted, driving those cattle. McEachern drove a team of horses ahead. When we got to Woodville I had to keep the cattle in feed and water and also brush them. The cattle were shown at 2.30 p.m., after which I had to drive them back home thirteen miles. I felt too independent for words. I wished to invest the dollar in a new pair of boots, but my mother informed me that there was not enough snow on the ground for boots. However, one day a pedlar by the name of Sandy Bouie drove up just before dinner. I knew he kept a stock of boots, shoes, drygoods—in fact his wagon to me then, was greater than the T. Eaton Store is now.

I promptly invited him in for dinner, he promptly accepted, and my mother just as promptly boxed my ears for asking him, but the deed had been done. I was sent across the fields to a neighbour of ours by the name of Jones for the loan of 1cup of sugar and a half a loaf of bread. Mrs. Jones gave me the sugar but she had no bread, so the word was passed around to the rest of the family to go easy on the bread at dinner time. After dinner Mr. Bouie opened his wagon and showed his wares. He asked me the size of boots I wore but I could not tell him so he said "size 5 would about catch you." He had several pairs of long cowhide boots at $1.00 a pair and one pair with red tops, but they were $1.10. I wanted this pair, so after promising my mother to carry in wood and water for the next two years she kindly paid the extra 10 cents. King George on his throne was not half so proud as I was next day as I walked into school with my duck pants tucked snugly inside my red top boots.

AN OFFICE MUTINY

(By Jeanette.)

The desk sighed, creakingly. It had been a heavy day. The lights in the office were out. Everyone had departed for the night. The tinkling telephones were silent, but the floors still held the day's contribution of paper and refuse. The janitor wouldn't come for half an hour yet. On his departure, the office would be red up and tidy, in preparation for the next day's strife, but as yet, the signs of mental battle were still in evidence. The half of a torn blotter, used to wipe up a flood of ink from an upset bottle, still wept black, inky tears into the waste paper basket below it. On the wall, a calendar with its face turned in presented a rear-view picture of a little boy investigating a sore tooth. Beneath the picture was the caption—"Use dental floss and keep your teeth in shape."

The telephone spoke: "This has been a terribly trying day. My coils are almost worn out. Twice that careless boy let me fall from the desk and he finally succeeded in breaking my lower lip off entirely. And that girl's voice shrieking in my ear from morning until night is enough to make any lady telephone faint with horror. Why can't the creature remember that a woman's voice should always be low? The conversation she uses is simply appalling. She says "Uh-huh" and "Wadja say?" and "Givum a ring," while her mouth is filled with gum——"

"Don't talk about gum," broke in the waste paper basket impatiently. "Look at my nice wire inside all pasted together with spearmint and pepsin. And Bobby bought a cream pie and ate half of it and pitched the other half into me, and then Mr. S. upset the ink and blackened the carpet——"

"Yes, my reputation is ruined forever," came a soft moan from the floor. "Here I have been standing up under fearful misuse for years. Hobnail boots have come in here and ground into my very vitals, children have made me as shiny as glass sliding over my surface and women with high heels and tempers have stamped furiously into my ribs, when they got angry. But none of these things as as bad as that flood of black ink that spread all over my left corner——"

"Well, I did the best I could for you," sniffled the blotter, "and all the thanks I go was to have myself torn in two with a violent wrench. The lady on my front is only half there and her pretty face is ruined entirely. As for me, I expect I will end up in company with the cream pie and the gum and all the waste paper in the basket——"

"Don't talk about waste paper," growled a fierce bass tone. "Look at me, over here in the corner. A perfectly good piece of paper with a lot of fine notes on both sides of me. I'm the boss' memoranda, or at least I was and see what a pretty pass I've come to in my youth. Torn out of his notebook and cast over here in a corner to die. He spent half an hour and used up a lot of strong language this afternoon in an effort to find me and when he couldn't, he had to go and try to hunt up my information all over again. These humans with their tempers and their foolish ways are very unsatisfactory."

"You'd say they were more than unsatisfactory if you had the life I have," rumbled the typewriter, its tones striking the notes from the steady baritone of the space bar to the light staccato of the upper case.

"The people who run me all day have no consideration for a machine at all. The messenger boys use up their lunch hours trying to tap out 'Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country,' with one finger. It s no wonder my letters get lopsided and scratchy. And that girl slams my carriage back and forth as if she were running a washing-machine. And when she has too much dictation and gets mad at the boss, she takes it out on me.

"Well, none of you suffer as I do, broke in the roll-top desk. "The man who owns me locks me up tight every time he goes out, and does it with a bang. I can tell whether he won or lost at poker the night before by the way he opens me in the morning. Sometimes he jars me right down to my spine.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?' said the manager s chair. "You notice I do not say much. I suffer silently, even though I am all gone to pieces inside. No doctor could perform any operation that would help me out. I m on my last legs and pretty soon I ll give way absolutely and you won t see me round here any more. Some junk man will get me and saw my legs off and throw the rest of me into the fire. But what I say is: 'What are you going to do about it?

"We could all go on strike, of course, suggested the telephone doubtfully. "Suppose we try it for a day. By the time they have us all patched up again, they will realize what good servants we have been to them and perhaps they will handle us more gently. Here goes for a good long pull at my wires. I think I can manage to disconnect them. There—— A slight tinkle interrupted the voice, and it was silent.

"Well, I can t go on any strike, said the wastepaper basket, aggrievedly. "The only thing I can do is throw myself over, like this, and spill everything out on the floor. With a swift sideways movement, the basket canted over to the east and the cream pie splurged out oozily on the carpet.

"That s right, don t mind me. You're running all over my face and my mouth is filling up with gum, and second-hand gum, at that. But I can stand it, if you can, said the carpet.

"Here goes, said the blotter, "goodbye everybody. It won t do any good for me to suicide, because they never take care of blotters anyway. All we re born for is to sop up other people s mistakes or see that they don t blot the other side of the page. So long'—and it dropped through the dumb-waiter chute in the wall.

They all looked at the boss memoranda slip. It said nothing.

"I can't go out of business entirely right on the moment, but I'm working all the oil in my system into a nice mess with the dust in my insides," said the typewriter. "Somebody left my cover off and by the time that janitor gets through with his sweeping, there won't be much pep left in me. They'll have to give me a thorough cleaning to-morrow before they can do much with me."

"I'm stuck," yelled the roll-top desk triumphantly. "I knew I could do it if I tried hard enough. Now they'll have to get a crowbar to open me up or else unscrew my lock, and that will take some doing. There'll be a sweet time around here in the morning. That man will have something to swear over to-morrow."

"Serves him right snapped the chair. "Big beefy creature. Comes in after lunch weighing about two pounds more than usual and plunks himself down without the slightest consideration for my weak springs. If I can manage it to-morrow I ll collapse entirely——

"Ssh!' rustled the waste paper on the floor. "Here s the janitor. The door opened and the janitor stepped in. He commenced to gather up the refuse on the floor. Propelled by a breath of air from the open window the boss memoranda slip slid gently over the carpet. He picked it up and plunged it into the basket into the depths of the discarded cream pie. With a sigh of relief the other members of the silent service staff relaxed their watchful waiting. The last member the boss lost memoranda had joined their ranks. The conspiracy was complete. They sighed again faintly. The janitor looked around.

"It s draughty in here he said and shut the window.

EAST CITY NOTED FOR MANY THINGS

East City is noted for its Lift Lock, its toboggan slide, and gas tanks.

You often hear people say, "It's a small world, after all," but they have never been around it. They form their opinions from the small tin or wooden globes or worlds they saw in school. In the same way people who live on the west bank of the Otonabee have the idea that East City is a small place. They probably got their ideas from maps. As a matter of fact East City touches the Otonabee just as often and for as great a distance as does the western part of the city, and it extends away back to the hinderland around Curtis' brickyard.

East City serves as a support to the eastern end of Hunter street bridge, a civic monument in roughened concrete. It also gives a splendid view of the Quaker Oats factory, the largest cereal mill in the British Empire.

The arena in which Peterborough's baseball games are played is also situated in East City, flanked by a stone monument to the ancient beverage beer (deceased A. D. 1917). Among the most noted offspring of this community is Baby Ben, one of the Ben family, noted for early rising.

Those who have braved the walk over Hunter street bridge (said to have the largest single concrete span in America) to see the Hydraulic Lift Lock (the largest of its kind in the world) have been surprised to find that people live in homes on that side of the river just as they do on the west side; that there are stores, and schools, and churches, and sidewalks, and all the modern improvements. And the Radial Railroad Company has nailed its colors to the mast in token that there will shortly be a bus service.

East City warrants a visit from those who have not hitherto suspected its charms. No residential district in the west side can rival Engleburn; and the walk along the river bank to Smith street bridge is far superior to the railway, coal, and factory cluttered west bank, if one is not annoyed by a multiplicity of black and white signs that warn meanderers they mustn't walk there.

West-siders, take a walk across and meet the folk in Ashburnham.

REPRODUCED MUSIC HAS GOOD POINTS

One May Concentrate on Sound Without Other Distractions.

The music of radio, of the phonograph, of the player-piano, is developing a new style of music-listening, and a new type of music listener. This is music sprung from invisible sources. The listener to it is purely a listener. He sees nothing. His thoughts may wander, but his eye does not rove. Not for him the customary surroundings of musical performance, the many and varied distractions of the stage, the platform, the auditorium, the movement, the glitter, the contact of the audience, the personal appeal of the performing artist. All these things are absent. The music, the music alone, is his entertainment.

From the point of view of the musical enlightenment of the listener, such conditions, which confine his interest to the matter in hand, are ideal conditions. The listener who is anxious to get at the heart of the music he is hearing often complains of the distractions too obviously before his eyes under the lights of the concert room.

He is unable, without special measures to that end, to concentrate upon the music in performance. He hears it in the concert room, of course, but he hears it across a confusion set up by what he sees. Only, now and then that music has in it such overmastering appeal that he is swept away from the non-essentials about him, the scene before his eyes fades out, he sees nothing save the inward vision of a mind awakened and inspired by the splendour, or the grace, of the music.

For the devoted listener to music it is the great virtue of the music of the radio, the phonograph and the player-piano that, listening to it, he is freed from all the distractions attendant upon public musical performance. He is alone with this music. Its appeal is the undiluted appeal of its own worth. He listens to it closely, and he hears it clearly, the two factors in listening which are essential to an understanding of what is heard.

Further, his undisturbed listening to phonograph and player-piano music allows to the listener not only that result, but others, too. It is the peculiar value of those instruments that they can repeat their music over and over again. To be able to hear over and over again, and without distraction, the music he desires to hear, is surely of advantage to the listener. If he is a student of music the advantage is obvious, but it is no less certain in the case of those who merely wish to hear again and again the music they like. Both phonographs record and player-piano rolls are often preferred because they reproduce familiar music. But it is safe to say that it was never so familiar as it becomes in the course of phonograph and player-piano performances heard, as they usually are heard, in conditions which allow undisturbed and concentrated attention upon them.

There are, it is true, people who, listening to music, prefer to share the interest of the ear with those many interests of the eye which the concert room and the opera house provide. There are those even who, while they listen to radio music, also read a book, or a newspaper, and those who converse with their friends while the phonograph or the player-piano is in performance. But the serious listeners to music, the listeners who wish to listen to it intelligently, to hear it to the full, to take from it those best delights of it, its highest beauty, its last refinements, its noblest eloquence—such as these—will always prefer to listen to music with the concentration possible only within a surrounding untroubled by distraction from without. And radio, the phonograph and the player-piano provide them with precisely the conditions they desire.

The great strike of the anthracite miners of Pennsylvania in 1902, which tied up the coal mining industry for more than five months, marked the first instance in the history of the country of a President of the United States intervening in an industrial disturbance of any sort, a step which called down upon the head of Theodore Roosevelt the utmost censure on the part of the capitalists, while it won for him the hearty indorsement of the general public and stood out as the first great achievement of his administration.

ABOUT YOUR CAR

By W. Z.

A SKIDDING CAR.

During the winter season, when there is a treacherous sheet of ice on the pavement or packed snow, many cars have or will likely experience many narrow escapes from collisions and ditches. Driving under such conditions, a man feels quite incompetent some times, and no matter how quicky he thinks and acts, he just seems totally helpless. Experience, of course, gives you confidence, but does not always insure you against mishaps.

It is said, by some authorities, that most skids can be rectified by careful steering of the car and the correct use of brakes. Experienced drivers can be seen on the slippery pavements of Peterboro' who can or seem able to control their machines with no apparent difficulty, while others seem to be always in trouble in traffic, at intersections, on street-car tracks, in ruts, and so on, and wonder how the other fellow manages to get over the danger spots so easily.

Usually one finds that the rear end of the car skids first in a right-hand direction, generally being caused by the slope of the road. When brakes are applied, the action of skidding is aggravated considerably to the extent of reaching the ditch or coming to disaster at the curb.

In an embarrassing situation of this kind it may be assumed a correct procedure to raise your foot pressure gradually off the accelerator. Gradually is the word because if you let up entirely on this pedal it will pretty nearly give you the same action as a suddenly applied brake. If you notice your car righting itself again, continue your journey by applying power cautiously, at the same time picking the good road again.

This piece of good luck is not always your lot, but finding your car still sliding sideways, direct it to the center of the road, applying the power gently. Don't be alarmed because your front wheels point in a different than the car. Your car will be heading toward the high part of the road and the hind wheels will come away from the ditch or low part of the road on the right-hand side generally by the momentum.

Another method advised is turning the wheels in the direction car is skidding. This cannot be said to correct the annoyance in all cases, and most likely will require plenty of space.

Slowing down gradually on a slippery road, as you would when approaching a crossing by using the foot brake gently and without disengaging the clutch, and by raising your foot gently off the accelerator pedal, gives you a much better chance of making a quick stop by using the foot and hand brakes, if necessary, than you would have with a fast moving car. It is much cheaper to wear out brakes than to wear out a clutch in cases of this kind.

Five thousand employees of the Western Electric Company in Chicago make up the largest aggregation of industrial bowlers in the United States. They are divided into leagues for men, women and boys, as well as leagues representing the different departments of the concern. At the close of the season in the spring a grand tournament is conducted for the championship.

Still Enjoying Life at 84

Thanks To That Wonderful Remedy

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. F. H. Miller, 1843-11th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Five years ago my husband suffered terribly with severe attacks of palpitation of the heart and smothering spells, and two doctors stated that he could not possibly live six months.

A friend recommended Milburn's H. and N. Pills, with the result that my husband is still enjoying life at the age of 84 years.

He has improved so wonderfully that he can now climb the stairs without having those awful pains in his heart."

The JUNIOR EXAMINER For Boys & Girls

Answers To Letters

Acre's a letter I just must print in full. We shall certainly have some riddles, starting in the New Year:

Dear Uncle John,—The idea of having a Junior Examiner I think is very good. Perhaps this is because I, myself, am young. Anyway, thanks very much for having it. I feel all creepy and curious to know what the wonderful news is. Does it make you feel like that when you want to know anything very badly? Will you please, if it is not too inconvenient, have a column of good riddles and jokes in the Junior Examiner? I'll be ever so much obliged if you will. The story of "Lohengrin, Knight of the Holy Grail," and also "The Gift," are both very interesting.

Yours with curiosity,
BEAUTY.

In Aberdeen

To walk the clean, grey granite streets of Aberdeen, the Silver City of Scotland, on a hot summer's day, breathe sea air that has come all the way from the North Pole without anyone fouling it, is one of the experiences of pleasure. Its sea bathing along two miles of broad golden sands, its angling in the Dee, its curious antiquities provide a score of amusements between porridge time and sunset. Some of its places of interest have disappeared such as Byron's boyhood home, but the Marischal College, the largest granite edifice in the world, still has over its door the disdain of its founders, the Earls Marischal,

"They haif said, Quhat say they?
Lat thame say,"

a slogan that has circled the globe, wherever the philosophy of individualism has been defended.

A Story In French

Le Cheval et L'âne.

Le cheval n'avait rien sur son dos; maia l'âne était chargé si lourdement qu'il pouvait à piene avancer. Il pria donc le cheval de l'aider en portant une partie de sa charge.

Le cheval était méchant et égoiste, et refusa son aide si bien que bientôt le pauvre âne tomba épuisé sur la route et mourut. Le proprietaire des deux animaux essaya d'alléger la charge de l'ane, mais il était trop tard. Il prit donc toute la charge et la mit sur le dos du cheval, avec la peau de l'âne mort; ainsi, l'égoisme du cheval, en refusant de rendre un petit service, ne lui rapporta qu'un surcroît de travail et de peine.

Black Is Invisible

Oh Uncle John, I don t think college is making Jimmy so smart. I heard him telling the Jones boy, that no one really saw the black-spots on my dog Towser. I can see them.

Dear, strange as it may seem to you, Jimmy was right. Really, mark I say really, you do not see the black spots on Towser. When you think you see black things, you really do not see anything.

Well it is so. I will try to explain it to you. Perhaps you can remember how when you were wading at the beach, the waves came in and struck against your legs, and how the little nerves in your legs could feel the waves. I once told you about the Ether which is everywhere. Now there are waves running through that ether in all directions, and these waves are much like the waves of the sea. These ether waves, which are caused by the sun, or other sources of light, are called light waves, and they strike against us just as the sea waves struck against your legs. However, the light waves, come through a medium which is so thin, and they come so fast, that the nerves of our bodies can not feel them. But our wonderful eyes are so sensitive, that they can feel these light waves. So when we say we "see" we really say that our eyes feel the light waves.

At night when the lights are all out, and there is no moon or other light in the room, it seems that everything is black. That is because there are no light waves which strike against the nerves of the eye, so nothing is seen, and that part of the brain, which is affected by the nerves of the eyes, when they see things, is inactive, or blank, and we are conscious of this blankness by the impression of darkness or blackness.

But Uncle John, tell me about Towser s black spots.

I was just coming to that, dear. Look at Towser. You say he is mostly white. That is because, when the light waves strike against his white hairs, these light waves bounce off, or are reflected by them, and then come to the nerves of your eyes. So, when you see white things, you really see things which reflect all of the light waves which strike against them.

Now there is something in the black hairs of Towser, which instead of reflecting the light waves which strike against them, absorb them. Thus no light waves will come from them to your eyes and you get the sensation of blackness, just as you did in the dark room. Now do you understand why Jimmy was right, when he said that you really did not see Towser s black spots, but only thought you did?

It is easy for nations to be friends; the hard part is to get the people to like one another.

EARLY PREDICTIONS VERIFIED BY TRADE PROGRESS IN 1925

It is not often that a year in retrospect looks as well as it did beforehand. And yet, 1925, viewed after it has passed, seems to have run about as near to "form" as the popular saying has it, as has any year in memory. That is despite irregularities, some of home and, some of foreign origin, a period of hesitation in the second quarter and crop damage early by drouth and heat and later by snow and rain, the year as a whole did about as well as most optimistic predictions a year ago called for, and in some respects exceeded all but the most sanguine of anticipations. This is not to say that everybody had all the business he could handle, or that all made money, or that the progress actually made was had without a good deal of stumbling and some looking over the shoulder to see if danger pursued. There were, and there are today, many doubts expressed, caution was frequently enjoined, and perhaps as frequently disregarded as in any previous year, but the fact remains that there was general evidence of a big, in fact record business, having been done with rather less than expected trouble.

An immense speculation in securities, commodities, and last, but certainly not least, real estate, was conducted without predicted crashes occurring. Bank clearings and debits, reflecting these movements, broke all records. In most commercial lines a record business was done, an industrial output recalling the best of after war years was produced and carried to its destination, the building industry surpassed the claimed-to-be unsurpassable record of the year before, the railroads carried a greater traffic at a smaller net cost than ever before, and the so-called luxury trades (the silk and automobile trades come prominently to mind in this classification) turned out, sold and saw go into consumption the greatest quantity in their histories.

All did not fare alike in the year's results and profits. The farmer, largely speaking, saved from himself by nature, saw much of the acreage he planted failto bring forth crops in keeping; but in the case of wheat this rather promptly proved itself an advantage, because with a surplus equal to that of the year before and European crops very much better than in 1924, he, collectively speaking, would have suffered losses which would have robbed him of practically all the profits of the year before. Less, indeed, than in most former years was the farmer, again collectively speaknig, a producer of a burdensome surplus. Some who reaped a big crop of low-grade corn or of equally low-grade cotton, suffered, and the totals of alleged crop values did not shape up as well as in recently preceeding years.

The small storekeepers, the so-called neighborhood stores, also did not do so well as in 1924, if most accounts are correct, because of the chain and department stores and the mail-order houses were credited with gaining in sales and profits at a greater rate. If a favored class or collection of people may be selected as an example of prosperity, the building trades might be mentioned as including as many beneficiaries of the year's good results as any other lines, and yet these probably came in for more pessimistic prediction than any other. The factory workers did better than in 1924, and certainly the textile trades shared this gain, though the shares seemed unequal as between the so-called luxury trade of silk (including rayon) and its admixtures with cotton and wool and the more staple lines of straight cotton or woolen manufacture. "Styled" goods had an even greater vogue than in earlier years. Perhaps the least fortunately fixed trades or industries of all were the fuel branches—the anthracite miners, because they wilfuly sacrificed a surety for a chimera of union domination; the soft coal miners, because until their hard coal brethren struck, were attempting to make an excessively staffed industry produce work and wages it was incapable of supplying. As to the disparity between textile manufacturing and fuel trade results, it may be said that the cotton and woolen mill people accepted reductions in wages and had work, the coal miners, most of them, demanded higher wages than were offered, and many of them were idle.

The year as a whole seemed to sum up as a period when industry, speaking collectively, did relatively better than did general distributive trade. This apparent contradiction is perhaps explained by the irregularity which characterized wholesale and retail trade in nearly the whole first and part of the second quarter. Complaints of hand-to-mouth buying were most common in the first half, though not entirely absent in other months. Generally speaking, however, the second half seemed to see a disposition to get away from the idea that so-called wholesale orders in fractions of a dozen constituted praiseworthy buying. Caution was at no time apparently absent, but buyers bought more freely in the last quarter than for a long time past. In retail trade, the big, or perhaps rather the more efficient organization, seemed to get the bigger share of the business.

Industry, it is true, was not without its irregularities; indeed, it was naturally forced to a great degree to wait upon wholesale buying for its initiative, but there were a number of industries in which the period of hesitation in the spring was really short, the quick declines in output from the peak of early spring to the low point of early summer were nowhere near so severe as in 1924, and the rally in the late summer and autumn was quicker than the year before. A sample case of this was the iron and steel trade, which dropped from practically full spring capacity to 70 or 75 per cent. in the summer, whereas in the year before these trades at the low level of their operations were down to 45 per cent. The rally late in the year in steel production resulted in a new high record being touched for the year. Bearing upon this matter, it might be noted that iron and steel prices were kept well down, they were at the lowest point in three years at one time, and price advances, when they came, were based largely on higher fuel costs. It may be well to remember here that a decline in prices of cars in 1925 was coincident with production of a record number of [illegible] in lumber, a big- perhaps record, production was moved, though complaint was made that this was, largely speaking, at the expense of prices at least of building lumber. These observations may perhaps be comforting to the large number of people who still cling to the idea that lower cost levels among a number of other commodities might bring out a perceptibly larger demand.

While the growth of better feeling among the European nations, typified in the treaties of Locarno may have had some beneficial effect upon our export trade, it seems probable that the future may show more clearly than did 1925 how much good feeling makes for better international trade. Possibly liberal loan policies here helped as much or more. Export trade gained over 1924, but while grain shipments helped early in the year, the reduction in our 1925-26 wheat crop caused a virtual collapse in this line of export, and high-priced hogs, due to the short 1924 corn crop, limited our shipments of animal oils and fats. Larger cotton shipments aided to maintain export trade totals. A good export trade was done in manufactured goods, with automobiles starring in this role. Import trade gained at about double the rate that exports did, the insistent demand here for raw materials, especially rubber and silk accounting for half the total gain in imports. In contrast with our own good export trade, the best since 1920, it may be noted that most European nations have not yet regained the physical volume of their 1913 commerce.

In a year when caution in buying was severely stressed, though perhaps not so much so as in 1924, the buying of goods on installments was said to have expanded as never before. Perhaps it speaks well for the volume of business done as a whole that the cash-and-carry and installment buyers alike bought more freely than ever before. Collections on the face of the general reports did not seem to have kept pace with the volume of business done, but what have been termed the decrees of the court of last resort in the business world, failures, fell behind those of the preceding four years, as did liabilities, this despite something like a recrudescence of the "frozen asset" trouble among small western banks, reported as growing out of difficulties with cattle paper or low prices for corn. Savings bank totals have mounted through the year and are at an unprecedented point, despite the complaints that vast numbers are living beyond their means.

Looking Forward.

Reviewing a year in which happened so much that was good and so little relatively that was otherwise, and contemplating the new peaks to which stock market prices, real estate speculation, bank clearings totals steel, automobile and silk production figures, and last but not least, building expenditures, mounted, it is only natural to find discussion of the possible permanence of conditions making for these big totals. It speaks well, after all, for the essential caution with which speculative operations were conducted that a fairly widespread disposition is found to see a possible curtailment of some speculative activities within the new year. Still, so well employed have been the great majority, and so enormous has been the buying power generated by the dissemination of the highest financial compensation ever paid in time of peace, that many observers find it difficult to say anything but that old land marks have been obliterated by the events of the past decade and that the business community is sailing in uncharted waters. Part of the readiness to concede that a slight reaction in speculative lines is possible is explainable, no doubt, by unwillingness to predict beyond the time when new crops become influential upon sentiment. Part of the unquestionable confidence displayed in purely trade circles, in the face of the rather mediocre year in agriculture, is probably based upon American confidence in the continuing good fortune of the country, enabling it to surmount any and all obstacles, while part is based upon the knowledge that in trade and industry buying was, after all, cautious enough in 1925. One sample of the good fortune attending the country in 1925 was seen in the quick filling of the gap in export trade, caused by reduced foreign takings of grains and most foods, by raw cotton and manufactured goods, especially automobiles. It may be pointed out that the low price of corn has been made the basis for some rather definite recent demands for government aid to the farmer, the offer of advice and of information from Washington having apparently evoked little enthusiasm. This feeling, revealed in recent weeks in parts of the west, indeed, rather negatives the earlier hopes and declarations that there was to be less government in business than in former years. If hopes could be held out that some of our politicians would cease to annoy some of our best foreign customers, it might reconcile us to attempted political tinkering in purely domestic trade. From a domestic standpoint, the country, some farming and coal mining elements excepted, seems prosperous, and the foreign outlook has been apparently vastly improved by the spread of the Locarno idea. If accounts are correct, Europe today is still on a not much better than 1913 basis of commerce and trade. May we not hope to share in filling up this vacuum of a dozen years' creation? If we can, a fairly prosperous business seems assured here in 1926. The unwillingness of prophets to predict beyond the first half of the year, however, will probably buttress American business in its recent disposition to go forward cautiously and not to take any more chances than it did in the rather good year just closed.

LETTERS WERE HAND WRITTEN

Till Sir George Bury Made Use of Revolutionary Typewriter.

FAILED ONCE.

The now indispensable typewriter was not always part of the equipment of a progressive business office. So short a time ago as 1886, all the letters sent out from the office of William Van Horne, then general manager of the new Canadian Pacific Railway, were written by hand, and it was the initiative of George Bury, then substituting as secretary to Mr. Van Horne, that the machine was introduced into the head office of the C.P.R.

The story is told by Sir George Bury himself in his refreshingly frank memoirs, now appearing in MacLean s Magazine, beginning with the January 1 issue.

"All letters in our office were written by hand, he writes. "Some time before, I had found a typewriter in the solicitor s office and had practised upon it, so, when called upon by Mr. Van Horne for my first letter, which was a long and important one, I slipped into the other office and put it into type,—the first typewritten letter presented to Mr. Van Horne for signature. He looked it over and simply said: 'I like the letters better that way, and they were typed from then on.

The youthful George Bury was nothing if not resourceful. He studied shorthand at home in order to fit himself for his first job, a clerkship in William Shaughnessy s office, then purchasing agent for the C. P. R. The first time the young tyro came into take dictation, the future Lord Shaughnessy rattled off his words so rapidly that the youngster was unable to make even a pretence of "getting" him.

"My failure, writes Sir George, "was well taken to heart, and I determined that when the next opportunity presented itself it would find me ready. To that end, I spent every evening practising stenography. Besides plaguing my brothers and sisters to read to me in the evenings, I used to always have some paper in my prayer book at church and take down the sermon.

WIFE AND BUSINESS MUST BE SEPARATE

Inadvisability of Allowing Two to Clash Told By Sir George Bury.

Sir George Bury, former vice-president of the C.P.R., and the author of astonishingly frank memoirs now appearing in MacLean's Magazine, beginning with the January 1 issue, hangs a good story on the inadvisability of allowing marriage to interfere with business. This particular incident occurred during a strike which Sir George had to combat while he was superintendent of the Cranbrook division, of the C.P.R., in the Crows Nest country.

"During the strike," he says, "we had at a place called Sirdar an Italian whose job was to fuel the engines. The strikers tried to make him quit but we got him to stick. One day, arriving at Sirdar he met me in great excitement and, waving his arms, said:

"'The damada car rippa (car repairer) runada wit ma wuf an I quit.

"'No, no you won t; you remain until the strik. is over and you shall have a pass to Montreal and return, and you know there are plenty of wives in Italy?' I replied.

"I forgot the instance until months later when in the head offices in Montreal, I met an Italian and an Italian woman in the corridor. Seeing me, he rushed up, kissed my hand, saying, 'See da new wuf; no give pass you promis?'

"He got the pass.

"The last I heard the old wife had returned and was acting as servant to the new.

Cranky Engineer Stalled Train Of Flour Then Found All Freight Cars Were Empty

"How not to buck the son of an Irishman, might well be written over two amusing stories of railroading told by Sir George Bury in his reminiscences now appearing in MacLean s Magazine, beginning with the January 1 issue. One of Lord Shaughnessy s chief lieutenants during the period of the C.P.R. s most rapid expansion, Sir George rose to a vice-presidency of the great transcontinental.

Shortly after taking over his first division at North Bay, George Bury decided, with characteristic independence of mind, that he would add one-third to the load of each freight train passing through his territory and so cut down operating costs. This did not please the men, for it made for slower running time and a smaller pay cheque as they were paid on a mileage basis. By way of protest, they proceeded to demonstrate that the heavier trains inevitably stalled on the grades—usually at a time when a crack passenger train was waiting to get through.

Bury picked out the crankiest engineer he could find and started him off with a heavy string of cars billed as containing flour. "Mick, the engineer, stalled on a grade and took his load up in two trips, delaying a passenger train. Arriving at the terminal, the crafty one was met by the new superintendent who ordered him from his cab and forced him to be a silent witness as all the cars were opened. Imagine "Mick s chagrin when he discovered that he had been hauling a train made up entirely of empties.

"I did not discipline him because the ragging he got from the men was punishment enough, says Sir George. "The larger train stuck, and expense decreased accordingly.

The second instance occurred when he was in charge of a division in the Crows Nest country. In this case, the order was that the heavier load should be taken up a grade in two trips where necessary.

The men bucked again and one cocky little conductor wired in from a point near a particularly heavy grade that if he were required to double, his crew would have to have eight hours rest.

"I told the despatcher to tell him to take the rest, writes Sir George. "He replied that the engine crew did not want rest just then but would take their eight hours after the train crew had taken the first eight hours. He was told to do so. Then the conductor led trumps, saying there were eight cars of cattle on the train and that the owner said that if his cattle were to be delayed he would make a claim on the company. Without having the authority and rembering the lessons of Sir William Van Horne, I told the despatcher to tell the conductor to turn the cattle over to the agent and that the railway company would buy them. This was too much for the conductor and engineer, so they proceeded, saying to the agent, 'Oh, hell, what s the use?' and thus the operating costs on that part of the line were greatly reduced thereafter.

SAYS CHAIRMEN SHOULD TRAVEL AT OWN EXPENSE

Hamilton City Councillor Urges Against Trips To Conventions.

SAVE MONEY.

Alright For Department Heads, But Only Waste on Aldermen.

HAMILTON, Jan. 6.— Pleasant little holidays to the larger cities of Canada and the United States, which have come to be regarded among many of the aldermen as among the spoils of office, may soon be a thing of the past if the move launched by one section of the new city council is successful. With the year only a few days old two of the so-called "joy trips" have been sanctioned, both to American cities. One is to Detroit for the purpose of joining in a protest against the Chicago water "steal" and the other is to Chicago to attend a convention of the American Road Builders' Association. The longer trip will be taken by Chairman Charles Brayley of the works committee. Controller John Peebles and City Engineer W. L. McFaul.

Ald. J. H. Bell, ward three's new representative in the council, apparently leads the drive against jaunting trips. He declared this morning that he would have raised objection at last night's council meeting, but he was not certain whether the trip had already been sanctioned by council. He had no objection to departmental heads who were permanent officials attending conventions, he said, as he felt that in this way they could receive an education which would be of benefit to the city, but he could not see that the chairman of commitees or any of the elected representatives should go. In many cases they would only be in the council for a year or so and it was simply a waste of city money to send them to these conventions.

Dr. Bell said that he was particularly opposed to members of the council going to foreign countries at the public expense.

"If I am selected chairman of the board of health and go to any convention, I will do so at my own expense," he said. "It is all right for the medical health officer to attend at the city's expense, but I do not think that I or any other alderman should do so."

Dr. Bell intimated that he would propose that there should be an informal council meeting at the earliest possible moment to settle a policy with regard to these trips for council members. This was a time for ecenomy, he said, and he could not regard such trips as economy.

"The day is past when the chairman of a committee or any of the members should be running around the country at the city's expense," Dr. Bell concluded.

RUSSIAN WOMEN ADOPT THE MODE

But Not For Fashion's Sake, But Because of Stern Necessity .

WEAR SHORT SKIRT.

MOSCOW, Jan. 9.— (Canadian Press).—Short skirts are coming into Russia, for the first time, not because Russian women want to be fashionable, for fashions scarcely exist in this revolutionary land, but because of the scarcity and dearness of dress material. The state textile mills have been unable to meet the demand for woollens, serges, gabardines, cottons and other materials. Good serge dress material costs $8 a yard and other goods are in proportion. Silks, satins and crepe de chine are luxuries. Russian women, therefore, are now in the habit of making their skirts with the minimum of cloth, seldom more than a yard and a quarter. The resu't is that skirts often barely touch the knee. Skirts worn by the younger women remind one of Scottish "kilties," in length, if not in color.

RUG'S DISAPPEARANCE IS DUE TO ADVENT OF RADIO BATTERY

Says Rug Mender Who Finds Peterborough Accidents Profitable. SOME LIKE BLUE.

There are times when certain lines of business in Peterborough enjoy an acceleration of activity quite independent of the trend and tendencies of the economic structure as a whole. These individual improvements are not inspired by the solution of the European situation, or the presence in office of Conservative or Liberal Government, or the absence from office of both. They are usually attributable to nothing more momentous than the caprices of the city's thousands.

For example, the feminine bobbing of hair has boomed the barbering business. The prevailing popularity of the slender silhouette has immediately increased traffic in lamb chops and pineapple. The Charleston, though only new here, is reported to have promoted a decided demand for arch supporters. Protracted prohibition has stimulated the sale of cocktail shakers, bottle cappers and round-trip tickets to Montreal.

Then, too, the augmented interest in radio has given an unprecedented impetus to rug repairing hereabouts. It is said by a man who makes a little money in his spare time through carpet repair, that because of the spilling of the predatory solution of storage battery cells, he is doing almost as much Oriental carpet weaving in Peterborough as is being done in all of Armenia. This lethal liquid devours motifs, warp and woof, with all the voracity of a hungry hobo attacking a hunk of pie in Lakefield, after being run out of Peterborough.

Like Irish Lace.

This veteran in the rug business says that of late he's seen quite a number of Chinese rugs that had acquired a rather close resemblance to Irish point lace.

"When the radios first came out," he said, "they were about as popular with me as a raise in rent. Right near where I work a dealer began selling some, and stuck out a loud shouter over the doorway to tell the world about them. I had to spend most of the day listening to lectures on how to set the table for afternoon tea or how to make an icebox out of a soapbox and a fire escape. It was some months before I found the favorable effects of this new invention in what is now my spare-time business.

"I had relied in the past upon wear and tear, lighted cigars and babies with tool chests to supply we with these repair jobs. Then one day one of my customers came to the house and said that, for no reason at all, about a square foot of his dining room rug had disappeared, and he wanted me to come around and find it. It was one of the cleanest bites out of a carpet I had ever seen. In fact, I took a scientific interest in it and found that a hungry acid had swallowed the missing part. The man admitted that in moving his battery across the room some of the water in it had slopped over. I told him that calling it water was putting it mildly.

I have a radio now myself, but I keep the batteries locked up where they can't gnaw my carpets. And out of my spare time takings I'm going to send Marconi a box of cigars one of these days."

The first strike in the United States took place in New York city in 1741, when a number of journeymen bakers combined and refused to bake until their wages were raised.

Women Blame the Scales Men Blame Their System

The enquiring reporter was curious to know whether anyone ever got weighed on the "weigh yourself for a cent" scales.

"Why," said a George street merchant who harbors one of the overweight registers, "that scale is the bright spot in my life. It's the popular impression that fat women are the chief patrons of scales. They are not. The thin woman drops in her share of cents, too, and registers genuine worry sometimes, when she notes results.

"Occasionally the fat women grow discouraged in their attempts to reduce and stop weighing themselves. After that they come in for their fattening ice creams, reckless of consequences."

Another man who gives a constant home to a cent in the slot machine puts it this way:

"The woman who has been on a rigid diet for a week, yet sees no results, denounces the scales. A man makes no such complaint. If he hopes he has lost ten pounds, and finds he has gained three, he accepts the verdict, and goes away doubting his reducing system, but never doubting the scales.

"A woman grows too heavy to look well; a man gets too heavy for his own comfort. When a man is troubled over losing his figure he is perhaps a widower or a bachelor. Fathers of families don't take a pound or two of excess weight seriously."

Always a Thrill

Did'ya ever notice how the kiddies keep on enjoying the toboggan slide, never tiring of the swift dash to the bottom, or stranger still, of the long climb back to Hunter street bridge. A few trips on the slide makes them feel as hilarious as a flapper who has just been told that she resembles Gloria Swanson. No matter how often they have shot its length they continue to be as excited over it as an early North American Indian would be in the George street 5 and 10 cent store.

It is generally contended in the neighborhood of the slide that an evening there is preferable to one at the movie show, even with the promise of a marshmallow nut sundae to follow.

And there is no use denying the fact that the slide offers more opportunities to flapper and sheik than does even the dimly lighted theatre. Clinches are not barred. Instinct makes one grab one's companion in moments of danger. And there are lots of thrills on the toboggan slide.

Cotton is cultivated in virtually every province of China, from Manchuria in the north to Canton, in the extreme south. In total annual production the country ranks next to the United States and India.

Talc suitable for sawing into crayons and pencils is found mainly in North Carolina and Georgia, but some pencil stock is produced in California, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland and a number of other States.

IS A MECCA FOR MOST CITIZENS

OPENED IN 1911.

The Peterborough Public Library as it stands to-day across from Central Park on George street, was made possible by a grant which was secured from the Andrew Carnegie fund. The first grant was for $25,000, followed later by an additional sum of $5,000. Added to the above is a legacy from the late Charlotte Nicholls which amounted to $600.00 and as well, other extras which might total $200.00.

The Carnegie grant was obtained on the usual terms, namely, that the city should expend an amount equivalent to one tenth of the total sum secured for the founding of the library. Those instrumental in obtaining the original amount were E. H. D. Hall, W. H. Bradburn and W. G. Morrow.

At the first board meeting those present were W. G. Morrow, H. R. H. Kenner, David Spence and E. H. D. Hall, the latter three appointed by the Council, Duncan Walker, H. Ritchie and A. Mowat appointed by the Board of Education. Representatives of the Separate School Board were John Corkery and Dr. McNulty, while T. F. Matthews was appointed by the teachers. S. R. Armstrong was the first secretary and was succeeded in 1910 by Frank Adams. At the same time F. M. De la Fosse was appointed librarian with Miss Hattie M. Cahill as assistant.' J. Mathieson was appointed janitor.

In 1910 ground was broken for the building and it was ready for occupancy on February 11, 1911. All of the books which remained in the old Library Rooms on Water street near the offices now occupied by J. F. Strickland, were removed from the shelves and conveyed to their more spacious home where they were to meet hundreds of others, resplendent in new and chaste buildings. Of the first board which superintended the work, there still remain E. H. D. Hall, W. G. Morrow, H. R. H. Kenner, A. Mowat and John Corkery.

The library was first opened for use on Tuesday, February 14, 1911, and for the ensuing year the circulation of 10,300 was 42,737. For 1924 the circulation was 84,588 and more than 22,000 books were in use.

In January 1919 a children's library was established which has since that time received an increasing patronage. In 1924 the circulation in that department amounted to 33,528.

Every Saturday morning at 10.30 in the children's department there is a story hour for which the average attendance is 45 eager listeners. Miss E. Munro was the first librarian while Miss G. Hood has charge at the present time. In addition to the well-filled shelves of children's books, there are also a number of suitable magazines and a splendid referencel ibrary. Miss Hood declared that the children who constituted her clientele were well behaved and courteous, observing the necessary rules without question.

In addition to the literary treasure trove with which the building is well stocked, there are the remnants of what was, at one time, a promising museum. Lack of proper quarters, however, has resulted inevitably in the gradual breakup of the display, although there still remain a number of fine individual pieces and some collections of merit.

The Library is open every day, including all holidays, with the exception of Christmas Day. On Sunday, during the winter months, the building is open between the hours of 2:30 and 5:30. An abundance of stock magazines and newspapers is available for the use of the casual reader.

WIRELESS DIRECTION FINDER IS BEING USED VERY MUCH

Mercantile Marine is Making Extensive Use of System.

USE SOUND, TOO.

By Combination of Both Position Can Be Figured.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9.—Canadian Press).—"The navigation of ships by means of wireless direction-finders, which is now an accomplished fact, is rapidly coming into use in the mercantile marine," says a correspondent of The Times. "For many years also a system of submarine signalling by means of sound waves has been employed for various purposes. By the combined use of wireless and sound signals an alternative method of determining the position of a ship at sea can be obtained without the use of a direction-finder or other navigating instrument.

"The fundamental principles of this idea depend on the difference in velocity of wireless and sound waves. Wireless waves travel at a velocity of about 186,000 miles per second, whereas sound waves travel through water a a little over a mile a second, and through air at about a quarter of this speed. The difference in velocity of light and sound waves is very well demonstrated when a man is seen at a distance chopping wood. The motion of the chopper is seen quite an appreciable time before the sound of the impact is heard. In the same way a distant light flash may be seen several seconds before the accompanying thunderclap is heard; and from a measurement of the time interval and the velocity of sound through the air the distance of the thunderstorm or other disturbances can be calculated.

"In the application of this principal to navigation the sound wave is actually transmitted through water. A ship seeking to know its position first gets into wireless communication with a shore station, and originates a sound wave below the surface of the water by means of a small bomb or an accoustic oscillator. At the same instant the wireless key in the strip is pressed to send out a short wireless signal. At the hore station the two signals are received the one on a wireless set, the other on an immersed microphone, and are made to record photographically on a moving strip of paper. By this means the time interval between the arrival of the sound wave and wireless wave is accurately recorded and the distance from the station of the ship can, therefore, be calculated. Instead of using only one receiving microphone several of these instruments are usually connected up to the shore station. This arrangement gives a knowledge of the distance of the ship from two or three fixed points, and it is then a simple matter to obtain the exact position of it.

"As an alternative to this arrangement it is practicable for the wireless and sound signals to be sent out automatically from either a shore station or a fixed light vessel. Any ship in the vicinity which is provided with both a wireless receiver and submarine sound receiving apparatus, can then observe its distance from the station from the time interval between the arrival of the wireless and sound signals. As this interval will be of the order of one second for each mile, an ordinary stop-watch is sufficiently accurate for the use of the observer on the ship at all the ranges which would be employed in practice.

One lighthouse in the North Sea belonging to the Dutch Government is already equipped for the simultaneous transmission of wireless and sound signals, and should be a useful aid to navigation between England and the Continent, particularly in foggy weather. Once some of the practicle difficulties have been overcome by experience, the method should be more accurate and have a considerably greater range than the present use of foghorns and sirens."

DANCE LANCERS AT OLD-TIMERS' BALL

White-Haired Pioneers Dance With Youth—Meighen Present.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—A writer in the Free Press describes the dancing at the Old-Timers Annual Ball in this wise: "The orchestra was playing 'Garry Owen,' and then the fiddles shrilled and pleaded as they swung into 'Turkey in the Straw' and a hundred couples of white-haired men and women who could remember when Winnipeg washed its face in a tin pan out of the Red River, and mixed with them a younger generation born on the prairie, turned and balanced and bowed and laughed and shouted as they went through the mazes of the Lancers while 70 years of western history were rolled together. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen is taking part in a square dance near the door. In the next group is Mrs. Charlie Brown, aged 74, swinging easily and smilingly into the dance. The crowd forms into a big circle for the Red River jig, with the solitary fiddler on a lonesome chair in the middle. Mrs. Charles Brown and Mr. Sibbald with his moccasins are the first couple and as the fiddle talks the weight of half a century is thrown away. H. C. Whellans of East Kildonan attracts attention with a bit of fast stepping. Mr. Sibbald returns and cuts him out. A young lady does a vigorous step that one old-timer back of us says is the real thing but which another says is a little too modern. We don't know."

POOREST YEAR FOR SHIPPING

Chairman of P. and O. Company Says Prospects Are Gloomy.

TOO MANY SHIPS

LONDON, Eng., Jan. .—(Canadian Press).—Lord Inchcape, chairman of the Pacific and Orient Steam Navigation Company, presiding at the annual meeting of the company recently referred to 1925 as "the worst year in shipping." His Lordship was not at all optimistic at the outlook for the immediate future either and described the prospects for shipping as "gloomy". He said a halt would be made by the company in building ships as the present cost of shipbuilding was too high, and said that in the circumstances it was prudent to conserve the company's resources rather than to distribute them up to the hilt The objective was to keep the company sound financially and to carry on the great undertakings through bad times in the hope that things might improve.

Referring to the reduction of the dividend on the Deferred stock from 12 to 10 per cent. for the year, Lord Inchcape said that when an interim dividend of 6 per cent was paid in the spring the Board fully expected to be able to propose a final dividend at the same rate; but in that they had been grievously disappointed. The result of the past year, coupled with the losses of the first three months of the financial year now opened, compelled them to face the inevitable, and to reduce the final dividend to 4 per cent. He held out little hope of a higher dividend for the new year, and asserted that it was only by the help of investments and by drawing on the reserves built up in better times that they were able to make the distribution proposed.

Discussing the position of the shipping industry generally Lord Inchape said that there were at the moment far more ships in the world than trade required, millions of tons were laid up, and few of the ships in commission were earning sufficient to cover working expenses. Discussing trade depression and the remedies, he said:—"The great international trade of this country upon which we chiefly depend to make ends meet, is passing through a bad time. The excess of our imports over our exports is a grave menace to the country's solvency. Formerly we could rely upon invisible exports—our services abroad in transport, income from foreign investments, finance, and insurance—to more than make good any adverse trade balance; but today the value of these is greatly reduced. The European Pact, so ably and successfully negotiated by our Foreign Secretary, Sir Austin Chamberlain, will assuredly help the position in course of time; but meanwhile increased output, economy in production costs, and reduced taxation seem to be the only remedies.

TRAMCAR OUSTED BY MOTOR BUSES

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—That the tramcar is slowly but remorselessly being ousted by the motor-bus is still further illustrated in the abandonment of the Dudley to Kingswinford route which has become unprofitable through motor-bus competition. This tramway system has been in use for twenty years.

Other authorities which have recently realised the tramway systems are out of date compared with more modern forms of transport include West Hartlepool and Sunderland (Durham), Chesterfield (Derbyshire), Keighley (Yorkshire), and the London United Tramways, Limited, in so far as the Richmond Bridge-Twickenham, section is concerned.

The London County Council has a net deficiency on the tramways account, for the half-year ended September 30 last of about £170,000.

MOTOR VEHICLE HAS ADVANTAGES

A. R. C. Henry Said All Vehicles Should Be Relegated To Proper Sphere.

ADDRESSED E. I. C.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—That the motor vehicle has a distinct economic field in passenger and freight service and that is distinctly in the public service that a co-operative effort should be exerted so that each of the various transportation facilities should be assigned to their most economic field so that these units could be co-ordinated to produce the most convenient and adequate service possible to the people was the conclusion reached by A. R. C. Henry, Director of the Bureau of Economics, Canadian National Railways, in an address delivered today before the Toronto branch of The Engineering Institute of Canada.

Mr. Henry selected for his subject the "Motor Vehicle versus Other Forms of Transportation," and he dealt largely with the problem of buses and trucks and electrical and steam railways. He briefly sketched the development of the motor industry from its infancy and showed the large influence which its rise exerted upon the industrial and manufacturing world today. He found that while the motor vehicle, exclusive of the privately owned automobile, is in competition with the steam roads of Canada in a comparatively narrow field, it has a distinct field of its own in the handling of passenger and freight business and that where it can perform this service in a more convenient and economic way than the steam or electrical railways, it should and must ultimately supplant them. The great majority of the motor vehicles at the present time, however, are not operated as common carriers but by individual owners on their own behalf and it was desirable that all forms of transportation be placed upon a basis which will not give any unfair advantage to any transportation facilities in competition with each other.

"I am not an advocate of undue regulation of any transportation service," continued Mr. Henry, "nor do I believe that any special form of protection should be given to any form of transportation not economically sound. It is a fact, however, that in the period of development of steam and electrical railways to date there has been developed a code of regulations applicable to these forms of transportation which materially affect the cost of the transportation provided by these facilities and is, I think, but reasonable to suggest that the motor vehicle should be similarly regulated. As regards taxation it would be unwise to unduly tax common carrier motor vehicles. It seems to me but fair that the motor vehicle as a freight or passenger facility (apart from reasonable private use) should bear the cost of the additional capital and additional maintenance which such traffic involves and pay in addition the same amount relatively that other forms of transportation pay in taxes."

Mr. Henry pointed out that an analysis of the various factors which appear to influence in a large measure the use of the passenger motor vehicle disclosed the rather curious fact that its convenience is rather the predominant consideration in the public mind at the present time and that this outweighs considerations of expense, comfort, and speed and that when it becomes less convenient due to parking space, congestion of traffic and other causes a more convenient form of transportation is chosen.

CANADIAN DOLLAR STRIKES NEW LOW

Period of Pressure Will End This Month.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Canadian dollars have reached a new low on the movement at 3-16 of one per cent. discount, off 1.16 of one per cent. Traders state that while the rate appears to be going still lower, the period of greatest pressure should come to an end this month, and it would be extremely surprising to Canadian bankers if dollars touched as low as one per cent. discount. The 1925 low of 15-32 of one per cent. discount was reached on January 19, last year, but conditions in Canada seem somewhat tighter than a year ago, it is stated in financial circles, and a slightly lower rate may be recorded.

Coal Payments.

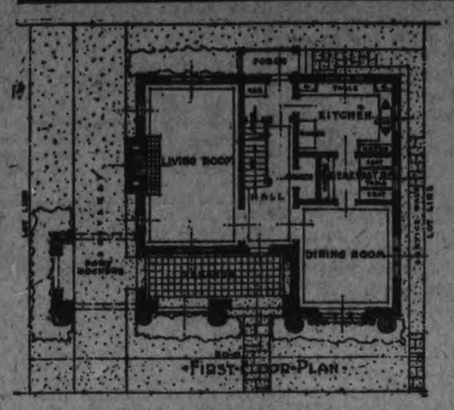
Factors in the depreciation, in addition to the flow of funds from Montreal to New York for temporary use in the local money market and regular winter cessation of grain and other exports are stated to be heavy Canadian payments for United States coal and steel and recent slowing up of Canadian long term borrowing here. Payments for coal, however, are at their peak and will subside appreciably by the end of the month, when the winter's supply will be practically paid for. Some coke is coming from Canada to offset coal imports. Payments to Canada against spring exports of wheat will begin before many weeks and will probably be quickened by the cheapness of the Canadian dollar.

Gold Export Unlikely.

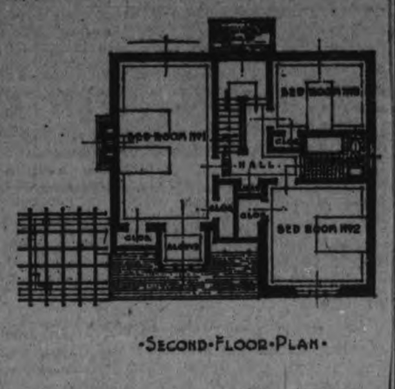
Commenting on the Canadian exchange situation, the Wall Street Journal yesterday said:

"Bankers doubt if Canadian financial authorities will permit the export of gold to this country unless exchange depreciation becomes surprisingly wide. Rate is below the gold shipping point, but it has not been the custom for the government to license exports to permit banks to realize a fractional exchange profit. Business in Canada is not so active as had been hoped for, which is one reason why so much Canadian money is in use here. Reasons for the slackness are high taxation and political uncertainty. Taxes are little, if any, below war-time levels.

An English Domestic Design



•FIRST•FLOOR•PLAN•



•SECOND•FLOOR•PLAN•

The alluring appeal of English domestic architecture strikes a responsive chord in the hearts and minds of many who appreciate an attractive home, and the accompanying perspective does much to vividly account for and justify it.

There is no mistaking the architectural origin or escaping the charm of such a blending of stone, brick and stucco; the well sloped, gabled roof; the chimney; leaded glass windows with centre shields; porte cochere at the left and the half-timber and stucco wall in front of the verandah. Equally interesting and pertinent to this delightful type of architecture are the large battened door with wrought iron hardware and the shutters. It is not necessary to strain one's imagination to visualize the effect of the latter, painted a light shade of green, against the stucco background.

The foundations are of local stone carried about two feet above grade and bonded irregularly up the corners and bays. This gives a soft ansition from the base to the rug ick which is laid with wide, white ortar joints creating an exceedngly fresh, artistic appearance. The stucco second storey is of a light cream tone applied to hollow tile and has a slightly textured surface.

Heavy cedar shingles, stained a pastel, purple grey and laid irregularly make an attractive roof and a very interesting and inexpensive effect may be obtained by the judicious use of a few shingles dipped in blending but brighter tones.

Mentioning such a little detail as the golden brown stain used on the half-timbered beams of the verandah, porte cochere and overhangs may seem a bit "de trop" but it is far more important than is generally realized. It is never advisable to tamper with a qualified architect's color scheme.

The selection of red quarry tile for the verandah floor combines durability and brightness where they are very much needed. There is no doubt of the "antagonism" of this material toward wear and tear and yet its color lends such cheerfulness to the entrance approach as to make it suggestive of the welcome that awaits within.

Further evidence of the thought given to first impressions, as well as the comfort of the owner and family, is the porte cochere with driveway passing under it, making it possible to leave or enter a car without undue exposure to inclement weather.

While it is not possible to illustrate the other elevations of this home, the name and reputation of the architect suffice to guarantee that the rear and sides have been well looked after and not sacrificed for a catchy front.

The floor plans show a very commdious yet compact layout.

Beginning downstairs, the hall is 6 ft. 6 ins. wide and from it one may go direct to the rear porch without passing through rooms or turning endless corners. A large coat closet is provided at the right.

The living room, 13 ft. x 21 ft., is entered through French doors and the first thing to attract attention is the fireplace with its well proportioned mantle of Indiana limestone and brick. Well placed window openings add much to the effect of this room.

Leaving the living room and crossing the hall, through French doors again—you are in a dining room, 13 ft. 10 ins. x 15 ft. You know at once that there need be no moving of chairs or gymnastic performances on the part of the maid to enable her to perform her duties. The woodwork of this room, also living room and hall, is quartered, figured gumwood.

Separating the dining room from the kitchen is a delightful little breakfast room with built-in seats and table and a large china closet —and such a lovely kitchen.

It is 12 ft. x 9 ft. and has a bl and white tiled floor, generous cu board, built-in sink and a large, lo group of windows overlooking th garden. Refrigerator space is pr vided in the rear hall, convenient the kitchen and service entrance.

On the second floor is a large be room, 13 ft. x 21 ft., designed fc two beds. There are two clothe closets and a dressing alcove. Th other two bedrooms are 13 ft. x 1 ft. and 9 ft. x 12 ft., and have ampl closet space.

The bathroom is 6 ft. x 8 ft. an has tile floor and walls, built-i bath with shower above, pedesta basin and built-in medicine cabinet

Two more bedrooms and anothe bathroom are provided for in th attic and, taking rather a "sudde drop," the basement has two bric dividing walls which completely se arate the hot water heating un from the laundry, drying room an fruit rooms.

All floors, except in the kitche and bathrooms, are of quarter c white oak and the walls of th bedrooms, kitchen, and bathroom above the tile, are done in differe shades of grey enamel.

What a home! So faithfully typ ca of its type; so distinctive design and practical in plan. Nee your responsiveness be limited t desire? It can be built for approx mately ten thousand dollars—a r markably moderate cost.

The dimensions are 33 ft. wid exclusive of the port cochere, by 3 ft. 3 ins. long, and allowing for th driveway and service walk, a fift foot lot in really required, and thi is important — it should face th south. If a corner lot, it should h the north-east one.

Don't overlook the landscap work; trees, shrubs, flowers, fla walks and well-kept lawns. Suc a delightful "picture" deserves a attractive "frame."

CANADIAN GOWN WAS SMARTEST

HABITANT WORK

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Writing in "Echoes", the magazine directed by the Daughters of the Empire, Clifton Pease essays to lift the veil from the magic word "imported". "The writer is prepared to admit that there is an indubitable something about a French gown, accompanied by other equally attractive adornments in the matter of foot-gear and head-dress that is exceedingly fascinating. He is not prepared to admit, however, that feminine attire cannot be designed in Canada which would be equal in every respect to creations from any other part of the world. In proof of this contention let him submit at least one instance—one which has to do with a garden party given in London, England, by a certain Duchess whose name is well known on this side of the water and whose functions are famous for the display of modern toggery. At this garden party it was a Canadian-made gown that was gossipingly accepted as being the smartest and the most attractive.

"Had it not been for C. M. Barbeau of Ottawa, Canada would recently have lost the art of making the decorative and gaudy coloured sashes which were worn by the early French Canaian habitant. We had reached a point at which there remained only two very old ladies in the black country of Quebec who knew this art of weaving. After great persuasion they have been induced to live for a while in a convent, during which time they are to impart their knowledge to the nuns in order that this craftsmanship may be passed on to Canadian posterity. The instance serves to show how, even within our own borders, industries may be lost or won."

CHAPEL NON-SECTARIAN

Tiny Room in Crypt of Parliament May be Used by Anybody.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—The Law Officers of the Crown have ruled that the tiny chapel of St. Stephens, in the crypt of the Houses of Parliament, is not under the control of the Established Church, but may be used by ministers of any denomination, subject to the permission of the Lord Great Chamberlain. Some time back Ian Macpherson, M.P., who is a Presbyterian, desired that his infant son should be baptized in this church, by a Presbyterian Minister of course. Canon Carnigie, who besides being Chaplain of the House of Commons is also Rector of St. Margaret's in the parish of which the Houses of Parliament are situated raised the point of law that the chapel was not available for those not of the Established Church. The chapel in its times has served a lumber-room, as part of Mr. Speakers official residence, and as a dining room. For nearly a century, however, it has been reverently maintained as a place for occasional ceremonies such as baptisms and even weddings. The infant son of Colonel Grant Morden has just been baptized there by Dr. Russel Wakefield, formerly of Birmingham.

Metal soldiers, rag dolls, and leather-covered balls were common playthings among the children of ancient Greece and Rome.

TAX BILLS DELAYED

LONDON, Eng, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—This is the time of th year when the Income Tax Collector sends out his unwelcome call upon English citizens. Amidst the pile of Christmas or New Year greetings the sinister buff envelop with the O.H.M.S. mark rears it head. However, it will not be see this year.

It has to be recorded, though that the revenue authorities are actuated by no tender feelings toward the taxpayer. A request has merel come along from the Post Offic that the burden of the Christma and New Year mails should b lightened as much as possible. Th revenue officials, while complyin with the request, are not over pleased at it having been made. They argue that if people do not receiv their demand notes around Christ mas they will spend the money i extra festivity, with the consequenc that payment of the income tax wi involve further dunning by the col lectors when the holiday season i over.

CHAIRMEN MET TO HEAR REPORT OF CHURCH FUND

Seventy Per Cent. of Amount Allocated is Assured—Canvass Not Completed.

REPORTS GOOD.

Some Churches Have Exceeded Allotment—Oshawa Notable Example.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 9.—A meeting of the chairman of the groups into which Cobourg Presbytery was divided in connection with raising its share of the Maintenance and Extension fund was held in the United Church, Port Hope, last Friday Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, of Brighton, being in the chair, and Rev. F. H. Howard, Millbrook secretary.

The meeting was called to consider results obtained in its Presbytery from the individual circuits. Each charge was given an allotment in connection with the four million dollar fund which the United church aimed at raising to carry on its work at home and abroad this year, the 'drive' being on last November, 22 to 29 inclusive.

The committee meeting at Port Hope found that so far as Cobourg Presbytery is concerned about seventy per cent. of the amount allocated is in sight, with a reasonable hope that the total obligation will yet be reached. Owing to loca circumstance some circuits have deferred making the canvass until now, but will conduct it this month and probably have it complete by January 24.

A number of individual churches have gone "over the top". St. Andrew's, Oshawa (formerly Presbyterian) being the most notable example, it was asked to raise $5,000 and reports a total of $10,500. All the charges in Oshawa have overreached their objective, as have also Port Hope Colborne, and Bowmanville. Of the smaller charges Dunbarton, near Pickering, deserves special mention having a surplus of $225 over the amount assigned.

General reports are good from the entire Bay of Quinte Conference, and this is true also of the whole of Canada

Owing to the fact that a certain percentage of the givings comes through the weekly offering envelopes, complete totals will not be available until the year ends next March. That there will be some congestion in the final appeal for payments is inevitable since the church financial year ends in March rather than April as formerly, and the Woman's Missionary Society, mission circles and bands, must take up their annual thank-offerings at that time as well.

Another year such conditions may be avoided as there are many details in connection with the Union which will be definitely arranged when sufficient time is allowed for their adjustment.

Those present on Friday were: Rev. F. Maxwell, Oshawa; Rev. W. Higgs Port Perry; Rev. S. C. Moore, Colborne; Rev. J. U. Robbins, Bowmanville; Rev. J. W. Baird, Port Hope; Rev. Wesley Elliott, of Campbellford, was the only absent member, unavoidably so, owing to a funeral on his charge where his services as pastor were required.

Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, associate secretary of missions, Toronto was also present.

STATE MAY ACQUIRE OWN MINING RIGHTS

Recommendations of Mine Commission Would Favour Ownership.

LONDON, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press) — From ministerial sources the Daily Mail learns that members of the coal commission now sitting to inquire into the coal industry, are virtually unanimous in favor of the state acquiring ownership of mining rights in Great Britain.

A recommendation by the Commission in favor of state ownership would be warmly welcomed in Labor quarters which long have demanded the national ownership of mines.

AT THE CAPITOL

PICTURE MEIGHAN MADE IN IRELAND HERE MONDAY

"Irish Luck," the picture Tom Meighan and a company of Paramount players went to Ireland to make, comes to the Capitol Theatre for a run of 3 days on Monday next. The story, directed for the screen by Victor Heerman, who made "Old Home Week," is an adaption by Tom Geraghty of Norman's Venner's Saturday Evening Post serial, "An Imperfect Imposter." Lois Wilson is featured at the head of the cast playing in support of the star.

In the picture, Tom, as Tom Donahue, New York traffic policeman, wins a newspaper popularity contest and a trip to Europe. Before sailing, the boys from his precinct give Tom a beefsteak dinner to celebrate the victory and when the festivities are at their height Donahue tells the boys that he has decided not to go to London, Paris and Rome. Instead of the fancy European trip he wants to go back to the place where his folks came from—Ireland. This is a signal for much cheering and suggestions that he kiss the Blarney Stone for the rest of them and bring back an armfull of shamrocks from the old sod.

Tom had never been abroad before. Life on shipboard proves new and strange. Almost the first day out on the huge Leviathan he meets with unique adventure when he is mistaken for Lord Fitzhugh, a young Irish nobleman.

AT THE REGENT

YES, JONES CAN ACT AS WELL AS RIDE; PROVES IT IN "LAZY-BONES"

Star Steps Out of Western Characters and Scores Triumph in Screen Version of Owen Davis' Play.

Has Great Cast To Support Him.

Charles (Buck) Jones puts up his guns to become the beloved hero of another sort in the William Fox production of "Lazybones," a picture which, according to advance reports, is destined to be one of the biggest successes of the year, and which will open at the Regent theatre, beginning Monday.

Into this remarkably human story of a typical small town are woven thrills and laughter, romance and pathos in such a way as to hold the interest of the audience from beginning to end.

You'll meet every character you've ever seen during the course of the picture, from the self-assuranced Elmer Ballister, the richest man in town, whose jokes, though old, are always funny and whose word is law to the genial, easy-going "Lazybones" who has never been known to work in his life. Every character will remind you of some one in a little village through which you have traveled, so typical are they.

WIRELESS DIRECTION FINDER IS BEING USED VERY MUCH

Mercantile Marine is Making Extensive Use of System.

USE SOUND, TOO.

By Combination of Both Position Can Be Figured.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9.—Canadian Press).—"The navigation of ships by means of wireless direction-finders, which is now an accomplished fact, is rapidly coming into use in the mercantile marine," says a correspondent of The Times. "For many years also a system of submarine signalling by means of sound waves has been employed for various purposes. By the combined use of wireless and sound signals an alternative method of determining the position of a ship at sea can be obtained without the use of a direction-finder or other navigating instrument.

"The fundamental principles of this idea depend on the difference in velocity of wireless and sound waves. Wireless waves travel at a velocity of about 186,000 miles per second, whereas sound waves travel through water a a little over a mile a second, and through air at about a quarter of this speed. The difference in velocity of light and sound waves is very well demonstrated when a man is seen at a distance chopping wood. The motion of the chopper is seen quite an appreciable time before the sound of the impact is heard. In the same way a distant light flash may be seen several seconds before the accompanying thunderclap is heard; and from a measurement of the time interval and the velocity of sound through the air the distance of the thunderstorm or other disturbances can be calculated.

"In the application of this principal to navigation the sound wave is actually transmitted through water. A ship seeking to know its position first gets into wireless communication with a shore station, and originates a sound wave below the surface of the water by means of a small bomb or an accoustic oscillator. At the same instant the wireless key in the strip is pressed to send out a short wireless signal. At the hore station the two signals are received the one on a wireless set, the other on an immersed microphone, and are made to record photograhically on a moving strip of paper. By this means the time interval between the arrival of the sound wave and wireless wave is accurately recorded and the distance from the station of the ship can, therefore, be calculated. Instead of using only one receiving microphone several of these instruments are usually connected up to the shore station. This arrangement gives a knowledge of the distance of the ship from two or three fixed points, and it is then a simple matter to obtain the exact position of it.

"As an alternative to this arrangement it is practicable for the wireless and sound signals to be sent out automatically from either a shore station or a fixed light vessel. Any ship in the vicinity which is provided with both a wireless receiver and submarine sound receiving apparatus, can then observe its distance from the station from the time interval between the arrival of the wireless and sound signals. As this interval will be of the order of one second for each mile, an ordinary stop-watch is sufficiently accurate for the use of the observer on the ship at all the ranges which would be employed in practice.

One lighthouse in the North Sea belonging to the Dutch Government is already equipped for the simultaneous transmission of wireless and sound signals, and should be a useful aid to navigation between England and the Continent, particularly in foggy weather. Once some of the practicle difficulties have been overcome by experience, the method should be more accurate and have a considerably greater range than the present use of foghorns and sirens."

DANCE LANCERS AT OLD-TIMERS' BALL

White-Haired Pioneers Dance With Youth—Meighen Present.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—A writer in the Free Press describes the dancing at the Old-Timers Annual Ball in this wise: "The orchestra was playing 'Garry Owen,' and then the fiddles shrilled and pleaded as they swung into 'Turkey in the Straw' and a hundred couples of white-haired men and women who could remember when Winnipeg washed its face in a tin pan out of the Red River, and mixed with them a younger generation born on the prairie, turned and balanced and bowed and laughed and shouted as they went through the mazes of the Lancers while 70 years of western history were rolled together. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen is taking part in a square dance near the door. In the next group is Mrs. Charlie Brown, aged 74, swinging easily and smilingly into the dance. The crowd forms into a big circle for the Red River jig, with the solitary fiddler on a lonesome chair in the middle. Mrs. Charles Brown and Mr. Sibbald with his moccasins are the first couple and as the fiddle talks the weight of half a century is thrown away. H. C. Whellans of East Kildonan attracts attention with a bit of fast stepping. Mr. Sibbald returns and cuts him out. A young lady does a vigorous step that one old-timer back of us says is the real thing but which another says is a little too modern. We don't know."

POOREST YEAR FOR SHIPPING

Chairman of P. and O. Company Says Prospects Are Gloomy.

TOO MANY SHIPS

LONDON, Eng., Jan. —(Canadian Press).—Lord Inchcape, chairman of the Pacific and Orient Steam Navigation Company, presiding at the annual meeting of the company recently referred to 1925 as "the worst year in shipping." His Lordship was not at all optimistic at the outlook for the immediate future either and described the prospects for shipping as "gloomy". He said a halt would be made by the company in building ships as the present cost of shipbuilding was too high, and said that in the circumstances it was prudent to conserve the company's resources rather than to distribute them up to the hilt The objective was to keep the company sound financially and to carry on the great undertakings through bad times in the hope that things might improve.

Referring to the reduction of the dividend on the Deferred stock from 12 to 10 per cent. for the year, Lord Inchcape said that when an interim dividend of 6 per cent was paid in the spring the Board fully expected to be able to propose a final dividend at the same rate; but in that they had been grievously disappointed. The result of the past year, coupled with the losses of the first three months of the financial year now opened, compelled them to face the inevitable, and to reduce the final dividend to 4 per cent. He held out little hope of a higher dividend for the new year, and asserted that it was only by the help of investments and by drawing on the reserves built up in better times that they were able to make the distribution proposed.

Discussing the position of the shipping industry generally Lord Inchape said that there were at the moment far more ships in the world than trade required, millions of tons were laid up, and few of the ships in commission were earning sufficient to cover working expenses. Discussing trade depression and the remedies, he said:—"The great international trade of this country upon which we chiefly depend to make ends meet, is passing through a bad time. The excess of our imports over our exports is a grave menace to the country's solvency. Formerly we could rely upon invisible exports—our services abroad in transport, income from foreign investments, finance, and insurance—to more than make good any adverse trade balance; but today the value of these is greatly reduced. The European Pact, so ably and successfully negotiated by our Foreign Secretary, Sir Austin Chamberlain, will assuredly help the position in course of time; but meanwhile increased output, economy in production costs, and reduced taxation seem to be the only remedies."

TRAMCAR OUSTED BY MOTOR BUSES

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—That the tramcar is slowly but remorselessly being ousted by the motor-bus is still further illustrated in the abandonment of the Dudley to Kingswinford route which has become unprofitable through motor-bus competition. This tramway system has been in use for twenty years.

Other authorities which have recently realised the tramway systems are out of date compared with more modern forms of transport include West Hartlepool and Sunderland (Durnam), Chesterfield (Derbyshire), Keighley (Yorkshire), and the London United Tramways, Limited, in so far as the Richmond Bridge-Twickenham, section is concerned.

The London County Council has a net deficiency on the tramways account, for the half-year ended September 30 last of about £170,000.

MOTOR VEHICLE HAS ADVANTAGES

A. R. C. Henry Said All Vehicles Should Be Relegated To Proper Sphere.

ADDRESSED E. I. C.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—That the motor vehicle has a distinct economic field in passenger and freight service and that is distinctly in the public service that a co-operative effort should be exerted so that each of the various transportation facilities should be assigned to their most economic field so that these units could be co-ordinated to produce the most convenient and adequate service possible to the people was the conclusion reached by A. R. C. Henry, Director of the Bureau of Economics, Canadian National Railways, in an address delivered today before the Toronto branch of The Engineering Institute of Canada.

Mr. Henry selected for his subject the "Motor Vehicle versus Other Forms of Transportation," and he dealt largely with the problem of buses and trucks and electrical and steam railways. He briefly sketched the development of the motor industry from its infancy and showed the large influence which its rise exerted upon the industrial and manufacturing world today. He found that while the motor vehicle, exclusive of the privately owned automobile, is in competition with the steam roads of Canada in a comparatively narrow field, it has a distinct field of its own in the handling of passenger and freight business and that where it can perform this service in a more convenient and economic way than the steam or electrical railways, it should and must ultimately supplant them. The great majority of the motor vehicles at the present time, however, are not operated as common carriers but by individual owners on their own behalf and it was desirable that all forms of transportation be placed upon a basis which will not give any unfair advantage to any transportation facilities in competition with each other.

"I am not an advocate of undue regulation of any transportation service," continued Mr. Henry, "nor do I believe that any special form of protection should be given to any form of transportation not economically sound. It is a fact, however, that in the period of development of steam and electrical railways to date there has been developed a code of regulations applicable to these forms of transportation which materially affect the cost of the transportation provided by these facilities and is, I think, but reasonable to suggest that the motor vehicle should be similarly regulated. As regards taxation it would be unwise to unduly tax common carrier motor vehicles. It seems to me but fair that the motor vehicle as a freight or passenger facility (apart from reasonable private use) should bear the cost of the additional capital and additional maintenance which such traffic involves and pay in addition the same amount relatively that other forms of transportation pay in taxes."

Mr. Henry pointed out that an analysis of the various factors which appear to influence in a large measure the use of the passenger motor vehicle disclosed the rather curious fact that its convenience is rather the predominant consideration in the public mind at the present time and that this outweighs considerations of expense, comfort, and speed and that when it becomes less convenient due to parking space, congestion of traffic and other causes a more convenient form of transportation is chosen.

CANADIAN DOLLAR STRIKES NEW LOW

Period of Pressure Will End This Month.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Canadian dollars have reached a new low on the movement at 3-16 of one per cent. discount, off 1.16 of one per cent. Traders state that while the rate appears to be going still lower, the period of greatest pressure should come to an end this month, and it would be extremely surprising to Canadian bankers if dollars touched as low as one per cent. discount. The 1925 low of 15-32 of one per cent. discount was reached on January 19, last year, but conditions in Canada seem somewhat tighter than a year ago, it is stated in financial circles, and a slightly lower rate may be recorded.

Coal Payments.

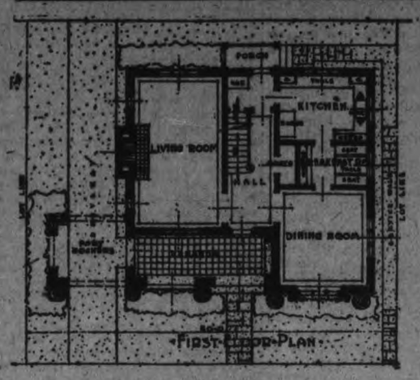
Factors in the depreciation, in addition to the flow of funds from Montreal to New York for temporary use in the local money market and regular winter cessation of grain and other exports are stated to be heavy Canadian payments for United States coal and steel and recent slowing up of Canadian long term borrowing here. Payments for coal, however, are at their peak and will subside appreciably by the end of the month, when the winter's supply will be practically paid for. Some coke is coming from Canada to offset coal imports. Payments to Canada against spring exports of wheat will begin before many weeks and will probably be quickened by the cheapness of the Canadian dollar.

Gold Export Unlikely.

Commenting on the Canadian exchange situation, the Wall Street Journal yesterday said:

"Bankers doubt if Canadian financial authorities will permit the export of gold to this country unless exchange depreciation becomes surprisingly wide. Rate is below the gold shipping point, but it has not been the custom for the government to license exports to permit banks to realize a fractional exchange profit. Business in Canada is not so active as had been hoped for, which is one reason why so much Canadian money is in use here. Reasons for the slackness are high taxation and political uncertainty. Taxes are little, if any, below war-time levels.

An English Domestic Design



•First•Floor•Plan•

The alluring appeal of English domestic architecture strikes a responsive chord in the hearts and minds of many who appreciate an attractive home, and the accompanying perspective does much to vividly account for and justify it.

There is no mistaking the architectural origin or escaping the charm of such a blending of stone, brick and stucco; the well sloped, gabled roof; the chimney; leaded glass windows with centre shields; porte cochere at the left and the half-timber and stucco wall in front of the verandah. Equally interesting and pertinent to this delightful type of architecture are the large battened door with wrought iron hardware and the shutters. It is not necessary to strain one's imagination to visualize the effect of the latter, painted a light shade of green, against the stucco background.

The foundations are of local stone carried about two feet above grade and bonded irregularly up the corners and bays. This gives a soft transition from the base to the rug brick which is laid with wide, white mortar joints creating an exceedingly fresh, artistic appearance. The stucco second storey is of a light cream tone applied to hollow tile and has a slightly textured surface.

Heavy cedar shingles, stained a pastel, purple grey and laid irregularly make an attractive roof and a very interesting and inexpensive effect may be obtained by the judicious use of a few shingles dipped in blending but brighter tones.

Mentioning such a little detail as the golden brown stain used on the half-timbered beams of the verandah, porte cochere and overhangs may seem a bit "de trop" but it is far more important than is generally realized. It is never advisable to tamper with a qualified architect's color scheme.

The selection of red quarry tile for the verandah floor combines durability and brightness where they are very much needed. There is no doubt of the "antagonism" of this material toward wear and tear and yet its color lends such cheerfulness to the entrance approach as to make it suggestive of the welcome that awaits within.

Further evidence of the thought given to first impressions, as well as the comfort of the owner and family, is the porte cochere with driveway passing under it, making it possible to leave or enter a car without undue exposure to inclement weather.

While it is not possible to illustrate the other elevations of this home, the name and reputation of the architect suffice to guarantee that the rear and sides have been well looked after and not sacrificed for a catchy front.

The floor plans show a very commodious yet compact layout.

Beginning downstairs, the hall is 6 ft. 6 ins. wide and from it one may go direct to the rear porch without passing through rooms or turning endless corners. A large coat closet is provided at the right.

The living room, 13 ft. x 21 ft., is entered through French doors and the first thing to attract attention is the fireplace with its well proportioned mantle of Indiana limestone and brick. Well placed window openings add much to the effect of this room.

Leaving the living room and crossing the hall, through French doors again—you are in a dining room, 13 ft. 10 ins. x 15 ft. You know at once that there need be no moving of chairs or gymnastic performances on the part of the maid to enable her to perform her duties. The woodwork of this room, also living room and hall, is quartered, figured gumwood.

Separating the dining room from the kitchen is a delightful little breakfast room with built-in seats and table and a large china closet —and such a lovely kitchen.

It is 12 ft. x 9 ft. and has a bl and white tiled floor, generous cu board, built-in sink and a large, lo group of windows overlooking th garden. Refrigerator space is pr vided in the rear hall, convenient the kitchen and service entrance.

On the second floor is a large be room, 13 ft. x 21 ft., designed fo two beds. There are two cloth closets and a dressing alcove. Th other two bedrooms are 13 ft. x ft. and 9 ft. x 12 ft., and have ampl closet space.

The bathroom is 6 ft. x 8 ft. an has tile floor and walls, built-i bath with shower above, pedesta basin and built-in medicine cabine

Two more bedrooms and anothe bathroom are provided for in th attic and, taking rather a "sudde drop," the basement has two bric dividing walls which completely se arate the hot water heating un from the laundry, drying room an fruit rooms.

All floors, except in the kitche and bathrooms, are of quarter c white oak and the walls of th bedrooms, kitchen, and bathroon above the tile, are done in differe shades of grey enamel.

What a home! So faithfully typ ca of its type; so distinctive design and practical in plan. Ne your responsiveness be limited desire? It can be built for approx mately ten thousand dollars—a r markably moderate cost.

The dimensions are 33 ft. wid exclusive of the port cochere, by ft. 3 ins. long, and allowing for th driveway and service walk, a fif foot lot in really required, and th is important — it should face th south. If a corner lot, it should the north-east one.

CANADIAN GOWN WAS SMARTEST

HABITANT WORK

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Writing in "Echoes", the magazine directed by the Daughters of the Empire, Clifton Pease essays to lift the veil from the magic word "imported". "The writer is prepared to admit that there is an indubitable something about a French gown, accompanied by other equally attractive adornments in the matter of foot-gear and head-dress that is exceedingly fascinating. He is not prepared to admit, however, that feminine attire cannot be designed in Canada which would be equal in every respect to creations from any other part of the world. In proof of this contention let him submit at least one instance—one which has to do with a garden party given in London, England, by a certain Duchess whose name is well known on this side of the water and whose functions are famous for the display of modern toggery. At this garden party it was a Canadian-made gown that was gossipingly accepted as being the smartest and the most attractive.

"Had it not been for C. M. Barbeau of Ottawa, Canada would recently have lost the art of making the decorative and gaudy colored sashes which were worn by the early French Canaian habitant. We had reached a point at which there remained only two very old ladies in the black country of Q— who knew this art of weaving. After great persuasion they have been induced to live for a while in a convent, during which time they are to impart their knowledge to the nuns in order that this craftsmanship may be passed on to Canadian posterity. The instance serves to show how, even within our own borders, industries may be lost or won."

CHAPEL NON-SECTARIAN

Tiny Room in Crypt of Parliament May be Used by Anybody.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—The Law Officers of the Crown have ruled that the tiny chapel of St. Stephens, in the crypt of the Houses of Parliament, is not under the control of the Established Church, but may be used by ministers of any denomination, subject to the permission of the Lord Great Chamberlain. Some time back Ian Macpherson, M.P., who is a Presbyterian, desired that his infant son should be baptized in this church, by a Presbyterian Minister of course. Canon Carnigie, who besides being Chaplain of the House of Commons is also Rector of St. Margaret's in the parish of which the Houses of Parliament are situated raised the point of law that the chapel was not available for those not of the Established Church. The chapel in its times has served a lumber-room, as part of Mr. Speaker's official residence, and as a dining room. For nearly a century, however, it has been reverently maintained as a place for occasional ceremonies such as baptisms and even weddings. The infant son of Colonel Grant Morden has just been baptized there by Dr. Russel Wakefield, formerly of Birmingham.

Metal soldiers, rag dolls, and leather-covered balls were common playthings among the children of ancient Greece and Rome.

TAX BILLS DELAYED

LONDON, Eng, Jan. 9.—(Canadian Press).—This is the time of th year when the Income Tax Collector sends out his unwelcome call upon English citizens. Amidst th pile of Christmas or New Yea greetings the sinister buff envelo with the O.H.M.S. mark rears i head. However, it will not be se this year.

It has to be recorded, thoug that the revenue authorities are a tuated by no tender feelings toward the taxpayer. A request has merel come along from the Post Offic that the burden of the Christma and New Year mails should b lightened as much as possible. Th revenue officials, while complyin with the request, are not over pleased at it having been made. They argue that if people do not receiv their demand notes around Christ mas they will spend the money i extra festivity, with the consequenc that payment of the income tax wi involve further dunning by the co lectors when the holiday season over.

ce Markham 5 - 3 - Seniors Win from Paddlers in Overtime

Inside Sporting Dope

By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Our Petes has a chance next week to climb out in front of the group procession when they back into the Parkdale team next Wed. night at Andy Taylor's ice palace, Mutual st., Toronto. The Paddlers is leading right now with two wins, both of which was a double surprise—1 to themselves and 1 to the other guys—and if Mister Bailey's brigade can topple them next week the Petes will be sitting on top of the world just arolling along.

Trimming Parkdale was the best thing our boys did last season. Harry Watson's lads was beaten as soon as Joe Dwyer's red roof showed at the entrance gate, and the further they went the easier it was for the Petes to cash in. However, we're in 1926 now, and our lads had better take Wed.'s game serious, because the Paddlers is evidently going good and they'd rather beat Peterboro at the arena than win the Allen cup.

The Petes won themselves their first O.h.A. victory of the season last night at the local ice box, but it was a narrow squeeze, those Toronto Canoe lads making them go 20 extra minutes to win 3 to 2. The home gang had the game won 2 to 1, but let down a little too soon, and the Canoeists tied her up with less than 5 minutes to go. And then they was 20 hot minutes of extra hockey, with Mister Bailey coming through as the pinch-hitter by scoring the winning goal. The fans is going to present Mister Joe Dwyer with a last year's calendar showing him that Christmas was over a couple of weeks ago, for the first goal the visitors got was as nice a gift as Sandy Claws handed out, Mister Dwyer holding the puck until Mister Johnny McPherson could get in position to bat it, which he did, appreciating the kindness of this action. But Mister Dwyer stopped aplenty after that.

It was a double-barrel victory night for Peterboro, because the juniors, after being slammed here Tues. night by Markham, went right back and beat the villagers at home, staying in the running. No particulars are to hand yet, but we'll take our hats off to the kids for a plucky win.

THE JUNIORS JOLTED.

The new crop of Peterboro juniors run into a bump right off the reel Tues. night when they tackled the Markham lads in the 1st junior game of the season. Hockey is generally supposed to be played on ice, but Tues. night the battle took place on a sheet of slush, and hit and run hockey was all what could be played. The Markhammers run out their hits better than the home kids and had more luck round their own net, and round the Petes' net, too, and with two hefty young plough hands on the defence which scored 3 of their goals, the visitors took the verdict. The Peterboro youngsters looked like they would be a shifty gang on ice, and the whole bunch is young, too, with a couple of junior years ahead of them. They did more fighting in 60 mins. the other night than Jack Dempsey did in 5 years.

Markham showed a lot of weight and more hair than has been seen at Brock st. rink since the old days when ladies' teams used to clash there. It nearly spoiled the evening for Mister E. Wright and other bobbers on the side lines to look at the flowing locks of the visitors and figure out how much good business was going to waste. "Them Markhammers is worth about a dollar ten each on the hoof for a barber what knows his stuff," one of the nights of the scissor and razor warbled to yr. humble servant.

The Tues. game was presided over by Mister Johnny Rowden, an estimable gentleman from Port Hope, which calls itself "The Prettiest Town in Canada." I could never see why til the other night, but if all the other Hopers has as bad eyesight as Mister Rowden I can understand the reason for pinning that title on the burg. Jesse James and the Younger Bros. lived too soon. They could of got about as much money nowadays refereeing without no sheriff's posse butting into the argument.

They has been so many overtime games in the O.h.A. so far this season that some of the birds which pose as referees will be coming along asking for time and a half overtime. All I can say to them is, "Try and get it." Those eggs get their money so easy and want so much of it that it is a treat to see them have to skate around for an extra ½ hour before they can slice the melon. Up to date it has been noticeable that no referee has been too tired to stagger into the secretary's office after a battle to collect his jack. The customers like the extra period stuff, so the players and the officials will just hafta put up with it.

WELCOME TO OUR CITY.

The flinging staff of the Peterboro Central Leaguers was reinforced last week by the arrival of Mister Lefty Lennox, which used to toss em in for Oshawa last summer when Mister Duke Dainty didn't want to. This Mister Lennox—it is suspected he's called Lefty because he throws that way—looked like a smart young pitcher last summer, and he'll get a better chance to show his wears than he had down in Oshawa. The birds in that town thought they was only 3 lefthanders in the league, and that Mister Cairns of Kingston was 1 and Mister Dainty the other 2, so naturally Mister Lennox was some handicapped, but he'll have a good brake here. With him and Mister Ansaldo added to the Petes' rooster for 1926, Mister Shiner Johnston should make them all know they has a fight on their hands.

Mister Lennox, of course, is slated to do the lefthanded twirling for the Petes instead of Mister Frankie Whitehouse, which will soon be getting his transportation to go south with the Baltimore Orioles. Kinda tough, too, having to go down there under the hot sun and pick oranges off the trees while us birds is up here enjoying ourselves carrying out the ashes and shovelling snow, but then Mister Whitehouse is young and he'll be able to bear up under the burden.

They ain't been no word yet as to what Oshawa is going to do about next summer, but they'll likely be in the Central loop again, although if the Dec. arrivals in the Motor City didn't include a grist of ball tossers, Jack Nott's home town is going to be out of luck. Mister Al. Tyson is reported to have joined his battery pal, Mister Dainty, at Kingston, Mister Toots Ward has become a citizen of Kitchener and Mister Lennox is now in our fair city, which leaves Oshawa sort of short-handed to face a tough campaign.

THE OSTERMOOR IS SAFE.

The jolt what was handed daylight saving by the free and independent electors means that they won't be much mid-week baseball in the Central schedule in Peterboro, and the clerks and merchants which woulda welcomed a chance to see a game after business hours will halfta do without that pleasure. The Petes will continue to play their home games Sat. and most of their road fracases on Wed. as before. But nobody'll hafta get up 1 hour earlier, which seems to suit the majority. And, anyway, what's a ball game alongside of another 60 minutes on the old ostermoor?

I mustn't forget, Mister Sporting Editor, before I close this here letter, to congratulate the sporting celebrities which won honours in the municipal set-too, Mister Gordon Matthews, which is the President of the ball club, Mister Charlie Ackerman, which is interested in the hockey club and is a mean golfer, and Mister George MacDonald, which used to be a valuable rugby player and a ball catcher, all made the grade handsome, and Mister Nagle Phelan, former ball President, was only thrown out by inches at 1st base. Sporting folks is proud of you, boys.

Now, as I'm running out of space—I run out of ideas 2 pages back—I wind this weekly com. up by signing myself,

Sportfully yrs.,

A. WISE CRACKER.

P.S.—I forgot to mention, Mister Sporting Editor, that a bird on a outside paper gives us a mean crack by asking what is all the fuss about Sun. bathing, and if we don't bathe here any other day. I just want to tell him we know what Sat. night's for as well as anybody that reads his paper, if any.—A.W.C.

YOUNG PETES REVERSE SCORE DEFEATING MARKHAM JUNIORS 5 TO 3 IN A FAST HOCKEY GAME

Won From Heavy Markham Team Right in York County Village.

WERE BETTER TEAM.

Visitors' Weight Was Unavailing Against Speed of Local Kids.

The Young Petes took a party of thirteen into Markham on Friday night, after losing at home, and beat Markham's team of young huskies 5 to 3, and made them like it. The visitors had two-thirds of the play and the only time the Markham kids looked to be in the same class was when they almost tied up the game in the last period.

With keen ice, the Petes were able to show their proper speed and the only members of the Markham team who were able to keep up at all were Underwood and Stephenson, the two burly defence men who were the stars of the game here, and when they did get through, Hall, in goal, managed to get in front of all their shots.

The lighter Petes back-checked like fiends, and intercepted many Markham passes, while their own combination was good. Cowie, the Markham goalkeeper, was also good on the close shots, and the Petes started firing at him from outside the defence, speedily exposing his weakness. His defence men were more hindrance than help to him on these shots, blocking his view, and on one occasion deflecting the puck into the net, whereas in Peterborough they stopped more long shots than did the goalkeeper.

Carl Woods and "Bouncer" Hall shared the honors for the Petes, although every member of the team earned brackets. Woods was by far the fastest man on the ice and when he broke away the Markham forwards were unable to stop him. He packed a wicked drive which rocked the goalkeeper more than once, and when he wished, waltzed around the opposing defence with ease. Hall, in goal, saved the day several times, including once in the second period, when the Petes were two men short. Ted LeBarr, Woods' defence partner, played a great game, stopping the opposing attackers successfully.

Kennealey was the pivot of the forward line, and led many combination rushes through the Markham defence. He also checked back well. Chambers, with two goals, was the ace of the forwards, but Thirnbeck, with one, and Calladine and Cripps, all helped give Cowie and Lunan a busy session. They followed up well on attacks, and narrowly missed several scores on rebounds.

Crosby was the mainman for the losers. He had little success at carrying the puck down, but when given a pass near the goal made the most of his opportunity. He scored all three goals. Underwood and Stephenson were good, but were watched too closely to be effective. M. Clendenning played a good game but threw out his knee several times and had to retire for repairs. His brother provided the pass for one goal, while Mason and Reesor filled holes in the lineup and little more. Mason loafed almost as much as at Peterbourgh, but Referee Dalt Lowry failed to call him for it.

Peterboro—Goal, Hall; defence, Woods and LeBarr; centre, Kennealey; wings, Cripps and Chambers; subs., Thirnbeck and Calladine; sub. goal, Mein.

Markham—Goal, Cowie and Lunan; defence, Underwood and Stephenson; centre, Mason; wings, M. Clendenning and Crosby; subs. E. Clendenning and Reesor.

Referee — Dalton Lowry of Toronto.

First Period.

The Petes pressed right from the start, and the Markham goal was in danger in the first minute. The scoring opened after five minutes of fast play when LeBarr scored on a shot from the blue line near the boards. At the time Stephenson, the Markham defence man, was off for tripping. It took the home team four minutes to get that one back, Crosby, the Markham shooting ace, scoring on a shot from the side which caught the corner of the net. Play continued in the Markham territory for most of the period, and Thirnbeck put the Petes finally in the lead when he scooped one in from the side. Kennealey was serving a penalty at the time, and the Petes were making good their defence while short by maintaining a heavy attack.

Second Period.

Hall was the hero of the second period. Underwood and Stephenson, the Markham defence men, had hit their stride, and, taking advantage of a penalty, came right in on top of the Peterboro goalie to shoot at point blank range, but the stocky custodian stopped them, making full use of stick, hands, pads and body for the work. Woods signalized his return to the fray by a fine rush, which ended in a score on a long shot. Shortly after Woods was penalized, this time for charging the Markham goalkeeper, and a number of the fans encroached on the ice for the purpose of punishing the offence. Cowie, the Markham keeper, had been having an off night anyhow, and having hurt himself when knocked down, had to retire at the end of the period Before he left, though, Chambers took a pass out from the corner and scored from a good distance out. This was the period with the most offences, each team serving three penalties.

Third Period.

Things were hot in the final period. Almost from the face-off Crosby scored on a pass out from the corner on a rush by E. Clendenning. Three minutes later Underwood carried down and passed to Crosby, who again provided the necessary shot. The home team, only one goal down, continued to press, and kept their supporters in an uproar. The Petes, in return, maintained a strong offensive, having a good share of the play, and scored the final goal when one of the Markham defence men tried to stop a long shot from Chambers, and succeeded only in deflecting it into the goal, giving his teammate no chance to save. During this last period Lunan had been playing goal in place of Cowie, and he showed more than the regular goalkeeper. LeBarr received the only penalty of the period.

"13" Jinx Beaten on Friday But Got in Work Saturday

Thirteen people in one party, travelling to play hockey on Friday night, would receive little financial backing from the superstitious, but the only bad luck the young Petes had on their trip to Markham came at 12.30 a.m. Saturday morning, beating the Friday jinx at least. At that early hour of the morning the team and officials stood on the platform of the C.P.R. station at Locust Hill and watched the flyer, which they had been assured would stop to pick them up, speed by without even a toot of the whistle to wish them well. The mixed train, which leaves Toronto every night at about 12.30 was headed off by the Locust Hill agent up the line and it stopped at Locust Hill. After making a side trip up to Lindsay the train pulled into Peterborough at 7.15 this morning and a tired bunch of boys climbed out. A wag was heard to make the unkind remark that the third car from the back contained calves and the last car contained fish.

MARMORA WON OPENING GAME

Defeated Tweed 4-3 in Fast Hastings League Struggle.

GOALKEEPERS GOOD.

MORMORA, Jan. 9—The meeting of the Tweed and Marmora hockey teams on the latter's rink on Friday evening excited widespread interest due to its being the first encounter for each in the league. Attendance was most gratifying to the local management in that it constituted a record for several seasons. The ice was in excellent shape permitting play of a sparkling type considering the raw condition of the rivals. The forwards of both teams were brilliant but opinion was unanimous that both defences need much improvement. For Tweed R. Geraldi was most prominent, whilst Bond for the homesters was the evening's star performer. The game throughout was clean and evenly contested.

The first goal came to Marmora in the opening period from Bond on a pass from McWilliams. This same player gave his team a further lead with a long shot from centre. Tweed undaunted replied through Dale on a pass from Houston. No further scoring marked this period.

Early in the second period Tweed drew level through A. Geraldi scoring. Marmora again took the lead, R. Neal netting from right wing. The second period closed with the score 3-2 in the homester's favor.

Play in the third period was a little more enlivening without developing into roughness. Bond excelled himself in adding the fourth goal for his side with a beautiful shot from centre. R. Geraldi reduced Marmora's lead with what proved to be the final of the game. Marmora thus emerged victorious by four goals to three.

Both goal keepers were kept on the alert and exhibited good form, C. Neal in the Marmora goal playing his first senior game. This, the second game of the new league to be played enforces the conclusion arrived at, after Monday's tussle at Stirling that stern will be the fight ere the League champions are declared. Following are the line-ups of the teams.

FOUR MEET DEATH FROM BOOZE ORGY

Fifth Wandering Blinded in the Woods.

HANCOCK, N.Y., Jan. 9.—Four men are known to be dead, a fifth, blinded and crazed, if he has not already died, is wandering about in the woods near the timber chopping camp of the Thomas Kerry Chemical Company, at Kerryville, eight miles from this village, where state troopers, deputies, sheriff and other officials are investigating the continuation of a New Year's bootleg drinking orgy that ended Wednesday in tragedy.

Acute alcoholism is the reason the coroner ascribed for the following deaths: John Pond, 30; Steve Kurloa, 41; Louis Millinski, 35; Millie Kilonski, 42, all woodcutters and miners. Nico a Osterhopski, 38, is missing.

The men were of a party of six striking miners, who secured employment at the Kerryville camp, going there from near Scranton, Pa., a short time after the anthracite strike began.

It was Adolph Burzinski, of the camp group, and he had been a party to the bootleg drinking carnival of death, who told of the agony of his five companions when he reeled into the offices of the Kerry Chemical Company here late Wednesday afternoon. Men at the wood-cutting camp were sick, he said. He wanted a doctor.

Temporarily blinded and with his feet paralyzed, Burzinski lies on a cot in the camp shack at Kerryville. He collapsed after his call for help, but physicians believe he will recover.

SOCCER 'SUBS' IN AMERICAN GAME

Professional League Propose To Make Their Own Rule.

WON'T CHANGE GAME.

It has frequently been charged that football associations in Canada and the United States are not independent enough, and that they do not show enough originality in the framing of rules to suit conditions on this side of the water. In the past they have usually waited on action being taken by the older organizations in Europe. There is one notable exception, however, and that applies to home-and-home games in the principal cup final competitions. This procedure is not followed in the Old Country, but was adopted in Canada as a matter of expediency and of finance.

One of the most important matters of all—the allowing of substitutes for injured players—has been sidetracked time after time. Only one or two enthusiasts dared to bring the matter up at the council table, but just as often the proposition was snowed under, with very little comment. "They don't do it in the Old Country," was the principal objection.

Now all this is to be changed, if the present plans of the American Professional League materialize. The members of this organization have decided to make their own rules, and to be no longer dependent on the United States F. A. in this regard. The clubs claim that they should not have to wait on "foreign" associations to do the legislating, having in mind the fact that conditions in the United States and Europe are entirely different. One of the suggested new rules is the introduction of substitutes. In this connection, Ernest J. Viberg, a prominent soccer man in the United States, and who apparently speaks on behalf of the A.S.L. clubs writes:

"This decision is a step forward in modernizing the game. It has often been pointed out that no game will make a success here until it becomes pleasing to the American fans. Practically every nation in the world plays soccer in a different manner, and therefore the code should be regulated accordingly. This does not mean that the game should be made essentially different, as soccer is soccer wherever one goes.

"We believe that the United States F.A. should limit itself to the direct control of amateur soccer and leave the professionals to themselves, with associated membership. We have repeatedly pointed out that it is ridiculous for outsiders to make rules for clubs that have invested heavily in the game. As it is to-day, for instance, all contracts made between clubs and players must be filed with the association and no transfers can take place without the consent of the player and the U.S.F.A.

"Changes in the rules of the game are also prohibited by the international code. While in Europe they may feel it is right for one team to play with nine or ten men against eleven, American sportsmanship demands substitutes. We have suggested this change, but it has never met with serious approval, and therefore our clubs have been forced to play under the old regulation. Now the American Soccer League members intend to make any rule changes they think will benefit soccer in this country, and we are glad they have finally taken this step."

More Players For States.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8 — The Philadelphia club, of the United States Soccer League, has signed two new players in Roy Faulknor and Arthur Halliwell, of Toronto. Faulknor is to report next week, while Halliwell will only join the team when needed for the games, and then return home.

Both Faulknor and Halliwell played for A. R. Clarkes, in the Toronto and District League last year, the former at outside right and the latter in goal. Halliwell has always been rated one of the best goalkeepers in Canada. Both players have had Old Country experience. Halliwell played for part of a season with Dunfermline, in the Second Division of the Scottish League, while Faulknor played for Heart of Midlothian, in the First Division.

JAPAN WANTS NEW FISHING AGREEMENT

Experts Say the Present Division of Sealing Grounds is Unfair.

TOKIO, Jan. 9. — (Canadian Press). — The Foreign Office has sent a note to Great Britain, the United States and Russia, expressing Japan's desire to formulate a new agreement regarding the seal fishing territory, the present pact dealing with this question expiring in December. It is understood that experts claim that the present division of the sealing grounds is unfair to Japan.

DEMPSEY KNOWS HE'S UNPOPULAR; GAVE INTERVIEW

Frank Admission to Paris Reporter—Never Had Favor of Public.

AND WONDERS WHY

Says His Tastes Are Simple —Has Fought Hard.

Jack Dempsey cannot understand why most of the boxing followers in the United States want to see him beaten. He realizes he is unpopular, says The Detroit News.

While Dempsey has said little about the matter to American newspapermen he did speak frankly on the subject to a Paris newspaper correspondent. The interview was printed in France and we received a translation of it a few days ago.

Dempsey says: "I have never had the favor of the people of the United States. I may say that ever since I became world champion most of the people in this country hoped to see me defeated whenever I entered the ring. Why this lack of popularity I don't know.

"The day I fought the Frenchman, Georges Carpentier, 90 per cent of the spectators wanted to see the foreigner win. If I shall fight the negro, Harry Wills, my countrymen will hope to see my rival win despite their horror of negroes.

"I don't have to search into feelings I don't understand nor share. I don't think that ever my behavior as a professional boxer has aroused any criticism. I always have battled valiantly and loyally.

"Bill Brennan put me into a dangerous position. Any other man would have been knocked out by the blow on the jaw which I got from Carpentier in the second round of our bout. The Argentinian, Firpo, made me fall out of the ring in our match and he was never more near to success. But each time, almost unconsciously, I found in myself the strength to defend myself and turn into victory what seemed a certain defeat.

"First of all, the reason is that I have jaws like iron, which is a great physical quality; and secondly, I have the 'fighting spirit,' without which nobody can become a real champion, however great his other qualities happen to be.

"Training may make a man more perfect; the work may develop his virtuosity and endurance; but the fighting spirit can't be acquired; it's innate. Why shouldn't I profit from it?"

In these paragraphs we believe that the combined assistance of reporter and translator has helped Dempsey with his rhetoric. Such words as "virtuosity" and "innate" are assuredly beyond the vocabulary of him who was an ordinary tramp, bum, hobo, wob and what not before it was discovered that he could swing into a fortune with a pile-driving right fist. The thought is undoubtedly Dempsey's; the dressing belongs to the reporter and translator.

In the same high flow of rhetoric the present holder of the world championship is made to speak his mind on what he really is and what people think he is. He attempts, through the columns of a French newspaper to correct what he apparently regards as an international impression. According to the French reporter he said:

"People like to imagine me a rajah with rings on every finger rings around the ankles and rings on every toe, passing my life in fetes and pleasures.

"These people don't know me; there is no simpler, calmer creature than I and nobody likes festivals, banquets and luxury less than I do."

He next touches on the future. Most boxing champions have no thought of the future. To them the championship reign is for a life span. Not so with Dempsey. He realizes what lies ahead. Let him be credited for these thoughts:

"I have no illusion about the future. The day when I am whipped means the end. After that no manager will call for my talents. On the day I lose it will not matter to me whether I am rich or poor. If I don't work for myself for a happy old age, nobody else will help me. So I work for the future and make my demands on promoters accordingly."

Dempsey then answers the criticisms often made against him that his demands are exorbitant.

"I ask high fees. That's what the newspapers often reproach me for. Why should I act otherwise? I have always seen to it that each match netted me more money than the preceding one. Was I wrong, since each time the tickets also cost more? Believe me, there is not a single boxer in the world that can dictate the height of his fees. The only one that can dictate is the public and public opinion. The promoter knows when he matches a certain boxer the public will come to see him. The day when that boxer is matches another boxer the public will be indifferent to his appearance.

"Neither the promoter nor the boxer decide upon the reward for a match, I repeat that. The only judge is the spectator. As long as a boxer interests him he will want to see him. The daywhen that boxer is defeated people cease to bother about him. That is why the date of failure and defeat must be postponed as long as possible in the life of a champion boxer.

"When Tommy Burns demanded 6,000 pounds sterling from the promoter, McIntosh, for his match with Jack Johnson in Sydney, Australia, everybody thought he was mad. That was the record price. McIntosh figured things out rapidly and accepted Burns' proposition. And McIntosh wasn't an amateur promoter of boxing; he was a business man. If McIntosh had thought that the match of two wildcats would attract as many spectators as the Burns-Johnson match I'd guarantee you that he would have paid the same price to the two wildcats.

"At the time when I started I boxed for the price of a single meal because, being unknown, the people didn't pay much to see me. My pay was increased in the same measure as I became known. Therefore, is there any reason why I should not have asked each time somewhat more for a match than the last time The managers accepted because they knew they would not lose. All made big profits with me. Why, then, shouldn't I have my profit

"People often tell me: 'Before you became chapmion $100,000 was the top price for a boxer, and now you have made it $300,000 and $40",000.' I admit that's true.

"But let's examine the facts more closely. I got $55,000 for the match with Billy Miske and he got $25,000. Floyd Fitzsimmons, the promoter, made a lot of money out of the match.

"Tex Rickard gave me $300,000 to fight Carpentier, but Carpentier got $200,000. There were 74,958 spectators at this match. They paid a total of $1,626,580. The promoter surely could not be pitied for his end of the gate receipts.

"I was promised $310,000 for my fight with Tom Gibbons. That was bad business because of political entanglements. But neither Gibbons nor I was responsible for that.

"I pulled down the record fee of my entire career for fighting Firpo, and Firpo got $125,000. After paying all expenses Tex Rickard discovered that he had a net profit of something like $250,000. Could he complain. And I assure you that none of the 80,000 spectators that witnessed the fight had any complaint to offer.

"If I have got more than other boxers, nobody can complain about that. Why shouldn't I have my profits, too? I work for a living, and for my sort of work I demand maximum pay."

In all of which the Dempsey side of the argument appears to have considerable in its favor.

APPROVAL GIVEN NEW RADIO BILL

U. S. Committee Endorses Proposed Control Measure.

TO AVOID CHAOS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (Canadian Press).—The White bill to provide for control of the radio industry was endorsed yesterday before the House Merchant Marine Committee by Secretary Hoover and other members of the Commerce Department, officers of the navy and coastguard and representatives of radio and telephone organizations.

The bill would give the Secretary of Commerce administrative charge of radio and would establish a commission of nine to pass on applications for licenses and perform other similar functions.

Asserting that Government control was necessary to prevent chaos in the air, Secretary Hoover testified that the measure was the result of two years' study and seemed to meet, as nearly as possible, the problem of regulating the air. He contended that no one person was "wise enough" to decide which city, company or individual should have the right to a certain wave length in a region. With the commission recommending or disapproving petitions, he pointed, disappointed applicants would have the right of appeal to the courts.

Solicitor Davis of the Commerce Department, in response to questions having to do with the provisions in the bill aganst monopoly, testified that there could be no "vested interests" in broadcasting and that there was no danger of monopoly.

AMATEUR LOGS SEVEN COUNTRIES

Nine Stations Recorded in One Night by Station 2GY.

An unusual record was established by Amateur Radio Station 2GY recently, when it received in the space of four hours, radio messages from Belgian 4YZ, Cuban 2OT, Mexican 9A, French 8WAG, British 2XV and 5GO, New Zealand 1AX and Australian 3AD and 2YI. Although none of these individually constitutes an outstanding record in amateur circles, successful long distance reception from so many different directions is a most unusual feat. Station 2GY operated jointly by the Radio Broadcast Laboratories and the National Carbon Company, is conducting experimental work in short wave transmission and reception. These experiments are being undertaken to analyze the peculiarities of short wave communication and to develop small and inexpensive transmitters and receivers for the use of broadcast enthusiasts who have recently been taking up the hobby of short wave communication in great numbers.

SPECIAL CUSTOMS INSPECTORS TO PREVENT IRREGULARITIES

Preventive Office Reorganized and Will be Enlarged, New Minister Says.

TO STOP LEAKS

OTTAWA, Jan. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Special inspections will be made of the Customs services in all the large ports of the Dominion of Canada. This was announced yesterday by Hon. George H. Boivin, Minister of Customs and Excise.

Mr. Boivin was asked if there were any developments in connection with the enquiry which is being made into the administration of the Customs preventive office at Montreal. He replied that the investigation was being continued, but that no public announcement could be made unti the enquiry was complete.

"The preventive office at Montreal is being completely reorganized and the service is being continued by several experienced officers," Mr. Boivin said. "Instructions have also been given that special inspections be made in all of the large ports of the Dominion, and the investigation of the other branches of the service at Montreal will be undertaken immediately by the chief inspector of the department, Mr. E. S. Busby, with the assistance of Inspector Clerk, Assistant Inspector Cypihot and a staff of competent officials."

To Detect Irregularities.

Mr. Boivin stated that the special inspections would be made not only for the purpose of detetting and correcting any irregularities in the transactions at the different ports, but the inspectors would also suggest any changes that could be made in the present methods of procedure "to facilitate the performance of the work and to give the public the most courteous and efficient service consistent with the proper protection of Customs and Excise revenue."

The inspectors would also be given instructions to examine very carefully the work of the appraising divisions and to make sure that all imported goods were being subjected to proper examination and appraisal. They would also be directed to suggest any improvements that could be made in the handling of Customs postal parcels by the use of such modern office appliances as may speed up the work and give more efficient service.

Most Employees Loyal.

The Minister said that he had found the great majority of the employees of the Department of Customs and Excise "loyal honest and efficient."

"Exceptional cases of dereliction of duty will be severely dealt with" he said. "This policy has the approval of the entire service, whose representatives have always insisted that they neither asked for nor expected mercy for any person found guilty of wilful negligence or dishonesty in the performance of his duties."

Experts Trying To Learn When a Man Is Drunk

LONDON, January 9. — Canadian Press. — The establishment of a permanent scientific test for drunkenness, has been brought a step nearer, by the decision of the British Medical Association to investigate the question in the most scientific manner.

It is announced that a committee of medical experts, in cooperation with judicial experts, will try to find an answer to a question which has been puzzling the police courts for years—when is a man drunk? The committee will have eighteen members, representing the Medical Association, the metropolitan police and stipendiary magistrates.

CHAIRMEN MET TO HEAR REPORT OF CHURCH FUND

Seventy Per Cent. of Amount Allocated is Assured—Canvass Not Completed.

REPORTS GOOD.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 9.—A meeting of the chairman of the groups into which Cobourg Presbytery was divided in connection with raising its share of the Maintenance and Extension fund was held in the United Church, Port Hope, last Friday Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, of Brighton, being in the chair, and Rev. F. H. Howard, Millbrook secretary.

The meeting was called to consider results obtained in its Presbytery from the individual circuits. Each charge was given an allotment in connection with the four million dollar fund which the United church aimed at raising to carry on its work at home and abroad this year, the 'drive' being on last November, 22 to 29 inclusive.

The committee meeting at Port Hope found that so far as Cobourg Presbytery is concerned about seventy per cent. of the amount allocated is in sight, with a reasonable hope that the total obligation will yet be reached. Owing to loca circumstance some circuits have deferred making the canvass until now, but will conduct it this month and probably have it complete by January 24.

A number of individual churches have gone "over the top", St. Andrew's, Oshawa (formerly Presbyterian) being the most notable example, it was asked to raise $5,000 and reports a total of $10,500. All the charges in Oshawa have overreached their objective, as have also Port Hope Colborne, and Bowmanville. Of the smaller charges Dunbarton, near Pickering, deserves special mention having a surplus of $225 over the amount assigned.

General reports are good from the entire Bay of Quinte Conference, and this is true also of the whole of Canada

Owing to the fact that a certain percentage of the givings comes through the weekly offering envelopes, complete totals will not be available until the year ends next March. That there will be some congestion in the final appeal for payments is inevitable since the church financial year ends in March rather than April as formerly, and the Woman's Missionary Society, mission circles and bands, must take up their annual thank-offerings at that time as well.

Another year such conditions may be avoided as there are many details in connection with the Union which will be definitely arranged when sufficient time is allowed for their adjustment.

Those present on Friday were: Rev. F. Maxwell, Oshawa; Rev. W. Higgs Port Perry; Rev. S. C. Moore, Colborne; Rev. J. U. Robbins, Bowmanville; Rev. J. W. Baird, Port Hope; Rev. Wesley Elliott, of Campbellford, was the only absent member, unavoidably so, owing to a funeral on his charge where his services as pastor were required.

Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, associate secretary of missions, Toronto was also present.

STATE MAY ACQUIRE OWN MINING RIGHTS

Recommendations of Mine Commission Would Favour Ownership.

LONDON, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press) — From ministerial sources the Daily Mail learns that members of the coal commission now sitting to inquire into the coal industry, are virtually unanimous in favor of the state acquiring ownership of mining rights in Great Britain.

A recommendation by the Commission in favor of state ownership would be warmly welcomed in Labor quarters which long have demanded the national ownership of mines.

AT THE CAPITOL

PICTURE MEIGHAN MADE IN IRELAND HERE MONDAY

"Irish Luck," the picture Tom Meighan and a company of Paramount players went to Ireland to make, comes to the Capitol Theatre for a run of 3 days on Monday next. The story, directed for the screen by Victor Heerman, who made "Old Home Week," is an adaption by Tom Geraghty of Norman's Venner's Saturday Evening Post serial, "An Imperfect Imposter." Lois Wilson is featured at the head of the cast playing in support of the star.

In the picture, Tom, as Tom Donahue, New York traffic policeman, wins a newspaper popularity contest and a trip to Europe. Before sailing, the boys from his precinct give Tom a beefsteak dinner to celebrate the victory and when the festivities are at their height Donahue tells the boys that he has decided not to go to London, Paris and Rome. Instead of the fancy European trip he wants to go back to the place where his folks came from—Ireland. This is a signal for much cheering and suggestions that he kiss the Blarney Stone for the rest of them and bring back an armfull of shamrocks from the old sod.

Tom had never been abroad before. Life on shipboard proves new and strange. Almost the first day out on the huge Leviathan he meets with unique adventure when he is mistaken for Lord Fitzhugh, a young Irish nobleman.

AT THE REGENT

YES, JONES CAN ACT AS WELL AS RIDE; PROVES IT IN "LAZY-BONES"

Star Steps Out of Western Characters and Scores Triumph in Screen Version of Owen Davis' Play.

Has Great Cast To Support Him.

Charles (Buck) Jones puts up his guns to become the beloved hero of another sort in the William Fox production of "Lazybones," a picture which, according to advance reports, is destined to be one of the biggest successes of the year, and which will open at the Regent theatre, beginning Monday.

Into this remarkably human story of a typical small town are woven thrills and laughter, romance and pathos in such a way as to hold the interest of the audience from beginning to end.

You'll meet every character you've ever seen during the course of the picture, from the self-assuranced Elmer Ballister, the richest man in town, whose jokes, though old, are always funny and whose word is law to the genial, easy-going "Lazybones" who has never been known to work in his life. Every character will remind you of some one in a little village through which you have traveled, so typical are they.

BARACA NOTES.

Encouragement is the word that applies to the Baraca movement. Growing attendance, evident interest, bordering on enthusiasm, and unanimity of purpose, are real signs of progress. The leader and officers hope that all young men 19 to 90 years of age will remember that there is a welcome at the Sunday morning gathering at 11 o'clock, at the Murray street Baptist church. Mutual improvement by open discussion of live topics is the object.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

The theme of "endless torments" is extremely disgustive, and we would case making a reiteration of this diabolical, God-dishonoring subject were it not for the consciousness, that many have the horrid idea born in them, and further deeply rooted into their very being, by early false teaching. Those who gloat over the awful doctrine, and roll it as a sweet morsel under their tongue, are not only blind to the will and purpose of God, but must surely be controlled to a more or less extent by Satan. The flippant, indifferent, careless way they talk and act in regard to it, makes it more apparent that this is the case. Then they have the audacity to say, in their ignorance, that this atrocious inhuman dogma is taught in the Bible. There is only one statement in the Bible to the effect that man is immortal (cannot die). The unreasonable and absurd doctrine of "endless torment" rests wholly on that proposition, that man is immortal. Preachers of "endless torment" might say that one statement out of the Bible is sufficient. Not too fast —that one statement recorded in the Bible, Gen. 3, 4, was made by Satan in contradiction of Jehovah. Jesus said Satan was a liar. This surely is a sandy foundation to build on.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

King Edward Meeting Elects Officers For Year—A Presentation.

The January meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association was held on Thursday evening, January 7, in the Kindergarten room of the school.

The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. J. J. Pollock, in the chair. The regular routine business was dealt with. It was decided that a rummage sale should be held in the very near future, further notice being given later. It was agreed upon that the regular February meeting of the Association, to be held on the second Friday of the month, should take the form of an open meeting and social evening. It is hoped that the parents will avail themselves of this opportunity to meet the teachers and to see the inside of the school.

After the various reports had been given, the president, Mrs. Pollock, who is retiring from this office, thanked the association for the splendid co-operation she had enjoyed during the past three years.

The annual election of officers for the coming year was held, with Miss L. Elliott in charge of the meeting. The following are the officers for 1926:

Mrs. J. J. Pollock,

Peterborough.

Dear President. — We, the members of the King Edward Home and School Association, take this opportunity on the completion of your third year as member, of expressing to you our appreciation of your faithful and efficient services as president.

We realize that since you consented to be our president you have done your utmost to make our association a success and have always shown a kindly, considerate spirit toward each and all of us, and you have succeeded in a splendid way in making our meetings both profitable and interesting. As a further and tangible expression of regard and esteem we ask you to accept these candlesticks.

Signed on behalf of The King Edward Home and School Association.—Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Finnie, Mrs. Andrews.

Although Mrs. Pollock was taken completely by surprise, she expressed in a few words her very sincere thanks.

A delightful social half hour followed, and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Fractional Advances On Mine Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—The general tone of the market was strong during the closing session of the week of the Standard Mining Exchange, but changes were not all upward. Laval (Quebec), on its first appearance, was heavily dealt in, and advanced 2 1-2 points at 42 1-2. Argonaut and Consolidated West Dome Lake again absorbed a large proportion of the trading and each closed fractionally higher. Kirkland Lake gained 1 1-2 at 90, and Teck Hughes 1 at 297. Castle Trethewey was the strong spot in silvers, gaining 4 at 154, Lakeside Leaseline, most heavily dealt in silver stock, was sold up 2 1-8 at 5 1-4.

Toronto Stock Trading Was Confined To Leading Issues

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—Led by Brazilian and Consolidated Smelters, which gave impressive displays of strength and activity, prices took an upward trend on the Toronto Stock Exchange during the closing session of the week. A turnover of about 1,300 shares was recorded in each of the leaders.

Brazilian climbed to 82 3-4 and closed at high, a gain of 1 3-4 points, and Consolidated Smelters, with advantage of an overnight gain of 2 points at the opening of 199 1-2 was sold up to 192 1-4 and closed at 192, representing a gain of 4 1-2 points. Except in unlisted stocks, no great demand was shown for other issues than the leaders. Canadian Oil was another strong spot, advancing 1 1-2 at 63. Bell Telephone and Winnipeg also strengthened. Twin City eased fractionally as did Atlantic Sugar. Canadian General Electric Preferred sold up a point. Argonaut and Noranda were unlisted leaders, and both sold substantially higher.

Corn Maintains High Place While Wheat Recedes More

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (Canadian Press).—Corn scored fresh gains in price today, whereas wheat averaged lower. A new outstanding factor as to corn was the word that the likelihood of Government measures to help the disposal of surplus grain had been much increased by an official conference, at Washington. The general buying of future deliveries in the corn market resulted and prices ruled higher from the start. Corn opening quotations 1-4 to 1c up, May 89 1-4 to 89 3-8, and July 90 3-4 to 91 cents, were followed by a slight further advance, with but little subsequent reaction.

Profit-taking sales depressed wheat. After opening at 3-8c decline to 3-8c gain, new style, May 178 3-4 to 179, and July 153 1-2 to 153 7-8 the wheat market made some additional upturns, but then receded all around to well below yesterday's finish, May dropping to 176 7-8.

Oats were steadied by corn strength. Starting unchanged to 1-8c higher, May 46c, oats held near to the initial figures.

Provisions were responsive to a rally in hog values.

UNITED CHURCH WEEK OF PRAYER

The concluding service of the series which have been held in Trinity church under the auspices of the United Churches in Peterboro, was held last night. Rev. J. D. Richardson had charge of the service, and the sermon was preached by Rev. J. W. Gordon, who gave a most thought-provoking and challenging message. The speaker based his message on Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, ch. 1, verses 11 and 22.

What was the purpose of God's will? Paul tells us that we should be His sons, blameless, redeemed, purchased possessions to the praise of His glory. This is of supreme importance, yet all men do not believe this; the natural man thinks this foolishness; this is so because of the lack of spiritual conception in his personality. Everything has a religious significance through the purposes of God's will, yet the fact remains that all do not see this. Everything to be of real value must be related to and judged by God's purpose. All leadership must ultimately come from the sons of God, because only God's sons know what God wants done. This is seen in times of crisis, sorrow, misfortune, etc., that people turn to one of the sons of God for direction and help. All Christians are not wise; some may be foolish, fanatical and cruel as history plainly reveals. Laws that will fit into God's purpose must be made by the Sons of God; all problems, such as housing, taxes, tariffs, etc., if ever these are settled, right, they will be settled by those who work out the purposes of His will.

What of Jesus and the future? All things are to be put under his feet; the things that seem impossible of adequate solution will be done because men follow Him, and put all things under His feet. What is there for the Sons of God to do? International relationships! Paul says that Christians ought not to go to law — what then of nations; the training for war and military preparation prevent men from becoming Sons of God. Commercial treaties, racial relationships, the domination of the white races; economic conditions, some have wealth others have none, all these as they are worked out in social relationships are harmful to the working out of God's purpose. If our present levels of culture, social relationships, are going to continue, we must put all things under his feet. What of the creeds? These often breed suspicion, jealousy; these separate and keep us truly apart rather than bring us together as the Sons of God. The very divisions in our churches had evil consequences, e.g., the liquor traffic; they believe we will not stick together and consequently they have but little fear of our powers. We must agree on some central theme, and what better than —"We are the sons of God, redeemed."

Death doesnt matter to the Sons of God. Life is everything and life will be continued fuller and richer after death. Jesus, the sons of God, see Him and are satisfied, desire to fit in to His purpose and work out in life the principles found until the Kingdoms of this world shall become the Kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ and He shall rule for ever and ever.

British Capitalists Falling Over One Another to Lend to Germans.

LONDON, January 9. — Canadian Press. — Partly as a consequence of the depression in trade and industry, which makes difficult the employment of money in trade, there are signs in the London market since the removal of the embargo on colonial and foreign loans of almost limitless capital waiting for investment.

As far as Germany is concerned all war feeling has disappeared and British capitalists are falling over one another in their haste to lend to the Germans.

GUS. L. HAY SUCCUMBS TO-DAY TO DISEASE THAT ATTACKED HIM SUDDENLY IN DECEMBER

Had Risen To Highest Position in Highest Order in Canada.

TRAGIC MESSAGE.

Would Have To-morrow Officiated at Annual Shrine Ceremonial in Toronto.

Gustavus L. Hay, stricken on December 11 by heart disease succumbed at 9 o'clock this morning after a gallant struggle. He was Secretary-Treasurer of The Examiner, Ltd.; Illustrious Potentate of Rameses Temple A.A.O.N.M.S.; and an ex-Alderman of the City Council.

His death is particularly tragic, coming as it does on the eve of the Shrine Ceremonial at which he would have completed a year of splendid service at the head of the most exclusive and far-reaching society in Canada. A passage from his message to the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, already printed and distributed, takes on a significant peculiar significancec in view of his sudden demise.

The message he sent to his companion Shriners was this:

"By the grace of Allah, the tenure of power in my illustrious office is brief and fleeting. I recognize that the end of my reign is near. . . ."

* * *

And to-day a prince among men is mourned by those who knew him for his high personal qualities and sincere public works. Not for him is the pilgrimage in the splendor of oriental trappings; the ceremonial; the plaudits of hundreds who admired him. His earthly pilgrimage is finished; he has crossed the hot sands of the desert; he served faithfully and well.

* * *

"Gus" Hay came to Peterborough when but a child, and lived and worked here, zestfully and efficiently until on his return from a business trip to Toronto a month ago, sickness laid him low. Even then, his dynamic enthusiasm compelled him to continue his work, and he insisted upon carrying on the duties of his position from his bed. All that could be done to restore his health was done. To-day morning, still refusing to surrender, he was overcome, and passed away.

For the last eight years Secretary-Treasurer of the Peterborough Examiner Limited, Mr. Hay's death leaves a gap in the organization that will be hard to fill, and there is a vacancy, to, in the hearts of his business associates that no one else will ever fill. In Masonic Circles his Mother Lodge was Corinthian 101, and he was also a member of Corinthian Chapter 36, and Moore Preceptory 13. He was a charter member of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Hay entered the law office of Stratton and Hall at the age of 17, and remained with R. R. Hall, K.C., until taking up the position of secretary-treasurer of the Stanley Piano Co.

* * *

In Church circles, Mr. Hay was a faithful and energetic worker, a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church.

* * *

There are left to mourn his loss, besides his wife, two sons, Beresford E., of Cleveland, Ohio, and Douglas, of Antigonish; his mother, Mrs. R. M. Hay, of Saskatoon, and a sister, Mrs. C. J. Snyder.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

PASSED AWAY TO-DAY.

GUSTAVUS L. HAY,
Secretary-Treasurer of The Examiner and Illustrious Potentate of Rameses Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S., who died this morning.

TUSCANS WATCH LAVA APPROACH

CAMP OUTDOORS.

ROME, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press)—Mount Vesuvius, which has been in a state of activity for several days, is continuing its magnificent and not altogether reassuring, displays of fireworks, while the Tuscan countryside, in the northern part of Italy, has again been visited by a short trmbling of the subsoil. As usual, the disturbance sent the population scurrying into the open spaces, but there was no loss of life and only slight damage.

Because of the Tuscany quake, which was felt most at Piancas and Tagnaio, hundreds of families insist on camping outdoors despite the cold weather.

The constant belching rom Vesuvius of green and yellow smoke, and explosive particles and jets of chemical gases, is providing an exciting spectacle for tourists. It is not amusing the residents of Torre Annunciata, who notice that one of the several flaming lava streams is coming in their direction, as it did in the last great eruption.

The smallpox rate of California and several other of the American States is about fourteen times that of Japan, according to a bulletin issued by the League of Nations.

The Potentate's Last Message

The following is the last message of Potentate Gus. L. Hay to the nobles of the Mystic Shrine, meeting in Toronto tomorrow for the annual ceremonial.

The Potentate's Message.

Dear Noble:—

Potentates of old commanded and forced their decrees with the scimitars of the Sheiks and Dragomen of their patrols.

That method would hardly do for these days of greater enlightment, and Potentates must now rely on the willing co-operation of their faithful subjects.

I, therefore, as Potentate of Rameses Temple, request, rather than command, that the Nobles of the Temple bestir themselves as grateful subjects should, to the end that many more Pilgrims may attempt the journey over the hot sands for the purpose of enlisting under our illustrious banner.

I hereby appoint Tuesday, the 12th day of January, 1926, as the day on which these pilgrimages must be completed and the final enrollment take place.

I have caused our Temple to be prepared for the reception of Novitiates, have ordered the customary feast to be prepared, and have provided for the ceremonies that should attend the induction of the weary pilgrims into our ancient and sacred Shrine.

Now, therefore, you, as a Noble of our Temple, are admonished to attire yourself in the regulation habiliments of our Order (Fez and 1926 card) and present yourself at the Temple early on the day on the date above mentioned, prepared to select your officers, for another year, and to assist, by your presence, in the Ceremony.

By the grace of Allah, the tenure of power in my illustrious office is brief and fleeting. I recognize that the end of my reign is near and that this is the last time I shall address you in the capacity of your Potentate.

The parting message I would give you, aside from my sincere thanks to every Noble in Rameses Temple for the loyal support they have given me, is the suggestion that the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine is doing for mankind a great and good work in its care and cure of crippled children.

Our order is spending more than a million dollars a year in this work, and I am sure that if this fact were properly impressed on the minds of men qualified to be admitted to membership with us, we would have one of the largest classes in our history.

See to it ,then, that men qualified be advised what enrollment under the sacred banner of the Shrine will mean to them.

Finally, I thank you all for the honor you have conferred upon me, for your generous consideration of my frailties and your uniform courtesy in our associations, and may Allah accord to you and yours a most happy and prosperous year in the one we have now entered.

Es Selamu Alickum.

GUS L. HAY.

GOVERNMENT TO HAVE MAJORITY OF SEVEN, MAYBE

Ottawa Opinion Expects Enough Progressives Will Support Liberal Motion.

MAY VOTE TONIGHT

Eventful Week in Commons Opens With Debate Resumed.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press).—To-day ushers in an eventful week for the Dominion Parliament. When the House re-assembles at three o'clock this afternoon, the debate will be resumed on the amendment of non-confidence moved at Friday's dramatic sitting by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition. Expectations are that the vote on this amendment will come to-night, although a few unscheduled speakers might easily carry the debate over for another day or two.

On all hands to-day the one question asked is: What will the Progressives do? How their votes will be cast, Progressives have not yet indicated. Indeed, after a week-end of conferences and caucuses, they meet again to-day for a final discussion of their position. But probabilities are — such at any rate seems to be the general belief—that sufficient Progressives will vote against the amendment to give the Government a majority of about seven or eight.

Submit 14 Points.

On Saturday, the Progressive executive, headed by Robert Forke, Progressive leader, saw both Premier King and Mr. Meighen, requesting them to give a formal statement of their policy on fourteen points submitted, ranging from the tariff to the alternative vote. Premier King, it is said, emphasized in a letter that the Speech from the Throne indicated legislation for completion of the Hudson Bay Railway and on other matters included among the fourteen points.

Mr. Meighen wrote to Mr. Forke a letter which, it is understood, will be considered more fully at the Progressive caucus to-day. The contents of the letter have not been divulged, but it is reported to have taken generally the stand on the tariff and other matters which was taken by Mr. Meighen in the election campaign.

One Progressive, questioned last night on the negotiations, observed that he did not consider the attitude of either of the two party leaders as satisfactory, from the Progressive point of view. "When you get down to essentials," he said, "what they say does not carry one very far."

BANDITS ATTACK TRAIN AND KILL MOST OF RIDERS

Military Guard and Civilians Almost All Killed in Attack.

TRAIN BURNED.

Mexican Railway Scene of Bloody Fight—Booty 300,000 Pesos.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Fully fifty persons were butchered by bandits who attacked and wrecked the Guadalajara-Mexico City passenger train near Yurecuaro, in the State of Michoacan, Saturday night. The manager of the Bank of Montreal in Guadalajara was on board, but was not injured.

Penniless survivors, stripped of all their belongings, began arriving in Guadalajara to-day to tell a tale of horror unequalled in Mexico's criminal annals for years.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—A passenger train, attacked by bandits between Guadalajara and Mexico City, with the majority of the passengers murdered and most of the military escort killed, is the alarming report received here from Guadalajara in special despatches. Between the stations of Negrete and Yurecuaro, twenty armed and disguised men, who had boarded the train at Guadalajara, suddenly began knifing the soldiers, and robbing and killing the passengers. Of the military escort, all but seven were killed, and these were seriously wounded.

The train, the despatches say, was burned with the victims. The bandits, who were under the orders of former Colonel Manual Nunez, then made their escape on the engine, carrying away 300,000 pesos in booty.

Telegraph communications were cut and details of the attack are lacking.

TURKS REGARD MOSUL QUESTION UNSETTLED DESPITE THE LEAGUE

FOUND PREJUDICE

ANGORA, Turkey, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Tewfik Rushdi Bey, the Foreign Minister, who was head of the Turkish delegation at Geneva, gave his long promised explanations on Mosul to the National Assembly Sunday, and in doing so, declared: "Turkish sovereignty over Mosul has not been modified in the slightest."

This statement confirmed the impression that if the present Anglo-Turkish negotiations terminate unsatisfactorily to Turkey, she will consider Mosul her Alsace-Lorraine, to be returned to the fatherland eventually. Kemal Pasha, the president, the entire cabinet and the members of the war council, were present in the crowded assembly, listening to Rushdi Bey's description of the Mosul discussions, dating back to the Golden Horn conference.

The Minister complained of the absence of the arbitration spirit at The Hague and Geneva, owing to anti-Turkish prejudice. Alluding to the League of Nations' refusal of a plebiscite, he said: "Turkey considers the Mosul question still unsettled. The present negotiations with England have not yet crystallized. We wish to reach an agreement concerning a frontier acceptable to both countries. Such an entente would constitute a basis for further negotations."

Rushdi Bey intimated that he did not desire to make his statement subject to a vote of confidence.

PATENAUDE MAY LEAD IN QUEBEC

In Case of Another General Election Wlil Lead Conservatives.

NO DECLARATION.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.— (Canadian Press.) — A Gazette special from Quebec says, "As a sequel to the recent conference called by Hon. E. L. Patenaude in Montreal to discuss matters of interest to the Conservative party in this province. Another meeting was held over the week end, which brought together members of the local Conservative organization and a number of Conservative candidates in the last general elections from this district.

"Though no official declaration was given, it was learned that the majority of the Conservatives present held to the view that there had been no strategic mistake made in the course of the last campaign.

Most likely within a few days a plan of organization will be arrived at and probabilities will be that in the event of a general election being held soon the same system will be adhered to, with Hon. Mr. Patenaude taking the direction of the Conservative forces throughout the province.

Ear Plugs For Umpires Provided By Women's Team

BELFAST, Ireland, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—The captain of a women's field hockey team, before the beginning of a match here Saturday, presented the umpires with pieces of cotton wool saying, "Please stuff these in your ears."

This sarcastic comment on the recent attack upon the alleged use of profanity by women hockey players was accepted good humoredly by the umpires, who complied with the suggestion and followed the game with swear-proof ears.

TURKS CONSIDER MOSUL IS THEIRS

Will Look Upon Province as Their "Alsace-Lorraine" To Be Redeemed.

TEWFIK EXPLAINS.

ANGORA, Turkey, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Tewrik Rushdi Bey, Foreign Minister, who was head of the Turkish delegation at Geneva, gave his long-promised explanations on Mosul to the National Assembly yesterday, and in doing so declared: "Turkish sovereignty over Mosul has not been modified in the slightest."

This statement confirmed the impression that if the present Anglo-Turkish negotiations terminate unsatisfactorily to Turkey, she will consider Mosul as her Alsace-Lorraine, to be returned to the Fatherland eventually.

The Minister complained of the absence of the arbitration spirit at The Hague and Geneva owing to anti-Turkish prejudice.

WORSHIPPERS PADDLED TO CHURCH IN FLOODED AREA OF THE THAMES VALLEY

Boys Catch Fish in Main Streets of Inundated Towns — Water Dropped Three Inches Sunday—Many Strange Scenes.

WARGRAVE, Berkshire, Eng., Jan. 11.—Punts were employed to transport worshippers to church services in the flooded area of the Thames valley on Sunday.

The vicar of one church near here made the arrangements himself for punts to ply between the homes of the parishioners and the church, which is entirely surrounded by water. He communicated with all the members of his fock, and they were eager to undertake the Sabbath voyage.

The floods have given rise to many curious scenes. Boys are getting good catches of fish in the main streets of some towns, while in the country districts people are hunting rabbits from boats, the animals having taken refuge from the water in the tops of the hedges.

Sea gulls are swimming over the Chertsey golf links and it is a not uncommon sight to see swans placidly floating through the streets of the flooded villages.

At Pangbourne is an inn through which a large stream is flowing, the water entering the back door and pouring out of the front.

The floods are falling at all points, the average drop Sunday being three inches.

N.S. Coal Enquiry Report

1924 Wage Decrease Justified—Company Should Recognize the Union—Two Year Contract Recommended—Disband "Besco" Police Force

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 11, — (Canadian Press.)—Included in the findings of the Royal Commission which last week completed its investigation of the coal industry of Nova Scotia, are the following:

That the men accept a ten per cent. decrease from the 1924 wage scale. (This was the original demand of the company at the end of 1924. The men are now working under an interim agreement involving a decrease of from six to eight per cent. from the 1924 scale).

That machinery be set up to provide automatically a revision of the wage scale every six months, based on the ability of the industry to pay to be determined by a system of accounting, open to representatives of the men, wages in no case to drop below a pre-determined level; and for the purposes of revision, the operators and capitalization of the coal company to be regarded as separate and distinct from the operations and capitalizations of the other constituent companies of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

Coal at Market Price.

That in all future wage revisions, coal sold to the Steel Company be regarded as having been sold at a fair transfer price and to the other constituent companies at a fair market price.

That the corporation frankly acknowledge the United Mine Workers of America.

That the Union provide for greater continuity of office among its leaders and endeavor to rid itself of the friction within its ranks.

That the Corporation endeavor to sell to the miners on moderate terms, the house the rental of which during the past six years have involved a loss approximating 94 per cent. of their value.

That the Corporation's police force be abandoned.

Abolish Check Off.

That the check-off be abolished.

That the local contracts be restored.

That cutting, shooting and loading be tallied as one operation and that cutting wherever possible be done on a preceding shift.

That a two years' contract at least be entered into in an effort to stabilize the industry.

That in the interests of a proper and sympathetic administration of the coal properties they should be under the control of a resident executive officer of technical training and mining experience.

That the Provincial government co-operate with the Dominion Fuel Board in promoting the establishment of coking plants in the central provinces.

The Royal Commission was composed of Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, K.T., of Beckenham, Kent., Eng., Major Hume Cronyn, K.C., of London, Ont., and Rev. H. P. McPherson, president of St. Francis Xavier's University, Antigonish, N.S. It received its commission on October 31 and reported formally to the Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, Hon. James C. Tory, on January 8. It had the assistance of William Armour, of the British Mines Department, as technical expert, and of Gordon W. Scott, of the Montreal firm of P. S. Ross and Sons, as an accounting expert. Thomas J. Brown Nova Scotia's Deputy Minister of Mines was secretary.

City Council Inaugural Today Marked by Plea for Economy In Speech by Mayor Holloway

Nagle Phelan Appointed To vacancy To Complete 1926 Administration and Nomination Made Unanimous—Committees Are Chosen and Chairmen Named.

MAYOR HOLLOWAY ASCENDS DAIS.

Ex-Mayor Turner Present To Wish Executive a Prosperous Year—New Chief Magistrate Impresses Need of Economy in Every Matter Coming For Judgment.

Peterborough's new City Council was inaugurated this morning with the usual ceremony; new members presented their credentials and were given seats at the Aldermanic Board; Mayor W. T. Holloway ascended the dais and presented his inaugural address; and the retiring Mayor, J. J. Turner, gave the assembly his blessing. There was one spectator.

One of the first official acts of the 1926 Council was the appointing of a successor to Alderman Joseph Crowe, who retired at the end of 1925 with a year still to serve. Nagle E. Phelan, who was defeated for the Mayoralty by a narrow margin was named, his nomination

The Mayor's Address

Gentlemen,—Having been elected on January 1st to the very honourable position of Mayor of Peterborough, I am assuming that office with the full consciousness of my own short-comings. I feel the situation is not made easier by immediately succeeding Ex-Mayor Turner, who has carried out his duties in a most efficient manner. I will require all the assistance and co-operation the Council can give, and our combined efforts working in the best interests of all citizens will, I feel, insure a satisfactory term of office for all of us.

I am delighted with the personnel of the Council, and without resorting to flattery, would add that there is among you plenty of good judgment to handle the affairs of Peterborough as they should be handled.

We were elected on the policy of economy, and especially my own platform was—no avoidable increase of capital expenditure until the retirement of some debentures, and I sincerely hope that we all will really try to view the City's business as if it were our own. We must carry on and keep all we have in good condition and prevent any loss by deterioration, but I think we should not undertake any large expenditure under present business conditions. Even though some Peterboro plants have materially reduced their staffs which would cause a loss to the city of more than their reduction in help, I am glad to say that Peterborough has increased by about nine hundred in population in the last few years. This should encourage us to go on and try to make Peterborough attractive to newcomers and comfortable to our own citizens by not burdening the people with enormous taxes.

Finally I ask you to assist me in every way you can, and if we have our little differences, let us soon forget them in our earnest efforts for Peterorough's welfare.

Ex-Mayor J. J. Turner opened the proceedings at 11 o'clock by turning over the official gavel to Mayor Holloway, symbolic of his new office, and wished him all happiness and prosperity.

The new Aldermen were seated, Robert Cotton in the place vacated by R. N. Jones; George A. MacDonald in M. McIntyre's place, and C. H. Ackerman in the seat vacated by

Food Ship Unable To Reach Island Cut Off By Storms

BREST, France, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.) — Another unsuccessful attempt was made Sunday to take provisions to the inhabitants of the island of Seine, which has been cut off by violent storms and swirling tides for 25 days. The seas were again so heavy that the relief ship was forced to turn back. The inhabitants of the small island, which is off the end of the Quimper peninsula, 28 miles south-west of Brest, are entirely out of ordinary supplies, subsisting upon hard biscuits and potatoes.

APRIL FARM TO BE INVESTIGATED

Alleged "Free Love" Tendencies of Colonists Are Cause.

STATEMENT DECLINED.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press).—An investigation into the affairs of Charles Garland, eccentric Boston millionaire, and his April Farm Association, the members of which are living at his new colony in Lower Milford Township, Lehigh County, is being conducted, following the recommendation of City Solicitor Robert L. Stuart, that the association's application for a charter be denied on the grounds of alleged "Free Love" tendencies.

The six men and six women members of the colony decline to say whether they are married, declaring it is nobody's business. Garland is quoted as saying, "As to unmarried people living together, this is a matter of individual inclination, not understood by common social fabric. It is entirely a personal matter and part of my experiment in social science."

The colonists are described as being of the intelligentsia, with virtually every adult a college graduate.

FLOOD SEIGE OF PARIS IS LIFTED

Danger of Serious Catastrophe Has Passed.

PARIS, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press.)— Under the influence of bright, cold weather, the Seine river and its affluents and other rivers which are out of their banks continued to fall Sunday. The waters of the Seine dropped perceptibly hour by hour.

Most of the snow on the hills, the melting of which together with heavy rains for many days caused the floods, has now disappeared, and fear of any serious catastrophe is said to be definitley past.

CORPSE FACTORY STORY STARTED FROM MISTAKE

Word Kadaver Means Human Body for Dissection Purposes.

ALSO MEANS ANIMAL

Dutch Correspondent Deliberately Left Explanatory Part Out of Order.

(By Walter Littlefield.)

Two prominent Labor members of the British Parliament—the former Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald, and his lieutenant, J. H. Thomas—have announced that they will interpellate the Government, some time in the present session, in regard to the story told in New York last month by Brig. Gen. John Charteris about the German "corpse factory." It is the idea of the interpellators to have published not only what General Charteris actually said but also what the archives of the War Office may have to prove of the existence of the factory or to brand its falsity—how the story started and got into print.

England has had two severe shocks in regard to the story of the German "corpse factory"—when the story was first printed in January, 1916, and recently when it learned by cable that General Charteris was reported to have told a dinner party at the National Arts Club of New York, on October 20, how, as chief of the British Army Intelligence in 1917, he had fabricated the story for propaganda purposes.

After the General, on his return to London on November 4, had been closeted for an hour with Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary of State for War, he emerged to make further denial of the words attributed to him in New York and to add: "I should be as interested as the general public to know what was the true origin of the cadaver story."

It may be said that General Charteris has a good double alibi, should he care to use it: In January, 1917, he was not yet chief of the Army Intelligence and the story he is reported to have told has nothing to do with the account of the "corpse factory" as it first came before the public.

The original story, circulated in January, 1917, was to the effect that it had been revealed by an order of the day found on a dead German officer that bodies of German soldiers were being sent back from the front to a "corpse-utilization establishment," ment," where they were made use of in the same way as were the carcasses of horses and cattle.

For Propaganda.

The story that General Charteris told in New York is, as reported, identified with an alleged episode that happened later in the year 1917:

"General Charteris offered the story of the 'corpse factory' as an amusing instance of how propaganda might go beyond the field for which it was originally intended. He said that two pictures came to him while he was head of the Propaganda Bureau as well as of the Intelligence Service. One showed the corpses of German horses being taken to the rear, with a caption telling the purpose for which they were to be used; the other showed the bodies of German soldiers. He said it was obvious that the captions of the pictures might be changed. He went on to say that the picture and story about the German dead being boiled down was, at his direction, sent to China to shock the Chinese, who reverence their dead."

General Charteris could have had nothing to do with fabricating the original story, which startled the world in January, 1916. Still, as Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Thomas declared in the House of Commons the other day, the truth should be known. To judge from recent reports from London there are still persons there, and possibly there may be here, who, even if they think that the General may have been misquoted, still have an abiding faith in the truth of the story that the Germans utilized the bodies of their slain for manufacturing and agricultural purposes—for glue and fertilizer, it was said at the time.

This faith, however, is a trifle mixed in regard to the two episodes—the German Army order and the pictures. The London Star, for example, quotes Sir Herbert Russell, the well-known war correspondent, as saying that when the German divisional order on the disposal of "Kadaver" came into his hands he regarded it seriously and "pointed out that this would make good propaganda, as I was war correspondent to the largest news distributing organization in the world. I never mentioned the statement after that captured divisional order. From that time General Charteris kept us well supplied with any sort of references to "Kadaver that came to the notice of the Intelligence Branch."

Moreover, it is contended by The Morning Post that the story, "whether true or not," was certainly "not the invention of any official mind or the Propaganda Department," and it adds: "It was current throughout Northern France, Holland and Belgium, and rested on some very definite evidence."

Stresemann Explains.

It would naturally be thought that a story so detrimental to the culture of a nation, whatever its material needs and physical sufferings at the time, would have inspired an inquiry in Germany. This, indeed, happened—not once but probably many times. Two of the results are upon record; the earliest we shall come to presently. The last was furnished by Dr. Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, to The Weekly Despatch of London, on October 31 and reads:

"The authentic origin of the war propaganda story that the Germans utilized the corpses of their dead soldiers for industrial purposes is unknown to me. I, therefore, cannot take any attitude in the alleged declarations of General Charteris. It is true that during the war establishments were erected to utilize the corpses of horses and other animals for gaining certain chemical substances for industrial purposes, which had become scarce from other sources. The allegation that these establishments were destined for the utilization of human bodies was, at the time of its origin, at once officially repudiated as a shameful lie, and was regarded by the German nation, mourning the loss of many of its sons fallen on the battlefield, as one of the most cruel and poisonous forgeries of war-time propaganda."

Nevertheless, there is, or was in January, 1916, in the archives of the British War Office, an alleged German order of the day which seemingly reveals the actuality of what the German statesman denies. The translation given out for circulation by the British Propaganda Bur u cannot reasonably be criticized. This fact disposes of another story of the origin of the "order" furnished by Reginald W. writing to The Ne York Times he repeats a story told him by a former clerk in the British Home Office:

"We were always getting documents picked up in enemy trenches or taken from German dead or prisoners. Late one night there was brought in a printed paper purporting to have been thus discovered, and appearing to be some sort of general order. One of us read it and saw that it contained directions about the conveying of dead bodies to the rear for transport to a glycerine factory. It looked like a good story, so we rushed a translation into the paper. Well, next day somebody on the staff turned up who knew more German than the translator of the night before. This scholar pointed out that the fatal word meant the carcasses of lower animals, not the dead bodies of human beings."

The story concludes with the opinion that it was then too late to correct the error and that "a correction would do the Allies' cause o end of harm."

This story, which Mr. Kauffma heard in the presence of other correspondents in a Paris cafe, has a ver similitude which the Charteris stor lacks, as will presently be perceived. Although its origin may have bee near the truth, its development—either through the imagination of the Home Office clerk or through the faulty memory of Mr. Kauffman—wandered far from it. The "fatal word" mentioned is, of course "Kadaver," which in German, particularly in Bavarian and Austrian German, means the same as the English word "cadaver" and nothing else—"a human corpse as a subject for dissection," with one notable exception which will presently be explained. With this exception, the translation, in which only a pedant could find an error, was given out by the War Office and not by the Home Office, and its text made no mention of any "glycerine factory." It was, nevertheless, to the point. It read:

CHIEF COMMAND OF VI. ARMY.
A. H. Q. Dec. 21, 1916.
Army Order of the Day for Dec. 21, 1916.

(b) DELIVERY TO THE CORPS UTILIZATION ESTABLISHMENTS: It is necessary again to call attention to the fact that when corpses are delivered to the Corpse Utilization Establishments details are to accompany as to which troop units they are from, the date of death, illness, and information as to any epidemics.

V. S. d. O. K.
J. A.
Braun.

Study of the German original shows that the translator's work was reasonably faithful, although with the idea firmly fixed in his mind that the text referred to "corpses" and not to "carcasses," in writing "date of death" and "illness" he may be accused of having "humanized" certain German words.

If Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Thomas, on their interpellation, succeed in drawing forth any statement from Sir Laming it can hardly go beyond what is contained in the archives of the War Office—the German text and the explanation that it was secured in the "usual manner." On the face of it, such an explanation leaves the case much worse for the Germans than it was before, although it may be reinforced by denials similar to that made by Dr. Stresemann. It might not occur to the interpellators to inquire—the "order of the day" having been marked (b)—what had become of (a) and whether (b) was not followed by a (c) and a (d).

In December, 1916, the Sixth German Army had its general headquarters at Lille. On the front before it, facing Armentieres nine miles away, was the Sixth Bavarian Reserve Division. Among those who spent their Christmas at Armentieres was the correspondent of a well-known Amsterdam paper, whose outspoken, pro-Ally sentiments had caused Herr von Muller, the German Minister, to make frequent complaints to the Dutch Government. The correspondent in question secured the full German text of the army order of the day dated December 21 in circumstances that have been variously explained.

It does not matter how he obtained it, as on its face it was undoubtedly authentic. However, it was not the brief slip of half a dozen odd lines which finally reached the British War Office. It had orders denoted by (a) and also by other letters, which when read with the fatal (b) would have gone far toward preventing an error in translating the latter.

The (a) referred to instructions to be carried out in regard to engineer officers and their work before Armentieres; (c) to changes in the organization and in the disposition of telegraph troops; (d) to the economy of sand in the filling of sandbags, &c., and (b) was just as it appeared at the British War Office except for the misspelled word "etwange" for "etwaige," and probably other slips of the Dutch typewriter at Amsterdam.

For the Dutch correspondent took it there in the new year and showed it to his Chief, who is said at once to have observed its infinite possibilities. If (b) could be removed from its context and the German classical, or even medical, interpretation placed on "Kadaver," the propagandists across the Channel would do the rest. The beginning and the end of the order were copied and between them was placed the (b). The erroneous interpretation was placed on "Kadaver" and the propagandists did do the rest.

This document, with what covering note it is now known, was dispatched to the London correspondent of the Amsterdam paper with the order that he convey it either to a certain official in the War Office or to an editor—just what editor was designated is not known. At any rate it met with a sympathetic reception and the "Kadaververwertungsanstalten" of the Germans received their uncraved-publicity at the hands of the enemy. The exception to the definition of the word "Kadaver," as had been foreseen by the Dutch editor, was overlooked and hence what was a very simple matter of war economy was turned into a monstrous scandal. For, dictionaries notwithstanding, in German military parlance the word "Kadaver" means the carcass of a lower animal which is to be utilized in some way. Had human bodies been in question the word would certainly have been "die Leiche."

If the foregoing explanation, which has been obtained from a direct, intimate and authoritative source, does not anticipate Sir Laming's explanation anxiously awaited by the House of Commons, it will certainly supplement it in an interesting manner, however General Charteris may or may not have perpetuated the scandal after it had once been launched. At least he is innocent of the launching. It is also to be hoped that it will kill once and for all time a war-time libel on the German military authorities, which, as dispatches from London show, has survived in certain otherwise honest and intelligent quarters until this day.

ART EXHIBIT

A very interesting exhibit of the art of Mr. Owen Staples, a Toronto resident, who though born in England, has been a citizen of Canada ever since the age of six years, with the exception of a few years spent in the United States, was given in the art rooms at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Art Association.

The majority of the pictures on view were aquatints, and there were also half a dozen etchings. Mr. Staples does not go far afield for his subjects. He concentrates on Canada evidently, and he paints Canadian scenes in a way that recalls to the mind of travellers over the Dominion the beauty spots which live on his canvases. Unlike the "Group of Seven," whose startling scenes of land and water might have been garnered in Timbucto as well as in Canada, Mr. Staples paints bits of natural beauty as they are. His trees are trees and not black, writhing blotches of weird ugliness against a tortured background of livid sky or water. There is a charm and delicacy about his work that makes it very likeable and a suggestion of the McGillivray-Knowles brush in his use of mauve undertones in woodland scenes.

But Mr. Staples' style is quite his own, or rather, his styles, because he appears to handle his work in two or three different ways. There is a soft, misty, vague treatment to many of his small water colors, like the "Rideau River," and "A Northern Lake," with their lovely colors that contrasts sharply with the clear cut sunlight-flooded atmosphere of what looks like a foreign setting, but is labelled "Banff, Rocky Mountains." It might be the castle at Monaco that rises so sharply white in the background of this picture, against a sharp, rocky crag, and there is a foreign, impressionistic touch to the little figures in red and yellow that walk down the sunny road.

Again he crowds his pictures with details that demand a larger canvas. In "A Monarch of the Forest," one of the large pictures, instead of concentrating his wonderful colors on one mighty tree, he confuses the impressions by including so many smaller trees in the picture, and with the insistent use of the stippler on the foliage. One wishes the frame would expand and allow these crowded trunks to move out to a farther perspective. Again, in a small view of "Lake Louise in Winter," a really beautiful little picture, this same impression of crowding prevails. The "Beehive" mount in the background seems to push its rugged, bold outline out past the frame. And in "Maple Leaves," with exquisite coloring of varied green, and remarkably correct treatment of the leaning figure of the young girl, looking at a handful of leaves in a woodland glade the upper portion of the picture is too shallow.

This peculiar involuntary inclusion of little bits of imperfection in pictures that are executed with evident workmanship of a high order, the coloring, perspective, and atmospheric values making them exceedingly easy to look at, is noticeable too in an odd way in two outstanding examples, which could hardly be criticized at all, if they had been named differently. For instance, "Reflections," evidently intended to illustrate a pretty water scene, gives one the impression of portraying instead a stretch of ground, while "Twilight in the Garden," a soft, lovely bit of yellow evening sky with a dusky brown foreground and a splash of pink hollyhocks at the side, might be easily taken for the picture of a quiet pool.

Two scenes of old Quebec were very interesting. "St. Louis street, Quebec," is like a pastel in its soft treatment, with the re-modelled Chateau Frontenac in the rear, and there is a strong hint of impressionistic style in the splashy, vaguely-indicated figures of its companion, "A Street in Old Quebec," whose curious leaning buildings recalled to one gentleman visitor the old Montcalm house, where the girl heroine of "Le Chien d'Or" made her abode.

Mr. Staples had evident ideas of his own. He gives a kitten and a bridge alike a very dark background and there is a curious note of effective exaggeration in the "Totem Pole," with the Indian emblem towering above figures, houses and and even the mountain of the picture. Beautiful use of color, vivid but not glaring, is exemplified in the turquoise hues of the water in "Ash Bay, Victoria, B. C." They are small, well handled bits of natural beauty, these little pictures, with an atmosphere of cheerfulness and delicacy about them. A mastery of technical details is evident and an appreciation of color above everything else. They are not bold or masterful, perhaps, but they give the onlooker a pleasant sense of liking them and their creator at once, instead of the rather shocked, combative feeling that sometimes comes from the contemplation of work of a more impressionistic order.

The etchings are very well done, including views of several University and church buildings in Toronto. In the "Skyline" again appears the odd note. The vague skyline, apparently the main theme of the picture from its title, does not strike the eye half as sharply as the heavy mass of strippled foliage in the foreground.

"A Forest Road" is an exquisite example of lovely coloring in its woodland browns and reds. One might never come on a road that would look exactly like this case, but anyone would give a good deal to be able to do so.

Tea was served during the afternoon and evening, from a table uniquely centred with a quaint bowl of roses and silver everlastings. Mrs. J. A. Aylmer and Miss Annie Wood were tea hostesses, and were assisted by Mrs. W. Sangster, Miss Edith Murphy and Miss Maude Rush.

The fact that Belfast is the world's centre of the linen trade is due in considerable measure to climatic conditions. Belfast has an average of 231 rainy days out of the 365, and this suits both the growth of flax and its manufacture.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus

ENGLISH DOWAGERS DISCUSS FEMINISMS

Some Say Nose is Neglected By Athletic Girls—Arrange Time For Flirting.

LONDON, Jan. 11, (Associated Press).—Assertion that love of the open air and sports has sounded the death knell of the flirtatious, powder puff girl are refuted by Lady Forbes Robertson, Lady Martin-Harvey and others who maintain that the young women of today are as feminine as ever.

The physical training instructress of the Blackburn Education Committee contends that when a girl's leisure is devoted to healthy outdoor recreation "she has neither the time nor the mind to powder her nose, or wonder if she is sufficiently attractive to men."

Concerning this view, Mrs. Joan Rosita Forbes, the explorer and author, says flirting is out of date because good comradeship between men and women has taken its place.

Lady Martin-Harvey believes that all the sports girls have indulged in have not taken away their charm nor made "man girls" of them in the least.

As Gertrude Lady Decies sees the question, any suggestion that the modern English girl, because she indulges in sports and athletics, neglects her dress and personal appearance, is far from being a fact. "Watch girls playing games," she avers. "They are invariably neat and tidily turned out."

Lady Forbes-Robertson says: "Sports for girls is necessary, but so, also, is the powdering of one's nose. I don't believe sport deprives a girl of the time for flirting, for most girls love flirting at any old time."

HOLD FIRST SOVIET BURIAL IN CANADA

Drumheller Communists Performed Service Before Effigy of Lenine.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 11 (By Canadian Press).—Chanting the "Red Flag" and standing with bowed heads before the effigy of Lenine, a little group of Drumheller Communists conducted the first Soviet funeral service in the history of the mining valley—and believed to be the first in Canada.

Scorning the burial form of the Christian religion, the Communists laid to rest the body of Alfred Swartz, a lad who was burned to death when his home was destroyed by fire, recently.

One hour before the funeral service, the United Church minister, who had been asked to officiate, was notified that his services would not be required.

Led by Louis McDonald, alias "Kid Burns," a group of about seven to ten adults and twenty-five children marched with the bier to the cemetery, where the Soviet burial rites were followed to the letter.

EXCLUSIVE SERVICE FOR CATTLE EXPORT

Four Vessels Chartered, Equipped With Every Possible Convenience.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 11, (By Canadian Press).—Details relating to the inauguration of the new cattle boat service which starts this month is given by H. P. Kennedy, prominent cattleman of Toronto, who is the originator of the scheme.

"Albert Jansan, Danish shipowner, has formed an independent Canadian steamship company, which will be called the Livestock Steamship Company," Mr. Kennedy said. This line will operate exclusively in the cattle export business between Canada and the Old Country. To start with there will be four vessels, each of about 7,000 tonnage. The first will be called the "Ontario." This boat will sail from St. John in January and all four vessels will be fitted in the most modern way for carrying cattle only. Their capacity will be 1,128 head, each, distributed in 282 specially constructed stalls. The steamers will contain concrete floors, steel fittings throughout, with an elevator, sewage, water, ventilation and lighting systems. Permanent and experienced cattle men will be employed as crew. Arrangements," Mr. Kennedy added, "will be made by wireless if necessary to divert the steamers to any port where market conditions are more favorable."

The ocean freight rate, according to Mr. Kennedy, will for the time being, remain at $20 per head. A conservative estimate in the saving in shrinkage alone, he believed, would be from $5 to $100. "In fact shrinkage will be entirely eliminated as a result of the conveniences provided, and the animals will gain in weight while on passage," Mr. Kennedy asserted.

IRRIGATION GIVES PLEASING RESULTS

Not Conducive To Abnormal Returns, But Valuable For Building Estate.

GLENWOOD, Alta., Jan. 11 (By Canadian Press).—The United Irrigation District has completed its second year of actual operation and figures which are now available, show that irrigation is successful in materially increasing the yields of all grains and field crops.

While final figures throughout the district covering the general crop yields are not available, it is estimated that wheat grown on summerfallow and irrigated land, will yield about forty-five bushels an acre; wheat grown on spring ploughing and irrigated, twenty to twenty-five bushels per acre; while wheat grown on unirrigated land will range between ten to twenty bushels to the acre. Oats, barley and other coarse grains show a corresponding increase in yields on irrigated areas.

"To say that irrigation in the district is a success, without some qualifications, would not be correct, but I have no hesitation in saying that where irrigation has been used at all the results have been pleasing," Chester Asplund, project manager of the United Irrigation project said in reviewing the year's work.

"The only paying crops this year, are crops grown on summerfallow or crops which have been properly irrigated. It is further evident," he added, "that speculation and irrigation will not go together. To the man who is looking for abnormal returns on his investment, irrigated land should not appeal to him. But for the place to make a home and build an estate, there is nothing better than a quarter section of good land where irrigation is available."

The actual cost of administration, operation and maintenance for the year will not exceed twenty-five cents an irrigable acre, throughout the district, which comprises more than 36,000 acres, he pointed out.

The hog raising industry is steadily increasing with from a few up to two hundred hogs to be found on every farm. Dairy herds are rapidly being built up.

Beef raising for the market, is progressing favorably, Mr. Asplund declared, and this industry he says will be increased as winter feed from the irrigated farms becomes more plentiful. Sheep raising is also gaining a strong foothold in the district.

TOURIST INCREASE

Twenty Thousand Autos From States Entered Manitoba Last Summer.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 11 (By Canadian Press).—More than 20,000 tourist automobiles from the United States entered Manitoba during the summer months of 1925, according to figures compiled by the Manitoba Motor League. This figure represents an approximate increase of 40 per cent. over the number of visitors that came from the South during the previous summer. Improvement of the roads leading to the Manitoba capital and natural attractions in the province, acted as the magnet, according to the League officials.

THIBAW'S QUEEN IS NOW DEAD; HER NAME WILL ALWAYS LIVE

Supayalat is Immortalized by Kipling in "Road to Mandalay."

NOT SAME ONE

Queen Was Not So Famous As Her Name sake.

By F. L. Minnigerode.

LONDON.

Supayalat is dead! But Supayalat will live forever in the hearts of all who have felt the lure of the mysterious East. Supayalat cannot die, for she has been placed among the immortals by the East's greatest story-teller. She occupies a niche bebtween Gunga Din and Danny Deever in the hearts of millions of readers. She is perhaps the most picturesque and enticing character to be found in Kipling's "Barrack Room Ballads;" she has been set to music and millions have sung of her.

'After all it was not our little Supayalat that died the other day in far Rangoon, not the Burma girl that sat "By the old Moulmein Pagoda, lookin' eastward to the sea," but the illustrious (less illustrious than her namesake) Thibaw's Queen, the widow of King Thibaw of Burma.

That is a loss we can face with composure. But could we have remained unmoved had death taken such a person as Supi-yaw-lat, the little Burma girl with a touch of devilment in her jaunty bearing and yet so much softness and sweetness in her nature? What do we care if she is first seen smoking

. . . a whackin' white cheroot
An' a-wastin' Christian kisses on an 'eathen idol's foot.

The Deathless Namesake.

We see her standing there among the palm trees and our children and our children's children will see her, too, for she was a glorious picture and will always be standing there.

'Er petticoat was yaller an' 'er little cap was green,
An' 'er name was Supi-yaw-lat, jes' the same as Theebaw's Queen.

Do not we all know what a bully time that British soldier had on "The Road to Mandalay"?

When the mist was on the rice field an' the sun was droppin' slow,
She'd git 'er little banjo an' she'd sing "Kulla-lo-lo!"
With 'er arm upon my shoulder an' 'er cheek agin' my cheek
We useter watch the steamers an' the hathis pilin' teak,
Elephints a-pilin' teak
In the sludgy, squdgy creek,
Where the silence 'ung that 'eavy you was 'arf afraid to speak!

Yes. That little Suip-yaw-lat will never die. When Mandalay has crumbled to dust and the old Moulmein Pagoda has been dead for centuries and the temple bells no longer speak, happy, jaunty, loving little Supi-yaw-lat will be vivacious and entrancing. She will call us back to hear once more the wind in the palm trees and the paddles chunkin' from Rangoon to Mandalay. The old flotilla will be at rest in Davy Jones's locker and there will be no sick beneath the awnings, but Supi-yaw-lat, in her yaller petticoat and green cap, will make amend for all the wastage and destruction of the centuries.

The Queen's Sorrows.

But you should know the story of the real Supayalat—the dead Queen.

When the King of Burma, Mindon Min, lay dying at the close of 1878, the Queen of the Middle Palace determined to secure the succession for Thibaw, who was in love with her daughter, Supayalat, then some twenty years of age. This she did, and Supayalat ousted her eldest sister from the position of Chief Queen and completely dominated the weak and slothful King Thibaw. His reign was stained not only by great cruelties but also by a widespread rapacity and disorder.

At length, in 1885, an ultimatum having been treated with contempt, a British expedition was sent under General Sir Harry Prendergast. Thibaw surrendered on Nov. 28, and begged first for three months, then three weeks, and then three days, to prepare for exile. Prendergast gave him exactly ten minutes, and within that time Thibaw and his Chief Queens embarked in a steamer and were taken to Ratnagiri, on the Kolkan coast of Western India. There Thibaw died in 1916.

Two years later Queen Supayalat was allowed to return to Burma. She had many grievances and complaints which were finally investigated and reported upon by a committee of the General Council of Burmese Associations. It was said at the time that this committee was appointed for the purpose of embarrassing the Government.

Land and Jewels Taken.

The main features of this report were that Queen Supayalat was housed in a rickety old building in Rangoon, that her pension of 166 pounds (2,500 rupees) a month was less than a half of what she had at Ratnagiri, and that she had been deprived of her lands and of her historic jewels, one of which, the "Ngamauk," was said to be "worth a kingdom."

In spite of this bill of complaint the Burmese Government did not consider that any change in the Queen's establishment was necessary.

The Queen is dead! Recently she suffered a heart attack. So Thibaw's Queen passes on, but her little namesake will marca triumphantly down the centuries and the Queen will live only in the reflected glory that comes to her from having had such a colorful and charming Burmese belle named for her.

LAP RACE FEATURE OF WINTER EVENT

Felt That Non-Stop Race Did Not Give Eastern Dogs a Chance.

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 11, (By Canadian Press).—The programme arranged by The Pas Winter Carnival committee, it is stated will surpass all previous efforts attempted. The carnival will be staged from January 26 to 29, inclusive.

The feature attraction will be a lap race extending over a period of three days. A number of entries already have been received, these including many of the premier mushers in the country and what is reputed to be the fastest long-distance dogs in the world.

By way of an experiment, the course this year has been changed, as it was felt that the gruelling 200-mile non-stop race did not give an opportunity to eastern dogs to compete with a fair chance of success. From the spectator's viewpoint, it is also regarded that a lap race will prove more popular. Previously hundreds have witnessed the start of the classic and then for another twenty-four hours have known very little as to the progress of the contestants.

In Alaska and northern Manitoba, dogs are indispensable in the work of trading, survey and discovery. All through the north country dogs are used by prospectors and pioneers in search of minerals and new settlements, and by traders in transporting supplies to their posts.

In the work of patrolling the northern wastes, the Mounted Police find themselves helpless without their four-footed friends. Fishermen use them to haul their catches to market and the government mails are carried to far northern posts by dog teams.

Great pains are taken by promoters of the race and mushers alike to avoid hardships and cruelty to the animals. It is a unwritten rule that makes it obligatory to return with every dog with which the musher started.

The time of the race does not depend so much upon the actual speed of the dogs as the weather and trail conditions that prevail during the race. In past years the competitors have faced the most trying Arctic conditions, extreme sub-zero temperatures, blizzards and other obstacles. Despite these conditions, the average time for the distance has been exceptionally fast.

A freight race for working dogs also has been arranged. This race is for teams having not less than five dogs, all used for commercial work. The country hitch must be used and each team will have to carry a load of 100 pounds, just sufficient to prevent the driver from riding. The programme includes many popular winter sports, including curling, skating, snowshoeing, hockey and skiing.

NEW TUNNEL FOR NIAGARA.

The old Beddell stairway leading down past the "Rock of Ages" and into the Cave of the Winds at Niagara Falls is to be abandoned, says "Popular Science Monthly." A new subterranean passage 200 feet long has been bored through the great cliff over which the falls roar, connecting with a shaft sunk straight down from the surface of Goat Island. At the mouth of the shaft is a peninsula named "Clearwater View," which affords a marvelous close-up view of the falls.

Cheques and postal-orders are frequently found among the waste paper removed by the Salvation Army from City offices.

YOUTHFUL HUNTERS BAGGED WEASLES

Two Boys, Armed to the Teeth, Went Northward in Search of Adventure.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Jan. 11. (By Canadian Press).—Armed with two rifles, a fair supply of ammunition and a little cash, Kenneth Gingrich, 16, and his brother Orville, 14, left their home in Regina recently to seek adventure in the north country.

The plans of the youthful pair were rudely shaken on their arrival here. Orville told his brother that he was too ill to proceed farther. He called at the office of a local medical practitioner, who diagnosed his symptoms as those of measles. Both were placed in quarantine.

The adventurers left their parental roof more than a month ago for Prince Albert, and then headed for the hunting country. After trekking forty miles on foot, they established headquarters in an old, abandoned shack in the woods. Game was lacking so they decided to change their field of operation. Orville claims it is much easier to catch disease than anything else. As hunters, he says the pair were good lumberjacks.

WORLD COURT FOES SLIPPING

78 U. S. Senators Reported Pledged to Vote for Court.

RECENT SETBACKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Opinion that the opposition to the World Court resolution has blown up and it is only a question of days until it will be adopted is general as result of the decisive test vote on the subject Wednesday.

Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri several days ago offered a resolution calling for a Senate investigation of alleged propaganda of foreign governments and American International bankers in favor of the World Court and the pending foreign debt settlements. The Foreign Relations Committee disapproved the resolution but authorized Senator Reed to report it adversely to the Senate. Senator Reed made this report and then asked unanimous consent for consideration of the resolution, despite the committee report against it. Unanimous consent was given and after Reed had spoken for more than two hours the resolution was defeated by a vote of 54 to 16.

Not Exact Criterion.

The vote is not an exact criterion of sentiment on the World Court resolution but so far as it errs in this regard it is in the direction of magnifying the opposition. At least six of the senators who voted for the Reed resolution will vote in favor of the court, while a number of court supporters were absent. The fifty-four senators who voted against the Reed resolution did so, it appears, without exception because they believed it was designed primarily to delay the vote on the court and to provide material for bolstering up the rapidly failing opposition.

Administration leaders declare there are now 78 senators pledged to vote for the court and against any reservations that may be offered on the floor. Of the remaining 18 senators, not so pledged, only 11 are listed as opposing the court to the last ditch. Seven senators are either undecided or committed to vote for one or more reservations.

Leaders in opposition to the court do not admit the correctness of this poll, but they are unable to count more than 11 senators definitely their way. They long ago admitted that there were plenty of votes pledged to adopt the resolution if it were immediately voted on and that their only hope lay in delaying the decision until they could bring popular pressure to bear to change the lineup.

Norris Flops.

The most serious blow the opposition has suffered was a statement last week from George W. Norris of Nebraska that he would vote for the court with proper reservations. Norris was among the most active opponents of the League of Nations and the Treaty of Versailles and he had been counted on as one of the big guns of the antis in the court debate. His sudden change of front not only diminished the oratorical power of the opposition but it turned a number of other wavering senators into the pro-court column.

Another factor in weakening the opposition has been the grilling to which its speakers have been subjected. Senator William E. Borah, leader of the opposition, made an extended speech on the second day of the debate. From a purely oratorical standpoint it was a brilliant effort but when he had concluded his set speech he was engaged in colloquy by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, and the universal opinion of the spectators was that Borah in this bout came off second best.

Senator Reed was even worse mangled in this period of speechmaking Wednesday. Senators Walsh, Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia and William H. King of Utah, all Democrats, took turns in shooting at him with most remarkable success in bringing out the weakness of his arguments, so far as then pertained to the World Court.

Senator Reed talked much of a court ruled by "foreign judges." Senator Walsh asked him if he could conceive of any sort of international court that did not include some foreign judges. In reply to the charge that the judges would represent solely the nations from which they came, Walsh cited three specific decisions of the court, in which judges actually had voted against their own countries.

HOME GROWN HEMP FOR NEW INDUSTRY

Quality of Manitoba Product Equals That of Other Recognized Centres.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 11, (By Canadian Press).—An industry that may prove of importance to the farmers of Manitoba is being quietly organized by a group of business men in Winnipeg. It is proposed to establish a twine and cordage factory in the city and the plans call for the manufacture of cord and twine from hemp grown in the province.

That hemp may be successfully grown in Manitoba has been proven by various experiments and field tests carried out during the past five years. The quality of the Manitoba product compares favorably with hemp produced in what are regarded as the special hemp producing areas of the world, of Italy in the Old World, Wisconsin and Kentucky on this continent.

Not only has the high quality of the hemp grown been proved, but prospects for the permanent establishment of the industry within the province, are further enhanced by the fact that the dominion government last year granted a bounty of $125,000 per annum for a period of eight years, on hemp and yarn manufactured in this country, and to encourage hemp production. The bounty starts during the present year at the rate of 1-½c a pound.

Hemp grown in five different districts in Western Canada in 1925 did well. A crop of from three to five tons per acre has been raised and in one case, where fertilizer was used, nearly six tons per acre, worth up to $15 a ton at the factory.

Official records show that Manitoba hemp at about $12 a ton will net the farmer the equivalent of wheat figured at $30 an acre.

The Manitoba Agricultural College has grown considerable hemp from year to year and according to Prof. T. J. Harrison, Manitoba can provide all the hemp that can be used in the province, if proper methods are employed. He asserts that hemp is an ideal summerfallow crop before wheat and a most valuable addition as a rotation crop and weed killer. In Wisconsin, the great hemp-growing state of the United States, each farmer follows a regular four-year rotation, usually corn, hemp, small grain and clover. Here the rotation favored is hemp, wheat, oats or barley and sweet clover.

H. Wilson, for many years managing director of the Belfast Rope Works in Ireland, will be in charge of the Winnipeg factory.

CENTREVILLE W.M.S. HAS FIRST MEETING

New President, Mrs. H. Tate, Was in Chair—Weather Unsuitable.

The W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church, Centreville, held their first meeting of the New Year on Wednesday, January 6, at the home of Mrs. A. S. Hall. The new president, Mrs. H. Tate, in charge. The usual routine of business was discussed and different ladies were appointed in each section to look after the making of quilts and other articles for distant fields. The new study book was ably handled by Mrs. Harper. Mrs. Hutchinson rendered a piano solo in her good style. The fees for the year were collected by the treasurer. The Secretary, Mrs. Ishister, read the minutes and correspondence, which was fully discussed.

Among the ladies present were: Mrs. Levi Byers (Hon. Pres.), Mrs. Harold Tate, Mrs. McGill, Mrs. Isbister, Mrs. McRoberts, Miss E. Tate, Mrs. Bonar, Mrs. E. Anderson, Mrs. J. White, Mrs. W. Bradshaw, Miss E. Donaldson, Mrs. May Byers, Miss Murdock, Miss V. Bradshaw, Mrs. B. Huggins, Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Skitch, Mrs. J. Hutchinson, Miss H. Staples, Mrs. J. Moncrief.

Owing to the disagreeable conditions of the roads and weather, many were prevented from being present. Mr. Harold Tate, Mr. Way Byers, Mr. Jas. Hutchinson and M. Bradshaw kindly brought their cars and sleighs for the conveyance of the ladies. After the meeting lunch was served by the ladies of Centreville and a very enjoyable time was spent together. Mrs. Way Byers kindly offered the use of her home for the February meeting.

The only perfect score marked up at any State trapshooting tournament in 1925 was that of E. B. Forsgard, who broke 200 straight targets in winning the Texas State championship.

ENFORCING THE O.T.A.

The Provincial Police Force is coming in for some criticism in Toronto because of its failure to do anything to stop the flagrant violation of the Ontario Temperance Act that is said to have marked the celebration of the New Year in the Queen City.

The explanation from the heads of the force that the Provincial officers could not patrol from the streets but were ready if their services were called upon, will not strike most people as an adequate defence.

It seems reasonable to assume that the Provincial force must have had reason to expect that the temperance regulations would be severely strained, to say the least, at the various public New Year's Eve celebrations, and if they had been anxious to secure convictions would not have had much difficulty in obtaining evidence.

Investigations days after the offences complained of are a poor substitute for action at the proper time, and it is not likely that the inquiries now being made will produce a very lengthy list of offenders.

The incidents in connection with New Year's night, as well as the amount of flask-toting that is done at public dances in all parts of the Province, demonstrate a disregard for the Ontario Temperance Act that is apparently increasing the longer the measure remains on the statute books, and the alleged laxity of the Provincial police in the recent Toronto episodes does not help to increase respect for the measure.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

The new Council will shortly have to face the task of preparing its budget for the year.

The annual problem of arranging the estimates is a matter of great difficulty that becomes increasingly more so when Aldermen are sincere in their attempts to institute a policy of retrenchment and to pare down expenditures.

It is a difficult task to decide just where the axe should be applied.

Necessary services must be maintained on an efficient basis or there are complaints loud and long from the citizens.

Much of the expenditure is beyond the control of the Council, thus adding to the complicated nature of the problem.

To reduce the expenditure that is controllable without allowing any department to deteriorate is a ticklish job that calls for the earnest attention of members of the Council.

The Examiner on Saturday mentioned the case of the Public Library, which illustrates how sometimes it is possible to use the pruning knife too closely.

Through inability to purchase enough current fiction last year, the Library Board has had to watch the circulation drop by 5,000 in a year and to see the books in the Library so much affected by wear and tear that more than 2,000 volumes have had to go to the repair department.

It does not need much thought to see where a continuation of such a policy in connection with the Library for three or four years would leave that institution.

And the same thing would apply to other public departments, which is just another evidence of how difficult a task the preparation of civic estimates is when undertaken concientiously by members of the Council.

BRITISH JUSTICE.

A correspondent of the "Voice of the People" column has found fault with the Examiner for the prominence it gave to a Police Court case involving Sir Basil Thompson, formerly one of the heads of Scotland Yard.

We can only say that the treatment given this story was justified by its importance.

Apparently our correspondent has missed the most outstanding feature of this unpleasant case, a feature that caused the Examiner to regard the report of the proceedings as important enough to be prominently displayed.

The big point in the Thompson case is the light it throws upon the even-handed manner in which the law is administered in Great Britain.

Here was a case where one of the most prominent law enforcement officers in England was seen by constables in what they considered a compromising situation, was promptly arrested and charged with an offence, brought into court, convicted and fined.

Contrast that record with what would have happened in many cities across the border under similar circumstances.

The policeman who happened to see a high official involved in a situation of this kind would have remained discreetly silent, knowing very well that any attempt to prosecute the official would merely result in the constable himself being "broken."

And if he happened to be a policeman with sufficient hardihood to make the arrest the lieutenant in the station-house to which he brought his prisoner would promptly turn the offender loose, tell the constable to forget all about it, and the policeman who did his duty would be extremely lucky if his uniform was not taken away from him.

The Sir Basil Thompson case shows that there is no regard for position or rank in the administration of justice in the Old Land, and because of that fact the Examiner has no apology to make for giving prominence to the story.

THE UNITED STATES AND WAR PROFITS.

The United States did not get rich out of the war. She put forty billion dollars into the war, promptly raised her taxes to the highest pitch and issued bonds for only part of her war costs and for all the ten billions advanced to the Allies. That ten billion sustained the lira, the franc and the pound sterling at par. This sustenance of credit was worth, in home and foreign purchases to these nations, at least another ten billion.

In other words, the ten billions advanced from the United States to the fighting nations in Europe not only purchased war supplies but, by maintaining their gold standards, saved ten billions more in the prices they would have had to pay, both at home and abroad, had not this credit been extended. Several billions of the money advanced by the United States was spent in South America and other countries for war provisions.

By heavy taxation the United States has already paid more than one-half its own direct war cost. But there is a war cost that the people of the United States have paid that the people of Europe have never seen. Ask any of them to point to American fortunes made by the war and they cannot do it. They only know, in general terms, that we are a rich people and therefore they believe we must have made money out of the war. It is inconceivable to them that we should have gone broke on the war and made our money afterwards; but such is nearer the truth.

In the first place, the Government at war destroyed our railroad system and brought its one billion dollars of annual net earnings down to nothing. Only in the year 1925 has this net return been restored—in the seventh year after the war. There was, therefore, a depreciation of many billions in our railroad securities, and this has not yet been restored.

The Bethlehem Steel Co. was the one great ordnance plant in the United States. It gave first succor to England and the Allies. Bethlehem's war plant was expanded by hundreds of millions of dollars, but today Bethlehem is still off the dividend list, and the stockholders would be better off it there had never been a European war. So much for ordnance.

The first order to America for gunpowder was the British order to the du Ponts for a hundred million pounds at a dollar a pound, or about twice the previous market price. But the majority of this money went into plant which had to be charged off, and the du Pont people have made their money since the war in motors and chemistry.

They imported, over the protests of the German Government and people, many German chemists. By their industry and enterprise since the war they have brought forth many far-reaching inventions, notably the enameling paint used on motors which enables American motor-car manufacturers to reduce the time of painting their cars from three and four weeks to three and four days, releasing millions of capital formerly tied up in the motor industry.

As for food supplies, one would expect to look for war profits to Chicago. But there is not a Chicago packer that is not poorer today by reason of the war.

Here is the record in transportation, shells, powder and beef that went to the aid of the Allies, and the record might be indefinitely extended to include boots, shoes, clothing, leather and copper, etc.—all of them sufferers of the war and not yet recovered.

How, then, is America so rich?

Because, instead of following the example of Europe and cutting the hours of labor after the war, as did Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain, the United States went to work, as did no other country; paid the highest wages and multiplied the output of men and machines in peaceful pursuits.

She built a new system of transportation, thousands of miles of macadam, cement and Warren-bithulithic highways from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Canadian border to Mexico and Florida. Of her twenty million motors thereon, more than ten million have been built since the war. She has multiplied homes, office buildings, schoolhouses and public buildings until our English cousins stand aghast at our audacity in piling brick on brick and steel atop of steel.

Eiffel Towers are only a beginning for American office buildings. But the money did not come out of the war or war profits. We kept the war price of coal and multiplied the output. We more than doubled the output of oil and the service of oil to the whole world. We have not abated in labor upon the land. The fruit of our orchards has increased, and if our corn went so low that it could be burned for fuel, we still made pork and lard for the world and supplied our cotton at good prices for world consumption.

The great fact and factor is that we cut neither hours, wages nor production and, as values rose and changed hands, we taxed the profit from the increment of value as did no other country.

We maintained the more than 120 per cent. increase in the price of wages, but we cut our living costs, by machinery and more efficient transportation, so that it stands only about 60 per cent. above the pre-war basis—an advance representing less than half the advance in wages. The wages of steel workers, masons, carpenters and other builders were advanced above the average advance in wages; but the cost of building has increased by only 53 per cent to 55 per cent.

The answer to Europe is that while Germany cut her day to eight hours and added 400,000 men to her railway service, and France cut her railroad hours from 12 to eight and added 300,000 men to her railroad service, and England cut her wages in coal mining and reduced the time to seven hours and, at the behest of tyrannical labor unions, paid doles to shipbuilders who should have been building homes, the United States dug into its soil, bored for more oil, mined for more coal, produced more steel, paid more to labor and got more from labor, and what labor produced labor consumed, and from the sum total of all, the Government collected—taxes! taxes! taxes!

In brief, the United States faced its war losses, but capitalized the energies of war; rebuilt and recreated until today you may value the United States at 50 billions more than at the close of the war.

America did not make its money by the war or by war profits. It made its money by its own energies, labors and inventions and from its high standards since the war.—Barron's.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

At all events there should be no complaints of tediousness in connection with the proceedings at Ottawa.

A report says that the Progressives will support the Government "to a man." But just where does that leave Miss Agnes McPhail?

Mr. Bourassa, M.P., should be the happiest man in the House. He is a party of one and therefore is his own Whip, never has a division in caucus, and is always able to marshal his full voting strength whenever it is needed.

Canadian curlers touring Scotland will be able to sample a "wee deoch an' doris" in its home surroundings.

Peterboro's new Aldermen will get their first views of the civic government from the inside at tonight's meeting, after a brief sample during this morning's proceedings.

TWO PROMOTED; PLACES VACANT

Liberals Have Not Chosen Candidates For Two Old Country Seats.

NONE SUITABLE.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Liberals have been unable to find a suitable candidate for the by-election in the county of Dumbartonshire, necessitated by the elevation of D. P. Fleming, K.C., M.P., Solicitor General for Scotland, to the Scottish bench. The Conservative candidate is Lt.-Col. J. G. Thom and the Labor candidate is W. H. Martin.

It is also anticipated that a similar political situation will develop in East Renfrewshire, where there is a by-election as the result of the promotion of A. M. MacRobert K.C., Conservative member, to the Solicitor Generalship of Scotland in succession to D. P. Fleming. MacRobert is seeking re-election on account of his appointment as Solicitor General. He is being opposed by Rev. John Munro of Falkirk, Labor candidate. So far the Liberals have not chosen a candidate in East Renfrewshire.

A THOUGHT.

HOW LONG WOULD YOU?

When a child acts cranky there is a reason back of the rebellion. It may be bad blood, bad breeding or environment, but you will find there is a reason.

You will find very often the child sulks because of bad teeth, is cross on account of a headache caused by poor eyesight, or the child may go out on a rampage from sheer nerves.

Punishing a child with a whip or spanking a kid with a slipper is not corrective. It is ignorant cruelty.

When I see a parent of a child the act always arouses my curiosity as to the kids physical condition, and always arouses my indignation over such ignorance on the part of the parent.

How long would you, as a grown-up, stand a beating two or three times a week without making the same moves that a child makes?

CONVENTIONS HAVE COMPLETE AGENDA

Farmers and Wives Enabled To Attend Conference—Important Subjects.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 11 (By Canadian Press).—With the ninth annual convention of the United Farm Women of Manitoba opening at Brandon, Man., on January 12, and the twenty-third annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba the day following, an agenda covering many important subjects has been prepared.

Delegates from all parts of the province will attend and addresses will be given by Premier John Bracken, Hon. R. W. Craig, attorney-general, and other men prominent in political, agricultural and other walks of life.

The address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Cater of Brandon.

At the women's convention a report on immigration will be given by Mrs. F. Howell, followed by an address on public health and social welfare by Miss M. Johnson. Following the report of the board of directors, A. J. M. Poole, president of the U. F. M., will address the conference. Reports on the work of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the women's marketing committee, organization and legislative will take up the major portion of the opening day. Several addresses dealing with farm problems are included on the agenda, while officers for the ensuing term will be elected by both organizations.

In conjunction with the meeting, the Manitoba Livestock association and other cattle breeders' organizations will hold their annual sessions.

BIG COAL MERGER.

Fourteen Companies Capitalized at $10,000,000.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—The merger of fourteen leading coal companies of Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky, under the name of the Wakenna Coal Company, with a capital of $10,000,000, has been announced by officials of the new company.

The companies included in the merger have been shipping a million and a half tons of coal yearly. Among companies merged are the Hazard Blue Grass Company, the Walkers Branch Mining Company, the Hill Creek Coal Company, the Camp Branch Coal Company, the Floyd Elkhorn Consolidated Company, and the Lewis Creek Banner Company.

Indian Woman Advocates Military Training Course

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(United Press).—A complete course of military training as a part of national education and the creation of a national militia by "voluntary conscription" were advocated for India by Mrs. Harojina Naidu, the first woman President of the Indian National Congress at Cawnpore.

Mrs. Naidu, originally a Pacificist, declared that the Indians ought to be able to "answer a world challenge to their manhood," and held that military education would provide this ability.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 9—Wheat underwent a sharp break in price today and did much to make the corn market recede from a new advance. Heavy selling of wheat was done by houses with eastern connections and was accompanied by an unofficial estimate of 140,000,000 bushels exportable surplus in Argentina. Wheat market closed weak, 1 1-8 to 2 3-8c net lower, new style, May 1.77 1-3 to 1.77 1-2 and July 1.52 to 1.52 1-4, with corn unchanged to 3-8c higher, oats unchangd to 1-8c off, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 7c.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 10—Saturday's export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market was quiet owing to the fact that the bulk of the bids received were out of line.

The feature of the market on Saturday was the demand from some exporters for Manitoba spring wheat to fill ocean freight room engaged and sales of 40,000 bushels No. 1 Northern were made at 11 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C.I.F. bay ports which was an advance of one cent per bushel on previous purchases, and 16,000 bushels No. 2 Northern was sold at seven cents per bushel over the same option, C.I.F. bay ports.

The receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 491 cases, as against nil for the same day last week, and 233 cass for the corresponding day a year ago while the arrivals for the week ending January 9, 1926, were 6,527 cases, as compared with 3,858 cases for the previous week, and 1,342 cases for the same week last year. The total receipts last week showed an increase of 5,185 cases with the same week last year, but the total from May 1, 1925, to January 9, 1926, have been 36,816 cases smaller than the same period a year ago.

Owing to the above an easier feeling has also prevailed in the storage egg situation during the past week and prices for some grades were reduced 1c to 2c per dozen, but at the lower level the consumption was good and in consequence stocks on spot are being steadily reduced, and the general feeling in the trade is that they will all be moved before the advent of large receipts of fresh eggs. The market closed steady.

Poultry Market

A feature of the dressed poultry trade stock this day week has been the weaker feeling that prevailed in the market for turkeys and prices scored a further decline of 3c per lb. which was attributed to the fact that supplies came forward more liberally than were generally expected by the trade for which the demand was somewhat disappointing and sales on Saturday were made at 32c to 35c per lb. which is a drop of 10c to 12c per lb. from the highest prices that were realized during Christmas week.

The receipts of butter in Montreal for the week ending January 9, 1926, were 1,152 packagkes which show an increase of 320 packages, as compared with the previous week, and an incrase of 401 packages with the same week last year, but the total arrivals fom May 1, 1925, to date have been 50,205 packages less than the same period of 1924-25.

There was no actual change in the condition of the market last week, prices having ruled steady throughout owing to the fact that supplies available on spot were ample to meet all requirements for the time being. The demand showed some improvement and a very fair amount of business was done. For both local and outside account and the market on the whole was more active.

The receipts of cheese for the week ending January 9, 1926, were 2,048 boxes which show an increase of 1,250 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 271 boxes with the same week last year, and the total receip's from May 1, 1925, to date have been 97,351 boxes in excess of the same period a year ago.

The export business in cheese has continued quiet and the market in consequence is without any special feature to note, except that cable advices towards the close of the week were much firmer than they have been of late. On spot prices were nominally unchanged with cary makes quoted at 20 1-2c to 21c per lb., and current receipts at 17 1-2c to 18c per lb.

Sterling cables—$4.86.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 10 — The egg movement in large consuming centres of the east is becoming very dull. Price declines having not yet reached the stage where consumption is taking care of the increased production.

Prices at Ontario country centres are very unsettled, Hamilton dealers are quoting country points: extras 40 to 45c, firsts 37 to 40c, seconds 30 to 32.

Montreal egg situation is still bad but sales should improve in volume next week as retailers reduce their prices. Fresh extras are still retailing at 70. Jobbing prices of fresh extras are as low as 42 and firsts 40 with sales almost impossible to make as wholesale trade is well supplied, particularly with British Columbia eggs. Wholesalers selling retail fresh extras at 52, firsts 47, pullets 42, storage extras 44. Prairie markets unchanged.

CARDINAL STRONGER.

King Albert of Belgium Visited Mercier.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 11 (Canadian Prss) — King Albert again visited Cardinal Mercier Sunday and conversd briefly with him. He found the aged prelate slightly stronger than Saturday.

The operation which Cardinal Mercier underwent for a lesion of the stomach has not fulfilled the expectations of the physicians, who hoped that it would remedy a long existing condition that impaired the digestion processes. The patient, even now, is not able to assimilate his food, and this lack of nourishment is retarding his recovery.

Robins, Butterflies and Golfers Seen In Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 11.—So mild has been the weather in December and January in Southern Alberta that not only is there no snow on the ground, but the rivers are running free as in summer and an ice famine looms before the ice companies. Golf was played here during the past week, robins seen, and one citizen chased a butterfly. Records of 24 years fail to show such a long period of summer-like weather in the heart of the winter season.

ANNIVERSARY OF TRINITY CHURCH

Rev. S. D. Chown Was the Special Preacher—Founded 41 Years Ago.

TRINITY 11 YEARS OLD.

Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general Superintendent of the Methodist Church at the time of Union, was the special preacher at the anniversary services at Trinity United Church yesterday. The occasion marked the forty first anniversary of the old Charlotte street Methodist church, and the eleventh anniversary of the dedication of Trinity United, and was featured by special music rendered by the choir of the church and visiting artists.

Dr. Chown spoke on the law of holiness from the text, "Be ye holy, for I am holy." Dr. Chown stated that everything must be concentrated on the success and development of the United Church. He said that the people should take the best things in Methodism, and likewise Presbyterians also, with them to spread scriptural holiness throughout the world. Holiness is the supreme natural law of the universe, and this world when it is redeemed from sin will be a holy place. People, he said, often remarked that they would like to be Christians, but they can't feel like taking the responsibilities of a holy life. Every man, woman and child is born under the responsibility of obeying this law of holiness. People should not be almost but altogether Christians. The whole function of the Church of Jesus Christ, he said, is to restore people to the image of God and everyone when they come to God must yield themselves entirely to Him. This law is the expression of the infinite love of God. Most people if they must learn must change their attitude. The primary purpose of the pulp of an apple is not for eating but is to protect the seed, and so it is with the law of holiness.

"This is only the seedtime of life," said the speaker, "and if we keep ourselves clean and pure we shall partake of the benefits of holiness. We are so constituted," he said, "that ideas do not help us very much—our fate controls our life. If we want to be better than pleasure seekers we must believe in something better than the pleasure seekers do. It is because a Christian believes in Christ that he follows Him, and the inner power that changes his so is the love of God getting into his heart."

TREES' HEARTS BEAT SCIENTIST STATES

Indian Savant Makes Test With Sensitive Galvanometer.

CALCUTTA (United Press), Jan. 11.—Plants and trees have a pulsating heart beat.

This fact has just been demonstrated by Sir Jagadish Bose, the eminent Indian scientist, by the use of an extremely delicate probe in an electric circuit with a sensitive galvanometer. It showed that electric pulsations were generated corresponding to the mechanical pulsations of the heart of the plant.

The movement of the heart of the plants is less than one-millionth part of an inch, and it is magnified ten million times through the use of a sensative magnetic amplifier.

The discovery of the heart-beat of plants follows closely on Sir Jagadish's recently announced discovery that plants are in possession of muscular tissue.

JAP PICTURE BRIDES FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Oriental Lady Designs Plan to Comfort Alien Benedicts.

TOKYO (United Press), Jan. 11.—Ten thousand at present lonely Japanese bachelors in Mexico and South America will be made happy with mates from their homeland next year if the plan being worked up by Mrs. Kiyo Tarama, wife of the Japanese consul at San Patilo, Brazil, and endorsed by the authorities in Japan matures as she hopes.

Before she sails she hopes to have a number of bride selecting organizations at work, picking out eligible wives for Japanese pioneers abroad. She estimates that in Brazil there are homes waiting for 5,000 brides from Japan, 2,000 in the Argentine, 1,000 in Mexico, and 2,000 in other South and Central American countries.

STATE MAY ASSIST WESTERN FARMERS

Washington Officials Adjusting Plans For Legislation To Cure Ills.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Cheering news came to the grain belt in the announcement from Washington that the administration and farm bloc were in agreement as to the best means of tackling the farm surplus problems.

As the mid-western farm representatives turned the light on the ills of the tillers of the soil, and mapped out plans for the betterment of the situation, Washington officials laid out plans for legislation for aid in the same direction.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine endorsed the majority of the proposals in the House bill to help the exportation of the surplus. The bill was drafted after conferences with several farm organizations. Author Representative Dickinson has maintained that under the bill the government would not engage in private business, but would only appropriate money for the salaries and expenses of the governing board and that no elements of price fixing were involved.

ENGLISH OF CONFEDERATION WORN THIN BY NEGLECT DISMARITIME PROVINCES AND REST OF CANADA MUST Some OW MAKE SOME SACRIFICES FOR AN UNITED NATION By Appeal by Major Hume Cronyn of London, Ont., in Addendum to Coal Report.

TO WHOLE COUNTRY

Proposes Increased Tariff on Coal—Establishment of Coking Ovens.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 11 (Canadian Press). — Appealing to his friends of Quebec and Ontario and through them to the people of Canada to overlook the pecuniary sacrifices involved and "take the necessary measure to safeguard the welfare of our brothers by the sea," Major Hume Cronyn, of London, Ontario, one of the members of the Royal Commission which last week completed an exhaustive investigation of the Nova Scotia coal industry, under the chairmanship of Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, furnished an addendum to the report in which he endorses the representations made at Ottawa in December, 1924, by the delegation headed by ex-Premier E. Armstrong.

The text of Major Cronyn's addendum follows:

"The commission as a whole did not feel warranted in expressing an opinion on some of the remedies suggested for relief of the coal industry for relief of the coal industry in Nova Scotia.

"These remedies touched on matters within both Provincial and Dominion control and of necessity involved a pronouncement on the questions which for more than a generation have been the subject of political discussion.

"The chairman of the commission coming as he does from Great Britain and being out of close touch with our past controversies, felt that it might be considered an impertinence were he to attempt to pronounce upon problems which must by their very nature be left to the judgment and decision of the people of Canada.

"My colleagues, however, have agreed to give me an opportunity of expressing my personal opinion in the following addendum to our report.

"As will later appear, the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec would be more directly and perhaps even adversely affected by the remedies suggested than would other portions of our country.

"As a native and resident of the one, and a lifelong admirer of the other, I take the liberty of making this appeal on behalf, not only of Nova Scotia, but, indeed of the well-being of our Dominion as a whole.

Irregular Employment.

"It will appear from our report that one, perhaps the greatest, cause of distress and discontent is due to irregularity of employment in the mines. At the moment this statement is being penned there have been further outbreaks of violence in Cape Breton due to lack of employment with the destitution and ill-feeling consequent thereon.

"The reasons for unemployment have already been explained, but to my mind that one which overshadows all others is the inability of Nova Scotia coals to compete in the St. Lawrence markets with those imported from the United States. This condition is due to the fact that in certain of the American coal fields, notably those of West Virginia, coal can be produced at a much lower cost than is possible in Eastern Canada. Some of the factors explanatory of this lower cost may be briefly set out:

"1—The ease with which the coal can be mined and conveyed to the pit mouth.

"2—The absence of gas and the benefit accruing from natural drainage.

"3—The many economies possible due to the fact that submarine mining is unknown, whereas more than half the output in Nova Scotia is mined several miles under the sea.

"The marked difference in mining costs due to the above causes enable American coals to be transported, largely by water, from the field named, and, after payment of the present Canadian import duty of 50 cents per ton, to be sold in Montreal and other Canadian markets at prices below the actual cost of production and transportation of Nova Scotia coal.

Increase Import Duty

"Most of the estimates suggested and set out below, were forcibly brought to the attention of the Dominion Government in December, 1924, by a representative delegation headed by the then Premier of Nova Scotia. It would be a lengthy and perhaps unprofitable task to examine in detail the merits of each; suffice it to say that in my opinion, the two first-named are those best fitted to bring relief to what is little less than a national calamity.

"First—Federal assistance towards the establishment of coking ovens. This remedy has been fully discussed in Section 36 of our report and need not be further elaborated.

"Second—A substantial increase in the import duty on all bituminous coal and anthracite screenings or, in the alternative a federal bounty on coal shipped from the Maritimes to Montreal or beyond, and on coal shipped from Alberta or British Columbia to Winnipeg or eastward.

"Third—Imposition of duty upon coal imported for steel making and metallurgial procession, or for the production of coke.

"Fourth — The negotiating of a treaty with the United States providing for the abolition of duties on coal by both that country and Canada.

"Fifth—The extention in application, amount and duration of the subvention granted in 1924, whereby the cost of transportation by rail of maritime and western coals may be lessened.

"As already stated, the establishment of by-product coking plants and the imposition of a higher duty on importations of bituminous coal or Federal assistance by way of bounties, appeal to me as the best methods of aiding native industries handicapped by conditions imposed by their nature and geographical positions.

Answer to Economists

"The economist may logically ask why an industry which cannot survive competition should be allowed to exist, and consumers in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario may denounce any increase in the tariff as that must inevitably raise the price of bituminous coal. As one whose academic training has been that of the Manchester school, I must admit the cogency of both question and denunciation. But there are considerations involved in this problem which transcend cold-blooded political economy or even the losses which may fall on the more thickly settled portions of Canada.

"May I attempt in the briefest fashion to outline those considerations.

"More than one-fifth of the population of the Province of Nova Scotia are directly dependent upon its coal industries and the subsidiaries thereof, and over 12 per cent. of the revenues of the province are derived from the royalties paid on coal mined. After spending weeks on the ground and discussing the question with many residents of the province in all walks of life, I concur in the statement made by the deputation before mentioned that 'it is not possible to exaggerate the calamitous consequences to Canada should coal mining in Nova Scotia be permitted to decline.'

Maritime Resentment.

"Let us consider but two of these consequences. We in Ontario are accustomed, if not hardened, to the accusation made in the Prairie Provinces that the East treats the West unfairly, but the sense of grievances unredressed which prompts this charge is as nothing to the depths of feeling which exist in the Maritimes against the Central provinces of Ontario and Quebec. That resentment is of old standing and one of its causes is the belief that the Atlantic provinces were more or less cajoled into Confederation by promises and alluring prospects which have failed of fulfillment. It is indeed not going too far to say that the tie of sentiment which binds Nova Scotia to the Dominion has worn very thin.

"If then, we of the central provinces are unwilling to sacrifice something of our prosperity on the altar of common citizenship to aid, perhaps indeed to save, the main industry of Nova Scotia we may witness an estrangement of far-reaching consequences.

East Demands Relief.

"For it is not exaggerating the situation to say that the inhabitants of the Maritime Provinces are in a frame of mind that insists upon relief from the disadvantages under which they labor.

"My appeal then to my friends (if I may so term them) of Quebec and Ontario and through them to the Parliament of Canada, is on the highest ground of national unity. Let us, overlooking the pecuniary sacrifices involved, take the necessary measure to safeguard the welfare of our brothers by the sea.

"The second calamitous consequence to Central Canada which might follow collapse of coal mining in Nova Scotia will become clear if we but exercise sufficient foresight to discover what will be the probable course of events in regard to the supply of American anthracite upon which today we almost wholly depend for domestic heating. As our report sets forth, the lifetime of the mines from which we are supplied is limited and their exhaustion is already in sight. At the same time the demand for the American market has enormously increased. In the light of former actions, political and otherwise, and bearing in mind the warnings already given us, we need not be surprised if at some not far distant future an embargo be placed upon the export of anthracite. Should we not then be forehanded enough to protect ourselves against this day of reckoning by so encouraging the development of a native industry as to have available a plentiful supply of that unexcelled substitute, to wit: Canadian coke.

"Lest objection be taken that from one cause or another Nova Scotia might be unyble to supply the coal or coke necessary for our requirements it is suggested that the increase of the customs tariff or bounty grants should only remain in force so long as it is clear that the supply of the native product is ample for all purposes."

Besco President Silent

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 11—President R. M. Wolvin of the British Empire Steel Corporation did not wish to comment as yet when questioned last night concerning the report of the Sir Andrew Rae Duncan Royal Commission which investigated the coal industry of Nova Scotia.

LOSS HEAVY.

BONAR LAW, Jan. 11. — On Tuesday night Mr. Wickens of the 11th concession of Rawdon had a very narrow escape when his residence was destroyed by fire.

Mr. Wickens was awakened at 1 a.m. by smoke, being nearly suffocated and had barely time to break through a window to safety. His wife was away visiting friends at Ivanhoe, so he was alone at the time. It is thought, an overheated stove was the cause. Very little, if any insurance, was held on the property.

SYRIA FIGHTS FOR NATIONAL FREEDOM

Movement is Effort of People to Form Own Self-Governing State.

(By Gabriel Courtial, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Jan. 11 (United Press).—The Syrian rebellion is a straightforward nationalistic movement without any racial or religious trimmings. Prince Habib Lotfallah, one of the leaders of the Committee on Syrian Union declared in an interview with the United Press.

Traced to his tiny apartment in a well-known Parisian hotel, Prince Habib was found reading with great disdain the lengthy explanations in the French press of the swift-moving events in his native land.

"They are all wrong," he said, "their explanations are much too elaborate. The Syrian movement is not, on the one hand, an uprising of brigands and bandits nor is it, on the other, a religious or philosophical movement. Such words as 'pan-Islamic' and 'pan-Arabic' are meaningless. No, the Syrian movement is a movement of the people in Syria to form their own state, more or less on Western lines, and to govern themselves.

"The new French Commissioner, M. Jouvenel, is a very brilliant, a very competent man, but he will fail completely on his mission unless he keeps constantly in mind the Syrian aspirations. He should study diligently the treaty signed in 1915 between General McMahon and Hussein, as well as the proposals, once taken very seriously, for the establishment of a 'Confederative Constitution' for the Arabian states.

"Syria finds herself, in short, surrounded by states enjoying national governments and she is determined to enjoy similar privileges. But the pledges given to the Syrians during the war have, to put it mildly, been flouted. Hence the disorder and the tumult, the popular excesses, the regrettable warfare."

The Committee on Syrian Union, said the Prince, has headquarters in Geneva where regularly it presses its case upon the members of the Assembly and the Council. It includes a wide representation from the aristrocracy of Syria, including some prominent members of the Druse community now in active military revolt

The committee is headed by Prince Michael Lotfallah and includes Sheik Rachid Rodah, vice-chairman, and others. While deploring the warfare into which the country has been plunged, the Prince said that the Union was determined to press steadily for the calling of a constitutional convention in Syria to determine the form of government after which a friendly treaty with France would effect the withdrawal of her troops.

CHAPTER XVIII.

By George Agnew Chamberlain.

It can be imagined that Moorelands, under its long virginal regency, had not been much given to indiscriminate hospitality. In spite of the outcrop of sporting blood in Aunt Celimena, she was still a victim of that high voltage New England reticence which senses a sort of violation in having unattached gentlemen sleeping on the place. As for the presence of Sweetie, that was simply more and worse of the same thing. Never would Aunt Celimena forget or forgive the shock of finding one of her own sex wearing male attire, not in the simpering spirit of a fancy dress ball, but as if she gloried in its opportunities for unmaidenly display. Could the unwilling hostess have had her way, she would have locked Sweetie in the cellar.

Nevertheless, in spite of all the varieties of tension which troubled its inmates, the house finally settled down to an exaggerated calm. A palpitating stillness which was harder on the nerves than any amount of noise teased Connemara with the illusion of peace. Her common sense told her there was no reason whatever why sleep should not come swiftly to her exhausted body, and yet, for what seemed hours on end, sleep played around like a tormenting demon, always just out of reach of her snapping eyelids. She tried to calm herself by thinking how good it was to be safely back in her own room, and instantly her mind was more awake than ever. In all seriousness, she asked herself this double-barreled question: Was she back in her own room, or had she never been away?

Her thoughts began to race and presently became a jumble, a kaleidoscope with a thousand points of light blazing against the immovable seer background of Aunt Celimena. Never had that background changed. Pattering against it like the toy torpedoes of childhood on a wall, rained and burst all the events of her life. Ping! her first and only spanking. Pong! Auteuil, and David Lacy's handsome face, glowing for an instant in the blaze. Boom! and the strange marriage contract. Bang! and she an immaculate nun, stepping into a high powered motor car of foreign make at the mercy of a strangely fascinating young man.

And yet there was one sweet interlude which lived in memory as an indubitable fact. Never would she forget the blessed relief of plunging into the black waters of the Sound, of squirming out of her new-made slip, and finding herself swimming freely in her silk undies, unafraid and unashamed. Before her had shone a pilot light, a head of hair as red as her own.

At the thought of hair, she sat erect and put up her hands to her head. The face of the New York bather leered before her, reminding her that whether she was awake or dreaming she still had a secret to keep. She tried to remember if she had locked her door. She arose, went to it, found that she had turned the key, and started to return to bed; but so dilated were the pupils of her wakeful eyes that she was arrested by the sight of the familiar objects in the room, coming toward her as if out of a mist. Impulsively she walked to the triple mirror and stood before it. How slim and virginal appeared the straight shaft of her body, shining through the filmy drapery of her sheerest chiffon nighty! It seemed so young, so unsullied, surely only in the tortured twistings of a disordered mind had it been exposed to the post-Volsteadian night life of Long Island Sound!

Gradually she perceived her uncovered head. What if she should, in the morning, open the door to her aunt or a tattling maid without remembering to guard her secret? There was a long linen runner on the bureau. She snatched it, bound it around her head, and tied a great butterfly bow above her brows. The confection, which looked like one of those wet-me-not bathing caps you see at Deauville, was almost as fetching as had been the turban before its ruin.

Her mind at rest, she slipped back into bed, drew the sheet up to her chin, and snuggled her face into the pillow. Now, cradled in the memories of her girlhood, soothed by contact with the homely objects she had known all her life—the ponderous mahogany furniture, the ancient hooked rug, her little four-posted bed with its fluted pillars, the patched quilt folded over its foot—she could believe she had never been through the torment of the foregoing night. In fact, its events seemed more than ever improbable. She closed her eyes sleepily, her lips curved in an adorable childlike smile, and she drew a contented sigh. The next instant she was again sitting rigidly erect, staring into the shadows of the room.

A sound only half heard can be more terrifying than a near-by explosion, and it was such a sound, faint and ominous as the ticking of a death watch in the wall, that had galvanized Connemara into a sitting posture. She held her breath and listened until her back ached, then she let her head down to the pillow, and listened some more. Yes; she heard it again—a stealthy footstep in the hall or somewhere in the house below. Someone was striving so intently to walk noiselessly that the faint whisper of a footfall became surcharged with its own threat of disaster until it actually seemed to reverberate in Connie's ears.

Her impulse was to scream, but she suppressed it. In the first place, as the events of the last twenty-four hours had proved, she was not the kind to scream before she was hurt. In the second place, the thought came to her that perhaps only unnecessary scandal would arise from rousing the whole house. She was by nature innocent, and yet no fool. Her personally conducted tour of the Sound had brought in its train a certain amount of awakening of one sort and another. She had seen modern man fight with gats, butts, and iron bars; she had envisaged his primeval prototypes, grappling as savagely as wild beasts and battling with teeth, gouging knuckles, and stamping heel. But the one thing which had implanted a first mental hazard of fear within her was the look she had trapped in Mr. Pooch's glittering slits of eyes as they forged themselves on her bared loveliness even while his groping hands were reaching for her throat.

Her first thought was to put more than a filmy chiffon nighty between herself and the world before she ventured out to meet it. Characteristically enough, she took it for granted that she would creep out, come what may, rather than lie shivering on a warm night with her head under the covers.

She arose, went to a closet, and rummaged in its depth until her fingers encountered a mackintosh. She put it on over her night dress, buttoned it, stole softly to the door, unlocked it, and crept out along the wall. Instantly she felt something like a blown breath fly past her face. She just had time to flatten her back and her outflung hands against the wall when a tremendous Bang! resounded through the house.

1,000 FAMILIES FOR CANADIAN FARMS

Expected Total This Year Under New Scheme.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 11 (Canadian Press)—At the end of December, officials of the Department of Immigration and Colonization in the British Isles reported the acceptance of 422 applicants who will come out this year under the British family settlement scheme. In the last two weeks of the year 130 were accepted according to the Department here. Offials of the Department expect that fullyy 1,000 families, with an average of six to the family, will be approved this year. The first sailing will be in March.

Last year, according to a statement handed out, the number of families settled on farms under the plan was 485 in all about 2,000 men, women and children. Under the scheme the Department will bring out 3,000 British families by the end of 1927. Assisted passages were granted by the British government to a number of the families. Of the families who had payments due, up to November 21st, 1925, ninety-two per cent made their first repayment.

Settlers under the scheme are generally reported as being well satisfied and with few exceptions they have made a good start in the direction of farm ownership.

THE HALL STORE

ZINC SHORTAGE IS NOW SERIOUS

Price Has Reached $200 Per Ton and High Price Looked For.

LARGE DEMAND.

There has been an intense run of demand on G.O.B. zinc, just lately, on clear indications of a serious shortage of supplies on a rather deficient world's output, combined with a steady increase in consumption. The price for near delivery has risen to about £40 15s a ton in the open market — the two extreme points reached last year were £39 and £29 15s—but it is to be feared that consumers will be faced with a serious state of scarcity over the end of the year, which will render the establishment of still higher prices almost inevitable. In fact, the position threatens to become acute and almost similar to that experienced about five years ago, when the scarcity which followed the war period enabled the American producers practically to dictate their own terms for European purchases. From the lowest point seen this year, current values indicate an appreciation of, roughly £9 10s a ton, but the world's stocks have dwindled fast within the last two months, being estimated at well under 20,000 tons, or only about one-half the estimates current about six months ago, when consumption was on a more restricted scale owing to decreased activity in the galvanized sheet industry. This industry across the Atlantic has been very active lately, and the mills in Great Britain are doing much better. In addition to this, there has been a large expansion in the outlet for zinc sheets, an order coming to hand recently from the River Plate for 1,000 tons. There has been a shortage of zinc ores for some time past, which partly accounts for the backward state of the metal output. The latter has been pratically stationary in America for months past, and at a diminshed rate in Belgium. The American statistics cabled this week for September are certainly very exciting. Smelters' productions was 47 384 short tons, against total deliveries of 52,620 tons (including shipments to Europe of about 4,000 tons), so that stocks were reduced by 5,236 tons to 11,796 tons, this being the lowest record for years. Stocks in Belgium are said to be small, and there is no large surplus in Germany. An increased output is badly needed if current needs are to be adequately met; Great Britain's consumption now calls for imports at the rate of about 12,000 tons a month. It may be recalled that the zinc price touched in 1920 was about £64 a ton.—The Economist (London).—October 17, 1925.

German Spinsters Ask For Leap Year Week Every Year So That They Have Better Chance Of Getting Married

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press) — German spinsters, weary of indirect methods of snaring the elusive male, are agitating for a recognized "leap year" week in each year during which it shall be their privilege to propose. The idea has been presented to the Government marriage bureau, and proposes that there shall be each year not one but seven days dedicated to St. Catherine, the patroness of unmarried women. Several spinsters' organizations are backing the proposal.

Officials of the marriage bureau say that when a girl in Germany is 27 years old and unmarried her chances of getting a husband are about one in five. Although the number of marriages has been restored to pre-war figures, it is notable that those between middle-aged men and comparatively young girls are more and more frequent. There is a large surplus of women between the ages 18 and 45, the war having caused a deficiency of men in the twenties and thirties. Men too young to have served in the war are marrying girls of their own ages. Older men take their time about marrying because they have no trouble in getting brides of less than 27. A German fraulein, however, usually celebrates her "black birthday" at 25. After that age she is eligible to "old maid!"

During the winter season steeple-chase race meetings are conducted in no fewer than one hundred and eighteen centres in the British Isles.

It is estimated that upwards of 8,000,000 targets are thrown in a year at the regularly organized trapshooting tournaments in the United States.

I.O.D.E. MEETING HELD AT Y.W.C.A.

A very well-attended meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter I. O. D. E., with about thirty-five of the members present, was held in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association on Saturday afternoon, the Regent, Mrs. F. Hooper, presiding.

Nominations of officers took place, the nominating committee being composed of Miss Ruby Clegg, Mrs. B. Moore, Miss Ethel Richardson. A letter from the Chapter's ward, little Peter Robinson, at the Armenian home in Georgetown, was read, thanking the members for Christmas gifts. It was decided to hold a bridge party at the home of the Regent, Mrs. F. Hooper, on the last Friday in January, the committee to look after arrangements being composed of the following members: the Misses Gladys Mulholland, Phyllis Dawson, Hazel Buller, Linden Hall, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, Mrs. G. Hill and Mrs. F. C. Webber.

GOSPEL HALL.

Yesterday Mr. Hugh Kane commenced a series of meetings. A good audience heard a splendid address on Genesis 3: Man's fall and consequent disaster.

Mr. Kane said that every grave opened in Peterboro was opened by sin; to say there is no sin is to say there is no death.

Three special points were dealt with: 1st, "the wily serpent;" 2nd, "the wilful sin;" 3rd "the awful judgment."

A most illuminating discourse was given. Mr. Kane will speak every night at eight oclock. A number of neighborhood meetings will be held.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"And He went down to Nazareth and was subject to them," was the text of the sermon preached at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, by Rev. P. Costello, Outlining the meaning of the text, a singularly appropriate one for the day, the Feast of the Holy Family, Father Costello exhorted his hearers to make the Holy Family their model in family relations. From the humility and patience of St. Joseph and the Blessed Virgin Mary, and their constant carrying out of God's will in every particular of their daily lives, might be drawn an example for parents. St. Joseph, a poor, ordinary, Jewish citizen, was one who was always ready to listen to the inspiration of his guardian angel. In the words "a just man," used to describe him, are found all the virtues necessary to the Christian father. The Blessed Virgin was a model for women in the exemplary virtue of her life and the readiness with which she answered the call of duty at all times.

The Child Jesus, even from the crib, was a teacher of mankind. He was subject in His youthful days to the Blessed Virgin Mary and to St. Joseph, giving a notable example, especially to the youngest members of this generation, of subjection to lawful authority. He assumed weak human nature and lived in the direst poverty so that His example might enlighten the lives of those who came after Him.

"The downfall of the disobedient child is certain," said the reverend speaker. Disobedience was at the root of many of the ills of the race, from the disobedience of Adam and Eve down to the present time, and disobedience of God's commands was certain to bring its punishment. Disobedience in the natural law was puhished with swiftness and in the spiritual order, also, downfall awaited the disobedient one.

Father Costello also alluded to the bad example given by parents to their children, and possible spiritual damnation as a consequence for the child by the relating of improper jokes and stories in their hearing, and the missing of Mass by the father and mother.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

(Contributed).

The large number of young people who flocked into St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sunday evening, to attend the third of the special monthly series of services for young men and young women, showed how popular this series of services is becoming. Every available seat in the gallery was filled, as well as in the main auditorium, except for but a few seats. The musical features have formed an important part of these services. Last night the choir numbered over sixty voices. The regular choir seats were filled by a male voice choir, and the front seats in the balcony by the women members. There was antiphonal singing between the two different parts of the choir, with a piano and organ accompaniment. The male voice choir is increasing in numbers and improving in its chorus work as the members receive more practice under the musical director, Mr. M. B. Chenhall.

A Strange Proposal.

One of the secrets of the success attending these services lies in the fact that Rev. Mr. Allan understands the type of message that interests young people. The sermon subject last evening was "A Strange Proposal of Marriage." The sermon centered around the Old Testament record of the proposal of marriage made through the servant of Abraham on behalf or his son, Isaac to Rebekah. The text was based on the words of Rebekah in Genesis 24, 58, spoken in answer to a question if she was willing to marry a man she had not seen and possibly never heard of, when she said, "I will go."

Rev. Mr. Allan stated that if anyone was looking for romance they need go no farther than the twenty-fourth chapter of Genesis. No writer of ancient or modern times has been able to improve upon it. The romance is lying not only on the surface, in the record of the proposal of marriage and its acceptance, but it lies deep down all through the chapter in the type that the instance represents of God sending His messenger, the Holy Spirit, to seek a bride in the earth for His Son, Jesus Christ. The Old Testament is full of pictures of this character, which record actual happenings intended to reveal hidden spiritual truths. Just as Rebekah was asked the direct question, "Will thou go with this man?" so the Spirit of God speaks to people to-day in times of trouble and on other occasions and asks them if they will go with Christ.

In an interesting manner Rev. Mr. Allan depicted the novel features of the proposal. The proposal was made to Rebekah through a stranger who unexpectedly stepped into her home. It must have led her to ask many questions and to wonder what her life would be if she gave it to the unknown one. Was it to be a marriage of convenience or of affection? No one finds marriages of convenience so inconvenient as those who contract them. No relationship is more like hell than a marriage without love.

The proposal was a test of her faith and demanded an act of her will. It was not made because of her beauty or her worth, and was all the more remarkable in this respect because the parties concerned were Jews. The proposal was made because Abraham desired a bride for his son. It all represented a picture of God seeking out the sinner, not because of his wealth or goodness, but because God desires the conversion of sinners and to link them up with Christ as members of the Church which is the bride of Christ. If the sinner asks such questions as Rebekah must have asked, as to what he will gain or lose by such a transaction, he need only think of what the acceptance of Christ has meant to those who have accepted this proposal in the past. Thousands of great men have admitted that their source of strength was their belief in Christ. There never was a great man who would not have been greater had he had Christ.

The proposal to Rebekah was a satisfying revelation to Isaah's wealth and power because of the gifts which the servant bestowed. So Christ gives the gift of the Holy Spirit and a new robe of righteousness, as well as joy and peace, to all who accept Him. Rebekah consented to go, and in so doing changed her name. The person who accepts Christ changes the descriptive word sinner to the wonderful word Saint. Rebekah, after her acceptance, started on a lengthy journey. The sinner who becomes a Saint starts on a journey to an unseen goal, but while on the way is given wonderful revelations of the Master's love and care for him. The closing appeal to those present was to put themselves under the convoy of the Holy Spirit by the acceptance of God's invitation to unite themselves with Christ.

Interesting Subjects.

Rev. Mr. Allan announced that on Wednesday evening he will speak on the subject, "Is it possible to know, here and now, that we are saved? or do we have to wait until after death to be sure?" Because of unusual interest that has been manifested in some of his remarks relating to the Jews as God's chosen people and the important part they play in sacred history, Rev. Mr. Allan will give next Sunday the first of a series of Sunday evening addresses relating to the Jews, God's plans for them, and the important part they play in the world.

SUDDEN DEATH OF LOCAL LADY

Mrs. J. N. Welbourn Died of Heart Failure While Preparing Lesson.

WAS UNEXPECTED.

Death came with startling suddenness to Mrs. J. N. Welbourne, 218 Reid street, yesterday about noon.

Mrs. Welbourn, who was an enthusiastic worker in St. James' Sunday school, was preparing her lesson for the afternoon, when her husband arrived home from church. In a few minutes she was dead, being seized with a heart attack. Deceased had been ailing for some time but it was not thought that there was any immediate danger.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her sorrowing husband, one son, Herschell of Peterborough, and one daughter Greta, at home; also two sisters, Mrs. Robertson of Pikestone, Man., and Mrs. Edwards, on the Fife homestead; and three borthers, Herbert Fife, and Alderman J. D. Fife, of this city, and Wilbert Fife of Keene.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday from the family residence at 11 a.m., and proceed to Fife's cemetery for interment.

IN POLICE COURT

The charge of vagrancy against a local youth who appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley was dismissed as there was a lack of evidence which would warrant a conviction. Three constables gave evidence to the effect that the young man had been apprehended only after a struggle, assertions which the accused strenuously denied, substituting an allegation that one of the constables was unduly rough. The prisoner said he had been seized by the shirt collar, and was forced to struggle in order to "get his wind back." He declared that he had been working for the past five months and had come home for the Christmas holiday. He had left his job with $60, but there was none of it left now. According to evidence produced by Chief Constable Newhall, the youth had appeared before the Peterboro court on several occasions, and at other times he had been warned of the fate which would surely follow a miss-spent youth. The young man declared that it was his intention "to go straight," and gave as proof the fact that he had been working and would have returned to his job had he not been detained by the police.

ROTARIANS ARE TOLD THE WAY TO BOY'S HEART

Rotarian John Stiles of Ottawa, Gives Local Club the Open Sesame.

SPLENDID ADDRESS.

New Council Guests of Peterborough Rotary Club To-day.

"The 'open sesame' to every boy's hearts is to have the time for, an interest in, and enjoyment of those things in which boys are interested," said Rotarian John Stiles of Ottawa, Assistant Dominion Chief Commissioner of Boy Scouts, in a most eloquent and interesting address to the Peterboro' Rotary Club to-day. Guests at the weekly luncheon were Mayor Holloway and the members of the 1926 council, ex-Mayor J. J. Turner, Dr. J. J. Craig, President of the Kiwanis Club, and W. H. Dickin, Secretary of the local Boy Scout Association.

The new Council was fittingly welcomed by President John Seels, who also congratulated ex-Mayor Turner on his excellent record during his two years' term in office.

Rotarian Stiles, who was introduced by Rotarian Dr. Murray Fraser, head of the local Scout Association, dealt with the subject, "The Man and the Boy," and his address was intended not only to appeal to those who might become scout masters but to all fathers of boys. It was an eloquent commonsense practical talk in which the speaker imparted some most valuable pointers on boy management in a manner that was most convincing. In beginning he pointed out that the man who wanted to get along with boys had to have four things, the ability to let the boy in himself deal with the man that was in the boy, a knowledge of boy psychology, a realization of the fact that no two boys could be dealt with in the same way and an understanding of the gang spirit that was a part of most boys. The speaker said that the proper diet for boys was in the form of a sandwich, an under layer of love, a filling of meat that was play and fat that was work and on top again another layer of love. More could be done by kindness than by severity and although Rotarian Stiles said that he was among those who believed that to spare the rod was to spare the child. This applied to boys under twelve years of age. After that, to thrash the boy was to provoke too much of a man fight and he advocated as punishment if punishment were necessary, the withdrawal of privileges.

Rotarian Stiles' whole address was a plea for fathers to have a better understanding of their sons by taking an interest in the things most dear to boyish hearts. Two things the boys demanded were, first, that their fathers should be sincere and genuine and, second, that they should be able to do some one thing well.

The talk was one of the best the Rotarians have haerd and Rotarian Stiles was given a hearty vote of thanks.

CITY COUNCIL

Joseph Crowe. Those present were Mayor W. T. Holloway, Aldermen E. M. Turner, J. O. Fife, J. W. Meyers, W. J. Hancock, J. M. Greene, Roland Denne, C. H. Ackerman, Robert Cotton, George A. MacDonald, and ex-Mayor J. J. Turner.

A letter of appreciation of his long service in the Council was ordered to be sent to ex-Alderman Joseph Crowe.

Filling the Vacancy.

The by-law to appoint a successor to ex-Alderman Crowe was introduced by Alderman Mel Turner, but the third reading was put through by Alderman J. O. Fife. Ex-Alderman N. E. Phelan was nominated by Alderman Denne and Greene, and John R. Marshall was nominated by Aldermen Mel Turner and G. A. MacDonald.

In speaking to his proposal, Alderman Denne recalled the six years' service given by Mr. Phelan, and the confidence shown in him by his nomination for the mayoralty and the large number of votes polled for him. He had never missed a meeting in six years, and had proved himself in every way fair and just to the citizens and zealous in the city's welfare.

Alderman Greene supported the nomination, calling particular attention to the fact that the new members on the Council should be supported by the presence of one with so much experience in civic work. Three of the present members have had only one year in Council, while there are three newly elected this year. Alderman Greene pointed out, saying that the Council cannot afford to lose the services of Mr. Phelan under these circumstances. I am not depreciating, at all, Mr. John Marshall," the speaker said, and I appreciate the stand that Alderman Turner takes, that the electors gave Mr. Marshall co splendid a vote, but I think the other argument outweighs the situation regarding Mr. Marshall."

Alderman Mel Turner speaking to his amendment nominating John R. Marshall, said he was glad to admit that Mr. Phelan had enjoyed his confidence — it had been a joy to work with him. The Finance Committee could not have been better administered than by Mr. Phelan. But when he qualified for the mayoralty contest he forfeited all right to the position of alderman. People understood the sixth man in point of votes would be appointed, and the 2,102 votes polled by Mr. Marshall cannot be ignored.

Alderman G. A. MacDonald said he had the greatest respect for Mr. Phelan and believed he was a valuable man, but thought that on his aspiring to higher honors he had forfeited his right to the position of Alderman. The runner-up in the Aldermanic contest should have first consideration, the speaker thought.

Alderman C. H. Ackerman, in supporting the nomination of Mr. Marshall said he more than appreciated the work done by ex-Alderman Phelan, and had given great thought to the comparative merits of the two candidates. Peterborough is essentially a manufacturing centre, he said, and Mr. Marshall represents an industry and travels from coast to coast in the course of his business. He has great opportunity to study city problems from the viewpoint of other cities, and would also be valuable to the Industrial Commissioner in endeavouring to secure new industries.

Alderman W. J. Hancock recalled that Mr. Phelan was born and brought up in Peterborough, with a thorough knowledge of the city and its needs, while Mr. Marshall had only been resident here three years. He thought Mr. Phelan would be better able to deal with matters coming before the council this year than would be a new man.

The vote on the question was 6 to 3 in favor of ex-Alderman Phelan, and the by-law was passed appointing him. On motion of Aldermen Turner and Ackerman the appointment was made unanimous.

Committees Named

The Council immediately resolved into Committee of the Whole and proceeded to selection of committees and chairmen. Alderman Phelan was notified, and arrived in time to participate.

The personnel of the committee is given in an adjoining column.

QUEEN BURIED

Margherita, of Italy, Laid to Rest To-day in Pantheon.

ROME, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press.) — Margherita of Savoy, Italy's first queen of Italian birth, was laid to rest to-day in the Pantheon, tomb of the Nation's illustrious dead, where also lies the body of her husband, King Humbert, who was assassinated in 1900.

The body was brought from Bordighers, where the Queen Mother died Jan. 4, on a special train, which made one minute stops at all the principal stations en route to the capital. Arriving here, it was conveyed through the streets draped with mourning to the Pantheon. There a short ceremony was held, after which the body was entombed in a special aperature above that containing the remains of King Humbert.

ALBERT E. BOHN RETURNED HOME ON SATURDAY

Physical Condition Would Indicate He Had Been Wandering All the Time.

IS RECOVERING.

Mental Lapse, Caused By Worry, Blamed For Disappearance.

Albert E. Bohn, who left his home early on Friday morning, and disappeared after the noon hour of the same day, returned on Saturday evening shrouded in the same mystery which caused his strange digression into the unknown. Questioned by the Examiner to-day, Mrs. Bohn was unable to tell where her husband had been but she declared that his state of physical exhaustion would indicate that he had been wandering abroad since he left the Canadian General Electric plant.

"Mr. Robson, who lives on the corner of the street was the first to see him," she stated. "He did not know him at first. My husband was so tired that he was straggling along. As soon as he came into the house I put him to bed in hot blankets, called Dr. Morgan, and he administered a tonic.

"The Doctor said not to bother him by asking questions, so we have not tried to find out where he was. I believe it was a nervous break down; he has been worrying so much and was always very tired when he came home from work. I didnt think anything about it at first but I can now see that he was greatly affected. I wont let him go back to work until he is fully recovered," said Mrs. Bohn.

Dr. J. A. Morgan, who has charge of the case, attributed Mr. Bohn's condition to a mental lapse brought about by worry. He declared that after a rest he would be fully recovered and possibly able to look upon past difficulties in a new light, and conquer them with a laugh.

Mrs. Bohn said that everyone was very kind to her and did everything possible to find her husband. She paid a tribute to the men who worked in the brass department of the C. G. E. with her husband. Several of them searched for him for hours, and the others made solicitous inquiries frequently. She mentioned the fact that all of the children of the neighborhood were also searching anxiously. Mr. Bohn was very popular with them. Their one child, a little girl of twelve, just old enough to realize the disaster which had befallen them, went back to school this morning, immeasurably relieved.

"I have my husband down stairs, now," Mrs. Bohn concluded, "He is resting well and with plenty of food he should make a rapid recovery. I am so thankful he came back when he did, for I dont believe he could have endured another night of exposure."

MANY PERISHED IN BAD STORMS ON EAST COAST

VESSELS MISSING.

Oil Barges Lost During the Storms—Rum Runner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Nearly a score perished numerous others were injured and considerable damage was done to shipping along the Atlantic Coast as the result of a snow and wind storm on Saturday, a check up last night showed.

The victims of the storm for the most part were injured in traffic accidents which occurred as the result of the driving blizzard which extended over the north-eastern states but the violent sea accounted for several barge men and last night seven were reported drowned or missing.

At New York the old barge Oneida with a crew of three had not been accounted for and Norfolk, V., reported the barge Severn with a crew of two men missince since she broke away from her tug Friday afternoon 50 miles south of the Delaware break water.

A sister barge to the Oneida, the T. J. Hooper, was lost off Sandy Hook at the height of Saturday's storm. She went on the rocks after breaking away from her tow and her crew of three men and one woman were drowned.

Rum-Runner Deserted.

BOSTON, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—A disabled, water-logged motor boat sighted off Point of Pines on the north shore proved to be a rum-runner carrying $50,000 worth of champagne and whiskey. Coast guardsmen salvaged the craft and brought it to Boston. The boat is capable of making 50 miles an hour and is valued at about $100 000. The fate of her crew is not known.

The number of homes in the United States that are wired for electrical energy has doubled in the past four years.

On the invitation of the Canadian Government the third World's Poultry Congress will be held at Ottawa next year.

WHERE A CANAL DAM IS CUT EACH YEAR.

All our thoughts of Egypt are colored by the history of the Nile. The entire history of the country is bound up in the rise and fall of the river and the famine or plenty which its vagaries bring.

And so it is that many of the customs of the land and many of its festivals are connected in some way with the Nile. One of the most famous of these customs is that of the yearly cutting of the Khalig Canal Dam. This is done to allow free flowing of the waters to the Red Sea.

There is no date for this ceremony for it depends, of course, upon the height of the river but it generally occurs in the second week of August.

The evening before the actual event, the river banks are crowded with booths and merrymakers. Boatloads of celebrants pass up and down the river, while fireworks blaze on all sides. It is an evening of gayety and celebration.

On the morning of the following day, the Governor arrives with his retinue. At a given signal from him, the dam is cut down by the hoes of the workmen. Into the middle of the dam, they throw a pillar of mud, called the "Bride of the Nile." And one of the most intriguing moments of the entire event is that in which the swirling waters break down and carry off the mud.

The Governor in the meantime, throws handfuls of coins into the canal and immediately boys of every age dive for them. Their agility and tricks in the water are eagerly watched by the spectators. When the water has entered the canal in sufficient quantity, boats are launched, filled with rejoicing spectators.

In the days of ancient Egypt, a live virgin was sacrificed each year to Isis, goddess of agriculture. She was thrown into the Nile in an effort to propitiate the goddess and so bring good crops for the coming year.

Then the ceremony was far more elaborate, the Caliph himself spending a quarter of a million dollars on the spectacle each year. The Turkish costumes, the splendid garb of the troops and the brilliant colors of Oriental splendor lent an indescribable charm to the event.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY MEETS RED-WINGED BLACKBIRD.

When Dicky saw the blackbird with its wings tipped with scarlet and yellow, he gave a low whistle.

"Now what do you suppose he has done to get his wings touched with red?" he asked. "Hello there, Pretty Fellow. I'm Dicky. What's your name?"

"Well," chirped the Blackbird, coming back close enough for Dicky to see his pretty scarlet-tipped wings, "it's plain to be seen, you're not a native of Florida. I'm Daddy Red-Winged Blackbird, or rather, I should say, I will be Daddy, in a short time. So you like my pretty wings?"

"I certainly do," replied Dicky. "Up north we have plenty of Blackbirds, but they are black all over. If your family do come up there for the Summers I've never happened to see you."

"Well, some of my scarlet-tipped relatives do go up north for the Summers, I'm told, but I never have. I like Florida, so why move around? I must say, though, that you will find Red-winged Blackbirds up north in the Summer-time, for Red-winged Blackbirds like both hot and cold weather. I like the warm weather and when it gets too warm here in Florida, I just go up to the Carolinas and stay a bit. Down here they call us 'Swamp Blackbirds,' because we live around the swamps. Have you ever seen my wife?"

"Hello There, Pretty Fellow!"

"No, I never have had that pleasure," replied Dicky. "I'd love to know her, though."

"Best chance ever," laughed Mr. Red-winged Blackbird. "Follow me and I'll show you where my treasures are," and he flew towards the pond.

There in the bushes, on the margin of the pond, sat Mama Red-winged Blackbird on her rudely-built nest.

"I'm mighty glad to know you, Dicky," she said, after Daddy Red-winged Blackbird had introduced Dicky. "And I'm glad to find that you are a friend to the birds. I dread to see most of the boys around here. I'm so afraid they are coming to steal my eggs, when I see them heading for the marshlands."

"Oh, dear!" said Dicky softly, "have you any eggs now? I've never seen Red-winged Blackbird's eggs. I've seen a good many bird's eggs, but no one can say I have ever bothered any of them. I love their merry songs too much to take the eggs."

"I'm glad you do," chirped Mama Red-winged Blackbird. "Take a peek at my eggs," and she crawled off her nest so Dicky could look at the treasures.

Five pale blue eggs, curiously streaked spotted with purple and black, nestled in the hollow of the nest.

Mrs. Red-winged blackbird crawled back on her nest, a proud, happy little bird.

"Almost time for the hatching. I don't want the eggs to get chilled," she chirped, settling her soft feathers over the eggs. "Come around in a few days and meet the family."

"I certainly will," laughed Dicky, then bidding the happy couple goodby, he ran back to his play.

In the case of the owner of an ice company who substituted at work for an injured employee and himself met with an accident, the Ohio State Industrial Commission ruled that a man cannot be both employer and employe and therefore in the case in question the claimant was not entitled to compensation for injuries suffered in his own business.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JANUARY 12.

An eventful day is presaged from the very active astral mutations. All affairs should move on to the fulfillment of the ambitions, but it is urged that a degree of caution be observed in the matter of making changes or in travel. The figure, however, points to new projects and satisfying returns for industry and initiative. The finances should be increased and business expand. Those in employment are under excellent auspices for recognition, and it is a good time for new agreements or contracts.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a splendid year of opportunity and advancement, but they should not jeopardize their good fortune by sudden or ill-considered moves. New ventures and arrangements are encouraged. A child born on this day may be talented in many directions, with a leaning toward inventions or possibly literature of a novel nature. It should succeed in either business, employment or the professions.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

This is the age of salesmanship. The successful man is the one who can sell himself or the product he represents.

It takes a lot of character to resist the modern salesman. He is so plausible and convincing that it is hard to say no.

Have you ever thought what a factor health is, both in selling and in buying? The vital, magnetic, compelling appeal of the salesman may be damaged by a day of bad health. What he could do today when he is well and radiant, he might not do tomorrow when he is "off his feed."

The prospective purchaser, too, is influenced by his own state of health. He may have the stomach-ache and be so grouchy he couldn't be sold gold dollars for fifty-cent s apiece. Then again he may be so miserable that he will say yes just to get rid of the salesman.

There is no doubt that many decisions are made by business men and others in accordance with how they feel at the time. The mind is sufficiently controlled by the body that the decision of one day might have been reversed on another.

This means that cold logic does not determine everything. In a sense, the physical body is capable of revising the usual operations of the mind. It is only in health that the conclusions reached can be fully trusted.

Men of affairs, teachers, doctors, chauffeurs, everybody in a place of responsibility must court health, because good judgment and good health are twins. They run together. The mental operations are not to be fully trusted if the body is wracked with pain, the digestive system out of order and blood pressure too high, the kidney elimination disturbed, or the liver clogged. Any real impairment of the health, particularly if it is an acute and unaccustomed trouble may have an important bearing upon the mental machinery.

It is well to postpone great and vital personal decisions until a day when the mind works clearly. The absence of the symptoms of temporary ill health will favor clear brain activity and sound judgment in matters of importance.

No one can doubt that the mind and body react upon one another. I believe a sound understanding, a discriminating and an accurate mind, must come from a brain which is housed in a vigorous, healthy body.

If you would be a great salesman you must possess a normally functioning body. If you would be a wise purchaser, you must have health. For all concerned, then, men are to be trusted for salesmanship and to deal with salesmanship only on condition that they are in their normal health.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MISS WIDEAWAKE. Q.—What can be done to overcome a nervous condition? Would this condition be followed by a breakdown?

A.—Build up the general health and in this way benefit your entire system, including your nerves. It is not necessary to have a breakdown if you take yourself in hand. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. A. A. Q.—Kindly tell me how to remove liver spots from the face and neck.

A.—These are due to poor intestinal elimination. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Varicose veins may be greatly relieved in some instances by bandaging or wearing an elastic stocking during the day. If the trouble is very painful and of long standing surgery may be necessary for relief.

* * *

C. E. D. Q.—What can I do for falling hair?

2—What causes a pain in the back of the neck and a throbbing in the neck when lying down? My blood pressure is not high.

3—What causes an acid system and what will overcome it?

A.—Keep the scalp immaculately clean and use a good hair tonic. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Poor circulation may be responsible. Improve your general health and these symptoms will probably disappear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

3—Faulty diet and poor intestinal elimination will cause an acid condition. Correct your diet and avoid constipation and the trouble will probably clear up. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

GRACE E. S. Q.—What should a girl of 19, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weigh?

2—Are reducing soaps harmful? Will rubber corsets prove injurious in any way?

3—Will vaseline increase the growth of the eyelashes?

A.—You should weigh about 132 pounds.

2—Since I am not familiar with them I cannot advise you. Rubber garments induce profuse perspiration and are therefore reducing. They should not be worn directly next to the skin since they do not absorb perspiration.

3—Either vaseline or one per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment applied at night should bring about results.

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

LIFE STORY OF DUNNING READS LIKE YARN BY HORATIO ALGER

Started in Saskatchewan as Farm Laborer at Wage of Ten Dollars Per Month.

YOUNGEST PREMIER

Now Regarded by Many as Canada's Man of Destiny.

By JAMES A. COWAN.

An estimable statistician who enjoys making trick calculations has declared that the number of professional, semi-pro and amateur political dopesters lately engaged in forecasting the future of Hon. C. A. Dunning, Saskatchewan's Liberal Premier, would, if laid end to end, stretch twice as far as two grown men could see; that the energy thus used up if transformed into kilowatts could make the aurora borealis look sick—and so on, indefinitely.

Whether he is correct or not, matters little. The fact remains that few popular rumors concerning the country's government fail to give this wide-awake westerner a large measure of attention.

Just as an example of the difference in his standing now and during the early part of the election campaign, one can quote the phrases used in referring to him.

Politicians of the east, whose interests and knowledge were largely confined to that section of the Dominion, spoke of him formerly as "that man Dunning in the West," sometimes as vaguely as "that young chap who succeeded Martin in Saskatchewan—Dunning, isn't it?"

Now they simply say "Dunning" with no explanatory qualifications whatever, a fact that is merely incidental but still rather significant.

A clearer insight into the character of the man himself can perhaps be gleaned from the attitude of Saskatchewan toward him than by merely re-hashing his past career and offering that as evidence.

Is Keen Executive.

Western Liberals do not regard him with awe as a political spellbinder nor do they mention him as a man with marvelous vote-catching talents—one who knows just how to play to the gallery and perform spectacular juggling feats with burning issues while the countryside cheers.

Their attitude towards him is the attitude of the shareholders in a large corporation, priding themselves on the fact that their concern has a remarkably keen, straightforward and efficient president who can be depended upon to produce results by managing their affairs expertly and with good judgment.

"Premier Dunning," they tell you, "could step out of the Parliament Buildings at Regina any minute of any day and step right into a job at $18,000 a year at the least. But he doesn't do it," they add. "He sticks to the business of governing."

He has his opponents, of course, and he is subject to constant criticism like any other public man, but no one can deny the fact that he succeeded to the premiership of his Province at an uncertain time, when there was already an independent group in the House with whom to be reckoned and when the agrarian movement showed a real tendency to crystalize into a definite opposition. The Saskatchewan returns in the last general election show how firmly he has entrenched himself.

Confidence in the man's ability seems to be the chief factor in his success.

His supporters point to his record in the Grain Growers' movement as proof of his worth. Tabloid biographies of him say that he is a first-rate organizer, a conclusion also drawn from the same source.

Slept in Boiler Room.

When he was 24 years of age and a homesteader not far from Yorkton, his reputation was only a local one. He was a farmer, pure and simple.

Then came the Grain Growers' convention in Prince Albert, one of the most romantic episodes in his career, an oft-quoted anecdote, but one which it is necessary to repeat to get the proper slant on the causes for a rise which seems too meteoric to be true—viewed according to some of the standards of the east.

Charles A. Dunning was chosen as delegate by his branch of the movement and with his nomination he was given the information that the treasury contained $17.50. If he thought he could make that do—well and good.

So he took the $17.50, went to Prince Albert and slept in the boiler room of one of the local hotels.

Far from being a leader at that time, he was practically a nonentity. A deadlock occurred during the proceedings. C. A. Dunning rose, proposed a compromise—it was a scheme involving co-operative insurance—and in one of the most clear-cut speeches of the convention suggested an amendment to clear away the obstacles. It carried.

The upshot was that he returned to his local with a directorship in the Provincial association and a surplus from his $17.50 which he put back in the treasury.

Was Youngest Premier.

When, in 1910, he became Vice-President of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers, it was abundantly evident that one of the West's coming leaders had made his appearance.

He worked for the organization of a Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company. It was soon formed.

It grew into a Hercules of an association with 9,000 shareholders and 46 elevators—ultimately the largest elevator company in the world.

C. A. Dunning was picked as the man to direct its activities for the very obvious reason that those concerned with the selection of this official believed he could do it better than anyone else.

From the purely financial point of view, his future seemed to be a magnificent one and to many it seemed that he was throwing all this away when, in 1916, he gave up everything else to join the Provincial Cabinet as Treasurer and Minister of Agriculture.

In 1918, he served as Dominion Director of Food Production and, in 1922, on the retirement of Premier Martin, he headed the Government of Saskatchewan.

He was at that time 37 years of age—the youngest Premier in the Empire. There was a great deal of hullabaloo about this fact—a thing which is rather unfortunate since it has a tendency to label Premier Dunning as a sort of boy political prodigy.

It is an interesting thing to know and its adds color to his career. But it is not frightfully important when all is said and done. The West takes its politics in a very hard-headed way. Here was a man who had been born with a genius for administration who was ready and willing to serve his Province. He acted as if he could deliver the goods. He came up to specifications in every way.

Very well then, Saskatchewan would give him his chance to prove that he was the man it wanted. If he didn't succeed, he could be ousted. There was little sentiment about it. Whether he was 37 years old or 137 didn't make any considerable difference even though the preference was for younger men.

Started as Farm Hand.

Chance played a large part in his career. Born in Leicestershire in 1885, the son of a farmer, he drifted toward engineering as a life work. The idea of coming to Western Canada didn't enter his head in his early boyhood, as far as anyone can tell.

But when he was 17, his health gave out and his doctor told him that it was absolutely necessary for him to live in a drier climate.

He came out to Yorkton, Saskatchewan, in 1902 as Charles Dunning, farm laborer, receiving a salary of $10 a month.

The lure of a farm of his own soon became too strong and he started to homestead 160 acres about 25 miles to the north where he suffered his share of hardships and privation.

This jump from a $10-a-month farm-hand in 1902 to a Provincial Premier in 1922 has also been the cause of much drum-thumping and ringing of large gongs, the net result or which has been to give the average citizen an idea that the career of Hon. C. A. Dunnihg is somewhat of a he-man Cinderella story or that the man himself is a 1925 edition of a Horatio Alger story.

This part of his story is like the Prince Albert anecdote, colorful and romantic and very pleasing. It gives him a picturesqueness which is valuable and is very much to his credit as well as a fine advertisement for the Dominion of Canada.

But too much emphasis of this phase of his efforts tends to distort the picture. It prevents a clear view of him and obscures to his real character to some extent.

Flair for Working.

He is a business man with all the qualities that make a man an outstanding figure in the commercial world, including, among others, a flair for working his head off.

He is a political leader because he just naturally couldn't help being anything else. He didn't put himself where he is today. His talents did it for him. Looking back over his past career, his rise seems to have been almost inevitable.

To say that he is an orator is too vague. He is a speaker rather than a talker. His addresses never fail to give an impression of directness and frankness.

The business of running a Province, no matter how one views it, can be very much a dull bore to a layman. But Mr. Dunning is gifted with a faculty for taking uninteresting sets of statistics and setting them forth so that they sound as absorbing as any tale of pirate-treasure to a ten-year-old boy with a buccaneer complex.

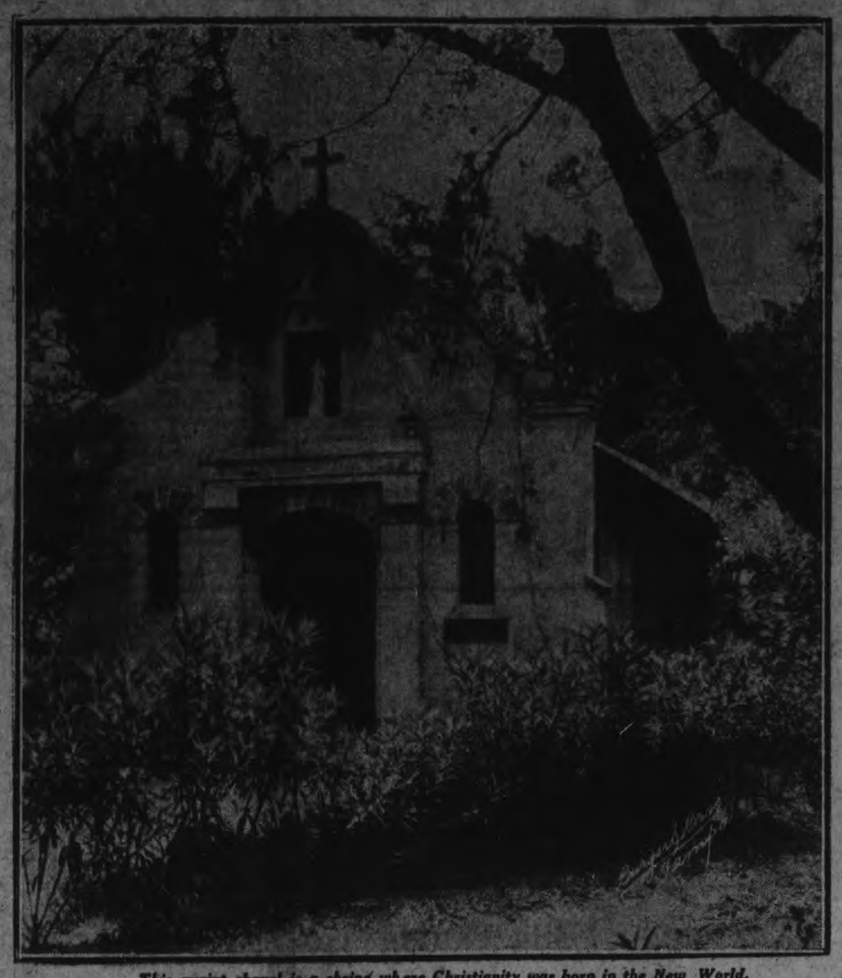
FLORIDA'S SHRINE RECALLS FIRST SERVICE

Is Erected on Spot Where Menendez and Spanish Followers Sang Te Deum and Celebrated Mass on Florida's Shores Some Three Hundred and Sixty Years Ago — Has Had Varied History.



This quaint chapel is a shrine where Christianity was born in the New World.

High upon a bluff about a mile from the centre of the old city of St. Augustine, Florida, is a chapel known to recent comers as the Hardin Memorial Chapel.

Here, some three hundred and sixty years ago, a small band of Spanish gallants under Don Pedro Menendez de Aviles landed to found a settlement where fifty-two years before Juan Ponce de Leon had founded a claim. Like everything else in this quaint and storied city, it has its legend, which in this case is more than flavored with fact.

Shortly after the landing of Menendez and his cavalcade upon the shores of Matanzas Bay, following a solemn Te Deum, there was celebrated in the bright sunlight, under the flying colors of Castile and Aragon, the first Christian service ever held on the western hemisphere; and upon the spot, recorded on an old Spanish map as Nombre de Dios, the pious few of the colony erected a crude and primitive shrine which they called Nuestra Senora de la Leche, or "Our Lady of the Milk," in honor of the Virgin who nursed the Christchild into sturdy boyhood.

Time and the weather eventually made the erection of a new chapel necessary, and a stone building of Coquina rock was built on the site of the original shrine. Here the faithful made their prayers, and here a small Indian village grew and thrived. Here also was the only missionary in America for years.

With the passage of time, hostile forces assailed the surrounding country, and the little church was stripped of its plate and votive offerings. So when in 1728 the city was again menaced, the Spanish governor, to prevent Nombre de Dios from being occupied, ordered both the church and settlement destroyed, only the stone foundation of the old chapel remaining.

The years came and went, and still this consecrated spot upon which the first service of Christianity in the new world had been held was blessed only by the gentle spring showers and the warm Florida sun.

Mile away, in the heart of St. Augustine, an alien people, with a new faith, forgot Nuestra Senora de la Leche. But with the first bishop to have the see of the diocese of Florida came better days for the little shrine.

Augustine Verot, Bishop of the diocese of Florida, westward to the Apalachicola River, during the civil war, erected on the old shell-stone foundation a new chapel with the old dedication. Those were days of want for the Oldest City, as for all Florida, so the chapel was at best not a rich one.

So it remained until recently, when it was given beauty in the form of lovely images and decorations that blend with the spirit of the old walls, as a memorial to General M. D. Hardin, U.S.A., a long time resident of St. Augustine.

Now it is but one of the many chapels in honor of "Our Lady of the Milk" but it is the only one which can claim its right to prestige as the spot where Christianity was born in the new world.

PRE-WAR ELEGANCE RETURNS TO PARIS

Patrons of Some Theatres Now Required to Wear Evening Dress.

By MINOTT SAUNDERS.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Jan. 11—(United Press.)—Signs of the times, despite the unsteady franc and increased cost of living, point to a Paris struggling to get back to the good old days known prior to the war. In this movement art and gentility are bearing the standard of resurrection.

The theatres now want patrons to dress properly. The Opera, which has suffered some lean years, has continued to insist upon evening dress, and now appears to be vindicated, for the Opera Comique has ordered that on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays all patrons occupying seats in the orchestra, balcony and boxes appear in evening dress.

Other theatres are strongly inclined to follow this example and indications are that before many weeks it will be almost compulsory to dress for the theatre just as in good old days. The laxity in dress started during the war when men wore uniforms and since then any old sort of suit has been all right for the theatre.

Fashionable restaurants are reflecting the same spirit and prefer to have their customers appear properly. This is neatly done by refusing tables to tweeds and business suits and diners who are not dressed find themselves painfully embarrassed.

Montmarte has long ceased to be Paris. It is the unhappy hunting ground for the tourist and the nouveau riche, with professional guides, roaring jazz bands and flying confetti for diversion. The Latin Quarter is as dead as the grand dukes that drew fashionable patronage except for the genuine students who now cut their hair and keep by themselves. Montparnasse, as an art centre, is rather a poor imitation of Greenwich Village, with drinks reckoned in foreign exchange.

Yet the reactionary element is living and may be found in fashionable salons through residential boulevards. The life of the city is beginning to show that social and artistic circles are swinging back to the more measured methods of pre-war thought.

Does That Cough Stick On Your Lungs?

Mr. Islay MacNab, Bogner, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with a terrible cough that I could not get rid of, and my doctor told me that I had a slight touch of bronchitis. Nothing I took seemed to give me any relief until I got a bottle of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

I got such relief by using it that I would advise all those who are subject to bad colds or coughs to keep a bottle of this remedy in their homes all the time."

You don't experiment when you buy "Dr. Wood's" as it has been a household remedy for the past 37 years.

HOUDINI REVEALS SECRETS OF MAGIC

Simple, Mystifying Tricks For Amateurs Explained By King of Magicians.

Simple tricks of magic that you can perform successfully with little practice to mystify your friends and neighbors are explained by Houdini, the world famous magician, in the January "Popular Science Monthly."

In one trick used by many famed magicians, you tear up a cigarette paper, roll it onto a small ball and then show the paper untorn and undamaged except for a few wrinkles.

As a preparation for the trick, roll a cigarette paper into the smallest ball you can and conceal it in the fold of skin between the thumb and first finger of the right hand. Then take another cigarette paper and tear it into four or five strips. Roll these strips between the finger tips into a little ball. Work this down between the palms and continue rolling as though desiring to compress the paper still further. This will give you an opportunity to remove the prepared ball from between the thumb and forefinger to the palm of the right hand, while you slip the torn ball into the fold between the thumb and fore finger of the left hand or between the tips of the thumb and forefinger of the right hand when it will be concealed by the untorn paper. A little practice will enable you to do this swiftly and invisibly to your audience.

Take your prepared ball and slowly unroll it. When it is smoothed out as much as possible, let it flutter to the floor. The eyes of your audience will be drawn irresistibly to the falling paper, and this will give you an opportunity to get rid of the ball of strips by some natural movement that will not be detected.

Here is another simple trick that is bound to provoke amazement: You take a piece of paper, half a sheet of newspaper, say, roll it into a ball in front of your face, then take your hands away—and the ball remains suspended in the air! Not only that, but it will obey your commands to rise or fall!

The secret of this trick lies in having a long hair suspended from your ear or temple with magician's wax. There is also a tiny bit of wax at the other end of the hair. You affix this latter piece of wax to the wall or to the side of a bookcase or some other article of furniture, a thing you can do easily without attracting attention. Then you roll up the paper around the hair and, when you take away your hands, it remains apparently floating in the air. By moving your head slightly forward or backward, you can cause the ball to go up or down at your order.

An interesting little "table trick" is this: Take a lump of sugar from a bowl, roll it out on the table and challenge any of your companions to set it on fire. When several of them have held matches to it unsuccessfully, you take it, hold a match to it, and immediately the sugar begins to burn.

The trick here lies in applying a tiny speck of tobacco ash to the sugar. You may do this either by letting the lump of sugar carelessly fall to the table or to a plate where you have placed a speck of ash, or by rubbing a little ash against the sugar with the end of your finger. The smallest bit is sufficient to start the sugar burning when you apply the match for the ash and the sugar form a fusible chemical compound.

ITALIANS MOURN AS TRAIN PASSES

Track-side Was Lined With Watchers All the Way From Bordinghera to Rome.

QUEEN'S FUNERAL.

ROME, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press). — Some kneeling, some standing, bare-headed, under the canopy of a gorgeous blue wintry sky, millions of men and women, old and young, gnarled peasants and polished townfolk, fishermen from the shores of the Tyrrhenian Sea, mountaineers from the crags of the Appenines—the entire Italian population—paid their last respects to Margherita of Savoy as the funeral train bearing the Dowager Queen's body travelled all day long from Bordighera to Rome.

From the moment the black draped train pulled out of Bordighera Station until long after the sun went down, the trackside was lined with watchers, while the principal stations, at all of which the train made one-minute stops, were crowded with sorrowful throngs.

The man who thought a buggy was good enough

In the old days, a solid, conservative citizen might sniff and tell you he didn't read advertising.

He didn't think so much of the horseless carriage, either. The telephone was newfangled, and an insult to the United States mails.

As for radio, aeroplanes, wireless photography—if they had been born then, he probably would have thought them a bit immoral.

But he's changed. He's been educated. His point of view has been made broader and more modern. He has been civilized—by the automobile, the telephone, radio, advertising.

Every single one has opened up new paths for him, taught him new things. Advertising, especially. Advertising tells him the newest things to wear, the best things to eat. Advertising tells his wife how to make a home up to date and attractive. Advertising tells him the prices to pay for things he buys, saves him from the old-fashioned ways of doing business—helps him live well, keeps him modern.

Advertising can help you. The advertisements in this newspaper are here to tell you many things that make life more comfortable, more interesting, happier. Read them faithfully. They'll keep you abreast of the times. They'll prevent you from becoming the type of old fogy who—sniff!—doesn't read advertising.

Advertising is the key to modernity

Navy Jersey Makes This Frock for the Small Girl.

There is nothing more appropriate for the small girl during the cool weather than a simple everyday frock of jersey cloth.

This little dress sketched above is made of navy blue jersey. There is a pleated skirt of abbreviated length, with covered buttons of the material at each side of the set-in belt.

The only trimming is seen in the two small squares of openwork stitching which adorn the front of the frock. These introduce a touch of red for added color.

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an important tansaction or engagement?

Pen-name.....

R. H. B.—Yours is a really great personality, both birth and name characteristics showing force and possibility. You have abundant understanding and sympathy, and will achieve great things, but perhaps not materially. You are highly developed mentally, and will make a wonderful partner through life, with splendid ability to face all its circumstances. You desire to concentrate your affections on one object, whose faults you will ever be ready to overlook. Be sure to bestow your affections where they will be fully appreciated. You have an excellent perception of analogies, and your talent for finding new ways of doing things is highly developed. Your sympathy and tact will aid you greatly in tending a member of your family who is ill. You have a clear and retentive memory for historical happenings, but are more interested in the living present and bright future than in the dead past. The day of which you enquire is not one on which to marry or enter new social relationships, or for new ventures. About that date you will have a pleasant experience. You were born on a Thursday. Your colors are red and brown and blue.

Jimmie.—You will not do very much for others unless your service is inspired by love, and that has not touched you yet. You have considerable musical ability, but prefer to be the performer than the listener. You have a good business mentality, still undeveloped, but would be able to sell only if interested in the article. You have a good command of language and the ability to put words together interestingly and correctly. Your vocabulary should be increased by the reading of good books, and if you aspire to writing you should study the Bible, the home of literature. You are capable of fairly strong friendships; are able to make friends, yet will not mourn over their absence or loss. You like change and variety, detest routine, and find difficulty in thinking long on one subject. Despite this, your reading shows the need of education on a wider plane than you have yet had. You are apt to have too many irons in the fire at the one time, and have a too-vivid anticipation of the future, building castles in the air. You are deficient in conjugal love, and have no affection for children; are indifferent toward the opposite sex. You were born on a Friday. Your colors are tan and buff. The day of which you enquire is one on which to accept new responsibilities and take new opportunities. Do not gamble on this day.

F. G. H.—You will find success in material things if you are prepared to work hard and steadily toward a steady aim, but if you fritter away your time on this, that, and the other thing you will fail. Do not have too many irons in the fire at one time. You will have marked ability in acting and dancing, and may excel, on development, in writing. If interested in the last named you should immediately start to read the best kind of book, laying a foundation for future self-expression. You are happy, contented, and easily pleased, but are liable to fits of pettishness if crossed in little matters. You are not old enough yet for your mentality to have entered well-marked channels. Your reading responds to no color, hence your keynote is black, the absence of color. You were born on a Tuesday. The day of which you enquire is not one on which to undertake anything new—especially in social relationships.

B. C. J.—Your success in life will come through using the velvet glove rather than the mailed fist. You are mentally proficient but not dynamically forceful. You are self-centred, and your vision is limited. You are quick to perceive analogies, can trace effects to their causes; are logical and daring in thought, but are apt to disregard the rights of others. You are deficient in planning power and are not formative, but can imitate well what others do. You are lackadaisical in your own interests, but sympathetic with others'. You are sociable and warm-hearted; have a good share of attachment but can change friendships if conditions warrant. You are more versatile than continuous, but have a capacity for detail and routine. Do not become the slave of circumstances, but make routine a means to an end. Get outside yourself; spur your ambition; cultivate initiative. You are capable of strong love toward the opposite sex, but should temper your passion with control by the stronger faculties. You possess a clear and retentive memory of historical facts, and with ordinary application can become a good scholar. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is orange. The day of which you enquire is past.

P.G.—Yours is a disposition to service, and in helping others you will excel. It is a personal, intimate kind of service, inspired by love rather than a sense of duty. You may have great musical ability, partly developed or latent, and should take pains to discover its extent. This is borne out by your birth date characteristics, which in conjunction with the vibrations of your name features show the influence of fine arts, especially acting, writing and painting. Yours is a joyful disposition, but you will have to guard against "playing favorites" in your own heart if you are to be universally liked and appreciated. Guard your footsteps well during your twentieth year and the crux of your life will be past.

East City.—You are not so well developed as you might be with your high mentality, and have not the ability to stand alone in important ventures. A bereavement may have contributed to this, but you should make a determined effort this year to bring yourself to the highest peak of which you are capable. You have business and scientific ability, with great powers of observation and the knack of acquiring knowledge. You are quick of perception and have a keen insight into character. You have a good degree of love, but are not very ardent in feeling. Be as warm-hearted as possible. You have excellent talent, not fully developed, for planning and devising ways and means. You have great ability for composition, and can usually construct sentences and letters correctly. You should have lots of out-of-door exercise, and you should mix all possible with others of your age. Avoid getting into elderly and set ways until you have gone as far as you can in self-development. You were born on a ...turday. Your color is canary. The ...f which you enquire is past.

Girlie.—Your ... characteristic is joy. You have the ability to rise above your surrounding circumstances and find something bright in the darkest event. You will be instrumental in bringing pleasure to many others. Your vision is rather limited, as in so many people with your main characteristic, and an effort should be made to find a wider scope and a higher aim. You are inclined to disregard the rights of others, though honest and above board in your dealings with them. Look outside yourself and your present small circle, cultivate ambition, study hard to achieve some end —any end, so long as you try. You were born on a Thursday. Your color is flame, including many of the lovely, indeterminate hues of fire, ranging from rose through certain shades of orange and yellow to gas blue. The day of which you enquire (a Sunday in 1927), is one on which to remain peaceful and calm, avoiding argument.

Larrie.—Great leaders of thought and searchers after truth have had the same characteristics that your reading shows, but you show signs of getting into a rut that would nullify your natural powers. You have a comprehension of detail and a quick perception that fit you for a financial career, and with proper cultivation and study of men and conditions you would have a wonderful business acumen. This is something that must be develo... in the way indicated, and you hav... basic mentality. But remember you must keep your ambition alive and avoid the ruts. You are methodical, and like to see things in order, but resent routine. You have an excellent perception of numbers, and can calculate with facility. You have a fair command of language, but are more select and impressive than fluent or eloquent. Seek to make friends among your equals or superiors in business; do not drift into bad or low company which will sap your initiative, dim your intelligence through non-use, and give you nothing in return but a cheap, passing, amusement. Your color is gold. You were born on a Wednesday. The day of which you enquire is past.

C.E.—The first lette... your last name is unreadable on both coupon and envelope. Please print your ... mark the envelope "letter," and drop it in The Examiner office.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

What wonderful changes for the better personal appearance can be brought about by the woman who strives beautify herself!

This is brought to me most forcibly la... when I met a young girl whom ...now and had not seen for several ...ars.

I no...d this young person at a table in a restaurant and was first attracte... to turn my gaze to her a second ...e because I found her so agreeab... to look at. I was surprised when I s...w that this young person was coming ...er to speak to me. And then af... an effort I recognized her.

"Wh... had brought about this change?" I hear you ask. I wondered, too; and in reply to my question of where ... had been, she replied that she was very busy, for she edited the "good ...ks" department of a well-known ...agazine.

Then I realized it all. In her efforts to find the methods by which plain looks ... be improved for the better, she had discovered many things applicable to herself, and she had not neglected ... use them. Now the effect was altogether pleasing.

I saw that she had smooth, fluffy well-coiffured hair, where I remembered it as rather coarse and oily in appearance. I could tell that it was well coiffured because not a single stray hair escaped beneath her modish small hat. It was not bobbed, but drawn smoothly down about her face at the sides.

Her skin was smooth and creamy, with a delicate color lurking beneath, and I found that she was in the habit of taking a long walk up to her office each morning. In this way she got in her exercise.

Of course, her hands were in perfect condition, and in her eyes shone the satisfied spirit of someone who has something to do which keeps her interested and busy.

What a change from the idle, ugly girl I had known a few years before! I relate this story because there is something to be learned by it for all of us. If we leave no effort unmade to keep our appearance at its natural, glowing best; if we study the most becoming types of clothes, and if we keep ourselves interested and busy—we have every reason to appear at our charming best at all times.

HOLD-UP MAN ARRESTED.

Louis Melms, a Dane, Robbed Store, Using Toy Revolver.

TORONTO, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Louis Melms, a Dane, was arrested Saturday night on a charge of robbery. Melms' apprehension, followed hotfoot upon the robbery of Mrs. Letitia McBride's drug store of $16.

...RK CLIMB TO THIRD PLACE ...TO 1 VICTORY OVER CANADIENS

Long Lucky Shot by Burch Gave Americans Early Lead -Canadiens Forced Final Period and Tied Score.

GAME DECIDED IN OVERTIME

MONTREAL, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—New York toppled Canadiens from third position in the National Hockey League race and took first division berth themselves by defeating the local team 2 to 1 in an overtime game at the Arena Saturday night before an astounded crowd of 6,000.

Frank McKinnon, who subs for Shorty Green, was the hero of the New York coterie. It was this player who batted in the puck from a scramble in front of the Canadien net three minutes after the start of the extra session, culminating a rush which was started by the brilliant captain, Billy Burch.

While McKinnon receives the immediate credit for the victory, New York can thank the acrobatic Vernon Forbes, stellar little goalkeeper, for the win. It was Forbes who turned aside one Canadien attack after another in brilliant fashion in the latter stages of the game and held the ottering New York citadel long enough for his teammates in front to work out an advantage and press home the winning goal. Forbes blocked shots by Morenz, Pete Leduc and Joliat with uncanny ability in the last half of the game.

It was far from the smart battle which the packed Arena expected to witness between these two teams who were battling for third place in the race and for the edge to start their heavy week's programme just ahead. Play was decidedly ragged and all the thrills were jammed into the last minutes of the game when Canadiens made their greatest bid for victory—a rally launched by the flashy Howie Morenz.

New York's Lucky Goal.

New York were off to a lucky start. The puck had been travelling only a few seconds when Billy Burch got it at the Canadien blue line. The New York captain, as is often his wont, lofted a long shot. The disc landed through a maze of Canadien legs just in front of the local net and slid across the line into the mesh before Rheaume could get his eye on it.

It was so sudden that a deep hush fell on the crowd and then a gasp as they realized that Canadiens were off under a handicap. This obstacle was further emphasized as New York went strictly to a defensive game. The Americans, somewhat jaded after their recent hard grind in the league, were not out to force play. With a goal in hand they left it to Canadiens to carry the burden.

Canadiens could make no headway for the remainder of the first period against the almost uncanny poke-checking of Billy Burch at mid-ice, and the sound defensive guarding of Randall and Langlois in front of the impregnable Forbes.

In the third period the local team settled down to a real threat, led by Howie Morenz and simply swarmed around Forbes. Joliat and Morenz went through frequently, but could not get the disc into the mesh. They drove at all corners trying to find a niche. As often as not they were wide and other times were unfortunate in being unable to control the puck after getting through the defence on sheer speed.

Morenz Tied Score.

Just when the crowd was ready to concede New York a victory Morenz came back from a short rest. He flashed down the ice and let drive a terrific shot while travelling at full speed. It was blocked and was lying a few feet in front of the New York net. The American defence faltered in clearing and Morenz swooped down on the rubber and batted it past Forbes for the tying count.

The crowd went into an uproar and howled their delight as it was apparent that Canadiens were finishing stronger and looked like the likely winners in an overtime game. Morenz was pulled off for another short respite to start the extra session. Canadiens were still pressing, but New York were forced to let up in their defensive game and sally forth for a chance to win, as a result both goals were tested with sizzling drives. But the crowd had hardly settled down to watch the overtime when Burch flashed his attack and McKinnon brought it to a successful culmination. The New Yorkers skated off the ice joyfully pounding the scorer, while the spectators filed out of the rink dumbfounded at the turn of events.

OFFSIDE RULE PUZZLED FANS

REFEREE RIGHT

During Friday's game with Toronto Canoe Club as Harold Parker was making a rush, Frankie Collins skated across in front of him and Referee Mike Rodden promptly rang his bell and faced off the puck.

This action on the part of the official was greeted with a storm of "booing" from the fans who, not seeing a forward pass or a kicked puck or any other foul that they knew about concluded the referee had made a mistake.

Yet Rodden was absolutely right.

The moment Collins skated across in front of Parker and between that player and the Toronto defence he was guilty of offside interference.

The rules clearly state that referees should penalize any offside interference by stopping the play and the explanation of the rules sent out by the O.H.A. says that President Easson demanded a strict interpretation of the off-side interference rule and emphasized the fact that a player might be guilty of interference even if he did not touch an opponent. Skating across in front of the play was to be interpreted as interference, and players who do that will be warned and then punished."

"In this case the interference of course was not intentional. Collins was trying to get out of the way and an unexpected swerve by Parker resulted in the Petes' centre cutting across front. Nevertheless, it was interference as outlined in the rules and Rodden had no other course than to stop the play.

This interference rule is not known to the majority of the fans and possibly this explanation may save some other referee from the "booing" accorded Rodden the other night.

Incidentally the abuse of referees is both silly and unsportsmanlike. Rodden is one of the best referees in the game and the Peterboro club's officers and players consider themselves lucky to get his services, as he is always in demand, not only in the O.H.A. but in the professional game. His squareness and his knowledge of the game are accepted everywhere unquestioned, and the recention he got from some of the crowd on Friday was uncalled for, seeing that the Peterboro players were thoroughly satisfied with his work.

NINE DRAWN GAMES FEATURED THIRD ROUND OF ENGLISH CUP

Arsenal and Cardiff City Failed to Get Decision Saturday.

REVIEW OF RESULTS

LONDON, January 11. — Canadian Press Cable. — Of the 64 teams that staged the third round of the English cup competition on Saturday 23 emerged victorious and will into the fourth round, while 18 will have to play again, nine drawn games having featured Saturday's play. Of these seven are first division combinations, and the circumstances that made it necessary for some of them to make one or more attempts were in some cases sensational.

Arsenal, leaders of the league, are one of the clubs obliged to make two bites at the cherry. At Wolverhampton they were held to a draw by the local wanderers. Cardiff city who went as far as the final last year, are another team in the same box. On their own ground the Welshmen were forced to accept a no-decision game with Burnley. Blackburn Rovers were held by Preston North End who were relegated to the second string last season. Manchester City saw the amateur Corinthians pile up goal for goal against them, and in every other case there were evidences of great equality among the teams engaged.

The cup-holders, Sheffield United, had a somewhat easy time against Stockport County at Bramall-Lane, the result being two goals to nothing. Gillespie and Boyle starred for the "Blades," both counters coming in the first half. A re-arrangement of Stockports front line in the second period seemed to have an effect, for this half went scoreless. Some strenuous play featured the game.

West Ham Outclassed.

The outstanding game, as far as the Metropolitan district was concerned, was that between the two London teams, Tottenham, Hotspurs and West Ham United. Despite great dash displayed in the opening minutes, the Hammers were outclassed and the 'Spurs' won handily, blanketing the Upton Park Club by five goals.

The margin between Huddersfield town, champions of the League, and Charlton Atheletic, was narrow, and this tilt might have ended indecisively had the Yorkshiremen got established their one goal lead very early in the game. The count came from a penalty which Goodall kicked. Charlton missed many fine openings, particularly in the first half. In the second period they were able to hold their opponents more by good luck than good play.

An extraordinary result was the victory of New Brighton, of the Northern Section, Third Division, over the Wednesday. The latter have decided aspirations to emerging from the second to the first strong of the League. They registered first, but New Brighton equalized from a penalty. In the second half the Wednesday were in grave physical distress, while New Brighton obtained a new lease of life, with the result that the Sheffielders Cup ambitions were shattered when Whitter netted.

Leicester Lose to Notts.

Leicester City were a distinct disappointment to those who re-called their extraordinary performance in cup games last year, when they went down before Notts County by a couple of goals. Leicester were badly disorganized and unable to put any finish to their game.

Of the amateur teams that advanced to the third round, only one came out with anything like a prospect of going further. Boston were badly beaten by Sunderland, while Chilton Colliery had no look-in with South Shields. Clapton, winners of the amateur cup, were defeated but not disgraced by Swindon town. Corinthians, as indicated, get another opportunity against Manchester City.

YOUNG ENGLISH LAD WINS $3,500 GOLF

Harry Cooper, "Pro" at Dallas, Tex., First at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Youth held its sway in the greatest golf tournament ever held in the west, when thousands watched Harry Cooper, youngest professional in the tournament, take away first prize of $3,500.

This 21-year-old English lad of the Tenison Park Golf Club, Dallas, Texas, was the favorite through the three days' play in the $10,000 event. He went through 72 holes of golf with a total of 279 strokes, carding for each 18 holes the following: 70, par on the south course 68, four under par on the north course 74, two over par, and 67, five under par on the north course over which the final 36 holes were played.

George Von Elm, Los Angeles amateur, another dapper youth full of pep, but not quite possessing the vigor and self-confidence of Cooper, ambled in second, taking the honors but passing over the $1,500 purse, not wishing to turn professional.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Joe Kirkwood, New York professional, with cards of 285, split the $1,500 and $1,000 third prize.

RUMANIAN PRINCE IS QUITTING ITALY

Carol Reported Moving To Vienna From Milan.

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press). — Former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania is preparing for what appears to be his departure from Milan, where he has been staying since the renunciation of his accession rights, and for some time before that. It is considered possible that Mme. Lupescu, who has been living at the same hotel, and whose name has been closely linked with his, may go with him. His aide paid his hotel bill Saturday.

After a motor trip with Mme. Lupescu, Carol sent off what were asserted to be confidential telegrams addressed to Vienna, and the expectation is that he will proceed to that city. There was considerable excitement and activity among his suite Sunday, which caused a rumor that Carol was intending to use Vienna as a jumping-off place to bring him nearer to the Rumanian Crown on his own terms.

RUBBER REACTION.

Timid London Traders Inclined to Sell.

LONDON, Jan. 11. — (Canadian Press).—Rubber activity was limited throughout last week, with rubber prices easing and little demand for rubber stocks, as many timid persons were apparently unloading in the belief that the peak had been reached.

The Mincing Lane raw rubber market had little trade, and spot rubber sold Saturday for 3 shillings 7½ pence. Although there are rumors that some planations may pay as high as 80 per cent. on the stock, and many are paying at the rate of 25 per cent., investors are uneasy about the situation, as there are conflicting reports about the accumulated stocks of raw rubber and the possibility of a speedy increase of the rubber output by at least 30 per cent.

CORSICA FLOATING EASTWARD?

A French officer, Commandant Helbronner of the Geodetic Service, who has been making a survey of the island of Corsica, recently made the startling announcement that it was floating away. In the last 100 years, he estimates, it has moved eastward a distance of 33 feet away from France, its owner. This curious discovery, says "Popular Science Monthly," would fit in with the theories of geologists who suggest that the earth's crust is shifting horizontally.

PICTURE MEIGHAN MADE IN IRELAND HERE TO-DAY

"Irish Luck," the picture Tom Meighan and a company of Paramount players went to Ireland to make, comes to the Capitol Theatre for a run of three days to-day. The story, directed for the screen by Victor Heerman, who made "Old Home Week," is an adaptation by Tom Geraghty of Norman Venner's Saturday Evening Post serial, "An Imperfect Imposter." Lois Wilson is featured at the head of the cast playing in support of the star.

AT THE REGENT

"LAZYBONES," RAMATIC TALE OF LAZIEST MAN IN WORLD, IS FROM DAVIS STAGE PLAY.

"Lazybones," the William Fox version of Owen Davis's stage success, which comes to the Regent Theatre for three days beginning Monday, is a fascinating story of the laziest man in the little New England village of Milo.

Steve Tuttle is the village lazybones who has never been known to do a bit of work voluntarily in his life. His two chief occupations are fishing and sleeping, with a preference for slumber.

But in spite of his 'islike for manual labor Steve is kind, generous and true, so that when Ruth Fanning, the sister of his sweetheart, comes to him with her baby and asks him to care for the child until she can get up courage enough to tell her mother of her secret marriage, Steve accepts the charge and gives his word of honor never to reveal the secret of the baby's birth without her permission.

Steve's mother believes in him, but the villagers are quick to believe the worst of the affair, and when Ruth's mother refuses to believe her story, and forbids her claiming the child, Steve finds himself with a baby to raise.

As the years go on, little Kit is ostracised by the children in the village, a situation she cannot understand and one which Steve cannot readily explain. Agnes in the meantime has broken with Steve and Ruth, married to Elmer Ballister, the richest man in town, is forced to watch her baby grow up without being able to acknowledge Kit as her own.

When Kit is fourteen, Ruth does, after making a last attempt to claim her child and Kit never knows that the lonely broken hearted Mrs. Fanning was her own mother.

Then comes the war and Steve goes away with the troops. He returns to find Kit grown into a lovely young woman and promptly falls in love with her—even going to work to please her. But Kit is in love with young Dick Ritchie, nad Steve, mindful only of her happiness hides his own love and gives his consent to the match.

Howard Jones, football coach at the University of Southern California, has entered into an agreement to conduct a school for coaches next summer at Colorado State Teachers College, at Greeley.

Chrysler "58" sped far away from all possible competition months ago in its own low-priced field, outselling everywhere when it provided such striking performance features as 58 miles an hour, 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and a pick-up of 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds.

Precisely the same quailty—precisely the same performance—precisely the same fine appearance—precisely the same beautiful body and chassis at these new prices deal a body-blow to anything even remotely seeking comparison with the "58", which will instantly be recognized, with a thrill of delight, by every student of motor car values.

SASKATOON, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Six locomotives were badly damaged and the roundhouse and boiler room and machine shop of the Candian Pacific Railway at Wilkie, Sask., were gutted Saturday when a midnight fire broke beyond control. The blaze started in the boiler room prevented the use of the railway water supply and the nearest town hydrant could not be used as it was half a mile away. Four engines were saved, but all in the stalls, being without steam, could not be moved. Wilkie is the first district station point west of Saskatoon on the C.P.R.

ITALIAN MASONS IN BAD SITUATION

Propaganda Responsible For Hostility to Order, Says American Organ.

NEARLY WIPED OUT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (United Press).—"Free Masonry's situation in Italy under the Mussolini regime is unhappy and deplorable, to say the least," Scottish Rite headquarters said in a statement here to-day, indicating a belief that the Order has practically been destroyed in that country.

Citing a long list of alleged discrimination and property damage and physical harm inflicted on Masons in Italy, the statement says:

"The bitterness and animosity against Masonry has increased owing to shrewd propaganda charging it with being a political and secret organization instead of a fraternal one, which it truly is, and whose object is charity and universal brotherhood."

The Scottish Rite commented caustically on the terms of the Italian debt settlement.

Price Of Wheat Drops From Liverpool Influence

CHICAGO, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by much larger world shipments and by the weakness of Liverpool quotations, the wheat market here averaged lower today in early dealings. More than 4,000,000 bushels increase of world shipments of wheat were reported for last week as compared with the total for the week previous. On the other hand indications pointed to only six per cent of the wheat remaining in rural hands along the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads, whereas the usual amount at this time is 20 per cent. Opening prices, unchanged to 1 1-4c lower, new style, May 176 1-4 to 176 3-4, and July 151 3-4 to 151 7-8, were followed by a general downturn and then by something of a rally which, however, failed to hold well.

Corn and oats were firm. After opening 1-4 to 3-4c higher, May 89 to 98 3-8, corn scored slight further gains before beginning to react. Oats started at 1-8c advance, May 46c, and continued near to the initial limits. Lower quotations on hogs tended to ease down the provision market despite the strength in corn values.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

BILL OF A DUCK.
By S. T. WILLIAMSON.

He was called "The Little," to distinguish him from "The Old" of the same name, who for a while was President of the Republic. Among the masses of his countrymen he was unknown, for he was a military leader of an unmilitary people; but by numerous Generals and statesmen he was known, was looked up to by many, and by a few was feared.

His contemporaries, content to cover themselves with gorgeous uniforms, regarded as a soldier any man who carried a rifle, whether he knew its uses or not. But "The Little" knew that although battles are fought by soldiers they are won by men who can move armies rapidly. He displayed a rare knowledge of military science and of modern warfare. How he acquired this skill need not be investigated here, but perhaps some citizens of a certain insular nation can say.

"The Little" was one of the busiest of men. In contrast with traits generally associated with his countrymen, he displayed an extraordinary energy and a positive genius for organization. He could employ the silky politeness and the century-defying patience of his people; but, also, he could be ruthless and peremptory. Determination was written on his features—square chin, low, receding forehead and wide, squat nose, shaped like the bill of a duck.

In the midst of a great desert, in which grows but one tree, lives a nomadic people. Centuries ago theirs was the greatest empire on earth. Their subject States were washed by the India and Pacific Oceans, and their wild horsemen carried death and waste far to the west, up the Danube and well toward the Baltic. Where they passed, no eyes remained open to weep for the dead.

This tide of pillage and torture fell back gradually in the west. These terrifying horsemen rode hundreds of years ago, but the imprint of their features still may be seen in some sections of the Danube Valley and to the north, even close to the Scandinavian border. Still further west this strain penetrated, for it cropped out in the face of one of France's greatest Prime Ministers.

Eventually the fierce horsemen returned to the grazing lands and to the desert whence they came. Spiritually they surrendered to the religion of one of their conquered peoples. This tamed their warlike disposition; but territorially they never were conquered. The desert protected them and the reign of their own ruler, "The Living God," who was Commander-in-Chief of an army of 600 bowmen and 200 men armed with rifles.

Five years ago an army of 10,000 men crossed 700 miles of desert to the capital of this now peaceful people. Such an expedition would have been a remarkable feat for a nation of soldiers. It was an unheard of exploit for a people ill-practiced in the art of modern war. This invading army forced the unconquered nomadic people to yield their independence. Its commander was a General with a wide, squat nose, shaped like the bill of a duck.

The Republic fell and another took its place. There had been street fighting, military executions and hasty departures of important personages.

It was the custom in the capital of that country, at railway stations and places where people congregated, to post photographs of pickpockets, sneak thieves and burglars wanted by the police. Always these warnings were against persons of the lowest birth and character. Never in this unsavory company had appeared the likenesses of any of the military caste or of high officials, no matter how much hated or feared they might be by the clique in control of the Government at the time.

But one morning, amid pictures of the scum of a wicked city, appeared the photographs of eight Generals and Ministers connected with the overthrown regime. Rewards of $10,000 and $20,000 were offered for the capture of seven. For the apprehension of the eighth was promised a reward of $30,000, and accompanying this offer was a photograph of a General, with a wide, squat nose, shaped like the bill of a duck.

Again established Government was threatened. Rebel armies pounded at the gates of a number of seacoast cities where commerce with the world flourished and where large, prosperous colonies of foreigners lived in an atmosphere approaching as nearly possible that of "back home."

Native disturbances had been frequent for years, and, regardless of national rivalries and enmities, foreigners banded together to defend their people and their homes against attack. In one or two seacoast cities foreign residents raised and equipped their own volunteer military forces.

When trouble approached the commercial cities, the foreign volunteer forces mobilized and strung barbed wire around their business and residential districts. All unknown or suspicious natives were excluded from these quarters; but defying the guards were many agitators and partisans of both rebel and established parties. The foreign volunteers took and held many prisoners, among them a man with a wide, squat nose, shaped like the bill of a duck.

Government was re-established by ridding the country of the established Government and by restoring another party to power.

Echoes of what had happened were heard in two European capitals. Bands of students belonging to the National Freedom Movement paraded to their legations in Paris and in Berlin to demand the expulsion of a mission from their own country. The students maintained that the mission was abroad for the purpose of buying military supplies and of negotiating loans with which to put down revolt at home.

In Berlin the students visited their legation to "order" the mission to leave Germany. The Minister of their country denied that the commission had any warlike aims. He assured leaders of the demonstration that the commission came abroad with the authority of the republic to study Governmental institutions, schools and industries of a dozen nations. He backed his assertion with one of the strangest pledges ever given by a diplomat in another country.

"If the mission," he said, "undertakes any political or financial activities in Germany, the Minister makes himself answerable with his life."

The head of this mission for which a Minister to Germany made himself a public hostage was a man with a wide, squat nose, shaped like—

Great Bronze Buddha Replaced By 'Quake

TOKYO (United Press).—The famous bronze casting of Buddha at Kamakura, weighing some hundreds of tons, which was bumped around by the two big earthquakes of September, 1923, and Januray 1924 has been repaired.

This great bronze was cast in the thirteenth century and sat serenely on a great stone base until the first earthquake rocked it nearly two feet from its porch and wrecked the stone sub-structure. Singularly enough, the following quake rocked it back to within an inch of where it had sat for seven hundred years, but failed naturally, to restore the masonry

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Hiram Bertrand who died January 10, 1916:
Our home is sad and lonely,
The one we loved is still,
A place lies vacant in our home
That never can be filled.
We miss him, yes we miss him,
There's no one knows how much,
But we hope to meet him some day
On that immortal shore,
And then all will be happy,
Our partings then are oer
For those who gain that blessed shore
Can never die no more.
May Jesus be our guide,
And lead us safely on,
Till night and grief and sin and death,
Are past, and heaven is won.

PROGRESSIVE, REALIZING POWER, DEMANDS PLEDGE OF LEGISLATION FROM THE GROUP HE WILL SUPPORT

A. M. Carmichael Says Vote for Liberals Would be Bolstering Shattered Govt.

MONDAY'S DEBATE

Montreal Conservative Says Liberals Violate Constitutional Principles.

OTTAWA, Ont, Jan. 12.—(By Canadian Press).—A. M. Carmichael (Progressive-Kindersley) continued the debate on the non-confidence amendment of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen when the House of Commons disposed of preliminaries Monday.

Parliament, said Mr. Carmichael, was meeting under unique conditions He doubted whether any other parliament had met under similar conditions since Confederation, or whether any future Canadian Parliament would be confronted with such conditions. The position of the Progressives in the House was one of great importance. Usually the majority in the House of Commons ruled, but to-day not the largest but the second group was bringing down the legislation and attempting to function as a Government.

The motion before the House was to give precedence to the debate on the Speech from the Throne, and Mr. Meighen's amendment was thus also related to the Speech. Looking at the substance of the amendment, it referred to the large number of defeated Liberal candidates, the defeated nine ministers of the crown, the large Conservative popular vote, and the constitutional objections to the Government's carrying on. "In essence, if this amendment is carried, it means that we vote no confidence in the Liberal Government. It means that we will either have another election or a Conservative Government."

Confidence in Defeated Government

"If the amendment is defeated," said Mr Carmichael, "it means that we, by our vote, say we have confidence in a defeated government—that we have confidence in a group that was defeated the country." The defeat of the amendment would mean that the Progressives were flouting the expressed will of the people at the polls, and voting confidence in a defeated government. If Progressive votes were cast against the amendment, it would mean the bolstering up of a shattered government. "We have put in days of thought on this," Mr. Carmichael said.

Referring specifically to the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Carmichael found a promise of rural credits. Such a scheme was absolutely ncessary to relieve the burdens of debt under which many farmers were suffering. It was recalled that in the sessions of the last parliament, the Progressives had had to fight strenuously to get any measure of rural credit legislation into the House. It was understood then that Quebec members were opposed to rural credits. "As I now look at the 61 members from Quebec I wonder how this change came about, and whether or not it is a bait for the Progressives."

The completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway was also promised in the Speech from the Throne.

Liberals Change Heart.

Mr. Carmichael recalled, however, that for several sessions since 1921, a resolution has been advocated by Progresive members urging an early completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway. This resolution received scant support from many on the Liberal benches. "Whence comes this change of heart on the part of those on Government benches?" queried Mr. Carmichael.

Mr. Carmichael resented any suggestion that the Progressives were "thinking more of their sessional indemnity than of anything else." There were members of the Progressive group, he wished to point out, who could be returned to Parliament with greater case than members of any other group.

A definite pronouncement on the questions he had referred to should be assured and satisfactorily answered. If the debate was continued further doubts might be removed and members might be able to vote in the best interests of the people

Students Faked Murder But Hoax Too Realistic

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 12. (Canadian Press).—Two University of Alberta freshmen, who staged a fake murder behind one of the dormitory buildings on Saturday night, are sadder and wiser to-day. Guns were fired in the air, and trail of red ink was left in the snow, leading to a nearby thicket. Two posses of police were summoned and when the boys found that the affair was being regarded in a serious light they confessed to the hoax and both appeared in city police court, charged with firing firearms within the city limits, and were remanded for sentence until January 14.

SIX OF FAMILY DIE WHEN FIRE DESTROYS HOME

ildren of Mrs. Albert Tanguay Burned to Death at Ottawa.

MOTHER HURT.

Nephew Cut, Two Other Children Unhurt After Early Morning Fire.

OTTAWA, January 12. — Canadion Press. — Six people were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the two story dwelling house of Mrs. Albert Tanguay, Cecil stree', Clarkstown, after four o'clock this morning. The dead are:

Mrs. W. E. Sarizan, aged 23, married daughter of Mrs. Tanguay.
Veronica Tanquay, aged 16.
Loratte Tanguay, aged 13.
Lilian Tanquay, aged 11.
Harold Tanguay, aged 9.
Gordon Tanguay, aged 9.

Badly injured and in hospital:
Mrs. Albert Tanguay, mother of the victims, badly burned.

Victor Kelly, a cousin of the victims, badly cut about he arms and wrists.

Hattie and Sylvester Tanguay were the only ones in the house to escape.

Early to-day, four bodies had been recovered, charred almost beyond recognition.

Dr. Parent rendered first aid to the injured, who had been rushed to the Water street Hospital. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained. Mrs. Tanguay sustained her injuries and burns when she jumped from an upstairs window.

The blaze was first noticed by a passing pedestrian who knocked hard on the street door and awakened Hattie Tanguay. She aroused the others and ran herself to a neighbor. The victims were trapped however in the blinding smoke before they could get out.

Subsequent search located the bodies of the other two victims so that the six bodies have now been recovered. There were ten people sleeping in the small two-storey frame house when the flames burst out. According to Sylvester Tanguay he was aroused by his sister, Hattie, and they both rushed out of the house. When he realized that the others were still in the house, he tried to re-enter, but the flames at the front door drove him back. He then ran to the back of the house, where there was a balcony which had been closed in for the winter. He put a ladder up to rescue other members of the family and was part way up when he saw his mother jump out of the window and fall heavily in the snow. He jumped down and hurried to her assistance. In a very few minutes the house was in ruins. With the blaze evidently starting in the front portion of the house, the victims had been forced to seek their escape from the back balcony.

Here they were trapped, unable to get through the enclosure which had been constructed as a winter protection. Four of the six bodies were found where the balcony fell. The other two were in the interior of the house.

Garter Flasks All the Rage Are Handy and Rather Pretty

BRISTOL, Va., Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—Garter flasks, highly ornamented, are the rage in this vicinity. Dozens of the little three drink containers have been sold here. Many of them passed as Christmas presents.

The popularity of garter flasks is ascribed to several advantages they are said to provide over the obsolete mode of carrying liquor in purses or pockets. They promise to upset the purpose of "search and seizude" laws and they are handy and rather pretty.

FRENCH ATTACK PROBLEMS LEFT FROM OLD YEAR

Parliament Resumes Today Discussions Suspended by ... the Holidays.

FINANCE FIRST

Socialists Hostile to Measures for Avoiding Inflation.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Parliament, which met today for the regular session of 1926, finds on the calendar the same important subjects as were left in suspense when the House adjourned for the holidays—the budget, financial restoration, electoral reform and ratification of the Locarno pact.

The situation as respects the Government will be the same, notwithstanding the victory of Premier Briand over the dissident Radicals just before the end of the last session. Influential members of the Cabinet for the past two days have been active in the lobbies of the Chamber advocating postponement of action on electoral reform, which is one of the principal features of M. Briand's programme.

The Socialist and Radical members of the Finance Committee remain hostile to the Government measures for financial restoration; they received M. Doumer's explanation of his projects before the Finance Committee Monday afternoon with significant coldness.

The Finance Minister insisted that it was necessary promptly to vote the bills agreed upon in the Cabinet meeting in order to avoid further inflation. The Radicals and Socialists replied with criticisms of the stamp tax on all business transactions. M. Doumer admitted that this tax was susceptible of further study and amendment, but declared that a vote for the Government projects in substance was indispensable.

ANOTHER PEACE PLAN REJECTED IN COAL PARLEY

"Arbitration of Wages Alone" Unacceptable to the Mine Workers.

AN ULTIMATUM?

Operators Resist Idea of Arbitrating Price of Coal to Public.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (Canadian Press).—Another peace plan popped up in the anthracite wage conference Monday and was promptly knocked flat.

The conference made no material progress and adjourned until this morning.

The new plan was presented by the operators and embodied, according to them, "the utmost concessions that can be made and still preserve the essentials of a workable agreement."

The miners, in rejecting it, placed on the record a statement detailing their opposition to arbitration. In the statement, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, declared that "in a final desperate effort" to break up the conference, the operators had again offered a plan of arbitration of wages alone.

"They have stubbornly resisted," he asserted, "every suggestion of the mine workers that they arbitrate their profits upon the inflated capitalization of the industry and that they arbitrate the price which they charge the anthracite consuming public for coal."

"The mine workers chose to refuse to accept the operators' brand of arbitration, because it is obvious that it is not to the advantage of the mine workers to do so," he said.

The latest plan to end the hard coal strike, now in its fifth month, provided for a five-year agreement, with the right of either side to request once a year the reconsideration of the wage scale. In the event of a deadlock, the plan provided that former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, at one time general counsel for the United Mine Workers, "or some person of similar standing" name three persons to whom the differences would be referred for adjustment.

PROGRESSIVES HOLDING CAUCUS BUT ARE EXPECTED TO AID KING

Two or Three May Vote For Amendment of Non-Confidence.

J. W. KING MAY VOTE.

Some May Refrain From Voting—Division Expected This Week.

OTTAWA, January 12. Canadian Press. — The Progressives met for their final caucus this afternoon. So far the debate in the House is concerned the Progressives have not indicated their attitude, but the talk in Progressive circles this morning tends to indicate that with the possible exception of two or three members, they will vote against the non-confidence amendment proposed by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader. Indeed, in political circles generally the impression prevails that this is the most probable outcome of the situation.

Should two Progressives vote wit the Coiservatives in favor of the non confidence amendment and all the other members of the House vote against it, the amendment would be defeated by eight votes.

It was at first thought that J. W. King, Progressive, of North Huron, would be unable to vote owing to the double return from that constituency, but in view of the judgment of the Supreme court of Ontario, the returning officer for North Huron has made a substitute return declaring Mr. King "lawfully elected" for that division.

The Conservatives, it is stated, could still raise opposition to Mr. King voting by moving for reference of his case to the committee on Privileges and Elections. Were the case so referred Mr. King could not sit in the House till the committee had reported, but no such move has so far been made.

It is very unusual, however, for the full House actually to vote, and the suggestion is made that the Progressives who do not vote against the amendment may not vote at all.

The division is expected on Wednesday or Thursday although there has been no definite arrangement so far.

Henri Bourassa, Independent of La Belle, resumes the debate at three oclock this afternoon.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.— (Canadian Press.)—The abdication of Admiral Horthy as Regent of Hungary, says a special despatch to Vorwartz from Vienna, has been demanded by the diplomats of the Allied powers in Budapest.

Wonderful Pearl Collar Comes To King Emmanuel

ROME, Jan. 12 (United Press)—A pearl collar 19 metres long and composed of 32 strands will come into the possession of King Victor Emmanuel under the will of his mother, the dowager Queen Margherita, according to reliable authority today.

The collar, which is regarded as the second finest in the world, was collected by the late King Hubert and Queen Margherita.

Other rare jewels will be given to the queen and the royal princess, but apparently the bulk of the Queen Mother's property will go to the Crown Prince, of whom she was particularly fond.

CANADA'S EXPORTS EXCEEDED IMPORTS

Britain Bought Nearly Four Times as Much From Dominion.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Canada's exports to the United Kingdom in November last were nearly four times greater than her imports therefrom. The latest summary of trade shows that the Dominion sent the United Kingdom goods to the value of $55,524,454 in that month, while imports totalled $13,992,659, of which eleven millions were dutiable goods.

The war interrupted the regular decennial presentation of the play. It last was given in the summer of 1922. Subsequently the passion players visited the United States.

LOCAL HEALTH ASSOCIATION IN GOOD POSITION

Is in Splendid Shape Financially, With Large Reserve.

GOOD WORK DONE.

Reports Show Extent of Society's Efforts—Officers Re-elected.

To be in a position which will not necessitate an approach to the people for funds to further the interests of public health for the coming year is the proud distinction of the Peterborough Health Association, a fact which was brought forcibly home to a number of the members assembled at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon. Reports were read which showed a sweeping index of progress and a firm financial basis. So well satisfied were the board members with the work done by the officers for the past year that they were re-elected for another term. An additional provision was made for the summer camp at Jackson's Park when Dr. W. D. Scott was appointed as representative of the clinic which attends to its health needs.

The following names were those suggested by the nominating committee to be members of a standing committee: Misses Merrill and Archer; Mesdames Coulthard, R. R. Hall, Aylmer, A. W. Turner, Chris. Graham, Stewart Cameron; Messrs. Rev. Fr. Costello, Breyfogle, Geo. MacDonald, E. A. Peck, M.P.; W. T. Holloway, E. J. Vanston, J. R. Corkery, W. Stocker, J. J. Turner, W. G. Morrow, V. J. McElderry, E. F Mason, W. S. Merrill, Robert Abbott, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.; Doctors J. J. Craig, MacPherson, Morgan, Neal, Scott, O'Reilley, and Cameron.

The roster of officers is as follows:

President—W. R. Breyfogle.
First Vice President—Rev. Father Costello.
Second Vice President — Mrs. Coulthard.
Treasurer—E. J. Vanston.
Secretary—Dr. Cameron.
Chairman of the Nurses Supervision Committee—Mrs. R. R. Hall.
Chairman of the Finance Committee—E. J. Vanstone.
Chairman of the Publicity Committee—V. J. McElderry.
Chairman of the Clinic for the Summer Camp—Dr. W. D. Scott.

The reports will appear in full.

DOMINION SCOUT OFFICER HERE

Addressed Meeting of Local Executive and Spoke To Boys.

TOLD OF MOVEMENT.

John Stiles of Ottawa, Assistant Dominion Chief Commission of Boy Scouts, met the executive of the local Boy Scouts' Association in the council chambers of the City Hall. He spoke to them on the progress of the Boy Scout movement in Canada from its inception in 1912 until this year there are over 60,000 in the Dominion. He stated that scouting inculcates the principles of honor amongst the boys—it teaches them that their honor is the most precious thing they possess. "Boys," he said, "respond to the dominant note and we must supply that note."

Some people, he stated, have the idea that the organization is a military one—it is not—it is a game and must be played in a game manner. The keynote of the whole organization is woodcraft and its purpose is to get the boys out from under roofs into the open spaces. One should remember, said the speaker, that the boys in the cities have lost their heritage—the back yard and scouting must take its place.

Mr. Stiles met the scouts of the City in the armouries at the conclusion of the meeting. Scout lore, games, and singing were indulged in by the boys under the leadership of Dr. Murray Fraser, District Scout-Master.

KINGSTON, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—A man aged between 25 and 30 was found lying on the highway about four miles west of Odessa last night and he expired while being removed to a nearby farm house. A search of his clothing brought to light a letter written from Kingston to an aunt in Stornaway, Scotland, containing $30 in cash, a savings bank book with a credit balance of $35; a small vial party filled with carboli cacid, and a C.N.R. baggage able at Montreal. Dr. Munro, Odessa, found acid burns about the mouth. The remains were removed to Napanee.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 12—(United Press)—That the former Kaiser had undergone a successful operation on his ear last week leaked out here today from behind the gates of Doorn Castle.

Subsequently, the Kaiser caught a slight cold and is still suffering from that.

Inquiry at Doorn developed the above facts, following the death of Prof. Von. Relmert of Berlin, who was stricken after attending Wilhelm and died in a Utrecht hospital.

Faithful Vigil Of Airedale Guided Searchers To Master

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—Covered with ice and on the verge of starvation as the result of his four days' vigil over the body of his master, an Airedale was just able to bark faintly and bring searchers to the spot where William C. Mann, 25, a contractor, lay pinned under a heavy tractor. Mann had been hauling gravel with the tractor when it overturned on an incline, crushing him to death.

FEDERAL TROOPS KILLED BANDITS

Eight Others Who Were Captured Were Immediately Executed.

LOOT RECOVERED.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—An unknown number of bandits who massacred passengers and guards on a train running between Guadala Jara and Mexico City have been killed in a fight with Federal troops. Eight others who were captured were immediately executed. All loot secured by the bandits has been recovered and the bandits are believed to have been entirely dispersed.

This announcement was made early this morning by the War Department here.

Special despatches from Zamora, in the State of Michoacan, previously reported that the bandits had passed through that city Monday morning, fleeing from Federal troops and that later they were surrounded.

8 LOAVES OF BREAD WERE UNDER WEIGHT

But Inspecting Officers Also Found Many Above the Legal Standard.

Detective Carey and Sergeant Beannard of the Peterboro Police Force made a tour of several bakeries last night and seized eight large loaves of bread which were underweight. As a seizure of ten loaves is necessary before a conviction can be made, there will be no further action. The bread will be given to the Children's Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage. Much of the bread inspected was considerably over-weight.

NO CHANGE RESULTS FROM PEKIN PARLEY

China to Await Coming of "Strong Man" Before it Can Guarantee Peace.

LONDON, Jan. 12 (United Press)—Authoritative sources here expressed themselves to day as seeing no hope for an immediate change in China's international relations as a result of the extra territorial conference at Pekin. It was suggested that the conference would make a programme for the future allowing China more freedom from international control and then await putting it into effect until such time as a "strong man" should arise in China who could guarantee peace and order, not alone for the foreigners, but for the whole Chinese nation as well.

NEWSPAPERS PROSPER.

One New York Paper Has Big Issue—Other Has Million Circulation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — (United Press).—Newspaper prosperity in New York was reflected today in two announcements of more than usual significance. Louis W. Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, stated that to-day's issue of The Times contained 64 pages, and broke all New York and probably the world's record for the largest regular week-day newspaper not connected with any kind of special edition. At the same time the New York Daily News made public its circulation average for the month of December, showing an average of over one million copies per day, the American record for week-day circulation.

CANADIANS STOPPED WATERWAY PROJECT

American Representative Tells New York Body of Opposition.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.— (Canadian Press.)—Canadian opposition to the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway project has deferred the possibility of its success for many years, L. Wallace Dempsey, chairman of the House committee on rivers and harbors, said yesterday before the Harbor and Shipping Committee of the New York State Chamber of Commerce.

Development of an all-United States waterway from the Great Lakes to the Hudson river was urged by Mr. Dempsey, who asserted that the St. Lawrence undertaking would largely aid the Canadian wheat growers and provide more competition for the United States farmer.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LINDSAY COURT IN LONG SESSION

Assault and Theft Charge Heard by Magistrate on Saturday.

TWO WOMEN IN CASE

LINDSAY, Jan. 12.—(Special).—It took Police Magistrate Bradford, County Crown Attorney Anderson and Barrister R. I. Moore just six hours to dispose of a case Saturday that stands unique in the history of local court annals. The case had as a setting a piece of a toilet set, and the charges laid were theft and assault.

Two women also figured in the case. The accused at one time rented rooms from complainant, and was given th use of a toilet set while under the roof. When leaving to reside in new quarters, it was charged by the complainant that the accused carried off the toilet article. Some time later complainant went to the new home of Woman No. 2 and demanded the article. The latter claimed it was her article, and when she produced it for examination, there was quite a tussle for possession. The accused was charged with pouring a pot of tea and a quantity of jam or jelly over the complainant. She also knocked her hat off and flourished a large knife in a menacing manner.

The accused went into the box and swore that she had bought a toilet set in Newmarket and had also purchased an extra toilet article. She disposed of the set to a Lindsay second hand dealer, but kept the two articles referred to, sending one to Toronto along with other articles for storage purposes. She swore that when complainant called at her home she was looking for fight, and tried to climb up her back. She also bounced her around the room for about half an hour until ordered to leave the house.

Several articles of china were displayed in court as exhibits 1, 2 and 3, including the toilet article, which was the cause of the trouble, and which both women claimed as there property.

The evidence of several other witnesses were taken relative to the ownership. The magistrate fined the accused $5.00 on the charge of assault, but dismissed the theft charge owing to the contradictory nature of the evidence concerning ownership.

The case was featured by passages at arms between County Crown Attorney Anderson and R. I. Moore, counsel for the accused. There was also a brisk passage between the barrister and the Magistrate in the earlier stages of the case.

INSPIRING TALK ABOUT CHINESE

Howard J. Crocker Warns in Local Y.M.C.A. Against Teaching War.

Howard J. Crocker, secretary of physical education for the Canadian Y.M.C.A., speaking at the Young Men's Supper Club at the local "Y" the other evening on the subject, "The Unrest in China," made a strong plea for a better and kinder understanding of Chinese affairs. In his closing remarks he pointed out the dire results unless the Western World does show a just understanding of Chinese problems when he said, "It will be a fatal day when we teach China to fight, and she must fight unless we show a fair-minded solution to her problems."

Before starting his talk Mr. Crocker gave his opinion that the Y.M.C.A. developes more leadership than any other single organization. One of the leaders developed in the local "Y" is R. F. McWilliams, now of Winnipeg, who gave the big address of the Y. M. C. A. conference at Washington before 1,500 delegates. Mr. McWilliams followed President Coolidge and gave a marvellous address to that international gathering.

It is the task and responsibility of every boy and young man to grow to feel that he has a responsibility and job. Our nation is no mean nation, but it is taking a place in the world far beyond its strength unless it contains real manhood.

To the man on the street who doesn't probe deep the cause of the unrest in China is quite apparent. "Those Chinks just can't get a government" is his view, and this implies that the Chinese are a poor, weak bunch. He believes America and Great Britain are necessary to act as a big brother to keep peace. On the other hand, those men on the scene in China know that China contains strong young men, both physically and mentally, and has more such than perhaps any other nation in the world. Here the speaker named over numerous young Chinese who have made a place for themselves both in their own country and throughout the world. These men are being educated in England and America, and show amazing intellect and they carry back to their country all that they learn and set out to use it for their country's benefit. These men will take the lead in the China to come.

Every great country was once in as great a muddle as China is today. France, Great Britain and the United States each had their civil war, and took years to recuperate.

Chinese history begins 5,500 years ago, and in order to understand it really one must almost know all China's history. In 1655 A.D. China first had contact with Europe. The Chinese soon came to the stage that they wanted no trade with Europe because the Europeans had browbeated and cheated them at every turn. So they excluded the European nations. In 1842 Great Britain compelled the Chinese to cede a strip of sea coast to them. In 1856 there was another war and China, badly beaten, was forced to give up more land and concessions. By the Treaty of 1842 England forced China to open her ports to the opium trade from India. "Liquor here is a Sunday School class compared to the opium traffic in China to-day," said the speaker. The poor are more suceptible to it, and all over China is felt the devastating effect of the drug. The opium trade is now being almost solely run by English Jews, who use their English naturalization as a protection.

In 1870 further territorial rights were seized and the great seaport waterfront of Shanghai was taken. In this district as in the others thus obtained, the Chinese are foreigners in their own land, without franchise or citizenship. China was simply robbed right and left. By the Nine Power Pact the foremost European nations went in and grabbed with some squabbling among themselves, the best parts of China, Peking, Hong-Kong, Shanghai, etc. Later, in 1890, after the Russo-Japanese further lands were stolen, Port Arthur was taken by the Japanese. All these things stand in the minds of the Chinese.

As regards tariff, China claims a custom but the foreign powers will allow her to collect only 5 per cent. ad valorum. This is ruining the Chinese cotton industry, although China is a cotton country. The foreign powers have set the tariff for China so far, but China is awakening to her wrongs.

Later, by another treaty a foreigner cannot be tried in the Chinese law courts, but only by a judge of his own nation. In these ways the Europeans get away free with the biggest crimes. For the past twenty years young Chinese law students have come to Europe and America to study law and they have gone back with the highest knowledge of justice, but this treaty prohibits them to conduct law courts in their own country. There are 1,500 police in Shanghai, but the Chinese have no word in the ordering of them.

Thus there is in the land thefts, the tariff robbery, and the law court grievance which every young Chinese feels keenly.

"There is another thing," said Mr. Crocker. "The missionaries failed to grasp a great opportunity." There is a great industrial revolution going on in China. The pendulum has now swung to the extreme in every country. The missionaries failed to realize that the Chinese workmen too have organized to obtain a living wage and good working conditions. The Chinese sent 200 young men up into Russia to study their Soviet system. There are now 400 million people awaiting to see how this system will work. Strikes followed. A firm capitalized at $680,000 made profits totalling over a million in one year. This was done by paying boys 20 cents a day, women 30 cents a day and men 40 cents a day, with no regard to conditions in which they worked. Men of Christian nations are doing these things, while the Chinese are building decent factories. On top of this comes the great industrial revolution—the change of old hand methods to machinery, etc. A student uprising in Shanghai, in which they were fired upon and four killed and fifteen injured, set the whole country aflame. Ten thousand students and more are demanding that they "put the foreigner out."

The Christian Chinese and thinkers see that this is not the method. They ask that the old treaties be revoked. Balfour has already showed his wisdom and foresightedness when he said the other day that the treaties between Great Britain and China must be revised. We must show goodwill to China.

There are 30 Y.M.C.A. branches in China, all with native boards of directors, and these boards are helping to keep the fine poise and balance. There is no need for a Great War. If China has to drive the foreigners out she will not be satisfied, but will want to go farther. China is filled with patriotic young men who would be eager to carry a gun against the Europeans. It will be a fatal day if we teach China to fight.

It is up to us to show China we are wrong and correct those wrongs and be brothers. There is no law in the world that is going to keep China down. Let us all help China find herself, and there will soon be different conditions.

In introducing the speaker, Mr. Roper said that Howard Crocker is known wherever sports are played in Canada, and he once was coach for Canada's Olympic team. Mr. Crocker spent eight years in China and knows at first hand conditions in China.

VILLAGERS KILLED BY DRUSE TRIBES

Attacked on Return Home From Refuge in Palestine.

LONDON, January 12. — Canadian Press. — The Jerusalem newspaper "Palestine Bulletin" is quoted by the Daily Express correspondent as saying that Christians from villages along the Palestine frontier, who were returning to their homes, in the belief that fighting with the Jebel Druse tribesmen had ended, were trapped by the Druses at Rasheiya, and one hundred of them were killed. Among those killed were women, children and two priests.

Two churches and other buildings were burned by the Druses, who spent the night sacking the town under a steady French cannonade from Judeidah.

THE PASSING OF G. L. HAY.

The deep sorrow that is felt by every employee of the Examiner office at the passing of Mr. Gus L. Hay, Secretary-Treasurer of the Examiner, will be shared not only by the citizens of Peterboro, to most of whom Mr. Hay was well known, but also by thousands of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, in which order the deceased was an outstanding figure.

It is a tragic and dramatic coincidence that Mr. Hay, who was Potentate of Rameses Temple, A.A.O. N.M.S., was to have presided at the annual business session and ceremonial of the Temple in Toronto tonight, and that one of his last acts was to issue an official message summoning members to that session.

It is significant that in the pamphet containing his message appears a reference to members who have "passed within the unseen portals," from which the following may be quoted as particularly fitting of Mr. Hay:

"But better still to die, if, when we go,
In farm-house, miner's hut and city street,
Men speak our names in praise, because we strove
Not for ourselves but for our fellow-men;
And he who lived, think not of him as gone,
But rather that his spirit lives and moves
Among us yet, still urging us to strive
For high achievement, for the rignant life
That comes to him who toils."

The Examiner has lost a member of its force loved and respected by all within its ranks, Peterboro has lost a worth-while citizen, and the order of which he was such a shining figure has been deprived of a splendid leader in the passing of G. L. Hay.

To the bereaved relatives the sympathy of the community goes out.

WHERE LAW IS ADAMANT.

Peterboro has a peculiar case rising out of the municipal elections, says the London Advertiser. Did we say rising? Rather it should be falling. A deputy returning officer lost his glasses, and he's just as certain as he can be that they're in the ballot-box.

But law is mighty and must prevail, and the law says that the ballot-boxes must not be opened for six weeks. He won't even allow the ballot-boxes to be shaken up to see if the glasses make a rattle against the side. The City Clerk no doubt feels that if the shaking-up of the ballot-boxes did produce a rattle the deputy returning officer would be dead set to jimmy his way into that box and romp off with his specs.

The officer doesn't want to get another pair, because he's so certain his old ones that suited him remarkably well are right in that tin box, and at the end of the six weeks he'd find himself loaded up with two pairs, and how can he look after two pairs when he can't keep track of one.

It's a nasty situation, for no matter whether you wear them pinched on your nose, straddled over your ears or shoved up on the forehead, it's downright hardship to be without 'em, and it must be exasperating, too, to know or suspect that they are where you can't get them.

THE RIGHT KEYNOTE.

Mayor Holloway's plea for economy made in his inaugural address to the City Council yesterday will be echoed by the majority of citizens.

His Worship is undoubtedly accurately interpreting public opinion when he declares that the people are opposed to any large capital expenditure for the present.

There are things that Peterboro needs, but most people believe that the rule that applies to individuals also applies to municipalities, and that is that there comes a time when no matter how desirable a thing may be its acquisition will have to be deferred to a period of greater financial strength.

Most of us can look around our homes and make a list of articles that would be of service and comfort to us, but when there is a time of financial stress we have to more or less reluctantly abandon any idea of purchasing them for the present.

It should be the same way with a municipality.

When the burden of taxation has reached a degree that is staggering to many citizens then a halt must be called to capital expenditure.

Peterboro expects a year of real effort toward economy and strict adherence to a policy that, while it will not allow necessary services to deteriorate, will steer carefully away from large expenditures on projects that may be desirable, but that can be deferred until a more favourable opportunity.

If the keynote sounded in the Mayor's inaugural address is lived up to the majority of the citizens will be thoroughly satisfied.

FIXED ASSESSMENTS.

Referring to the many bylaws for fixed assessment which were defeated in the recent municipal elections in many places in this Province, the Financial Post says:

"Sound manufacturing projects are not usually found shopping for concessions of this kind. They are willing to pay their share of the upkeep of the community, but they are vitally interested in careful municipal management, and moderate taxes for themselves and their workers. Those industries which are reasonably assured of success will be found to decide their location because of advantages in relation to raw materials, shipping facilities, contented labor, etc.—they are not so much interested in bonuses or tax exemptions."

The Post is undoubtedly right, but unfortunately in the case of young industries it has been the practise of municipalities to offer concessions in the form of fixed assessments, and cities which have refused to make them have seen new concerns pass them by, says the Brantford Expositor. The Expositor has always contended that the principle is not sound, especially when one industry is enjoying a low fixed assessment while a competitor may be paying full rates and thus be laboring under a handicap. If fixed assessments are allowed they should be controlled by the Legislature so that no municipality could offer more favorable terms than another. The percentage the fixed assessment bears to the full assessed valuation should be a fixed one for the entire Province and should be on a graduating basis upwards for a period of ten years until the full value is paid.

THE NEW CHAIRMEN.

The City Council has chosen its Chairmen of the various committees for the year, with complete harmony existing, and it is believed that the selections made by the Aldermen will meet with general approval from the citizens.

A continuity of policy has been ensured by the fact that four important committees are headed by the same Chairmen as last year.

Ald. J. O. Fife, whose work as Chairman of the Board of Works in 1925 was marked by a careful attention to the many details that make up the duties of this responsible position, was rewarded by being returned to the works chairmanship.

Ald. Meyers is again Chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, Ald. R. Denne was re-elected to head the Legal Committee, and the appointment of ex-Ald. Phelan to the vacancy caused by the resignation of ex-Ald. Crowe made it possible for that important folio to be entrusted to the same Chairman who has taken care of it so well during the past few years.

The Fire, Water and Light appointment went to Ald. Mel. Turner, whose position as head of the Parks Committee was taken by Ald. J. M. Greene, member of that committee last year. Both these Chairmen have training and experience and should do good work.

Ald. Hancock's feat in heading the polls earned him a portfolio, and he will be at the head of the Property Committee, whose jurisdiction also includes building, market and health.

With such an efficient list of Chairmen, backed up by new members of the Council who bring a fresh vision and interest with them, Peterboro's Council of 1926 should be capable of splendid service.

ON THE DOWNWARD TREND.

In view of the special efforts made during the past year, not only during Fire Prevention Week, but at other times to interest people in the important problem of reducing Canada's annual fire waste, it is a source of satisfaction to the Examiner to be able to report that a much better showing was made in 1925 than for some years.

The Monitary Times in its annual review gives some interesting figures which indicate that the total fire loss throughout Canada in the year just closed was $30,580,090, which was the lowest figure since 1921 and nearly 18 million dollars lower than the total for 1922.

By Provinces, compared with 1924, the reported losses are:

	1924	1925
Alberta	$ 1,695,996	$ 901,700
British Columbia	2,216,700	2,808,000
Manitoba	1,958,050	1,206,500
New Brunswick	926,600	1,584,000
Nova Scotia	1,609,200	1,415,000
Ontario	9,875,263	9,463,308
Prince Edward Island	90,000	10,000
Quebec	7,084,900	5,084,282
Saskatchewan	1,862,900	2,107,300
Total reported	$27,319,609	$24,580,090
Estimated unreported fires	6,000,000	6,000,000
Total estimated loss	$33,319,609	$30,580,090

The total $30,580,090, of course, is still much too large, and the Ontario total $9,463,308 is far heavier than it need to have been had people been careful, but at all events it is satisfactory to note that the trend of fire losses seems at last to be downward.

Here in Peterboro we have had an exceptionally good year from the viewpoint of fire waste, the total for the year being well below the average, and for that condition there is every reason to be thankful.

RUBBER AND CONGRESS.

What can a congressional inquiry discover about rubber and the British monopoly which is not a matter of common knowledge? Although almost every commodity in the world advanced to sensational prices in the boom which followed the war, rubber was the conspicuous exception. The farsighted British, to save a desperate situation, with rubber companies going into receivership right and left, adjusted the supply to the price by restricting output. For years, including the years of the war, this country secured rubber at a figure far below its value. The British restriction of output operated at first only to the benefit of the unpledged Dutch competitors, who sold all they could produce and, to a large extent, spoiled what market there was. But American demand and not British restriction finally established a market for crude rubber at a dollar a pound and over. On our phenomenal demand, the ultimate advance was a mathematical certainty, and it is impossible to deny the British the credit their foresight deserves.

When the special correspondent of the Wall Street Journal was in England in 1919, he pointed out that the British control of three-fourths of the world's rubber could only be met by American business men in a businesslike way. He said that they might develop rubber resources for themselves, on the Amazon or elsewhere; he said that they might, even at that time, have bought into the English plantation companies at a price which, to our great manufacturers, would have been trifling and only a fraction of what the same shares are fetching in the open market today. Perhaps some of our manufacturers may have indulged in a speculative position that way. The more wisely managed English Dunlop Co. protected itself through plantation ownership, and is reaping the benefit. What can Congress do about it? Who are we that we should talk of price-fixing and monopoly control? We fixed the price of wheat by Government agencies at $2.37 a bushel, and made the world pay twice over for its bread that our farmers might benefit inordinately from the starvation needs of war. We can at least be sure that only a small part of the price of rubber can possibly be due to British restriction, now almost entirely relaxed. All the rest is the consequence of our own insatiable demand.—Barron's.

A THOUGHT.

LUNATICS AT LARGE.

In order successfully to deal each day with the perplexing problems of life, it is necessary that we realize and respect the relationship between a tranquil and physical fitness.

Getting angry, or what is commonly called "mad," is temporary insanity and the insane cannot reason. Flying off the handle, or getting all upset at the least provocation, is proof that there is something wrong in the upper story. When a man wins a reputation for virulence, bitterness and animosity, he has few friends and plenty of enemies.

But the big handicap is his poor health. The fermenting fellow, the excitable, irritable individual who has explosions of temper and frequent violence of wrath, cannot digest food properly.

Shylock exacted the pound of flesh from right over the heart and this is about the way a storm of temper works. It hits the heart, wrecks the nervous system, and poisons the blood supply.

Anger is a boomerang. It comes back, hits and hurts the man who hates.

Hate is intense and will create more harm to the mind and body than any other passion.

When a person hates intensely, the pores of the skin throw out a perspiration and a few drops of this deadly liquid given to a dock rat is as fatal to the tough little animal as the regular package of poison.

Spitfires and pugnacious people shorten their lives by several years and, even while living, are lunatics at large.—The Silent Partner.

whom they represented. He intended to cast his vote one way if he was assured of these things and the other way if he was not.

Montreal Conservative.

R. S White (Conservative-Mount Royal) spoke of the amendment of Mr. Meighen as a "bald narrative of plain unvarnished facts" which none could dispute.

Mr. White quoted the example of the Disraeli Government of 1868 which the Minister of Justice had used in support of the Governmnt's position. At that time a minority government was permitted to carry on by consent of the majority. Todd, former librarian of the Canadian Parliament and an authority on constitutional matters, had written on this incident as being "palpably at variance with the first principles of parliamentarly government." Moreover in every case cited by the Minister of Justice, there had been a Prime Minister in the House.

The amendment was not to be regarded as a political party move, it was a declaration of constitutional principles. If there was to be a change in government tomorrow the Progressives could exercise the same privileges and would be in the same position as they were today but if they supported the amendment they would have vindicated the sanctity of our constitution and parliament.

The old axiom that "the letter killeth while the spirit giveth life," said Mr. White, had been reversed by the Liberal Government. The spirit of the people had killed that Government but the letter of the law had been invoked to give it life.

Referring to Premier King's Richmond Hill speech as "a long blaze of apology," Mr. White recalled that on that occasion, Mr. King had asked: "Is it sufficient that as a Government we should continue in office drawing out indemnities and salaries and enjoying the other fruits of office, when great national questions press for a solution?" That said Mr White, was "a gem of purest ray," and it was regretable that the Prime Minister's position today was in sharp contrast.

The Hamilton Speech.

The Speech from the Throne, Mr. White described as "a death-bed repentance," and a political death-bed repentance was of no more convincing than the other kind.

Mr. Lapointe, "The Hamilton speech for instance."

This remark evoked loud applause from the Liberal benches while Mr. Lapointe smiled across the floor towards where Mr. Meighen sat. Several Liberal members invited Mr. White to give his opinion of Mr. Meighen's recent speech at Hamilton.

Mr. White: "You do not embarrass me in the slightest. I am prepared at the right time—and in no unmistakable language—to express my opinion of that speech."

"In what way?" one of the Liberal members called out.

Mr. White: "It may before this session is much older. But I do not think it is particularly pertinent to the amendment which is now before us."

Gained in Queebc.

Mr. White then went on to discuss the Province of Quebec. In his first sentence a reference to Hon. E. L. Patenaude was a signal for a demonstration from the Liberal benches. Applauding and banging their desks the Government members shouted "How about Patenaude?"

Mr. White: "Mr. Patenaude has not yet run his political course. If life is spared him he will yet support Conservative doctrine and Conservative principle in this House."

Not only had the Conservatives won in the recent election four seats in Quebec where formerly they held none added Mr. White but the party had increased its popular vote in that province by 100,000 votes.

"Who got the black eye?" asked one of the Liberal memers.

Mr. White: "Well, if you wish to know, I think it was the late member for North York (Premier King)."

In conclusion Mr. White said that the position of the Government was a violation of consitutional principles and parliamentary practice.

Hon. E. M. MacDonald

Hon. E. M.MacDonald complimented Mr. White on the manner in which his speech had been delivered and welcomed him back to the House after his years of absence. It was regretable, said the Minister of National Defence, that Mr. White had chosen to be "enigmatical" and had refrained from saying just what was the attitude of Mr. Patenaude to Mr. Meighen, or of Mr. Meighen to Mr. Patenaude, and of Mr. White to both. During the election campaign, Mr. White had been asked at a meeting whether he was "a Meighen man or a Patenaude man," and Mr. White had replied "I am a Conservative upholding Conservative principles and call no man master." Who was Mr. White following?

From the Conservative benches somebody shouted "Tell us something about Pictou."

Mr. MacDonald declared that the actions of the Government since the recent election were justified under English precedents. The Liberal administration had taken the only proper constitutional course and had called Parliament at the earliest possible moment, in order to have the question of its right to continue in office passed upon by the House.

The position of the Government, stated Mr. MacDonald, was also supported by precedent in its action in summoning Parliament even though the Prime Minister had not a seat in the House of Commons. There was no statutory authority of any kind which stated that a Minister of the Crown however, should take the earliest opportunity of finding a seat; and this was the action which would be taken by Premier King.

The Minister concluded by declaring that the Government if sustained in the House would implement by legislation what was promised in the Speech from the Throne.

Western Conservative.

"This Parliament," declared Hon. R. B. Bennett (Conservative-Calgary West), "has met under circumstances without precedent in the British Empire." Never before in the history of the British Empire had a Parliament met with a Prime Minister having a seat in neither House. The Government's unconstitutional position was entirely unconstitutional under British precedence.

Mr Bennett took issue with those who suggested that a committee of the House should function as a Government. He pointed out that the Parliament of Canada did not consist only of the House of Commons but of three factors, the King, the Senate and the House of Commons.

Mr Bennett argued that the unwritten law was not the only law of Parliament. By the side of the unwritten law had grown up the law which came from custom and precedent, which had come down through ages, and represented the struggle of free peoples against privilege and prerogative.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—H. P. Kennedy & Co. will make their first shipment in ther own steamers next week and are relying on Edmonton to provide the large share of this shipment. Trade opened slow, and business during the morning was quiet.

The only active demand was in cows, which sold fully steady with last week. Good cows all brought $5 a cwt up. One choice load of export steers sold at $8.50 a cwt., but some with less finish sold at $7.60, and store steers wre $7.25 a cwt. A bunch of not too good export heifers went at $7.10, and heifers wer 25 cents a cwt. lower. Good to choice handyweight butchers were not quite as firm as last week. WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 12 (Canadian Press) — Light export demand and increased offerings from Argentine, imparted a weaker tone to the wheat market here today. Following an extreme break of three cents prices recovered sharply to close from 1c to 1 7-8c lower. The respective closing figures were May $1.58 1-4; July, $1.56 1-4; October $1.37 1-2.

The coarse grain markets were dull and prices were generally following the trend of wheat.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press) — The Toronto market remains firm today but Montreal has undergone another price decline. Heavy production in the East and consequent lack lack of markets is placing the British Columbia market in a very disorganized state.

Montreal—It is believed price decline is overdone and that there should be a temporary reaction soon. Jobbing fresh extras 43, firsts 38, storage firsts 35, seconds 28.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press) — With all United States wheat prices well above a world parity, selling today in the wheat market here outweighed the buying. A notable depressing factor was a trade estimate that domestic stock of wheat both in and out of the visible supply are larger than generally believed and will at present aggregate 325,000,000 bushels.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 3-4 to 2 3-8 cents net lower, new style, May 1.75 -8 to 1.75 3-8 and July 1.51 1-8 to 1.51 1-4. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c off, oats unchanged to a shade down, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Notwithstanding that the wheat market was responsive at times to such stimulating items as 1,016,000 bushels decrease in the domestic visible supply last week and an announcement that taxes on purchase calls are void, every price advance today turned out to be only transient. From the outset, wheat values were bearishly affected by news that wowrld shipments were 4,000,000 larger than a week ago and that Liverpool quotations were weak. In addition, export demand was lacking. European purchases of wheat today were confined to 40,000 bushels of durums, a grade seldom used for bread-making purposes in the United States.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 12 (Canadian Press) — While there was some enquiry from foreign buyers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market today, exporters stated that the prices bid were below working basis and no new business of importance was done. The only important sale in the domestic market was two loads of No. 1 Northern wheat at 11 1-2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C. I.F. bay ports. In oats the feeling was steady under an improved demand from country buyers.

Owing to the continued downward tendency of cash wheat prices in the Winnipeg market of late a weaker feeling developed in the local flour market for spring wheat grades and millers generally reduced prices 20c per barrel which is the first change that has been in any direction this year. There was no marked improvement in the volume of business with outside or domestic buyers and the market was again quiet.

The tone of the market for potatoes remains very firm and prices show no important change. The demand for supplies has not increased to any extent, but some business was done in New Brunswick Green Mountains at $3.50 per bag, and Quebec varieties at $3 to $3.25 per bag of 90 lbs. ex-track

The receipts of butter were 90 packages, as commpared with 399 for the same day last week, and 96 for the corresponding day a year ago. The total receipts from May 1, 192,5 to Jan. 9, 1926, should have been 558,861 packages instead of 557,911 packages as published. A steady business continues to be done in small ots for local and outside account and the market was moderately active with no change in prices to note.

The receipts of cheese were 275 boxes, as against 1,133 for the same day last week, and 4 for the corresponding day a year ago. The total receipts from May 1, 1925 to January 9, 1926, should have been 1,558,508 boxes instead of 1,556,577 boxes as published. The trade was again reported very quiet there being little demand from foreign buyers for supplies and prices on spot were easier with early makes nominally quoted at 20c to 20 1-2c per lb. and current receipts at 17c to 17 1-2c per lb.

MEXICAN PASSENGERS AND CREW OF TRAIN SLAUGHTERED AND TOWN LOOTED BY REVOLUTIONIST BAND

Foreign Men Robbed But Unhurt and Women Were Unmolested.

WANTON MASSACRE

Mexican Women and Children Among the Uncounted Victims.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—Spared from what was described by witnesses as a "most horrible slaughter," Mrs. C. E. Sharrot, wife of the manager of the Bank of Montreal at Guadalajara, and her infant child, arrived safely in Mexico City Monday afternoon with other passengers who were on the train raided Saturday by bandits. Mrs. Sharrot was en route to Mexico City to visit friends when the train was boarded by twenty men, who proceeded to murder the soldier guards and the train crew, to shoot indiscriminately among the Mexicans in the second and third-class coaches and to rob the passengers of their money and valuables.

No foreigners were physically injured by the bandits. After having run the train to Yurecuaro and looted that town, the raiders detached the engine from the train, set the coaches afire and made their escape in the engine, leaving the passengers whose lives had been spared to get to their destinations as they might.

Accounts as to the number of dead vary, but G. M. Wynkoop, of Berryville, Va., who with his wife was aboard the train, said he saw nine guards dead, and believed most of the train crew were killed. It was estimated that fifty Mexican passengers were among the dead.

Fired Without Warning.

Wynkoop, the first survivor to reach Mexico City, gave the press a graphic account of the ghastly affair.

He said: "About dark Saturday I noticed twenty suspicious appearing men carrying rifles concealed under their cloaks who boarded the train as passengers at a small station near Guadalajara. Presently they stationed themselves at the doors of each coach, and without warning opened fire upon the passengers in the second and third-class coaches. They continued firing without mercy, killing many of the passengers and all the soldier guards.

"I saw several dead Mexican women and children, in addition to men; how many I do not know. I could not see. It was a ruthless massacre and a most terrible sight. Even now I can hardly believe that such an awful thing happened.

"I doubt if everybody will ever accurately know the number of dead and wounded. I saw wounded men die, and other killed instantly. I saw one aged woman writhing in horrible agony, her body shot open. I saw a little baby shot through the heart. I saw bodies so burned as to be almost indistinguishable from the charred timbers of the coaches. Altogether it was a perfect nightmare of incredibly wanton blood-thirstiness.

Foreigners Unhurt.

"The sole and only mercy, which I cannot explain was shown to foreigners. Not a foreigner was killed. A number of Germans to the pullman, together with passengers of other nationalities, escaped unhurt.

"We are all hosted, but thank God we got away alive."

Although the bandits did not harm any foreigners in the public they took all valuables from men, but did not rob the foreign women. After they had done their work of massacre and robbery, the bandits, who had with them an expert engineer, ran the train to Yurecuaro station, looted the town, wrecked the depot, destroyed telegraph wires, shot more Mexicans, disembarked all the foreigners and ran the train for a short distance. They then burned and wrecked every coach, stripping the express baggage car of all valuables. Many of the bodies of the murdered Mexicans were cremated.

"The bandits next boarded the engine after loading it with the loot, and made their escape. Not a single shot was fired at them, for the soldier guards were killed on the first attack, and the passengers were too fearful to attempt resistance.

Band of Revolutionists.

"I heard the bandits shout, 'We are not bandits; we are revolutionists.'

"I asked one of them: 'Who are you rebelling against?' He answered: 'Calles! You watch developments. The revolution is not over.'

"I was told that the bandits were all known revolutionary figures of the Guadalajara region.

"Most of the foreign passengers camped out all night in the wrecked town of Yurecuaro; some walked all Saturday night and most of them made their way to Guadalajara. My wife and myself, after considerable hardship, succeeded in reaching a point where we could board a train for Mexico City."

UNEMPLOYMENT AND WANT AGAIN THREATENS SYDNEY COAL MINERS

One Colliery Shut Down, Another Barely Operating —Town Needs Help.

COAL DEMAND FALLS

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 12. (Canadian Press).—For the second time in twelve months acute unemployment again threatens the workers of Sydney Mines, where Princess Colliery, the largest producer, closed down indefinitely last week, and Florence Colliery, another big pit, will from now on have only six days work a month.

J. E. McLurg, vice-president in charge of British Empire Steel Corporation operations, says that this is due to the lack of demand for coal and the situation is beyond the company's power to help or hinder.

The Boards of Trade and Town Councils will appeal to the Provincial authorities for assistance of some kind. A meeting was called for to-day, and Premier R. N. Rhodes and Hon. G. S. Harrington, Minister of Mines, have been invited to attend. About 2,000 men are employed in the two mines.

Meeting of Citizens.

The Canadian Press has received from A. G. Joy, citizens' committee, which is directing relief work, the following statement on the situation at Sydney Mines:

"An emergency meeting of citizens was held Saturday to discuss ways and means of dealing with the serious situaton arising out of the closing of Princess Colliery. A special committee had been appointed to interview the officials of the corporation and their report was to the effect that Number 1 Colliery (Princess), would be closed down April or May, and Number 3 Colliery (Florence), would not receive more than six or eight days per month during February and March.

"The Corporation will continue to employ the usual maintenance force, but beyond this there is nothing further to be hoped for in the way of work. It was the opinion of the meeting that preliminary arrangements should be made for the formation of relief committees, which will inevitably become necessary in the very near future, and a nominating committee was appointed to select the personnel of a relief committee which would commence functioning immediately supplies were available for distribution.

"The matter of additional police protection was taken up at a meeting of the Council, and the Mayor, Chief of Police and the stipendary magistrates were appointed as a committee empowered to organize a force of special constables."

770 JURORS ON CALL IN VANCOUVER CASE

Trial of 53 Fruit and Vegetable Dealers.

VANCOUVEER, B.C., Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Three hundred and seventy jurors are being called, and an additional four hundred will be available for the trial of fifty-three Western Canada fruit and vegetable dealers on conspiracy and other charges which will open here before Justice D. A. Macdonald in the special assize court on January 18. The trial promises to be a lengthy one, lasting probably a month.

The prosecution is based on Sections 444 and 573 of the criminal code, on the secret commissions' law and on the common law, and the indictment which will be presented to the jury, includes six counts.

Ordinarily the jury panel for the assizes includes 48 jurors, and the great number was necessary because the defendants are entitled to exercise 636 challenges. The jury will cost the province four dollars a day for every juror in attendance.

The ceremony was performed at 11.30 a.m., by the Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac.

MARIPOSA MAN WAS ASSAULTED

Quarrelled With Lindsay Fruit Dealers Over Horse Trade.

ASSAILANTS FINED

LINDSAY, January 12. — A rather serious affray took place on Saturday afternoon, on the town boundary, when a man named Stevens, a resident of Mariposa, was assaulted by two Italians connected with a local fruit store. This move angered the latter, and meeting the farmer on the highway, they assaulted him, disfiguring has face badly. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed.

Probably the most expensive toy ever bought was a broken-nosed wooden horse that had belonger to Napoleon Bonaparte, and which was sold in Paris some years ago for $2,400.

QUEEN'S BURIAL SOLEMN SCENE

Queen Mother of Italy Entombed in Pantheon Beside Husband.

REGAL SPLENDOR

ROME, Jan 12—(Canadian Press) —The Pantheon, noted temple of the Eternal City, received yesterday the body of the Dowager Queen Margherita. The ceremony of entombment beside her husband, King Humbert, in the presence of her son, the King of Italy, was beautiful in its religious solemnity and regal splendor. It was, as one of a group of distinguished watchers described it, "like a scene from Wagner's Parsifal, arranged by a superhuman artist."

As the King and Queen, Princes and Princesses, Italy's most distinguished men and women and representatives of nearly all the nations stood in the huge round temple in absolute darkness, a single cone of white light beamed down upon the catafalque in the middle of the room. One clear voice singing the "Subvenite" broke the silence; then a group of cuirassiers, with helmets and breastplates, strode slowly into the circle of light, carrying the coffin which was placed on the catafalque, the light reflecting their steel helmets and the solid gold crown resting on the bier.

The royal chaplain, Monsignor Beccaria intoned the services, accompanied by the choir of St. John Lateran. After the ceremony the King led the procession to the streets where huge throngs awaited to pay their respects.

CANADA PAID COST OF RETURNING BODY

$4,891 Expense by Petersen's Death.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press). — The cost of transporting the late Sir William Petersen's body to England last year was $4,891. The statement of "unforseen expenses" not taken care of in the last estimates was tabled in the House of Commons Monday, and shows that this sum was spent by Canada to send the remains of the dead shipping magnate back home.

Sir William came to Canada during last session to appear before a committee which was inquiring into a proposed contract between Canada and Sir William, whereby the latter would receive a subsidy to operate a line of ships with lower freight rates for Canadian produce going to the European market. He died suddenly in a local hotel the very day the committee brought down a report adverse to the contract.

FIRE DESTROYED HOUSE AT WOOLER

Tenants Had Narrow Escape —Overheated Pipes Cause.

WOOLER, Jan. 12.—Between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. Friday morning the house on the farm of Mr. Dave Bryant, north of the village was totally destroyed by fire. The tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Cole and family had a narrow escape, not being awakened until the fire was well under way. It is thought the pipes took fire and melted down in the front part of the house.

On Thursday evening there was a meeting in the Town Hall, called by the Board of Health to meet the ratepayers, and consider putting a ban on the village. It was decided to close church pool room, and barber shop and stores to be closed at 6 pm. No public gathering, or loafing for fourteen days, until the spread of smallpox subsides.

Every child attending school must be vaccinated. Dr. Anderson and Dr. McQuade are very busy vaccinating children, and adults as well. At present there are five cases of smallpox.

What might have been a serious accident, when Douglas Fox's horse ran away, throwing him and two friends out of cutter and the horse bolted in the window of Mr. J. J. VON HINDENBURG URGES COALITION

President of Germany Presses Group Leaders for Fusion.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press).—President Von Hindenburg has given the party leaders until Thursday morning to consider among themselves the possibility of forming a coalition government with a wide political base in the Reichstag. He will call for their reports at that time and if they are not in agreement he is determined to resume the initiative and himself choose a man to form a government.

The new government is to replace that of Chancellor Luther which resigned early last month following the signing of the Locarno treaties in order to give way to such a coalition.

Prospects for the formation of such a cabinet appeared brighter Monday, with the Social Democrats showing a more conciliatory attitude. The moderate wing of this party came out flatly in favor of the coalition.

The President consulted Konstantin Fehrenbach, former Chancellor and leader of the Centre party, and Erich Koch, the Democratic leaded both of whom refused last month to form a cabinet He urged them to expedite definite decisions by their respective parties regarding participation in a coalition and report to him Thursday morning.

Connemara never knew how long she stood immobile scarcely daring to draw a breath crucified against the wall. It seemed untold ages but it was probably only about thirty seconds before she came to her senses and realized what had really happened. The opening of the door had created a draft from the open windows in her room and that draft had merely slammed the door shut with a bang. What an aidiot she had been not to close it quietly behind her! In spite of the explanation she remained quite still counting her heart beats and waiting for Salt Bing Mr. Brewster Aunt Celimena and Sweetie to emerge from their respective bedrooms.

To her amazement no one came out to join her The violent slamming of a door closed by the wind is not a half-heard sound arousing breath-held speculation. Like the elevated trains that rattle by open tenement windows it is so familiar that it often fails to arouse a nearby sleeper. That is what had happened in this case and even if Salt and Bing had heard the crash philosophic sloth would tell them the same door cannot slam shut twice. The burglar or marauder or worse she had heard below would naturally reason along the same lines—namely that there was nothing to worry about in the mere slamming of a door.

Connemara realized that in silence —absolute silence—lay her one chance. She strove to still her heart beats and the infinitesimal rustling caused by the strained rise and fall of her agitated breast. She knew it was a game of sheer patience. If she could keep still long enough the marauder becoming reassured would take heart from the fact that the inmates of the house were such sound or callous sleepers and would presently proceed with whatever he had been doing.

Waiting became an agony for she did not dare even to lower her arms but in the end she had her reward. Someone was certainly moving about in the great hall way below—someone who had to make sure of his ground by much groping before each stealthy step. Connemara had read somewhere that only the swift are silent. Transforming the thought into action she stepped boldly forward laid her hand surely on the banister and passed swiftly down the stairs.

At their foot she halted. In spite of a pale shaft of light through one pane of the variegated fanlight she could discern nothing in the black shadows on either side. But in that tense moment she learned that there are more than five senses. As surely as if she could see or feel it she knew that a living breathing body was crouched within ten feet of her nose. Again came the call to her nerves for utter quiet. Steadying herself against the newel post she stood rigidly her ears alert her thin nostrils distended.

While she held her body under absolute control she could not keep her mind from leaping into frenzied action. Her brain began to hum like a racing engine. What should she do? Ought she to scream? What if when people rushed down and turned on a blaze of light they should find her in a mackintosh a nightie and pink bare feet face to face with Bing or Salt in their B.V.D.'s?—for she knew they had brought no pajamas. Suddenly her brain stopped racing and began to hum normally. She turned deadly calm. Her nostrils opened and closed opened and closed. She had smelt a faint familiar odor which could not have come from Salt nor Bing nor Lacy nor Pooch nor McTish—least of all from Aunt Celimena. It was the smell of face powder—cheap face powder.

Her thoughts turned to Sweetie the guttersnipe whom she had befriended against all reason and just as they did so her eyes perceived a small head silhouetted against the one live pane of the fanlight. Never had she seen a poise more packed with malevolence. It was like a cobra's head rearing to strike.

But why this sudden and inexplicable change in Sweetie? And then hard on the wonder came a flash of illumination. The lost fifty thousand dollars! It was Sweetie who had removed the money from the hole Bugle had dug last night on the beach. Sweetie admitted that she had followed Lacy from the Filomena along the shore. It was not only possible then but probable that she had witnessed Connemara's impulsive act in burying the money.

From the level of the unseen shoulders two clawlike hands crept up into the light. They were quivering evil eager as if already they were savoring the feel of the soft throat of an enemy. So it was to be woman to woman thought Connemara grimly.

However she did not wait to be attacked. Taking advantage of the momentary spotlight she stepped forward and launched herself at Sweetie. She had hoped to pinion the girl's arms and at the same time carry her by sheer weight and the impetus of the onslaught to the floor where she could gag her with a tassel and bind her with a rope from one of the old-fashioned portieres. But she had counted out her chicken before it had begun to hatch. From the beginning and especially when decked out in David's nattiest yachting clothes Sweetie had seemed a pitifully frail figure threatened with consumption. What then was Connemara's amazement to find she had embraced a whirling roll of barbed wire!

Quite aside from knowing even more ways of fighting than Connemara's eyes had sampled since the moment of leaving the Bayville ferry—how many years ago!—Sweetie brought into play a quiver full of poisoned darts in the form of a string of whispered epithets and exclamations so outrageously stupefying that as each one hit her ears Connemara could not help but wince with horror and stop to gasp "Oh!"

This supersensitiveness all but cost her the battle but fortunately for her as the writhing bodies of the two girls twisted and turned up and down the length of the slippery runner rug which led to the front doorway weight began to tell. Sweetie soon found she could waste none of her breath if she was to overcome or even to escape from her adversary. At no stage of the game had she refrained from using her teeth and nails and now fury made her redouble her efforts. Such dirty tactics would long since have given her the victory had it not been for the chance which had led Connemara to put on the flexible armor plate of a heavy mackintosh rather than a flimsy kimono.

More than once she had reason to send up a breathless vow of thanks to the Providence which had guided her choice. She could feel sharp teeth sinking into her shoulder pressing viciously and then coming to a stop just short of pain or even a pinch. They warned her, however to hold her adversary in an unbroken clinch if she would avoid losing a thumb or an ear.

Staggering with exhaustion the squirming mass of arms and legs had just reached the further end of the hall when it toppled and fell with Connemara on top. In all her life she had never known such an overwhelming surge of triumph. At last she had her enemy down. The Swede's gang would never see that money now. She planted her knees on Sweetie's chest and clutching her wrists strove to bring them together so that she might hold them for an instant with one hand while she reached for a portiere cord with the other.

MANITOBA LOST IN CREDITS $650,000

Rural Credit Societies Owe $2,500,000.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—Since enactment of the Provincial Rural Credit Act, Manitoba has suffered a lost of more than $650,000, according to a report submitted Monday to Premier John Bracken.

The report which was prepared by John Wallie, superintendent of rural credits in the province, indicates that the outstanding principal and interest owing to the province by the 74 rural credit societies was reduced during the 8-months fiscal year by about $380,000. The balance outstanding was shown at $2,336,531, with an additional interest unpaid at $175,874.

Forty-four societies were placed under an official administrator during the year, but since legislation was passed tightening up on loans, the reports states, operation of the scheme has proved more efficacious.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds
A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.
When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.
These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion. At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the inflammation.
Colds are usually relieved over night.

PLEA FOR CO-OPERATION OF ALL CIVIC SPENDING BODIES IS ASKED BY COUNCIL FOR TAX REDUCTION

Ald. Greene Sponsored Resolution Asking All to Reduce Expenditures.

MOTION PASSED

Question of Licenses for Billiard Tables in Clubs Debated by Aldermen.

A strong appeal for co-operation of all the spending bodies with the Council in an effort to reduce taxation was made by Alderman J. M. Greene who moved the following resolution at last night's Council meeting.

"Owing to the heavy demands on all lines of business and on the citizens generally from the tax requirements and policies of Federal, Provincial, and local Governments, and the desire and demand of all the citizens that municipal taxation be reduced, this council appeals to the Board of Education, the Board of Police Commissioners, the Public Library Board, the Board of Health, and the Central Charity Board, to reduce their operating costs, and that the chairmen of the Council committees endeavor to reduce their expenditures, and that the Council reduce the expenditures that come under its control, so as to save one mill on the tax rate."

In speaking to this motion Ald. Greene said that it was not fair that these bodies should have no interest in the tax rate and that the Council should bear the onus, and that the other bodies should co-operate. He said that all business was suffering from the burden of taxation and that it must stop.

Alderman MacDonald questioned the advisability of asking the various bodies to reduce their requests by a certain amount (one mill on the tax rate, the same as the Council is to try to save, was mentioned in the resolution as the goal for the various boards, as originally read) as the efficiency might suffer. He expressed the belief that the boards would try to keep their expenditure down.

In reply Ald Greene said that after sitting on the council committees night after night figuring on the estimates he wondered if the other bodies gave as much time and effort to trying to reduce their own requirements.

Mayor Holloway said that a suggestion that the policy of the Board of Education be changed might be wrongly received as an affront, but Alderman Greene said that there was no suggestion of a change of policy but just a request that the boards make an effort to reduce their expenditure as much as possible in accordance with efficiency.

Alderman Denne seconded the motion, saying that co-operation was all that was asked, and it was carried.

Billiard Table Licenses.

The method of escaping the municipal tax on billiard table licenses by some of the local billiard rooms, which have been organizod as clubs under Dominion or Provincial statutes aroused the ire of the Aldermen, and the application of Louis Yeotes for a license for seven tables downstairs was almost refused. It was claimed that the tables upstairs, in what is known as the Alpha club, should pay a license. When appealed to, City Solicitor Joesph Wearing said that it would not be advisable to refuse the license to a man qualified to hold one. He said that the clause under which the clubs were escaping covered clubs formed for some purpose,such as athletic clubs, whose billiard tables were only a side line. If it could be proved that billiards was the main object for the existence of these clubs and that they were not bonafide athletic clubs, action could be taken. The police will be asked to investigate these clubs to see if they are evading the law.

Appointments Made.

Several appointments to various boards were made at last night's meeting. In view of the suggestion of E. H. D. Hall that he be relieved of duty on the Public Library Board on which his term expires Feb. 1, Ex-Alderman James Hamilton was unanimously appointed on motion of Aldermen Denne and Turner.

There was a contest for the Board of Health. The retiring members are ex-Alderman Malcolm MyIntyre, Dr. J. F. O'Brien, and C. H. Rogers. Alderman W. J. Hancock, Dr. O'Brien, and ex-Mayor J. J. Turner were appointed last night on a motion by Aldermen Phelan and Cotton. Mayor Holloway and Alderman Denne proposed, while the by-law of appointment was in the committee that the three men should be Alderman Hancock, Dr O'Brien and ex-Mayor George H. Duncan. Aldermen Ackerman and MacDonald moved a slate consisting of Alderman Hancock, John Corkery and C. H. Rogers.

Sheriff F. J. A. Hall was re-appointed to the committee to administer the funds left for charitable purposes by Elmira Grover Foley. Alderman Phelan is the other member.

Two resolutions of condolence were passed by the Council, one to Mrs. G. L. Hay and her family on the death of ex-Alderman Hay, and the other to Alderman J. O. Fife, on the sudden death of his sister, Mrs. J. N. Welbourn.

Because the City Trust reported that certain debenture funds were large enough to take care of the interest and principal, it was moved that frontage rates under certain by-laws should be no longer collected in the taxes. An interim grant of $15,000 was made to the Board of Education for January. A letter was read from the Utilities Commission stating that the approval of the H.E.P.C. had been given for the balance of debentures required and asking that a by-law be passed authorizing the issue of debentures for $8,000 for lights in Asburnham.

A letter was read from Charles Harris, stating that he had fallen on McDonnel Street and had injured his leg, so that he had not been able to work since, and stating that the leg would never fully recover. He asked for $1,000 damages. The matter was referred to the legal committee.

It was reported by the City Treasurer that the collector's roll for 1924 had been turned over to him as all the taxes had been paid. Some $57,000 remains unpaid of the 1925 taxes, of which 92.52 per cent. had been collected by Dec. 31.

The city engineer was given authority to have ex-Aldermen Joseph Crowe start work as caretaker of the sewage disposal plant while the machinery was being installed so that he might learn something about the operations.

Work on the wiring of Hunter street bridge, which had been stopped because of complaints that the work could not be properly carried on in the cold weather, was ordered started again. Aldermen Turner and Cotton spoke in favor of going on with the work, while Alderman Denne opposed it.

MAYOR GEO. A. KINGSTON OUTLINES CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL AFFAIRS FOR 1926 AT INAUGURAL SESSION

Erection of $5,000 War Memorial Arranged for and Old Boys' Reunion Proposed.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Fire Brigade Reduced and Pay for the Men Increased.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12—With G. A. Kingston sitting in the seat of the mighty the mayoralty chair, which A. J. Meyers occupied for the past five years, and with two new faces at the Board, the Town Council held its inaugural meeting for 1926 at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon and set the municipal machinery in running order for the coming year. The two new Councillors are Alex McDonald and John O'Sullivan, the latter being the only member who has had no former experience as a member.

The Mayor's Address

In his inaugural address Mayor Kingston congratulated the Councillors upon there eection by acclamation. As all but one had been tried out in previous years such an election was an indication that the people had confidence in the men who had previously served them.

The Mayor said that it was useless to review the past but that he proposed to indicate what may be expected in the future. Arrangements have been completed for the erection of a war memorial and the agreement is ready for the signature of the Mayor and Reeve Grills of Seymour as well as by the committee of the I.O.D.E. The memorial is to cost $5,000, one-quarter of this to be cash down, one-quarter to be paid in April, and the balance on the completion of the work. These payments have been arranged and the entire cost is now in sight.

The Hydro Contract

The five-year contract with the Hydro Commission expires in July and this is a matter which must be dealt with during the year.

Abutments for a bridge over the creek at Simpson street have been constructed and the superstructure must be built during the year.

There are very few cement walks to be laid.

Some money will have to be spent to provide cells in which to detain persons who may fall into the hands of the police.

Work On Sewer

Nearly all the work on sewers was completed last year but the present council will be called upon to decide whether the Second Street sewer is to be extended when the season opens.

Old Boys' Reunion

"At a meeting of the War Memorial Committee," continued the Mayor, "one of the members of the I.O.D.E. suggested that as this year the monument is to be erected and as it is the fiftieth anniversary of the life of Campbellford as a village and the twentieth since its incorporation as a town, an old boys' reunion should be held.

"It is my intention to call a public meeting in order to get an expression of the people on this point. If anything along this line is to be done action must be taken at once."

The Mayor expressed the hope that harmony should prevail during the year and this did not necessarily mean that there would not be honest difference of opinion among the members of the Council.

Committees Appointed

On motion of Reeve Davidson and Councillor Stone, Mayor Kingston was authorized to name the chairman of each of the standing committees, the chairmen to select their own associates. The committees for the year are as follows, the first named being the chairman:

Finance—Wiggins, Stone and Deputy Reeve Palliser.

Roads and Bridges—Abernethy, Cole, McDonald and O'Sullivan.

Police — Deputy Reeve Palliser, Reeve Davidson and Councillor Stone.

Charity — Reeve Davidson, McDonald and O'Sullivan.

Inquiry—Stone, Cole and Wiggins

Councillor Cole was appointed chairman of the special committee selected each year to deal with the Northumberland Regiment Band and Councillor Cole selected as his colleagues Councillors Abernethy and Stone.

To Advertise Town

On motion of Councillor Stone and Deputy Reeve Palliser the usual grant of $50 was made to pay for an advertisement in the pamphlet issued by the Trent Waterways Association. Deputy Reeve Palliser and Reeve Davidson moved that in addition to their advertisement, the inquiry committee look into the matter of having publicity matter prepared, setting forth the advantages of this town and district as a summer resort, for free distribution in New York.

Case of the Firemen

Reeve Davidson, who is chief of the volunteer fire brigade asked that the number of men on the payroll be reduced from 17 to 12 and that the pay of those retained be raised from $25 to $50 a year. The brigade now costs the town $470 a year and the new arrangement would mean an outlay of $625.

There was no opposition to the request and the Chief was voted a grant of $625 his own honorarium to be raised from $50 to $75, and he to select the members of the brigade. This action was taken on motion of Councillors Stone and McDonald.

Officers Appointed

Matt Mulhearn was unanimously appointed assessor for 1926, this making the fifth term he has served in that capacity.

Out of five applications for the positions of auditors, A. J. Jenkins and C. A. Wilson were selected without debate. Both are skilled accountants.

The other appointments were as follows: Library Board, Rev. Father Phelan; Board of Health, John Gay; High School Trustee, John Jeffs.

Skating Rinks

The committee on roads and bridges was authorized, on motion of Deputy-Reeve Palliser and Wiggins, to prepare an outdoor skating rink on each side of the river.

Children who coast down hills and across thoroughfares are to be notified of the danger to which they are exposed and of the fact that this practice is contrary to the by-law. Another dangerous instance is that of playing on the big bridge and getting in the way of passing cars.

The Council will borrow $25000 from the Standard Bank with which to carry on until the 1926 taxes fall due. Mayor Kingston was authorized to sign the war memorial agreement on behalf of the town.

CAMPBELLFORD BOY FATALLY HURT BY FALL FROM BALCONY ON THIRD FLOOR TO ALLEYWAY

Dropped 30 Feet, Lighting on His Head—Lived Two Hours.

BRIGHT STUDENT.

Fred Sergeant Was 15 and Was Popular Scholar at High School.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12. — Fred, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt. Sergeant, Tice street, met with a tragic death about 1 o'clock on Monday, when he fell from the third story of the apartment in which his parents reside to the alley, a distance of over 30 feet. The unfortunate boy lived about two hours after the accident, but the prompt medical aid which was rendered was of avail.

The family reside in the third story of the McArthur block, which has a small balcony in the rear which is used for hanging out clothes. The balcony is protected by a railing but there is a wide space between the floor and the bottom rail. The boy had often been cautioned by his elders not to play on this projection, but at noon yesterday when he was missed by the other members of the family a search was started and he was found unconscious in the alley at the rear of the building.

No one saw him fall, according to the statement of the father, who at the time had left for his work in the mills of the Campbellford Cloth Co. It is supposed that the boy went out on the balcony to watch the employees of the mill across the street going to work and that he lost his footing on the floor, which was covered with snow and slippery, and slid under the bottom rail to the ground.

He had evidently alighted on his head, one side of which was crushed in. Everything possible was done for him but he passed away two hours after he had been found, and carried into the house.

High School Student.

The unfortunate youth was a bright and promising young man and was a student in the third grade of the High School, well up in his class work. Last Hallowe'en while playing masquerade games with some companion in the street, he was run down by an auto and seriously injured. His parents are members of Christ Church and up to about a year ago Fred belonged to the boys' choir.

Sympathy for Parents.

The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community. They have resided in Campbellford for over 20 years and in that time have lost four children, one of them, a boy between three and four years of age, having been scalded to death some years ago. Their surviving children are Matt. Sergeant, Jr., who is a sergeant in the Northumberland Regiment and a well-known cricket and football player, and Alice, a daughter, a few years older than Fred, and who resides at home. The son, who has been in Simcoe for some time is expected home today as news of the tragedy was wired him.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon, the service to be held at Christ Church, by Rev. G. C. Clake, at 2.30.

Mrs. Sergeant, the mother, is almost prostrated by the shock of her son's death.

COUNCILLOR HONORED.

COUNCILLOR W. S. WIGGINS

Youngster member of the Campbellford Council, who has had the honor of being chosen Finance Minister for 1926.

LADIES' NIGHT AT GEORGE STREET

Men's Association Entertained Many Friends, as Well as Wives.

On Monday evening the Men's Association of George Street Union Church welcomed many friends, as well as members, to the annual observance of ladies' night. Despite the storm, the attractions of the programme must have been more than ordinary, to bring together so many as formed a comfortable sized audience and one intimately friendly and cheerful. President Adair and his fellow co-workers on the entertainment committee had well planned for the evening and the programme proved to be one unusually interesting. It would seem that the object of the association, to bring together the men, especially the younger men of the church, is achieving its object. Being ladies' night, the men folk came accompanied, the ladies adding much to the interest of the evening.

Some formal business connected with the routine of the association meetings was speedily transacted, following the singing of the National hymn, "O Canada." The announcements included the approaching debate, to be shared in by teams from the George Street Association and from St. Paul's Church Men's Club. The subject to be argued to a finality is framed in the resolution, to which those partaking in the polemic exercises will speak, "Resolved, that the city manager form of civic government is more advantageous to Peterborough than as at present governed." It is hoped that the newly constituted city council will be present, en masse, to hear the distilled wisdom to be dispensed by the debaters, many of whom will, from inexperience, put forward much of conjecture and inference.

Contributors to the programme were Miss Daisy Murray, soloist in the church choir and for the Sunday services, with a beautiful song, as well given as it was beautiful. A quartette of male voices, Messrs. E. Jones, A. V. Lillow, Chas. Thornton and J. H. Renwick, stood up and discoursed real vocal music and were thanked for the service. Mr. J. Johns obliged with a recitation, recalling the days in which Mr. Johns excelled in such form of contribution, and quite the equal of his past performances. During an interlude (which merely means a sort of pause in the programme), Mr. Paul Trebilcock came to the platform and said that the association had decided to donate a silver trophy to the hockey league of the churches of the city. Twenty-five dollars seemed to be about the amount required, which it was hoped would be raised and he said that the secretary, Mr. Richardson, would bar the door while the audience dispersed and take such contributions as offered. If any person, who deserves to be permitted to support this object, feels like contributing, why, just leave the coin with Mr. Trebilcock, and due acknowledgement will be made further on.

The committee, with dexterous ability, had inveigled Rev. Mr. Gordon, of St. Andrew's Union Church, to come and make an address, talk, discourse, or anything of the kind that he chose, so long as the audience would be pleased and soothed, and not get anxious as to the appearance of the coffee and sandwiches, all of which had been on the stove and tables, in preparation. So soon as Mr. Gordon began to speak, everybody forgot all about the viands and paid absorbed attention to the speaker.

Stating frankly, that the man in the pew was often prolific of and with advice to the preacher, as what to do and what to avoid, Mr. Gordon proceeded to tell what he might be inclined to say and do if he were a lay man. It proved to be a sensible, humorous, pithy and entirely enjoyable talk. Drawing on his experiences, both as a fledgling student and first aid in the denominational field, and on experiences of more mature years, the relation was just such a theological explanation as would be enjoyed by any audience. We have paid good money to listen to subsidized orators who have fallen short of what the speaker poured out for nothing. Humorous anecdotes, embarrassing experiences, bits of philosophy, at times caustic comment, friendly advice, intimate comment followed in diverting succession. Any society in the city, that is looking for some one to interest any gathering, might do no better than apply for the unpaid service of Mr. Gordon, and be most happy to get it. On the same theme, this same discourse, delivered from the pulpit of St. Andrews, would crowd the church until standing room should be at a premium. At the conclusion of the talk, Mr. Saunders voiced a vote of thanks and added some interesting comment on the address and things in general.

While all this had been going on, Rev. Mr. Todd, the pastor of George Street Church, had been sitting discreetly in the background. He apparently had with him accomplices, for a box was produced from hiding, and Mr. Todd took the floor and said things about two members of the congregation and of the association, all in friendly way and cheerfully and genially couched. He then presented to Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dobbin, on behalf of the association and enquiring friends, something more than a bouquet and less than a tree, a vast bunch of beautiful roses, in friendly recognition of the couple having reached the altitude of and distinction marking the golden wedding day, December 31, 1925. The flowers were handed to the groom of fifty years standing, who made suitable recognition of the kind attention, and thanked the gathering for himself and wife, and the audience stood up and sang a stave or two of that time honored ditty about someone being a jolly good fellow.

Half an hour was spent in trying to solve cross-word puzzles, each group of seven getting at the work and making more or less progress. All dictionaries and geographics and other works of reference were strictly barred. Each must rely on memory for such facts as needed, and memory proved, in the main, to be a poor reliance. The prize went to the group captained by Mr. Sanders. By this time those who anticipated food were getting rather impatient and good hot coffee and cakes were handed about, and by the time these had been consumed it was just 11:30 of the clock and time to get away. Then the storm became a real thing to be battled with and amidst the whirling snow folks made their several ways home.

VOTE IN HOUSE NEXT THURSDAY

Number of Speakers To Be Heard Makes Early Divisions Unlikely.

PROGRESSIVE CAUCUS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (Canadian Press)—A division on the amendment of non-confidence in the government, moved by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, is not now likely to come till Thursday. There was at first siding vote tonight, but the list of speakers in hand makes this a virtual impossibility unless special arrangements are made.

Three ministers are on the Liberal list: Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Hon. Charles Stewart and Hon. J. A. Robb. The first two Conservative speakers will be R. S. White (Mountroyal-Montreal) and Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Minister of Justice. When the House meets the debate will be resumed by A. M. Carmichael of Kindersley.

The Progressives were again in caucus this morning to discuss their attitude. They had before them the reply of Mr. Meighen to their questionaire of fourteen points.

When the House of Commons resumes this afternoon the debate on the Meighen amendment, really a motion of non-confidence in the government. will be continued.

No Progressive Decision

The Progressive party emerged from a two hour caucus this morning without having made any apparent decision on the non-confidenc motion of the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Some of the Progressive members were non-committal when questioned as to how they would vote. Some frankly admitted that they did not know yet how they would vote.

One or two who were seen said that it was in their best interests to support the government. It was clear that no positive decision had been reached by which the party would vote as a whole. The Progressives are of the opinion that the division will not likely come today.

MEETING POSTPONED ?

Reuter Despatch Says Disagreement Among the Representatives.

GENEVA, Jan. 12.— (Canadian Press.)— A Reuter despatch from London suggesting that the League of Nations' preparatory disarmament meeting be postponed from February 15, and intimating divergence in the views of various governments over some elements of the agenda, has caused surprise here. League officials to-day said they had no information whatever indicating a postponement of the meeting.

Foreign Market Weakness Bearish Factor in Wheat

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—A fresh decline in wheat prices began to-day as soon as business opened. The weakness of foreign markets acted as the chief bearish factor. In addition, much notice was taken of an opinion from a trade authority that the figures had upset the theories of the United States bread supplies being only sufficient for home needs for the remainder of the crop year, it being asserted that the United States is on a domestic basis solely because of the price and not a scarcity, present or potential.

Opening quotations, 5-8c to 1 5-8c lower, new style, May 1.73 3-4 to 1.74½, and July 1.60 to 1.60¼, were followed by moderate further setbacks. Corn and oats eased down with wheat. Corn started ¼c to ½c off, May 87 7-8 to 88 1-8 and later continued to sag.

Oats started at a shade to 1-8c to ¼c lower, May 45 5-8 to 45 3-4c, and displayed but slight power to rally. Provisions were firmer, paralleling the action of hog values.

Mixed Price Trend Was Caused By Opposing Forces

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—Mixed price movements in to-day's Stock Market reflected a play of opposing speculative forces, with a major activity on the side of rising prices, stiffer call money rates and the indefinite adjournment of the anthracite conference without an agreement being reached had a dampening effect on bullish enthusiasm. Sears Roebuck broke from 237 to 227 on a traditional 'selling on good news' which followed an announcement of a recapitalization plan. Spectacular advances took place, however, in some of the other specialties. Nash Motors was bid up 31 points to 406 and Texas Land Trust soared to 785 on odd lot buying as compared with yetserday's close of 711.

Toronto Trading Heavy But In Marked Changes

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Trading came very close to the half million share mark on Standard Mining Exchange this morning, but no sensational changes in price resulted. The market on the whole was strong but a large number of recessions were shown. Hunton was leader in the volume of transactions, but it did not fluctuate more than a point and closed the morning unchanged at 12. Consolidated West Dome, Teck Hughes and Castle Tretheway were all heavily dealt in and all strengthened moderately. Kirkland Lake advanced two at 96 1-2 and Crown Reserve 1 1-2 at 21 1-2, while another stock in which transactions amounted to more than 20,000 shares, Vipond, was sold down four at 1.69.

Brazilian Featured Heavy Market Exchanges To-day

TORONTO, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press) — Brazilian dominated this morning's session of Toronto Stock Exchange, transactions in this stock reaching 2,000 share mark. It reached a high during the session of 84 from which it receded to a close in the morning at 83 3-8, an advance of 5-8 from yesterday. Canada Steamships preferred, suddenly coming into prominence, was second active leader. It touched 61 1-2 and closed at noon at 60 3-4, three points higher. Common gained a point at 13. Smelters was quieter than it has been for many sessions, and after selling at 193 1-4 it eased down to 191 1-2, half point lower than yesterday. Another reactive stock was Atlantic Sugar, which sold down point and quarter at 29 3-4. International milling preferred gained 1 1-2 at 104 1-2 and Burt gained fractionally but the majority of the list remained steady with the general tone firm.

Famous Lincoln Case Is Recalled By Funeral

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 12.—(United Press). — John Armstrong, 72, a brother of Duff Armstrong, whom Abraham Lincoln defended on a charge of murder and cleared through the use of an almanac, was buried here yesterday. John's home was in Dallas, Tex.

The Armstrong case was one of the most famous in which Lincoln was connected as a lawyer. In a killing case in which the victim was clubbed to death, witnesses identified Armstrong as the murderer. The witnesses said they could see him clearly because the moon was shining brightly. Lincoln used an almanac to prove the night was dark, and the jury acquitted his client.

WINE COMPANIES MAY ASK ORDERS

Not Under Section 42 of O. T. A. Says Toronto Magistrate.

TORONTO, Jan. 12. — Canadian Press. — Magistrate T. E. Buntin in the county police court to-day rendered a decision that the manufacturers of native wine in Ontario do not come under the jurisdiction of section 42 of the Ontario Temperance Act which forbids canvassing or soliciting orders for liquor. The charge against the Ontario Wine Company of New Toronto, was dismissed.

"I have not looked into the matter very fully but I presume the Board will have to make regulations to cover it," stated Attorney General Nickle at noon today regarding the judgment of Magistrate Brunton that section 42 of the O.T.A. does not appply to native wine manufacturers.

NEW GENERAL MANAGER.

S. H. Logan, New York Agent, Heads Canadian Bank of Commerce.

TORONTO, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press) — Sidney H. Logan, New York agent of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has been appointed General Manager of that institution. This was announced this afternoon by Sir John Aird, president of the Bank.

Addressing the shareholders Sir John forecasted the repeal of the Fordney-McCumber tariff at least so far as the duty on cattle is concerned. The United States market would thus again be open to Canadian stockers and feeders. The United States of course was not inspired, he said, by the motive of helping the Canadian cattle industry but by the view that the present tariff was an injury to the farmers in the corn belt and of no benefit to the cattle ranchers.

HORSE KICKED HEAD.

BIG SLATE FOR FRENCH HOUSE

Many Important Matters Were Left Over From Last Session.

OPENS TO-DAY.

PARIS, Jan. 12. — (Canadian Press.) —Parliament, which meets to-day for the regular session of 1926, will find on the calendar the same important subjects as were left in suspense when the House adjourned for the holidays— the budget, financial restoration, electoral reform and ratification of the Locarno pact.

The situation as respects the government will be the same, notwithstanding the victory of Premier Briand over the dissident radicals just before the end of the last session.

Influential members of the Cabinet for the past two days have been active in the lobbies of the chamber advocating the postponement of action on electoral reform which is one of the principal features of M. Briand's programme.

The Socialist and Radical members of the Finance committee remain hostile to the government measures for financial restoration.

REPORTS TO HEALTH ASSOCIATION

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

The police force of the city of Peterborough are serving faithfully day and night under a capable chief to save the citizens from violence and pillage, and to see that the laws in general are enforced. The fire department likewise contributes its constant care over the property of the citizens as against the fire hazard, and through its system of rigid inspection, saves as much property from fire as it does through the use of its fire-fighting apparatus when conflagration actually takes place. The chief of this body is very aggressive and capable in this respect, and the men in both of these organizations go quietly about their business, and effectively warrant the confidence which the citizens of Peterborough place in them.

In many particulars not unlike the results attained by these two important departments, does the Peterborough Health Association function. Day or night calls covering every age and illness are responded to with promptitude by the Health Association's nurses or the physicians of the city who have so generously aided the work of the association. The Nurses' Supervision Committee and the ladies of the executive in general have given much time and attention in their distribution of health building foods to those who otherwise would be unable to obtain them. In particular, the distribution of clean, pasteurized milk for the use of children, has been increased from year to year, with a corresponding betterment in the physical condition of these youngsters.

The analogy of the operation of the Peterborough Health Association to the police and fire departments of the city comes in that it too functions effectively because of the need of those for whom it labors, and because, too, of the confidence of the citizens who contribute to the support of the work. This covers the interests as represented by the city's contribution, as well as the aid given by the citizens at large and organizations in particular. There is scarcely an organization in the city that is not in some way interested in the work of the Health Association and that does not from time to time demonstrate its interest substantially.

The work of the association in connection with the Jackson Park camp continues unabated, and with a pleasing prospect of an increased programme for the coming year that will cover the education of some of the youngsters in some of the rudiments of domestic arts.

It is a pleasure to remember the splendid attention given to the work at Jackson Park by Miss Stevenson, the summer camp nurse for 1925, and the efficient manner in which the regular city nurse, Miss Anne Long, has covered her responsibilities.

The Made-in-Peterborough Exhibition at the Armories the first week in June was a splendid success, both from a financial and a social standpoint, and at no time has there been a better demonstration of just what the city's industries amount to than as was shown at this exhibition. The association repeats its appreciation to Col. Bradburn and the officers of the armories who were so kind in setting aside a number of engagements so that the work of this association might proceed.

The reports of the treasurer, the Supervision Committee and the Summer Camp Committee, as well as the important report fromMiss Long, will set forth in detail the activities of the year. There was a contribution of $50.00 received from Mrs. Travers, whose late husband some of us will remember so well as the president of the Peterborough Health Association some years ago. This gives evidence that this work is remembered, even after years have gone by, by those who have been in touch with it in its earlier efforts. As these gifts and bequests are always capitalized, through the purchase of government bonds, and the interest only used in the support of the work, we can suggest no more practical way for those who have difficulty in deciding what to do with their money or property, when through with it, than to remember the Peterborough Health Association in some degree, with the knowledge that their gift will work for all time, by reason of its being capitalized for the benefit of the under-privileged in health.

One further important matter that developed this year in connection with the summer camp for children, was the organization of a clinic by a number of the physicians and surgeons of the city who served in examining the attendants at the summer camp and tabulating the results of the examinations, discovering just what was best in the way of exercise, diet, or treatment for the children in attendance. This not only supplies the knowledge of what should be done for the children, but establishes a record which may be used for comparative purposes as time goes on. This board of physicians has the whole-hearted thanks of the association and the community for their generosity in giving their services in this particular.

We must again refer to the faithful service of the secretary, Dr. Cameron, and his unflagging zeal, and also to the meticulous care and attention given to the financial side of the work by Mr. Vanston, who is now not only looking after the general finances of the association, but who has for many years taken care of the financial side of the various motor shows and exhibitions that have been organized in support of the association's work. The association is exceedingly fortunate in having these positions covered by men of such outstanding capacity.

As president of the Peterborough Health Association, I desire to thank all of the members of the executive and all of the organizations and citizens of the city who have contributed so splendidly to the work of the year 1925.

W. R. BREYFOGLE, President,
Peterborough Health Association.

NURSE'S REPORT.

My report for the year 1925 is as follows:

Two thousand and thirty-one calls have been made throughout the city during the year.

The money collected amounted to $298.20. These collections were made from patients who were in a position to pay. This ammount was handed to the Peterborough Health Association.

The cases treated consisted of obstetrical, tubercular, surgical and medical.

The treatment of an obstetrical case is from the time of confinement to the stage of convalescence, a visit being made each day for ten days and longer if necessary, also including the care of the new born baby throughout. I might also add that one or two calls are made previous to the time of confinement to advise the patient as to articles needed and the absolute necessity of cleanliness at this time. Conditions in many homes are not of the best and there is a great opportunity for the work of the Peterborough Health Association.

For example, in one home an expectant mother had everything clean and tidy, but on account of her husband being out of work was not able to provide the necessary things for herself or baby. These were provided by the Health Association.

This is only one case of many which have benefited by the efforts of the Health Association.

No obstetrical patient died during the year and only two new born babies.

In tubercular cases, patients are called upon and instructed as to hygienic care of self and other members of the household, the proper ventilation, the use of sputum cups and how to destroy them, and how to take their own temperatures.

Sputum cups and refills, as well as other sick room necessities, are supplied by the Health Association, if patients are unable to provide their own.

Milk and eggs are also supplied to needy patients.

In surgical cases, dressings are done and the nurse is present to assist the doctor in minor operations in the homes.

In medical cases, various treatments are given, such as baths, hypodermics, irrigations.

One medical case worthy of mention is a women who has been confined to bed for over two years with rheumatism. Calls are made regularly and the patient bathed and made as comfortable as possible.

And so in this way the nurse participates in the work carried on by the Peterborough Health Association who, by their untiring efforts, tend to promote a healthier and happier community. Respectfully submitted,

ANNE LONG.

REPORT OF THE SUMMER CAMP COMMITTEE.

Camp opened last year on June 30 and closed August 29, after a most successful summer, during which time 137 children enjoyed an outing at Jackson Park, with a daily average of 55.

Medical examination was introduced and proved to be a great success. The doctors who gave their services were Drs. Eastwood, Ray Scott, Howson, McCulloch, O'Reilly, Waite and Hammond. To them we extend our grateful thanks for making possible a great step forward in our camp, which has proved of inestimable benefit to the children. Through this sexyice twenty-two cases of diseased tonsils were discovered and fourteen operated on by Drs. Buchanan and Cragg, who gave freely such splendid service to the little ones. We can only offer them our heartfelt thanks. One case of rupture was also discovered and operated upon.

The Kiwanis Club has always been the god-father of the summer camp and, as usual, this year were ready to do what ever was needed.

Our nurse, Miss Stevenson, did splendid work. The medical examination of the children gave her an added responsibility but she performed her duties most conscientiously and thoroughly and was dearly loved by the children.

Our cook, Mrs. Smith, proved most efficient and in this department, too, the work ran along smoothly and pleasantly with never a hitch.

The ladies in charge of the various weeks were Mesdames Cameron, Merrell, O'Connor-Fenton, Aylmer, Turner, Graham, Gardiner, Vanstone and Hall, and they all expressed themselves as very much pleased with the work done and the management of the camp and children by our staff.

As usual, numerous treats of ice-cream, candy and other good things were given the children and have been acknowledged through the press.

We have our kind friend, Mr. Rose, to thank for all he did for the camp, his interest in the children never flags and the love the little ones show him speaks more clearly than any views of mine can of his value to the camp and we can only say once more "thank you" from the bottom of our hearts.

A great step forward has been made by medical examination. May I put forward a suggestion made by Mrs. Hall for next year—that is to introduce some kind of kindergarten work, such as organized play, singing and elementary handicraft, including sewing. We hopefully leave this with the executive.

A change in the management of the camp was made last summer which has been a great improvement. A committee of four was placed in charge, consisting of Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Cameron, placing the responsibility upon four ladies instead of one, thus easing the burden all around. All of which is respectfully submitted.

One behalf of the Camp Committee,
GRACE M. CAMERON.

NURSES' SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

This committee meets the first Monday of every month, and at the present time has a membership of ten ladies, consisting of Mesdames Hall, Coulthart, Gardiner, Cameron, Aylmer, Turner, Graham, Vanston, Misses Archer and Merrell.

Most of the meetings are held at Miss Archer's home, except during the summer when we try to hold them at the camp at Jackson Park.

Three of our members left town, Mrs. Pennefather, Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Harry Cameron, all of whom will be missed, especially Mrs. Cameron who was most devoted and generous to the children at the camp and to the patients under her care through the winter.

At these regular monthly meetings the minutes are read by the secretary, the nurse's report is read by Miss Long of her month's work, the bills for the month are gone over and milk and egg patients discussed.

We give milk and eggs to 31 families and during the year we gave out 5,230½ quarts of milk and 161 dozen eggs, which was slightly less than the previous year.

Miss Archer, who has been secretary for a good many years, resigned in April and the work was taken over by M. Merrell.

The members each help in looking after the Jackson Park camp for a week, doing the buying and generally supervising the work.

We visited all the children before Christmas and in cases where it was needed supplied clothing and food. All the patients receiving milk and eggs were also visited throughout the year.

The Nurses' Supervision Committee took charge of the raffle booth at the Made-in-Peterborough Fair, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Turner being convenors, assisted by the other members.

MARGUERITE I. MERRELL, Secy.,
Nurses Supervision Committee.

TREASURER'S REPORT

In submitting the treasurer's report of your association for the year ending December 31, 1925, it may be well to explain the reason for changing the form in which it is being submitted.

Formerly the reports appear to have been but a statement or listing of the funds received and the cheques from time to time issued against the bank account. This policy was doubtless quite satisfactory when the funds handled by your association were considerably less than at present. Each year apparently an increase is shown in the money received and consequently disbursed. The record has therefore been changed so that at a glance it will be seen exactly how much is being spent for the different items under the headings of salaries, milk, groceries, drugs, etc.

The expense in connection with the Jackson Park camp is shown in a total as the detail of it was furnished in Mr. Pennefather's report of September 21.

Since the last annual statement was submitted, Victory bonds have been purchased to the par value of $550, at a cost of $585.90. The first amount of $500 was invested during the time Mr. Pennefather was treasurer. It was done under your instructions. The $50 invested represents a donation received from Mrs. Robert Travers of London, Ontario.

I wish to direct your attention to the amount in the statement of $4,099.22, this being the net proceeds of the Made-in-Peterborough Fair, which was turned over to your association.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. J. H. VANSTON, Treasurer.

H. S.—You are temperamental and difficult to get along with, though fundamentally good-natured and gentle. You look toward yourself too much, and have little sympathy for others. Endeavour to cultivate a more human outlook. You have a good mentality, not especially bright, but capable of great development. You would succeed in engineering, though not in an executive capacity. You have no aptitude for financial affairs, and should leave them alone. You are affectionate and single-minded in love. You were born on a Thursday. Your color is rose.

S. P.—You are eloquent in speech and have a splendid vocabulary, but your ideas are not new and your reasoning is clouded by lack of logic. You should think twice before speaking on any subject; make sure you are right and that there is no fundamental error in your thought before giving it expression. You are fickle in love affairs, of which you have had many, and are not capable of strong attachment to one person. You have a business sense that will see you through the affairs of everyday life, but should not venture in trade for yourself. What you need is a good rousing, to make you see the responsibilities of life. Your color is brown. You were born on a Tuesday.

J. M. T.—You have a good sense of proportion and put first things first in life but have no great outstanding power. Your mentality is not developed along any particular line; you have been drifting while waiting for something to turn up or someone to pitchfork you into a better position. No one will do that. If opportunity doesn't come a'knocking at your door, go seeking opportunity. You should read good biographies in order to find the corner where you will fit best. You have the mentality to attack any job; all it needs is direction. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is green.

M. L. B.—Life has never been a very serious affair with you; you have taken things as they came without much thought of the future. But at 22 one should begin to think of these things—many men have already made their ways in the world at that age. Settle down, without losing any of your entertaining charm. Start working at something that will bring you success and independence. There is a big streak of laziness in your makeup that must be eradicated if you are to amount to anything. You are capable of strong affection, but will hide it. Don't expect too much of life if you refuse to invest. Your color is white. You were born on a Monday.

P. L. C.—You have a good perception of analogies and are able to follow an event reasonably back to its cause. You are also able to remember well passing events, but are apt to forget historical high spots because they are not particularly interesting to you. You have great capacity for detail, and are liable to be swamped under system. Don't let routine drag you down. Be its master. It is a good means to an end, but the person who can't break his schedule once in a while is a slave. Your powers of affection are limited, and you will never love intensely. Marriage is not indicated in your reading. You were born on a Wednesday. Your color is red.

P. H.—Your mentality has suffered from disuse and misuse, and you are now on the verge of a mental breakdown. Your doctor cannot help you—but you can pull yourself out of the slough by right living, after a good fight. Cut out your low companions, think on a higher plane, forget your sensational reading and small thoughts, and start to work. If you want any more advice, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Your case is serious.

R. O. N.—You have great charm and depth of character; are always trying to do good; live on a high plane; are honest and upright in all your doings, and are, generally, of a high standard, mentally, physically, and morally. Do not let temperament creep in to spoil your pleasures—the genuine pleasure that comes from feeling everything whole-heartedly. You have great affection, still free, and marriage is indicated in your reading. You have a largely developed sense of hope, relying implicitly on the good that the future holds. You do not, however, neglect the present. Your colors are yellow and blue. You were born on a Friday.

C. B. J.—You are high-strung, nervous, and exceedingly cautious, and are liable to fits of despondency. Restrain your super-sensitiveness and look outside yourself. Above all, avoid worry. Work hard, if you will, and plan hard for the future, but do not worry about things that are past, or that cannot be avoided. You have a powerful intellect, but one that needs careful and judicious handling. Let your larger faculties prevail; look to the prospects of the future and forget the failures of the past. Spur your ambition and seek success where your aptitude lies. Your colors are red and brown. You were born on a Saturday.

H. A. I.—You are still too young to have developed definite traits that would indicate your life destiny. You are prone to fits of pettishness and are easily made angry. This should be restrained in deference to the feelings of other people as well as with a view to your own success. Men and women who are easily put out by trifles seldom go far in the world. You should cultivate your sense of music, for though it is not a remunerative indulgence, it is an excellent safety valve.

GOOD IMPRESSION WAS CREATED BY ESSAY WRITING COMPETITION

Induced Many People to Visit City in Christmas Season.

EDUCATIONAL SUCCESS

Also Combatted Activities of Mail Order Business Houses.

The Essay Writing Competition put on during November by the Chamber of Commerce must have made a good impression upon the residents of the four counties which the competition embraced namely, Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland.

The fact that something over five hundred schools were circularized certainly must have stimulated interest in Peterborough. At this time of year, while there are no statistics available to verify the supposition, it is reasonable to suppose that the competition, interesting hundreds of children and adults, must have had a beneficial effect upon business within the city in that the essayists and other interested parties such as parents, teachers, etc., must have been induced to visit the city during the Christmas season.

While the competition was probably a good method to employ in combating the activities of the mail order houses, from an educational standpoint it was a decided success.

A complete list of prize-winners follows:—

THE BEST MEDICINE SHE EVER TOOK

So Says Miss I. Charbonneau of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ontario Lady is Very Enthusiastic and Gives Her Views About Dodd's Kidney Pills.

OTTAWA, Ont, Jan. 11.—(Special).—"I was feeling very bad all over," says Miss L. Charbonneau, who lives at 304 Wilbrod Street.

"My head and back ached, my legs felt as though they were made of lead and my sight was bad. I felt tired all the time. A friend of mine who had used your Dodd's Kidney Pills told me to try them. I took 3 boxes and they have made a new person out of me. I felt better after taking the first box and have been perfectly well ever since. Dodd's Kidney Pills are certainly the best medicine I ever took and I highly recommend them to anyone suffering with their kidneys."

It is noticeable that people who have used Dodd's Kidney Pills are enthusiastic in recommending them to others. This is how Dodd's Kidney Pills have built up and maintained their world-wide reputation.

LOS ANGELES TO BID FOR FIGHT

Two Million Reported Available For Dempsey-Wills Bout.

DAYLIGHT AFFAIR.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—A group of Los Angeles business men Monday announced their willingness to underwrite the Demsey-Wills heavyweight championship bout to the extent of $2,000,000 and hold the affair in the Los Angeles Colisium.

The members of the group promoting the proposed fight laid their plans before Jack Doyle, veteran fight sponsor of Vernon, and asked him to undertake the management of the affair.

Doyle said that he was willing.

Backers of the plan would like to pull the bout off next spring, but this is believed impossible owing to Dempsey disinclination to enter the ring with Wills before September.

Under present tentative arrangements, the bout would be a daylight affair, going ten rounds, the limit to a decision under the state law.

Bout for Carpentier.

CITY LEAGUERS IN GOOD SHAPE

All Eight Teams in Condition for Important Games Tomorrow Night.

IN TWO SERIES

After a week's layoff, the City League teams get down to business again at Brock Street Arena tomorrow night with all eight teams in action. The interval since the opening games two weeks ago has been used for regular workouts, DeLaval putting in one hard game when they visited Omemee and defeated the homesters.

Raybestos juniors who held St. Peter's to a tie count in their first game will meet St. James, and St. Peter's are stacked against St. Andrew's. Hockey fans who like to watch the youngsters should not fail to be on hand for these two contests, starting at six o'clock.

In the senior series, Crescents who lost a 1 to 0 verdict to the Separator kings will face the Brintons, and Raybestos with a greatly-improved team provide the opposition for De Laval. Tomorrow night's winners in both divisions will be the teams to beat for the city titles.

RUBE DENEAU DEAD.

Piloted Kitchener in the Old Canadian League.

HAMILTON, Jan. 12 — Back in 1911 the Canadian Baseball league was formed, and the race that year resulted in Berlin, now Kitchener, winning the pennant. The team was managed by Rube Deneau, who went to London the following year and took charge there. It is some years since Rube played ball, having been appointed to the police force at Riverside, near Windsor, a position he held up to the time of his death, which occurred recently, after being ill six days with pneumonia. Rube was a member of the famous battery known as Deneau and Laughlin. They performed for the old Windsor team and would reverse positions two or three times during the game, both being able to either pitch or catch. Baseball in Hamiton in the Canadian league days was played in the old Britannia park on Barton street, and on one occasion Deneau undertook to do the mound duties after two or three of his pitchers had been badly handled by the local batsmen. Rube pitched 18 succcessive balls before being abie to locate the plate, but he stuck to his guns and finished the game, although his team was badly beaten. He was very popular in the old league and always managed to muster a strong team.

BROOKLYN MAY HAVE N.H.L. TEAM

Have Franchise Says Despatch to Ottawa Journal From New York.

ASSEMBLE TEAM.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—A special despatch from New York to The Journal would intimate that a new hockey team may join the National Hockey League. The despatch says in part:

"New York has another franchise granted in some obscure manner, but nevertheless a certainty, as Col. Hammond attested today.

"Fire Commissioner Hammond, who is in the know and active in hockey states that it is likely the franchise will be known as the Brooklyn one, and the team called by that name. It is apparent that the teams will be closely allied and the fear is already expressed that something akin to 'syndicate' hockey may eventuate. Duggan stated that the franchise had simply been tabled but it appears that Frank Calder has advised Col. Hammond that he may start gathering a team."

GREB WON BOUT BY WIDE MARGIN

. . Todd Forced Battle in the Closing Round, But Lost Decision.

TOOK PUNISHMENT.

TORONTO, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—While Harry Greb of Pittsburg, world's middleweight champion, won the referee's decision over Roland Todd of England, the European champion in that class, by a considerable margin after their 12-round bout at the Coliseum last night here, the Britisher did something that none of the three previous opponents of Greb in this city has been able to do—force the battle in the closing round. Todd took a lot of punishment from the world's title holder, but that made little if any difference to him. He was always willing to sample anything that Greb had to offer, and it was plenty.

OSHAWA WINS EXCITING GAME

Beat Cobourg Juniors 5-4 in Game Where Lead Changed Hands.

GOOD COMBINATION.

OSHAWA, Jan. 12 (Special to The Examiner). — Oshawa Shamrocks annexed another victory in their race for the local Junior O.H.A. group when they defeated Cobourg here last night, 5 to 4, in one of the most exciting Junior games for several seasons. The visitors led at the end of the first period 2 to 1, but at the end of the second, the teams were on even terms. Cobourg jumped into the lead again, but the Shamrocks finished strong, adding two goals in quick succession. Harrington registered the tieing goal on a pass from Lowe, and Rowden notched the winning tally after a pretty individual rush through the Cobourg defence. The ice early in the game was soft, but became better as the game progressed. Oshawa's combination was the leading factor in their victory. In the first period Andrews, the Cobourg goalie, was hit on the head with a close-in-shot and retired for repairs, but was able to continue later.

The Lineup

Cobourg—Goal, Andrew; Defence, Cavanagh and Frise; Centre, Waldon; Wings, Rollings and Brining; subs. Coole, Houston and Levegne.

Oshawa—Goal, Leveque; defence, Harrington and Lowe; centre, Black; wings, Conlin and Roden; subs., Spanton, Johns and Luke.

FAREWELL PARTY

Dr. and Mrs. McElroy Honored by Orono Friends Before Leaving.

The Orono News has the following account of a farewell gathering tendered Dr. and Mrs. McElroy, now of Peterborough.

"About one hundred and fifty attended, and several who had previous engagements at New Year's gave their contributions and good wishes, though absent.

"The farewell was an abundant success. Mr. Frank Rickard, Mr. M. H. Staples, Mr. W. Reid, Mr. Hamm and others led the audience in most delightful community singing.

"Rev. James Rae was chairman. Mr. T. Smith made the presentation and Mr. Adolph Henry read the address to Dr. and Mrs. McElroy. The addresses made reference to Dr. and Mrs. McElroy as worthy citizens, parties that the community could ill afford to lose professionally, socially and in church life.

"Mr. Smith then presented the Dr. with a club bag, Mrs. McElroy with a silver tea service, and Master Keith with a purse. Mrs. McElroy and the doctor replied in the gracious manner worthy of themselves and the occasion.

"The singers sang "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag" and "For he's a jolly good fellow" and gave three rousing cheers.

"Impromptu speeches were now the order of the night, all witty and in the happiest possible vein. There were eleven of them. These brought this part of the meeting to a close. Mr. Bowen, M.P., spoke to good effect.

"Then refreshments were served. Orono style, that is David Harum style "A little too much jus' right."

"An informal reception was held and the presents viewed and admired. Keith was the richest man in Orono.

"As if by magic the seats were removed and a violin rose from somewhere and dancing followed till the old year passed into the new."

LINDSAY MAY BUY ITS HYDRO PLANT

Power Distribution System Under Consideration.

LINDSAY, Jan. 12.—The inaugural meeting of Lindsay Council was held Monday, Mayor Wilkinson in his inaugural address, advocated the purchase of the local Hydro distributin plant by the municipality. The Hydro Electric Commission is anxious to dispose of the distributing plans in the Central Ontario area to muncipalities wishing to purchase them. This question promises to be a live one in Lindsay during the next year. At the last meeting of the 1925 council, Reeve O'Reilly referred to the proposed purchase and voiced his disapproval of the policy of the Hydro in using the surplus derived from the operation of the Lindsay plant to pay the deficits of certain Hydro utilities, such as the Peterboro Street Railway.

Reeve McCubbin and Councillor Sykes will represent the Council again this year on the Community Hall Board.

Supplies For 1926.

The estimate of the cost of supplies required for the use of the township in 1926 is 10 cords of wood and for roads and bridges 1,000 feet of pine plank two inches thick, 5,000 feet of 3-in. pine plank, 3,000 pieces of cedar 16 feet long and four inches thick, 16 pieces of cedar 20 feet long and five pieces 32 feet long, not less than 10 inches in diameter at the small end.

On motion of Deputy-Reeve Nelson and Councillor Park, Clerk Ewing was instructed to advertise for these supplies.

Have a Surplus.

The books of the township for the year show a surplus of $1,166 of assets over liabilties. Included in the former column of the ledger is a bill for $20 for rent of the town hall against the U.F.O., an account which the officials of the latter organization maintain has not been paid because never presented to the proper person.

Change Date of Meeting.

To suit the convenience of some of the members the date for the regular meeting of the Council has been changed from the first Monday to the first Tuesday of each month.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words which you feel reasonably sure of. These will give you letters to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still other words. Study the clues, words starting at the numbered squares are running horizontally or vertically as clue.

BASKETBALL BY THE CAPTAIN.

INTRODUCTION.

Knowing the history of the game will no more make a person a good basketball player than will knowing a ward leader by name make a person a good politician. To have knowledge of the sport's origin at one's finger-tips won't help a bit in scoring foul goal and field goal points. For that reason the series of articles to follow will deal with the subject of how to play basketball rather than how the game of basketball was devised.

Knowledge can be dispensed through these columns just as effectively as though it were done in person. The knowledge that I mean to hand out deals with basketball—how to play the game.

There are many "pointers" unknown to the average player interested in the sport; in fact, there are many of which quite a few players are ignorant. To know the right from the wrong it is necessary to know what is wrong as well as to know what is right, and I propose to treat both right and wrong with the same respect.

There is always more than one way to do a certain thing best. There are many angles to the game of basketball. It is my aim to teach these in the articles to follow.

Merely giving instructions will not help you, but if you are willing to accept the knowledge offered and faithfully carry out instructions you will benefit. Follow conscientiously the instructions, practice faithfully, and you are certain to meet with success.

After all, the greatest teacher in the world will have his work go for naught unless you are willing to give of your efforts as he gives of his.

This new sport feature starts on the Sport Page on Wednesday, and will continue daily.

TRINITY CHURCH CHOIR CONCERT

(By Jeanette)

The anniversary concert of Trinity Church was held last evening. Although the audience was small, numbering only about two hundred people, it was very appreciative of the fine programme provided by two visiting artists from Toronto, Madame Marguerite Homuth Craigie, concert and oratorio soprano, and Leo Smith, violoncellist, assisted by Miss Agnes Logan, pianiste, and the choir of Trinity Church, heard in two selections.

Mr. Smith scored a distinct triumph last evening with his beautiful music. He is an artist who appears to grow more expert with every appearance. Absorbed in the creation of lovely sound, apparently unmindful of the attitude of his audience towards him, he plays usually with eyes closed. This does not create the impression of affectation, but rather of an absolute withdrawal of attention from everything but the music he brings from the deep-toned 'cello. Last night, his hearers entered so closely with him into this absorbed mood that there was not a single other sound in the house while Mr. Smith played. This peculiar holding spell that the musician casts over his audience was particularly apparent at the conclusion of his opening number, when Mr. Smith passed from one selection to another without any applause other than silent, intense appreciation having been registered for the initial offering. Caught in absorption of the opening "Adagio" a dreamy, soft, spiritual selection, the audience waited for the technical fireworks of "Variations from Sonata in D" to rouse from its silent contemplation of the artist's music.

"Kol Nidrei," by Max Bruch, was Mr. Smith's third contribution, a temperamental number played in the soft-toned style which is this musician's favorite rendition, evidently, of most music. An impressive bit, it called forth a demonstration of the 'cellist's technical mastery of his instrument and brought renewed applause, calling for an encore of dainty passages and swift transitions of mood and tempo.

Mr. Smith's favorite, the number which is always included in his programme, "Le Cygne" (The Swan) appeared later in his programme, played, as usual, with effective interpretation of its smoothly-flowing melody. This was preceded by a brief, pretty selection, played by request, an arrangement of a song called "The Mirror," and was followed by Davidoff's composition, "By the Fountain," an artistic, colorful selection, played mainly with the sautille, or dancing bow, the swift, clipped notes mimicking the sparkling flow of the waters of a fountain. An encore was a minor-toned melody, played with the legato bow, broad, full, deep.

Madame Homuth Craigie, gowned in pure white, a sparkling comb in her simply-arranged coiffure, was a new vocalist to the majority of her hearers last night. She has an attractive stage presence, and a thorough grounding in vocal control that was demonstrated in several difficult, well-rendered numbers. Enunciation was subordinated to interpretation and tonal values, for it was impossible to hear the words of her songs at the rear of the church. Her voice is a high soprano, dulcet, smooth, capable of coloratura-like timbre in its upper register, with a diamond-like flute quality in many passages. Like most possessors of high voices, it was kept high throughout the majority of the selections, the audience getting only a welcome hint at moments of the sweet, vibrant richness of her lower register.

In her French suite, she was at her best. As many people do not understand French anyway, they can possibly during such renditions appreciate the more interpretative powers of the singer and the graceful syllables lend a certain attraction to words that might not be at all interesting if rendered in English. "Si Nies Vers" was a lovely, haunting thing, possibly the sweetest song on the vocal programme, melodic, its crooning refrain repeated with much feeling and expression. "Le Papillon," the dainty song of the butterfly, and Saint Saens' "Le Rossignol," the song of the nightingale, were exquisite bits, the latter an odd trilly, bird-echo imitation, demonstrating to perfection the brilliant clearness of the singer's high tones and her command of difficult vocalization. The popular "Au Clair de la Lune" followed, and another French chanson, one of Chaminade's.

Madame Craigie's first group included several charming morceaux, "Enchantment," "Come With Me," a brief bit called "Politeness," and a Japanese death song, odd and effective. Her final group opened with a sweet rendition of "Under the Greenwood Tree," a charming Old English selection, "When Chloris Sleeps," a vernal number in "A Spring Fancy," and a peculiar thing, sung with dramatic feeling, in "An Inscription from the Tomb of an Unknown Woman" (translated from the Chinese). As an encore to the final selection, Madame Craigie gave the well-liked little "Birthday Song," with its pretty melody and fanciful words, showing to perfection the bright quality of her tones.

The choir of Trinity Church was heard to exceptional advantage last evening, under the leadership of Miss Mabel Clarry, the organist. Somewhat deficient in the number of its male voices, the ladies' section was paramount. They sang, as an opening number, "A 1 the Glory of the Lord," from The Messiah, a smoothly-flowing, well-rendered selection, with accented parts, done in excellent tone and tempo. A chorus for ladies voices, sung in unaccompanied fashion, was beautifully rendered. "Lift Thine Eyes," from Elijah, being the number chosen, which received a generous meed of applause at its conclusion.

To Miss Agnes Logan belongs a great deal of the credit for the pleasing music of the visiting artists, her sympathetic, soft-toned, unobtrusive accompaniments providing a perfect backround for their solo work.

TO RELIEVE CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or are hard of hearing and have buzzing, singing noises in your head—don't waste time with unknown, unreliable medicine, but go now to your nearest druggist and ask for an inexpensive package of Geero Wormwood Balm.

No atomizers, no syringes and nothing to take internally—you simply apply a little of this clean, fragrant balm right into your nostrils, and then comes sweet relief! Clogged nostrils quickly open up, breathing is easier, head noises vanish and the annoying mucus stops dropping into the throat. This is a simple, pleasant and inexpensive home treatment that anyone bothered by catarrh or catarrhal deafness should give a good trial at once. All good druggists—ony costs a few cents.

THOMAS MEIGHAN IN "IRISH LUCK"

The old-time Thomas Meighan is back again on the screen, in "Irish Luck," in which he has a dual role, played with all the charm and attraction that makes him one of the silver sheet's most popular stars. He is ably supported by the pretty Lois Wilson and an excellent cast.

Thomas Donohue is one of New York's "finest," and in a popularity contest, he is awarded the prize, a trip abroad, as the most well-liked policeman of the city. Sailing for Ireland, he is mistaken on board ship for Lord Fitzhugh (Gerald) nephew of the Earl of Killarney. At the races at Phoenix Park, outside of Dublin, the same mistake occurs, and he is summoned to the bedside of the Earl of Killarney, who is dying, and calls for his nephew, estranged from him some time before. He becomes involved in a contest over the money of the uncle, who wishes to leave his estates to his nephew, and who dies in the arms of the supposed Lord Fitzhugh. Tom, in the meantime, is also falling in love with Fitzhugh's sister, Lady Gwen, but it is not until he discovers and frustrated a murderous plot and has some thrilling adventures, that everything ends well for him.

It is a typical Meighan picture, with the star wearing his favorite speckled bow tie and his somewhat puzzled expression. He has the usual series of misadventures, culminating in happiness, but this picture shows him at his best, in a situation that suits him admirably, the loveliness of Irish scenery and the beautiful backgrounds afforded by Irish lakes and country places, affording a splendid setting for the big star. The dual role enacted by him, that of Tom Donohue and of Lord Gerald Fitzhugh, is carried out admirably, the characters going so far at times as to light each other's cigarettes and do other stunts that give a demonstration of the heights to which trick photography can be raised.

In the comedy, with Lloyd Hamilton in "The Movies," the comedian has also a dual role which makes him funnier than ever.

AT THE REGENT

"LAZYBONES" FULL OF PATHOS, FINE DRAMA AND QUAINT HUMOR.

Buck Jones Plays Title Role in Motion Picture Version of Owen Davis Play — Madge Bellamy, Zasu Pitts and Jane Novak Are Seen in Splendid Roles.

A drama of everyday life, telling a story of real people in simple, direct and gripping fashion—a story filled with whimsical humor, deep pathos and wholesome romance—such is "Lazybones," the William Fox production which opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre.

Charles (Buck) Jones doffs his guns to appear in the title role of "Lazybones," the lovable village lounger, who has never been known to do a day's work in his life. Jones does some fine work in this role, bringing out the redeeming qualities of Lazybones' character without making anything energetic of the hero.

Madge Bellamy as Kit, the little waif whom Lazybones adopts, appears first as a freckled-faced little girl of fourteen summers and, later, as the lovely young woman with whom "Lazybones" falls hopelessly in love.

Edythe Chapman creates one of her most lovable screen mothers in the character of Mrs. Tuttle, Lazybones' mother, while Emily Fitzroy as Rebecca Fanning, the mother of Lazybones' boyhood sweetheart, adds another triumph to her long list of character successes.

Nerves Broken by Overwork

Was weak, nervous, sleepless. Restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The restorative power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is truly remarkable as is proven by the experience of the writer of this letter. And yet this is only the usual experience of people who put Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to the test.

Miss Jennie Kent, 139 Northumberland St., Brantford, Ont. writes:—"The strain of nursing my mother through a long illness left me in a weak, run down condition which affected my nerves. I had severe pains in the nerve centres of my arms and limbs which often kept me awake for hours at night. I also had a heavy dragging pain across my back and felt all the time as if I would not be able to keep on much longer. A treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has removed these symptoms, however, and built me up wonderfully."

HOPE TO SHATTER RUBBER MONOPOLY

U. S. Tire Interests May Establish Plantations.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. — The breaking down of the British rubber monopoly is the hope and plan the nation's leading tire manufacturers, whose representatives gathered here on Monday to begin a series of conferences.

Some form of combination of resources probably will be adopted in order to wrest from Great Britain control of rubber prices, this time assured by regulations which limit the amount of crude rubber for export.

According to the delegates no system of co-operation proposed so far has won unanimous support. One project which has found favor is that of pooling resources to establish and maintain rubber plantations in Sumatra and the Philippines. The Firestone interests already plan such developments in Liberia.

Representatives of the American Rubber Association recently told Secretary Hoover in Washington hearings that some form of combination has essential if the British monopoly were to be dissipated.

105 Miners Entombed By Awful Explosion; Little Hope Remains

CASUALTIES UNKNOWN.

Rescuers Busy, But Little Hope Held For Buried Men.

WILBURTON, Okla.,—Most of the 105 men working in the Degman-McConnell Mine three miles west of here are believed to have been instantly killed today in a terrific explosion that wrecked the main shaft and entombed them. A rescue crew started work at 10.30 a.m. and will attempt to reach the trapped men through an air shaft which is still open. Some of the victims are still alive and conversed with the rescuers through the shaft.

Every doctor in Wilburton was rushed to the mine and doctors, nurses, and ambulances have been summoned from McAlester, Hartshorne, and other neighboring towns. The blast is believed to have been the result of an accumulation of coal dust in a pocket. The mine was being operated on a non-union basis under the 1917 wage scale. It is three miles west of town.

Rescuers Busy

McALSTER, Okla., Jan. 13 (United Press) — The lives of 100 miners in the Degnan-McConnell mine No. 21 at Wilburton, Latimer County, were endangered today as a result of an explosion which occurred after the mine crew had entered for work. It has not been learned whether there was any loss of life. The rescue truck from the Bureau of Mines rescue station here has been sent to the mine.

Atlantic Liner Crosses With Only One Passenger

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 13. — (United Press).—Coming here from Liverpool, William Thomas Stewart of Toronto had an ocean liner all to himself. The Leyland liner Devonian docked here with a one-man passenger list. Stewart was the only passenger aboard. He said the trip was a bit lonesome, but that he could not complain of the service, as a corps of about 20 stewards was at his disposal and there was no competitive tipping.

AMENDMENT TO MARRIAGE LAW CAUSES TROUBLE

Bridegrooms Try to Get Licenses Just Before Ceremony.

TAKES THREE DAYS.

Many Complaints Have Been Made—To Be Considered By Legislature.

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Before the approaching session of the Ontario Legislature opens, the Government will give consideration to some of the restraints which were placed upon Dan Cupid by the Wigle marriage act amendments of last winter.

The effect of these amendments was to require three days' notice before a marriage license could be issued. It is the wisdom of this policy of requiring couples to temporize with the ceremony which the Government is going to discuss.

E. R. Wigle, Conservative M.L.A. for Centre Huron, brought into the House last year a bill which placed a radical check upon hasty marriages. The restrictions, however, are reported to be not giving entire satisfaction throughout the province.

Various cases have been brought to the attention of the government in which wedding ceremonies have been halted at the last minute because the bridegroom did not know of the necessity for three days' notice and attempted to procure the license just before going to the church. The Wigle amendments provide procedure by which deadlocks can be met, but the Government is preparing to consider the value of legislation of which frequent evasion is necessary.

FRANC SLUMPED IN PARIS BOURSE

News That Briand Cabinet Faces Crisis Caused Drop.

NEW ELECTIONS.

PARIS, Jan. 13 (United Press)—The franc slumped today on the Paris bourse in the wake of the government has grown more difficult. After having shown some strength during the parliament it dropped to 26.76 to the dollar.

Meantime it was learned that the moderates of the chamber had no disposition to support Briand, thus making his position serious.

The government intends to take the Doumer finance projects before the Chamber for an out and out vote provided they are not approved as the Government desires in the finance committee. This would undoubtedly precipitate the lingering crisis, as the Moderates support then would be needed.

Should the Chamber voice its disapproval, then it's considered likely that new elections, under a revised electoral system would be attempted. The outcome thereof, it is felt, would give Briand a more substantial basis for rebuilding the Cabinet.

REDDING ADMITS HE IS ROBT. SCOTT

Prisoner of San Quentin Says He Goes East Willingly.

CAN CLEAR HIMSELF.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Jan. 13.—(Canadjan Press). — John C. Redding a prisoner in San Quentin Penitentiary, admitted in an interview yesterday that he is Robert Scott, wanted in Chicago in connection with the murder for which Robert's brother, Russell Scott, was sentenced to death, but saved from the gallows when he was adjudged insane, the San Francisco Examiner, says to-day.

Redding is further quoted as saying he will go back to Chicago willingly in the belief that he can prove the charges against him are untrue.

"I will go back to Chicago willingly and face the charges against me," Scott was quoted as saying—"At this time I cannot say what my defense will be but I am confident that I can prove the charges against me are untrue."

Scott further declared he would retain Wildam Scott Stewart, who acted as attorney for Russel Scott, to defend him.

British Adverse Trade Balance Greatest in 1925

LONDON, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Great Britain's adverse trade balance for the year 1925, roughly £385,000,000, is the greatest in the country's history. The previous record was £341,000,000, in 1924.

The year's trading shows that imports increased by £45,000,000 and exports have fallen by £23,000,000. These figures do not take account of invisible exports, which will reduce the apparent adverse balance by many millions.

Last year the Board of Trade estimated the invisible exports at £370,000,000.

There was an increase of over £20,000,000 on rubber during the year.

ANNUAL MEETING

Reports Read Indicated Progress Along Health Lines—Officers Installed.

That the work of the Red Cross Society has not ended with the cessation some years ago of hostilities between embittered nations was shown yesterday afternoon when at a meeting of the local branch, held in a room of the Public Library, reports were read which indicated activity along lines of especial benefit to the community at large. In addition to showing a creditable bank balance there were several items on the financial statement which showed that the peace time programme of the Society duplicated that of the more strenuous years of the war and with more thoroughly constructive ideals.

The following are the names of those elected to the various offices for the ensuing year:

THEFT MOTIVE BEHIND MURDER

Tonawanda Italian Had Large Sum Saved To Bring Out Family.

WAS STRANGLED.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 13. Canadian Press. — The body of Frank Dolinda, a rope knotted tightly around his neck, and his mouth stuffed with a handkerchief, was found on the floor of his home in Tonawanda yesterday.

The police believe he was murdered by thieves to get a considerable sum of money which he had been saving to bring his family to this country from Europe.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday (Tuesday) morning the thermometer was down to - below zero. This (Wednesday) morning it was at 3 below. Last evening, however, the temperature began to go down, and during the night it reached 18 below zero, but rising towards morning. MEXICAN BANDIT GANG CORNERED, EIGHT EXECUTED

Others Died Fighting Against Federal Troops—Twenty in Band.

SHOWN NO MERCY.

Swift Retribution For the Massacre of Fifty Persons Sunday.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Federal troops yesterday continued a ruthless campaign of extermination against the bandits who held up the Guadalajara-Mexico City passenger train Saturday night and murdered an estimated total of 50 persons, including passengers, train crew and train guards. Death is being dealt without mercy to the bandits and their accomplices alike.

The War Department issued a laconic communique Tuesday saying that an unknown number of the bandit gang have been killed in a fight and eight prisoners executed, but behind this, according to despatches from other sources, there is a story of swift and uncompromising retribution by the Federal soldiers.

A detachment of troopers belonging to the Fiftieth Cavalry trailed the main group, including about 20 bandits, in a north-westerly direction from Los Reyes, in Michoacan, into the state of Jalisco. The bandits were surrounded at a ranch called Quitupan. There the cornered outlaws fought desperately and most of them died fighting. Eight were taken prisoners, are said to have confessed participation in the robbery and were summarily executed. Loot from the train was found on every one of the bandits.

Federal troops are still pursuing straggling groups of the marauders and appear to be executing all who are shown to have been accomplices in the robbery, whether they participated actively or not. It is said that the Government is determined to give such a stern lesson that outlaws will fear to attempt any repetition of the outrage.

EXPECT BUSES ON SATURDAY

New Service Will Probably Start Next Wednesday—Another Spur.

REDUCED FARES.

While the much-heralded buses have not as yet materialized, these manifestations of service along more adequate and modern lines are soon to make their bow before Peterborough citizens. J. O. Clifford, superintendent of the Radial Railway said this morning that he expected them on Saturday and that the service would be remodelled on Wednesday, a day which, he ardently hoped, would usher in a new era in the transportation life of the city.

Mr. Clifford stated that the success or failure of the new service depended wholly on the reception accorded it by the people it was intended to serve. The Hydro was willing to charter as many buses as conditions proved to be adequate to the need, in order that a fair trial might be given the augmented service.

For the few days remaining before the impending change, time tables will be placed in all street cars, to be secured by patrons on request. Since the schedule was printed it was decided to commission a greater and more comprehensive service, with the result that a spur line will operate on Park Street during the rush hours. In any event the time table as drafted out now may be but a temporary plan subject to change as conditions demand.

The children's age limit for the minimum fare has been increased from 10 to 12 years, and tickets for them are obtainable in strips of 10 for 25 cents. These tickets will be valid at any time between the hours of 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. For school children, books of 60 tickets costing $1.50 are available to pupils of Public, High or technical schools and collegiate institutes, but not for those attending Normal or music schools or universities. Mr. Clifford was unable to quote any definite rate for adult tickets other than that he expected that it would be proportionately lower in accordance with reductions in the children's prices.

Four of the street cars will be rehabilitated for use along the George Street route, so that the appearance of the more ancient vehicles of the service will blend more harmoniously with the later editions of rolling stock than would otherwise be possible.

Hydro-Electric Power Commission Has Treated Citizens Of Peterboro With Lack Of Candor. Says R. R. Hall In Pointing To Startling Facts

The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario has never treated the Citizens of Peterborough in a candid and open manner, and that same lack of candor has, either wittingly or unwittingly, been displayed by our Local Commission.

It must have been a surprise to many to read in last Friday's Examiner the report of the Chairman of our Local Commission wherein he says:

"The Ontario Hydro Electric Commission during the year rendered for the first time the accumulated bill for the last six years being the adjustments of the cost of power between the Hydro and the City amounting in all to $35,385. The Local Commission were able to pay this out of the surplus reserve."

This statement is somewhat startling in view of the fact, that in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the Electric Department of the Local Commission, as appears by the Auditor's Report for 1924, there appears among the liabilities of the Local Commission.

"Other liabilities H. E. P. C. No. 2 — $35,385.04," thereby showing clearly that the Local Commission were aware of the fact at all events on the 31st day of December, 1924, that the Hydro Commission made a claim which was recognized by the Local Commission as a liability to the extent of this same $35,385.04.

A Bogus Claim

But the important question is: When and how was this liability incurred which has so extensively eaten into the surplus of our Local Commission?

According to the 1913 Agreement under which the Hydro Commission pretends power rates to Peterborough are charged, it is expressly provided in paragraph No. 6 that

"The Commission shall at least annually adjust and apportion the amount or amounts payable by the Municipal Corporation for such power, etc."

When the Hydro Commission first supplied power to Peterborough it boasted that it made an annual charge of only $17.50 per H.P. and boastingly continued that charge down to the 31st of October, 1920, and the Local Commission on the faith of receiving power at only $17.50 per H.P. resold it to power and light users of Peterborough.

According to the 14th Annual Report of the Hydro Electric Commission for the year ending the 31st of October, 1921, at page 174, the City of Peterborough was arbitrarily charged an additional $20,071.16 for power for year ending 31st of October, 1919, and for year ending 31st of ending the 31st of October, 1919, and for the year ending the 31st of October, 1920, a further additional arbitrary charge was made of $19,108.23 which with interest less a small credit left a "trumped up" balance of $40,656.39 claimed by the Hydro Commission against the Local Commission in 1921.

There is not a tittle of evidence produced by the Hydro Commission to justify it in making this unfounded claim in the face of its former boasting nor to justify the Local Commission in recognizing it, and worse still paying it without the consent of the Municipal Council.

On page 358 of the same 14th Annual Report for the year 1921, a Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the Local Commission is published purporting to show the Assets and Liabilities of the Local Commission but there does not appear to be any disclosure made in it of any liability to the Hydro Commission of $40,656.39, nor for the years 1922 or 1923. This unfounded claim was certainly carefully concealed. In fact the Hydro was then ashamed to make it in the open, and the Local Commission to acknowledge it in its annual statements of 1921, 1922 and 1923.

Concealed from Council

In view of the fact that our Local Commission was acting under an Agreement made by the City Council with the Hydro Commission which resulted in the purchase of power at $17.50 per H.P., it seems most remarkable that the Local Commission would later on acknowledge a liability to the Hydro Commission of $40,656.39, without making a full fair disclosure of the whole situation to the City Council and to the general public and more particularly in view of the fact that under Section 43 of the Power Commission Act, the revenue of the Local Commission after deducting disbursements "shall quarterly or oftener if the Council so directs be paid over to the Treasurer of the Municipality and shall be by him placed to the credit of the account of the Public Utility Work and if not required for the purposes of the work shall form part of the general funds of the Corporation."

It certainly is a very serious thing for the Local Commission to dip its hands and arms to the elbows into the surplus funds belonging to the Corporation of Peterborough, and take out $35,000 or $40,000 belonging to this City, without the leave or license of the Municipal Council or of the Taxpayers, to pay a stale and a bogus claim to the Hydro Commission.

It is important that the City Council should take immediate steps to prevent future wholesale raids being made by the Hydro Electric Power Commission upon surplus funds belonging to the City. The Council should have greater powers to investigate this Local Commission and more particularly as the taxpayers have nearly ONE MILLION AND A HALF invested in its enterprises "taken so seriously by its members."

U. S. INTERESTS PLAN TO SPEND MILLIONS IN PRODUCING RUBBER

Wish To Break Monopoly Held By British Corporations.

TO GROW THEIR OWN.

Will Plant Rubber Trees in Philippines and Other Possessions.

NEW YORK, Janary 13.—Canadian Press. — Definite plans involving the expenditure of millions of dollars by United States industry, to break the foreign crude rubber monopoly, are now in progress, and have received the approval of Secretary of Commerce Hoover. The plans generally provide for the stimulation of rubber production, under United States control, in tropical areas, such as the Philippines, not within the influence of British corporations.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce which includes virtually every manufacturer in the United States, yesterday announced plans for the formation of a $10,000,000 corporation to produce rubber at a low price to protect the United States consumers.

The announcement of the plan was made through Secretary Hoover in an address to the chamber.

At one time it was learned that the directors of the Rubber Association of America meeting earlier in the day with Secretary Hoover, discussed proposals callin for the expenditure of $50,000,000, in annual appropriations of $10,000,000, to plant rubber trees in areas under United States control.

Mild Winter: Early Spring Told By Black Birds' Song

FORT ANNE, N.Y., Jan. 13. (Canadian Press).—Signs of a mild winter and early spring have been observed by farmers who have seen flocks of blackbirds and woodchucks and chipmunks during January.

LUTHER TRIES TO FORM CABINET

Has Accepted Commission From President Von Hindenburg.

SOUNDING LEADERS.

BERLIN, January 13. — United Press. — Dr. Hans Luther, who rose from Burgomaster of Essen to the important post of Chancellor of the German Reich to-day agreed definitely to undertake the formation of a new cabinet succeeding the old Luther cabinet.

Officially commissioned to this work by President Von Hindenburg, Luther accepted and proceeded to sound out the party leaders.

Golf balls are to cost more, due to the high price of rubber.

GUTHRIE ASSURES PROGRESSIVES DOMINANCE IN PARLIAMENT WILL NOT DECLINE IF MEIGHEN PREMIER

Forke's Followers Would Be Just as Strong Under Conservative Regime.

BID FOR SUPPORT.

Hon. Arthur Meighen Prepared to Undertake Forming Government.

OTTAWA, January 13. Canadian Press. — "I say this with the authority of my leader that if the government is defeated and resigns, and he is invited to form a government, he will undertake the task and he will endeavor to carry on this House from session to session."

This was the statement made by Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Conservative, South Wellington), at the conclusion of his speech on the non-confidence amendment before the House last night.

Mr. Guthrie went on to say: "The Progressives' position will be just as strong under the new Administration as under the old; they will occupy the same dominant position in the counsels of Parliament as they did in the old parliament."

Mr. Guthrie ended by reminding the Progressives that if the legislation brought down by the new government was not satisfactory to them the remedy would be in their own hands.

It had been said in the debate that if the Conservative amendment carried the country would be plunged into a general election, and if it was defeated the government would seek an adjournment to re-organize the cabinet. These questions should not be the major concern of the House. The House of Commons should be concerned with the upholding of constitutional authority.

King Demanded Majority.

Mr. Guthrie quoted from the Prime Minister's speech at Richmond Hill, on September 7th, which he said, could be taken as an official manifesto heralded throughout the country as the significant speech, and actually in newspaper offices before it was delivered. Then the Prime Minister had said that there were national problems pressing for solution which could not be solved by any government without a clear majority.

Mr. Guthrie said that the most notable omission from the Speech of the Minister of Justice had been the most vital question of the present time—the absence of the Prime Minister from the House. The Solicitor-General's speech of Monday night could not be called a judicial presentation of the case particularly from a senior officer of the Crown, as it had been full of prejudices and errors "such as one would expect to hear at some rough and tumble political meeting during election."

The Speech from the Throne had been little short of an attempt to prejudice the case, while the words were still fresh in the ears of the Progressives. The leader of the government had sought to steal a march by introducing a motion of confidence in his own government.

The Speech from the Throne, Mr. Guthrie thought, was prepared as a sort of pre-election manifesto for the purpose of gaining Progressive and Independent votes. It was, he said, a bait on the hook of the LaPointe motion of confidence. If the House swallowed the bait it would also swallow the hook.

Mr. Guthrie said nobody had attempted to challenge the cold legal right of Premier King in retaining office and calling parliament.

Mr. Guthrie would only submit that constitutional precedent was the important thing. Gladstone once said that British constitutional practice only became fixed and absolute in 1845. It was significant that the precedents quoted yesterday by the Solicitor-General (Hon. Lucien Cannon) predated that year. The Pitt incident of 1792 could not be taken.

No Modern Precedent.

The point taken by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Mr. Guthrie said, was that in the last 80 years there had been no precedent for the retention of power and the calling of parliament by a Prime Minister who had no seat in either House of Parliament.

There was a good deal of discussion on this point, and Mr. Cannon claimed that the procedure follo

Ferrets Eat Baby's Hand; Injuries May Be Fatal

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Two hungry ferrets last night gnawed their way through a cage and probably fatally injured two-year-old Katie Bitterlin as she lay in her crib. They had chewed off two of the baby's fingers and bitten her arms and face before her screams awakened her foster parents.

C N R HEAD SIGNS AGREEMENT FOR MICHIGAN LINES

Agrees To Move Line That Blocks Detroit Street Widening.

PAY MORE TAXES.

Line Surrenders Special State Charter But Receives Other Concessions.

DETROIT, January 13. — Canadian Press. — Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways which includes the Grand Trunk Railway System in Michigan, arrived in Detroit on Monday afternoon and an hour later signed an agreement to remove the Grand Trunk tracks where they interfere with the completion of the widening of Woodward Avenue.

Not only does Sir Henry covenant to remove the tracks but also to surrender the special charter of the Grand Trunk division between Detroit Grand Rapids and Grand Haven which the courts have held to be perpetual, and to come under the general railroad act.

Under its special charter the company pays about $25,000 a year taxes. Under the general railroad act the company will now be called upon to pay approximately $225,000 annually.

In return for these concessions the state covenants to abandon its rights to acquire the Detroit, Grand Rapids and Grand Haven Division by condemnation or otherwise.

WIFE CHARGED WITH MURDER

Coroner's Inquest Culminates in Arrest of Woman For Husband's Death.

MYSTERY CASE.

SASKATOON, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Following a lengthy gruelling before a coroner's jury here on Tuesday night, Mrs. Jas. Johnson was shortly after midnight arrested on a charge of murdering her husband on Christmas night by a blow with an axe.

The arrest is the first culminating point in an extraordinary mystery. On the night of Christmas day the long distance telephone operator here received a call from a woman asking for police assistance, "as something terrible had happened." When the police came they found Mrs. Johnson bound hand and foot with torn bedding and her husband with several wounds in his head, and the bed room, in which he lay, bathed in blood.

The woman stated that her first knowledge of the tragedy was when she found herself bound and gagged when awakened from sleep by intruders. Jas. Johnson, after being taken to hospital on Christmas night, lived eight days.

CARRIED FROM BURNING HOUSE.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press.)— Mrs. Thomas Moore, ill in bed, had to be carried out to safety when fire broke out in her home here yesterday. She was taken to a neighbor's home while firemen extinguished the blaze.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR CONCERT

(By Jeanette)

The choir concert of St. John's Anglican Church, held in the parish hall last evening, was extremely successful. The attendance was not all that it might have been, but the programme given by the choir and the Peterborough Orchestral Trio was an exceptionally fine one, showing that the leader and the choir members must have put in a very great deal of hard work in preparation for the event. The choral numbers were a revelation of the expert leadership and training given by F. G. Mann, A.Mus., organist and choirmaster, whose thorough grounding of the members in their work resulted in the very fine entertainment last night.

The choral programme was mainly composed of music of the Old English type and was pleasing from beginning to end. The Peterborough Orchestral Trio, assisting the choir, was especially fortunate in its choice of selections. It is seldom that such an attractive series of selections is presented by stringed instruments. Their offerings were beautifully played and received hearty applause in every instance. The trio is composed of a violin, played by Mrs. M. B. Hoyland, a violoncello played by Mr. R. Farthing, and the piano accompaniment by Mr. F. G. Mann.

Another excellent attribute of the concert last evening was the length of the programme. It was pleasingly brief, ending shortly after ten o'clock. The entertainment, arranged in two parts, opened with a selection, "O, Who will O'er the Downs," by St. John's Male Choir. In this organization is demonstrated again very plainly the quality of training imparted by Mr. Mann, the leader. The young boys who compose the main portion of this choir sing exceedingly well, with min ute attention given to tempo, attack and release. The youthful treble voices, against a background of deepe tones from the adult members, are fresh, sweet and clear. The opening chorus of the second part, also sung by this group, was the whimsical number, "The Violet and the Bee," with imitations of the buzz and drone of the honey-bee that brought enthusiastic appreciation, and a repetition of the number as an encore.

In part songs, the large choir gave an excellent performance, with a concerted volume of fine tone that softened and swelled out under the baton of the conductor. The voices blended nicely, without ragged edges, and a noticeable element was the clear diction of the singers.

Two part songs of the 16th century were the choir's opening contributions "Awake, Sweet Love," and "Now is the Month of Maying." In these were noticeable a quality of bright, gay tone that gave the impression to their audience that this choir really liked to sing and enjoyed its own music. Another part song, "Oh Hush Thee" was a pretty, soft lullaby, and the closing numbers by the choir were "Good Night, Beloved," showing some fine work in the tenor section, and (by request) sung a capella, in the unaccompanied fashion, Sullivan's "The Long Day Closes," an extremely pretty selection. A second unaccompanied number was the old favorite "Sweet and Low," sung with much expressive feeling, and in "The Phantom Ship," a choral ballad, odd and effective, was demonstrated splendidly the earnest attention to detail given by every individual member of the different sections, heard in turn in this number. An old-time Madrigal, "Come Again, Sweet Days," brief, sweet and tuneful, was also sung a capella.

The music of the Orchestral Trio was a distinct addition to the programme. The three musicians play beautifully together, and their programme was very attractive. It opened with "The Bridal Rose Overture," a lovely, melodic selection. Gounod's "Serenade" was a softly-played, pretty thing and the ballet music from "Sylvia," which followed, met with much applause, the pizzicato music of the picked strings giving a bright atmosphere to this selection.

In the second section of the programme, a very pleasing number by the Trio was the soft nocturne, "Rosaline," opening with the sweet notes of the violin alternated later against a background of broad, legato bowing by the 'cello. This dreamy music, a soft, but accented piano accompaniment flowing under the plaintive undertone of the stringed melody, with delicate cadenzas in the final bars, made a very artistic rendition. Donizetti's "Non Giova Il Sospirar," was a brief, well-played bit, and the final orchestral number was Schubert's "Marche Militaire," with its accented beats and repetitions of gay, bright music.

Mrs. G. G. Evans was the very painstaking accompanist of the evening, playing for the entire choral programme in a most proficient manner.

During the intermission, Rev. Dr. Blagrave spoke briefly, commenting on the excellent programme rendered, and speaking of "the indefatigable work, the intensely keen and enthusiastic attention to detail given by the leader, Mr. Mann," whose care and forethought and intensive training were responsible for the fine demonstration of ability, particularly in the case of the Male Choir, where so many youthful members made his task a difficult one. On behalf of the audience and speaking for himself, the vicar congratulated Mr. Mann on his success, attributing it mainly to an appreciation of the necessity and value of hard work, earnestness and sincerity in any undertaking. Rev. Dr. Blagrave also spoke with much appreciation of the ability of the Peterborough Orchestral Trio.

The personnel of the choir is as follows: Treble: W. Coleman, J. Comstock, M. Comstock, L. Dyer, F. Ford, D. Hood, K. Hutchinson, W. Howell, K. Long, L. Sorby, N. Stanger, W. Turner. MISS M'PHAIL LACKS BELIEF IN BOTH LEADING PARTIES

Not Pleased With Performances of Grits or Promises of Tories.

STEWART AGGRESSIVE.

Minister of Interior Invites Opposition to "Bring on Your Election."

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—(Canadian Press.)— speech by Henri Bourassa, independent of Labelle, featured the afternoon sitting yeserday. Mr. Bourassa confessed that after an absence of eighteen years, he was returning to the House much as ghost to its old haunts. He urged a broad Canadian spirit, that Canada should become Canadian and not British in name and Yankeefied in spirit. He announced his intention to vote against the Conservative amendment of non-confidence. At the same time he gave notice to the Government members that he was not prepared to vote confidence in them at all times.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Interior, argued that the Government was maintaining the authority of Parliament. He invited the oppositionto "bring on your election". Mr. Stewart added that Premier King would secure a seat and be in the House at the earliest possible date. Two Progressives, Miss Agnes McPhail and M. N. Campbell of Mackenzie, spoke during the day but gave no definite indication how they would vote. Miss McPhail expressed her lack of confidence in both Liberals and Conservatives. The debate continues this afternoon.

C. W. Bell (Conservative, Hamilton West) after reviewing briefly what previous speakers had said turned to the Richmond Hill speech of the Prime Minister when he had said that great national issues were pressing for solution. He would like he said, to take the minister to the Niagara Peninsula and show him the exodus of Canadians over that frontier. From Hamilton alone five thousand Canadians had gone to the United States.

Miss McPhail Plain.

Miss Agnes McPhail (Progressive, South East Grey) followed Mr. Bell. When she arose to speak the House resounded with applause, members of every party giving her an emphatic welcome.

Miss McPhail considered that the King Government had returned from the election weakened in prestige, and now promised everything.

"I want to say just plainly I have no confidence in the King Government," stated Miss Phail. "I am not pleased with their past performances nor have I faith in their promises of future action." On the other hand Miss Phail stated that she was "not in accord" with the Conservative policy. She could not possibly give her support to either party but would judge each piece of legislation introduced on its merits.

M. N. Cambell (Progressive, Mackenzie) stated that the question to be determind from his point of view, was whether sufficient confidence should be placed in the Government to justify its continuation in office in view of the promises contained in the Speech from the Throne. The Government in this respect should have manifested a change of attitude on several occasions in respect to legislation for the alternative vote. He regretted that the Liberal party had not lived up to its traditions to which he hoped it would soon return.

G. G. Power (Liberal, Quebec South) moved adjournment of the debate.

DEBATE FARM RELIEF.

Farmers' Co-operative Conference Opens Discussion of Farmers' Problems.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(Canadian Press). — With co-operative marketing the pivot of discussion, the much debated question of farm relief was given further impetus yesterday with the beginning of the fourth national conference of the National Council of Farmers Co-operative Marketing Associations while Congress wrestled with the problem in committee hearing.

With indications pointing to a wide difference of opinion as to the proper method of approaching the crop surplus problem, the conference of co-operatives launched its first of four days of session amid a buzz of discussion.

QUESTION ON PRESTON.

Notice Given of Query To Government By Mullins.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—The Government will be asked shortly if A. T. R. Peston was in its employ during 1925; if so, how he was paid and how much he was paid. Notice of the question is given by H. A. Mullins (Conservative, Marquette) in the issue of Vites and Proceedings of House of Commons published today.

MANY KILLED IN MEXICAN FLOOD

Many People Swept Out To Ocean—Estimate 2,000 Dead.

VERY HEAVY RAINS.

NOGALES, Ariz., January 13. — Canadian Press. — Fully 2000 persons lost their lives and thousands of families are homeless, as the result of recent floods which swept the State of Nayarit, Mexico, said H. B. Titecomb, president of the Southern Pacific of Mexico Railroad, who returned yesterday from Mexico. Mr. Titecomb said the rains which swept the region were unprecedented, and that 14½ inches of rain fell three days. He says the loss of life probably will never be definitely known, as many persons were swept away to the ocean by the walls of water that descended on several of the towns.

Hugh Kane is Speaking Every Evening of This Week.

In spite of the severe weather, Mr. Kane is meeting with much encouragement in the special services being held in Gospel Hall.

Monday night a good company heard a splendid address on the Call of Lives to the Great Work of Christ.

Last night a larger company listened with rapt attention to an exposition of Pslam 51. This Pslam deals with David's sin and also his repentance and confession, with deliverance from the guilt. Mr. Kane has his own style of presenting truth and is unique in expression, and his mission will be productive of much good to the religious life of the city. Every night this week he will speak.

CHURCH SOCIETIES MAKE REPORTS

Keene Presbyterian Church Organizations Had Good Season.

KEENE, Jan. 13.—The following is the address of Session at the congregational meeting of the United Presbyterian Church held on Friday, Jan. 8, in the Presbyterian Church:

"As your Session look back over the past year we find many causes for gratitude, and we would humbly knowledge the goodness of Almighty God who has directed our paths. In the midst of our varied interests and activities, a beautiful spirit of harmony has continued to prevail.

"Our congregation has lost during the twelve months several of its members by death. The minister has officiated at twelve funeral services during the year. We are well aware of the sad gaps made in several family circles, and affectionately we commend the bereaved to the God of all comfort.

"We have seventy-two families connected with our congregation, there being a membership roll of one hundred and fifty. The rite of Christian baptism was administered to twelve in all. Our two communion services were well attended, and the preceding preparatory services attracted good congregations.

"The congregation is under a special debt of gratitude to the choir. By the rendering of special music Sunday by Sunday, the choir has been an acquisition to the church and has edified the people generally. In this worthy service its leadership merits the highest praise.

"Grateful recognition should also be made of the devotion shown by the leaders and members in various organizations. Our Sunday School and teachers have been well maintained. Our missionary organizations have continued their efforts for the regions beyond.

"The year 1925 might well have caused us some anxiety financially. It is gratifying to find our givings so well maintained. There should be no dread for the years that lie ahead, after so bravely meeting the ordeal of the year that has gone.

"Here is something from Dr. Pigeon: Recalling the experience he had encountered in visiting the conferences of the United Church from the Maritime Provinces to the Pacific Coast, Dr. Pigeon declared that he had found a strong desire for further worship as men had never before expressed.

"With the vast programme before the United Church, Dr. Pigeon stated that already Union had become more perfect than the most sanguine of its leaders had expected it to realize in ten years time.

"During 1926 may we all yield ourselves fully to the Son of God who loved us and gave Himself for us.

"RALPH HUMPHREY, Clerk.
"J. ARCHIBALD, Moderator."

Sunday School Report.

The Sabbath School can report a successful year, both numerically and financially. A number of new books have been added to the library. Continued interest has been shown by the scholars in the work and several of them have united with the church.

Report of W.M.S.

On account of the changes in the society, I have divided my report into two divisions.

For the first six months we had 62 members, with an average attendance of 22, and we lost one member by death.

For the last six months we had 45 members, with an average attendance of 30, having lost 23 members and gained 7 new ones; also one new life member.

The splendid attendances and general interest shown in the past six months has been very encouraging. The society was favored with a visit from Miss Mitchell, a Field Secretary, which was a help and inspiration to all.

JEAN H. McFEE, Secretary.

Mission Club Report.

Amount sent to Presbytery, $8.75.

Eight meetings were held during the year, with an average attendance of 15.

The Young People conducted the services, with Scripture reading and prayer and special singing. Lantern slides were frequently used and missionary subjects were dealt with in this way. There was no official appeal made for money this year, owing to the unsettled state of the work and the heavy demands on the church itself. The hope to do more effective work in 1926 is the wish.

MARION GILLESPIE,
Secretary.

Thank the Pastor.

Motion by Mr. David Armstrong, which was unanimously carried:

"In view of the impending union of the two congregations of the United Church of Canada in Keene, and remembering that this is likely to be our last congregational meeting at this congregation, and in consideration of the happy and cordial relations that have existed between this congregation and our minister, the Rev. Mr. Archibald, I would move that this congregation expresses its entire confidence in Mr. Archibald and his abilities and qualities, and that this congregation hopes and extends to him the wish that he may stay with us for some years to come."

Finances of Church.

To the Minister and Congregation of the United Church of Canada, Keene (formerly Presbyterian),

I have the honor to submit this, the first annual report of our finances for the year ending 31st of December, 1925. As shown on the balance sheet, we have a net amount of $63.23 cash available after allowing for outstanding cheques and accounts payable.

Accounts receivable may be counted as being quite good, it being the share of the Westwood congregation of taxes and Presbytery expense funds at the ratio of 5 to 11.

Furniture and fixtures includes all furniture, pews, tables, desks, lighting fixtures, cabinets, rugs, matting, dishes, silverware, etc.

Buildings include church, manse and shed.

Real estate valued at cost.

Our current liabilities are fully covered by a corresponding bank balance to the credit of the missions account. These are mission funds already collected but not yet forwarded to the general office of the church.

Total receipts for the year from all sources total $2,269.81. This is a decrease of $916.30 from last year's total, most of the difference being general revenue contributions' decrease of $641 and missions contributions down $285, while loose collections increased $75.00. Disbursements show a decrease of $576.20 as compared with last year's total.

Church revenue shows a decrease of $566.00 as compared with last year. Envelope contributions are $641.00 less and loose collections have increased by $75.00.

The sum of $124.40 for church revenue and $68.30 on account of missions was contributed by members who have since left the church. Taking the revenue contributions of these former members and adding to it the actual deficit for this year, $153.22, gives us the total of $277.62, which will have to be contributed additional during the year 1926 if we do not want a deficit. This, of course, is assuming that our expense will be about the same as this year.

The average contribution for the year was $10.54 per contributor. Last year this average was higher, being $13.18 per contributor. There were only 128 contributors using the envelope system, as compared with 151 last year.

If each member and adherent who contributed this year will increase his or her givings to revenue account by 16.2 per cent., we should end the year 1926 without any deficit. There are fifteen contributors whose total contributions are 37 per cent. of the total revenue received by envelopes.

Expenses are carefully watched by your board, and cannot be reduced to any great extent without impairing efficiency.

D. D. BROWN, Treasurer.

OMEMEE W.M.S. REGULAR MEETING

Was Held at Home of Mrs. William Earle Last Week.

OMEMEE, Jan. 13.—The regular monthly meeting of the Womens' Missionary Society, of the United Church was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Earle. There were thirty-two members and one visitor present. Mrs. Rowland, the president, had charge of the meeting, and following the opening hymn, the Apostles' creed was repeated in Unison, after which Mrs. J. Bushnell and Mrs. William Brandon led in prayer.

Letters of appreciation were read by the secretary, Mrs. E. Bradburn, from Mrs. A. Scott and Mrs. Charles Mills expressing thanks for flowers received during illness.

A communication was read from the secretary of the Ladies' Aid, Oshawa, thanking the Society for the splendid bale of clothing which they received in November, valued at $90.00.

A resignation from Mrs. R. Wilson, assistant superintendent of the Wide Awake Mission band, was read with regret and accepted, as Mrs. Wilson was unable to keep the office any longer.

Mrs. H. Lamb volunteered to be responsible for the Missionary Sunday in the Sunday school which is to be the first Sunday in each month instead of the third.

A short discussion was held regarding sewing or the making of some quilts and it was decided that each member make one strip one foot wide by seven feet long, and bring it to the next meeting when further arrangements will be made for quilting, etc.

At the close of the business session Mrs. G. N. Earle read an interesting paper on "W.F.M.S., what those letters mean." This was followed by the heralds of the "Watch Tower" which was responded to by Mrs. R. Williamson, Mrs. Morcombe, Mrs. Earle, Mrs. T. A. MacPherson, Mrs. Brandon, Mrs. Bushnell, Mrs. T. C. Stephens, Misses Eva Race and Rita Kennedy.

The subject, "Building with India" was given in three parts, Mrs. R. Wilson taking the first part, "Helping through the mind," the second part, "India's need of medical and sanitary help", by Mrs. H. Lamb while the third, "The aim of missions was given by Mrs. J. Bushnell.

A very inspiring and helpful devotional leaflet, "Going apart to pray," was held by Miss L. Parsons, and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Rowland.

A social half hour was enjoyed by all with Mrs. F. G. Sandy, Mrs. T. C. Stephenson and Mrs. G. Hogarth as hostesses. Mrs. H. Lamb very kindly offered her house for the February meeting.

U.F.M. SECRETARY PRESENTS REPORT

Shows Benefit of Co-operative Marketing and Purchasing.

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 13—(Canadian Press).—Co-operative marketing and purchasing have proved of great benefit to the members of the United Farmers of Manitoba, according to the report presented today by D. G. McKenzie, secretary of the organization, at the annual convention here.

Figures given by Mr. McKenzie indicated that fifty-four locals engaged in co-operative purchasing during the past year with an estimated saving of $18,695. The total paid up membership of the organization was shown at 6,438, an increase of more than 20 per cent since 1924.

"Public sentiment among our farm people throughout the province is markedly in sympathy with our organization and our task is largely one of mobilization," Mr. McKenzie declared.

Reviewing the year's work, the secretary pointed out that as a result of pressure exerted by the central office, much had been accomplished in securing more favorable credit conditions. In co-operation with the Canadian Council of Agriculture, the organization had fought to retain the statutory rates of the Crow's Nest Agreement and protect the interests of agriculture in all matter relating to freight cost and regulations. Completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway, amendments to the Canada Grain Act and introduction of much legislation relating to agricultural questions, were among the important matters dealt with. The Central office further has provided its members with valuable information in connection with the Wheat Pool, grain inspection, marketing, taxation and legal matters.

While a policy of retrenchment had precluded any sweeping extension of various research and special services, Mr. McKenzie predicted improved prospects for 1926.

Important social and community work has been accomplished and the educational work and development in self-expression, Mr. McKenzie asserted, is producing among the farm people of the province many men and women capable of efficient service to the community and state.

The programme of the association for this year, he said in conclusion, must be directed toward some study and research with respect to credits, special forms of taxation, wider markets, standardization and grading of all farm produce.

"While all these matters are of salient importance, the question of transportation is one of the foremost. The whole problem of freight rates is a matter for adjustment during the coming year and our organization must assume the responsibility of doing all that is possible to ensure that in the formation of our new freight rate structure everything will be done to safeguard and protect the interests of agriculture on a fair and equitable basis."

UNITED CHURCH WEEK OF PRAYER

MILLBROOK, Jan. 13.—The annual week of prayer, which is being observed in the United Church this week, was fittingly opened on Sunday when the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, made "Prayer" the theme of the morning service and "Intercession" the subject at night.

The address to the Young Worshippers' League, always a feature of the morning worship, emphasized the things worth while which money cannot buy—courage, health, cheerfulness, character—the crowning thought being that even the boys and girls may make a contribution this week that is of far more value than money, namely, prayer for the presence and power of the Holy Spirit at the nightly meetings.

The 107th Psalm was read as a Scripture lesson and the congregation was asked to note the difference in spiritual altitude between its prayer petitions and those of the prayer taught by our Lord to His disciples.

"All men pray, bad and good, heathen and Christian. To stultify this disposition is doing an unnatural thing which will impoverish the spiritual life as surely as denying food to the body. Refrain from prayer and you are making a bid for weakness and not strength.

"The worst never become incapable of prayer, and the best never outgrow their need of it.

"Prayer sometimes expresses itself in vague longings and ignorant but sincere requests, but merely asking things from God is the cheapest, poorest and least productive form of prayer. Real prayer includes adoration, meditation, confession, faith, surrender, petition and thanksgiving, and has an effect upon the soul, leading to the highest experiences of communion and fellowship.

"Spasmodic prayer, though imperfect and inconstant in approach and petition, yet brings a response from God who seems ever ready and waiting to answer any cry from His children, but is certainly not as effectual as a constant and persistent prayer habit. 'Men ought always to pray and not to faint' is our Saviour's teaching, and God has riches untold He is waiting to bestow as we grow in fitness to receive.

"The importance of training our bodies is unquestioned. Surely then it is no less important to train souls also, regular habits in the prayer life meaning vitality and growth. The highest type of prayer recognizes the fact the Jesus Christ came in the flesh, that He is the Son of God, and that His spirit lives in the hearts and lives of men. Since God cannot deny Himself, those who take quiet time apart for communion with Him are sure of a divine response, and in a vast number of instances the Father goes beyond the expectation of His people."

The hymn, "Breathe on Me, Breath of God," closed the service.

REAL PROGRESS BY UNITED FARMERS

President's Report to Manitoba Branch Shows Revival of Interest.

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 13.—(By Canadian Press).—A year of real progress in the work of the United Farmers of Manitoba, with revival of interest, and for the first time in years an increase in membership, was reported by A. J. M. Poole, president, at the opening of the annual convention of that association here to-day. A sound financial position gives assurance that the period of depression is passing, said Mr. Poole, and a further advance in numerical strength is looked for.

Continuing Mr. Poole said the organization had no ulterior motives to serve; was not hampered by rigid modes or operation and was free to discuss everything within the range of rural betterment. It was a natural commingling of farmers, their wives and children, their friends for social fellowship and for practical activities. Its spirit made for goodwill, co-operation and tolerance in negotiation.

The outstanding feature of the year has been the success of the pool organizations. Unselfish and courageous leadership, he said, did not waver in adherence to the voluntary pool idea. It remained for farmers to keep closely and intelligently in touch with the pool organizations, ensuring maintenance of efficient and economical management and that every policy is adopted after careful consideration of all facts. The common good and the desire to serve the best interests of the large number should be the guide.

"If this is done," the speaker continued, "we may confidently predict that the grain pooling system we have established will continue to prove not only a means of economic betterment but a powerful influence working toward the social development and unification of our people as a whole."

A considerable increase in agricultural production during the last year and maintenance of fair prices brought some improvement in the general position of agriculture, but prevailing conditions do not yet permit of the securing of results in farm operation that would produce the necessary contentment if the young people were to be kept on the farm.

A necessary requisite to economic betterment of agriculture was a frank and honest acknowledgment of the business world outside of agriculture that there can be no improvement in business without an improvement in agriculture, and that there was yet no justification for the view held in some quarters that the problems of permanently establishing our farming industry was entirely solved.

Mr. Poole quoted the president of the International Harvester Machine Company as stating that the improvement in agricultural conditions and the present satisfactory price level of most farm products, could not safely be taken as indications of permanent stability; that theoretically the farmer was supposed to benefit by tariff protection, the same as industry, whereas it very seldom happened that he benefitted by this to any marked degree. This was due to the fact that such a large percentage of wheat was produced was exported, rendering the tariff ineffective as the world level of food prices, determined the price the farmer got for his produce here.

The farmers fully appreciated the need for more diversified farming and improving the quality of products. Conditions were forcing realizati n that a system of crop rotation must be adopted and that revenue from grain must be supplemented with that from livestock, poultry and dairy products. The organization was endeavoring to encourage farmers to do this kind of thing. The process of changing to diversified farming was necessarily slow, which suggested an opportunity for leading loan institutions to make a real contribution to the development of the countries basic industry. The Manitoba government was to be commended for the material aid it had rendered in reducing interest charges to 6½ per cent on farm mortgage loans. But in addition to money being provided for long term loans at reduced rates, something must be done to provide intermediary loans on terms that would facilitate and stimulate primary production.

If the farmer does his part in speeding up production, was he not justified in asking that all other interests equally concerned in the successful development of agriculture, co-operate with him in securing adequate markets and reducing cost of production.

The president went on: "We have achieved considerable success in organizing the marketing of the farmers' produce. Perhaps it would be in order to suggest to our membership that the future development might lie in the direction of organizing the buying power of the farmer. Such a step would get a gigantic undertaking, fraught with great possibilities, destined possibly to revolutionize the commerce of the province but also beset with difficulties that may be regarded as perilous. Perilous because a study of co-operative buying in other countries has shown a high percentage of failures. Perilous because in our own province co-operative buying has only in a few cases been successful and in most cases a disappointment.

"The reasons for this indifferent success as I see it are various. In many cases poor management, in most cases a lack of understanding of real benefits to be gained from co-operation. Several associations start too hastily and without studying the possibilities of making a success. Such associations are almost bound to fail.

"Considerable success, however, has been achieved by a large number of our locals who have engaged in co-operative purchasing, effecting savings to the amount of thousands of dollars to individual local communities. This form of local organization is to be commended and in my opinion should precede any larger form of co-operative purchasing that may be undertaken."

KINGSTON UTILITIES HAS GOOD SURPLUS

Applies to H.E.P.C. for Permission to Reduce Rates.

KINGSTON, Jan. 13.—(Special).—There is a likelihood that Kingston will enjoy a reduction in the electrical rates this year. The annual report of the electrical department of the Public Utilities shows a healthy increase for the year 1925, andMr. R. N. McFarlane, the chairman of the Commission and his colleagues, believe that the citizens should reap the benefit of this surplus, and for this reason a depatation from the Commission will wait on the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto and ask for a reduction in the rates.

CHRISTMAS CONCERTS

MILLBROOK, January 12. — The annual entertainment in connection with the Sunday school of St. Thomas' Church, was held on Friday evening, the town hall being filled to capacity for the occasion.

The painstaking training carried on among the scholars during the past few weeks, under the leadership of Mrs. (Canon) Allen, Miss M. B. Turner and Miss I. Handley, was evidenced by the efficient manner in which those taking part acquitted themselves on Friday evening.

A piano duet by Mrs. Allen and Miss Ada Atwool, was the opening number on the programme, followed by a Christmas cantata, 'Santa Claus' Workshop,' which was both beautiful and and entertaining.

When the curtain rose for the opening chorus, "When Christmas Comes Again," about 25 boys and girls were grouped on the platform, the latter wearing pretty light dresses, while flushed cheeks and shining eyes testified to the excitement which makes such an occasion the delight of the younger element.

Henry Gray sang the verses of the next number, "They Say Old Santa is coming round this Way," the others joining in the chorus, and immediately afterwards came the entry of Santa Claus himself (A. H. Barnes), who was fairly caught as the boys and girls crowded around him and clamored for the gifts each desired. Santa's solo, "I'm a Jolly Old Boy," was warmly applauded, and little Suzanne Grassett, who looked like a big wax dolly, won all hearts, as she said, referring to a request to see Santa Claus' workshop, which the older ones were fearful of making "I'll ask Santa Claus—I'm not afraid!"

Piano duets by Misses Muriel and Marguerite Lang and by Mrs. Allen and Miss Laura Crocker, filled the time enjoyably between the various acts throughout the evening.

Scene II showed a variety of dolls, toys, picture books, Teddy bears, etc., such as could be found nowhere else, save in Santa's workshop "way under the ground," and here the children saw the Brownies (Buster Raper, Willie Todd, Lyal Nattrass, Gilbert Howson, Cameron Vance, Owen McCarthy and George Guy) hard at work, singing as they painted, glued and hammered. "Tick Tack, Tick Tack," Ranged at the front of the platform for their second chorus, "Jolly, Jolly Workers," the audience had a better view of their "cover-all" suits of green and brown.

Scene III saw the entry of the Fairy Queen (Pearl Lamb), glittering in white and silver, who waved her shining wand and summoned her various helpers to decorate the lighted tree which occupied the centre of the stage. The "Holly Berries," (K. Donnelly, ... McCarthy, Eva Howson, Beatrice Greer, Nellie Miller, K. McCarthy), came first and sang "Glad Bells of Christmas," afterwards dancing gracefully about the tree as they hung their pretty wreaths on its branches.

Then the Elves (Mary Nattrass, Winnie Lord, Mary Vance, Evelyn Todd, Margaret Russell, Eloise Lamb), in dainty dresses of pink, mauve, green, blue and yellow, and wearing wreaths of silver and tiny pink roses, entered in response to the tinkle of the tiny bell suspended from the Fairy Queen's wrist, and sang "Hail, Father Christmas." The wreaths each carried were also hung upon the tree as they circled about it.

The Brownies (Eric Abbott, Harold Hewson and Walter Todd) were the next comers, the full paper bags they carried being laid at the base of the lovely tree. Now the Fairy Children (Henrietta Grassett, Jean Todd, Marjorie Vance) answered the bell's call and then the little Snow children (Betty Doxsee, Suzanne, Grassett and Betty Harkness) who captivated the entire audience with their tiny wings of white and silver, their quaint caps, and their unstudied ways as they were seated in front of the tree and threw "snow" from the wee, white baskets each held in her little lap.

Eloise Lamb added the final decorations of icicles to the laden tree, and as the lights were dimmed, and the Queen waved her wand, heads were bowed in sleep until the jingle of sleigh-bells heralded the arrival of Santa Claus, with big, well-filled pack on his back, and accompanied by his brownies. All danced gaily about the tree as they sang, "Christmas is coming," and the cantata closed.

An interlude at this point gave opportunity for the distribution of awards to each scholar of the school, Rev. Canon Allen, performing this duty, the superintendent, Mr. G. Fowler, and Mr. R. Stone, assisting him.

Eloise Lamb won the special prize promised by Canon Allen for best church attndance during the year, 45 Sundays being her record, and Henrietta Grassett received the prize for best church attendance among the younger children. Gilbert, Eva, and Harold Howson also were given special cards for regular attendance at Sunday School. Among the teachers receiving gifts from their classes were Miss Mary Pitt, Miss E. Grandy, Miss A. Attwooll, and Mr. A. H. Barnes. The latter gave a personal remembrance to each member of his class, Robert Shaw, Allen Pitt, Lynden Russell, Ernest Lamb, and Percy Pitt. The caretaker, Mr. W. Budd, was the recipient of a gift of money from the school.

The two-act comedy, "A Perplexing Situation," brought the programme to a happy conclusion. Many ridiculous situations arose out of the determination of Mrs. Middleton (Miss M. B. Turner), her two daughters, and her niece, to accept the challenge of Mr. John Henry Middleton (Mr. A. H. Barnes) to pay $75 apiece to his wife and the three girls if they would refrain from speaking for one whole day until 6 p.m. No writing was to be done, and only signs were permitted as a means of communication.

Declaring there was no danger of having to pay the money, Mr. Middleton and his son, Tom, (Mr. H. Jordan) went off to business.

A proposal from her lover, Mr. Wilson (Rev. D. R. Dewdney) left Jessie (Miss Luella Shaw) in tears as the offended young man, whose ardent love-making was of a most realistic character, departed in high dudgeon because he could not understand her enforced silence and strange gestures. The question of the maid, Mary (Elizabeth Russell) whether her mistress would have turnips or onions ordered for dinner had ludicrous results, her excited cry of "Water, water," thinking the lady was fainting, bringing Fritz (Maurice Gray) with a generous pailful ready for use as the curtain rang down on the first act.

The unexpected arrival of Uncle Epp (Mr. F. Wells) from up kentry —Titusville—haven't been in these parts for nigh unto thirty years," complicated matters still more, his conclusion being, "Well, John Henry never writ that all his gals was dumb."

The strange silence also perplexed Miss Maud (Mary Pitt), a friend of the family, who brings her knitting to spend the day, while Mrs. Nosey (Mrs. L. J. Morton), who had "heard of mysterious doings at this house," departs to spread the rumor of smallpox because of the supposed illness and non-appearance of Mrs. Middleton. This resulted in a visit from the health officer, Dr. Paul Reynolds (Allen Pitt), who demanded to "see the invalid," and has the surprise of meeting his sweetheart, Lucy (Miss Ada Attweell), from whom he has been separated for five long years.

Six chimes from the clock ended the bargain, and explanations were made all round. Father wrote out the cheques, the girls explaining "the only way we could keep mother quiet was to carry her off bodily and lock her in her room."

The lovers' quarrels were all happily settled, a double wedding being in sight, with the youngest daughter (Muriel Lang) telling her father, "You'll have to write cheques for me for a long time yet, Dad," when Fritz adds a climax by coming in with Mary and stating, "Ve vants to get married," to the indignation of Mrs. Middleton. However,

"All's well that ends wett yet,
Though times seem most adverse,
And means unfit."

PRIZE ESSAY

"WHY PETERBOROUGH IS EASTERN ONTARIO'S MOST IMPORTANT INDUSTRIAL AND SHOPPING CENTRE."

(By Anna B. McMurray, S.S. No. 5, Douro.)

The city of Peterborough is situated on both sides of the Otonabee River, in the central part of Eastern Ontario, and is seventy-five miles north-east of Toronto. The central position which it occupies helps to make it Eastern Ontario's most popular industrial and shopping centre.

The city has many natural advantages. Its market is always well stocked with farm produce, owing to the fact that the city is surrounded by a good, mixed farming district The large northern forests are of great commercial value to the city and supply a large quantity of material for milling. The waters of the Otonabee afford extensive electric power and also provide a means of sewage disposal. Its location on the Trent Waterway makes it a charming place of residence, affording all the delights of sailing, fishing and swimming. The city is within a few miles of the Kawartha Lakes, a district which is rapidly developing into a famous summer resort which attracts vast crowds of visitors every summer, thus increasing the business of the city. It was an-

Peterborough's greatest manufactures include flour-milling and pork packing; the manufacture of woollens, cereal foods, electrical apparatus, canoes, marble products, clocks, tents, furniture and farm implements. These factories provide the work necessary to maintain a large percentage of the population.

The efficiency of the downtown business section is worthy of notice. In three blocks we have a compact business section, well served by the Street Railway. Departmental stores, hardware stores and general stores offer a wide range of merchandise. The large stores are supplied with elevators, lunch-rooms and rest rooms, all of which are a boon to the tired shopper. Peterborough, owing to the energy and enterprise of her people, is provided with numerous public institutions, churches, schools and libraries of which she may be justly proud. The absence of crime is due probably to the fact that there are so few foreigners and such an excellent system of bringing law-breakers to justice. The promotion of industries and the safeguarding of the liberty of the citizens, by a competent body of men and a well-regulated system of law, all have helped to make Peterborough what she is today—Eastern Ontario's Most Important Industrial and Shopping Centre.

AN EFFECTIVE SAFEGUARD.

The Council of the township of North Monaghan has started a movement by means of which it hopes to have the various County Councils co-operate in securing from the Legislature a restoration of the property qualification for candidates for municipal office.

The Act was amended in 1922, and the old qualification making it necessary for a candidate to own property assessed at $400 or leasehold property assessed at $800 was abolished, with the result that the only qualification now in existence is the same as that of a voter or juror, the holding either freehold or leasehold of property assessed for $100.

The North Monaghan Council wants the Act restored as it was prior to 1922, the object, of course, being to prevent the candidature of irresponsible aspirants for office who hold no stake in the community and who might, if elected, commit the municipality to disastrous expenditures, the effects of which they could escape merely by loading their few chattels on a truck and moving out of the district.

Raising the qualifications might debar some good men from office, but it is a pretty effective safeguard that many people were sorry to see abandoned.

RURAL CREDITS.

The report presented by Premier Bracken of Manitoba in regard to the losses sustained by that Province since the enactment of the Provincial Rrural Credits Act does not augur well for the system of Federal rural credits announced in the Speech from the Throne.

Manitoba's experience has not been a particularly happy one, inasmuch as the Premier has had to report that since the Act came into force the Provincial loss has been $650,000.

The seventy-four rural societies are indebted to the Province to the extent of $2,336.531, with an additional sum of $175,874, representing unpaid interest, but the report of the superintendent of rural credits shows that the outstanding principal and interest owing to the Province has been reduced during the fiscal year by $380,000, which indicates an improved showing.

The matter of rural credits is one dear to the hearts of most Western farmers, but it is evident that from the general viewpoint there is a dangerous side to such legislation that is liable to produce unhappy financial results.

The loss of $650,000 by one Province in a comparatively short time shows that this danger is real and not imaginary.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The Examiner hopes that the citizens generally read the reports of the Peterboro Health Association published last evening.

The value of the association's work is, of course, appreciated in a general way by the whole community, but the reports throw so much light upon the magnificent service that is being rendered by the organization that it would be a matter for report if they were not read by every one.

The year has been one of progress for the association, financially and otherwise.

Especially is this true of the Jackson Park camp, where 137 children were taken care of during the summer, and at which a new and commendable feature was introduced in the form of a medical clinic which conducted a thorough examination of the children and prescribed the necessary treatment, special diets, etc.

APPEALING FOR ECONOMY.

The resolution passed by the City Council on Monday night appealing to other spending bodies to reduce their operating expenses, if possible, in order that a tax reduction of one mill may be made this year, should be accepted by those bodies in the spirit in which it was adopted by the Council.

The Aldermen, in making such an appeal, were not condemning the other civic organizations with extravagance, but were merely concerned with trying to reach a close co-operation among all the spending bodies with a view to a tax reduction.

The various bodies named in the resolution will doubtless be glad to do what they can to bring about the lowered expenditure that is necessary if there is to be a tax slash.

At the same time, however, it is difficult to see how some of the departments can effect a material reduction.

The Central Charity Board, for example, has to spend in accordance with the demands for assistance that come before it, demands that vary according to economic and industrial conditions.

The Board just spends what is necessary to relieve cases of distress, and can reduce its expenditure only when appeals for assistance fall off.

The Library Board, as the Examiner has already pointed out, is suffering now from the effects of a reduced appropriation, and is more likely to ask for a bigger grant this year than to cut down its estimates.

Where there is a chance to reduce expenditures, however, the people will be behind the Council in its appeal for economy.

A UNIVERSAL RADIO LANGUAGE.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

Ever since the radio became an assured success speculation has been indulged in as to the effect it would eventually have on world intercourse, for it was assumed that in due time both hemispheres would be linked by this most fascinating of modern inventions. The New Year's transatlantic interchange of programs, the first really successful attempt to broadcast to the other side of the world, has given fresh impetus to discussion of the bearing this popular agency will have in bringing about a universal medium of intercourse, beyond that now provided by music.

The fact that to date the radio has reached its highest development, and its greatest use, on the North American continent, with it more than 100,000,000 English-speaking inhabitants, who are either actual or potential radio enthusiasts, adds an important angle to the questions. On top of this England has generally embraced this comparatively new means of listening in on its neighbors and sharing with them the best it has to offer in the way of talent, while in all the large world centres as well as the outposts of civilization are many others to whom English is the mother tongue.

Whether the present Anglo-Saxon supremacy will continue, remains to be seen, but the odds seem largely in favor of such a condition. Granting this to be the case, when world-wide communication through the radio has become as simple as zone transmission now is, there naturally will come a demand for a medium which will at least be partly understandable to those to whom English is now a closed book.

Music speaks a universal tongue. The exchange of syllabic culture is much more complicated. If the outgivings of one nation are to be enjoyed by another they must be put on the air in common terms. Will this be accomplished through the introduction and adoption of a new language, or will English become the predominant medium? One guess is as good as another. It is a purely speculative matter, in which a wide stretch of the imagination is required to picture the universe adopting a common tongue. Nevertheless, developments of the next few years will bear watching, whether in the end the world is anglicized or orientalized by the radio, or a happy medium is hit upon.

THE COOLIDGE MYSTERY.

Canadians who follow with any degree of interest the political affairs of the United States may have found it difficult to determine precisely what manner of man President Coolidge is. His character is as elusive as his personality is perplexing. His dramatic rise to the headship of the great Republic implied the possession of qualities that his political and personal friends were not slow to proclaim as remarkable; and the manner in which he has discharged the duties of his high office has been accepted in many quarters as a proof of the exercise of powers of no ordinary kind.

Yet even among the most intimate friends of the President there seems to exist a doubt as to what the qualities and powers attributed to him consist of. The impression is conveyed that they are too subtle for analysis, too profound to be expressly defined; and, in the absence of any clear and convincing estimate, the figure of the silent Vermonter has been tacitly classified as an enigma whose greatness must be taken for granted.

There are those who assert that the characteristics for which the President has become noted are in great measure assumed; that his silence, for instance, accepted by his admirers as a sign of strength, is a pose, and that the air of mystery surrounding him has been skilfully contrived to conceal his deficiencies and, by intriguing public interest, create a kind of mythology calculated to form and preserve a halo of distinction. If so, the design has succeeded admirably, for already there are enough legends about Coolidge to canonize him for all time.

To some he appears as Superman, gifted with preternatural powers of administration and executive achievement. To others he represents a new cult in American politics in which the progressivism of Roosevelt, the idealism of Wilson and a practical regard for the interests of Big Business are nicely blended. A third class visualize him as the soul of American democracy, as "a political god," to quote one writer, "created in our own image;" and William Allen White, the well-known Kansas publicist, has written a book about him in which he is pictured as a mystic whose political activities have "some spiritual touch not of the material world" and are inspired and illumined by "the sacramental character of public service." In the words of a caustic reviewer, he is presented as "a Sir Galahad with public service as his Holy Grail."

For all Canadians know, President Coolidge may be that and a good deal more. Their opportunities of judging him, apart from the conflicting estimates that appear in the American press, are confined to his public acts and utterances, and these suggest a character eminently worthy of respect. Yet the statement is made on good authority that the real personality of the present occupant of the White House is not known at all, that he is the victim, or the hero, of a conspiracy of silence or deception at Washington which has produced an utterly distorted view of his figure.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, addressing the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, declared that "nothing quite so raw has ever been put over on the American public as the false picture of Calvin Coolidge drawn by political correspondents." He did not indicate wherein it was false, but hinted that it was a case, not so much of suggestio falsi as of suppressio veri; in other words, that at the White House there prevailed "the policy of the closed door" which effectually prevented the political correspondents of Washington from obtaining accurate and official information, together with a system of censorship which discouraged and penalized free criticism, and even debarred the reporters from quoting the President, directly or indirectly.

If this charge is well-founded, the President must be regarded in quite a new light, for it suggests the methods of Mussolini rather than those of a leader of democracy consumed with a passion for public service in that great "land of the free" to the south. It also suggests that Calvin Coolidge must be even a stronger man than he has been represented if he can, with impunity, muzzle all the able political correspondents at Washington. The mystery deepens.—Ottawa Journal.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

CIVIC EXPENDITURE.

To Editor of Examiner.

Now that the municipal elections are over the school question is still before the minds of our representatives.

Peterboro, like a great many other cities and towns, has come to the place in financing that the word "halt" seems to have an unusual significance.

When we think of this city years ago, though inland in situation yet having many facilities and possibilities of becoming a place of great importance, today we hear the wail this city is doomed. No doubt in the past we have had heavy expenditures, and some of them have been disastrous in their effects. Some of our representatives in the past had vision of improvements only and failed to give serious thought to the providing for them. Hence the enormous debt, which is alarming. It is regrettable when this very important question of High School accommodation is urgent that existing conditions are in the way of considering it. What can be done?

I feel confident that if the ratepayers were asked to decide this question that their verdict would be unfavorable.

Would a meeting of the Board of Education, City Council and representatives of every department of service, calmly and sanely conferring together, give us leadership that would be satisfactory to all? Would it be possible to have a reduction in our utility rates or curtailing in any other department of expenditure? And many other questions might be considered that would make a reduction to the ratepayers in view of considering this school question.

I do not think that this city is doomed beyond recovery, but our present representatives, as well as those that will follow, will have to do some hard thinking and sane thinking, with economy as their watchword. Will the future bring to this city confidence, security and sane administration, or will the word "failure" be emblazoned upon every entrance into it? This is no game of chance. The success of all business enterprises, whether private or corporate, is the product of men's brains and thought. Tomorrow brings no successes that were not planned yesterday.

Let us forever bury any spirit of selfishness or discord and catch more fully the vision of co-operation, that Peterboro may rise to its possibility.

Yours respectfully,
THOS. E. SARGENT.

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, Jan. 13.—The annual supper and Christmas tree of the combined congregations of St. Paul's and St. Mary's Anglican Churches was held on Friday evening in the Town Hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The event was greatly enjoyed by both adults and children. About two hundred sat down to supper. After supper the children enjoyed games for a time. Then the pupils of both Sunday Schools put on a very enjoyable program. Special mention might be made of Robert and Isobel Sisson in their illustrated story, Muriel Hanna and Ella Sisson in "Keeping Secrets," Aileen Sisson, and last but not least, wee Jackie Hanna and Charley Morton. After supper Mr. Will. Hanna, Jr., and Chas. Smith distributed the presents. The singing of God Save the King brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Children Get Bibles.

One hundred children and adults were present on Sunday afternoon at the United Sunday School, the orchestra consisting of four pieces led in the music. Miss Hazel Jackson sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Helen Byers on the organ.

Last year seven children received Bibles for good attendance. This year every scholar who attends every Sunday will receive a certificate, sickness not being counted.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—Top steers made $8.60 a cwt. and those unsold were coarse and lacking in quality. Butchers' cattle were easier by about 25 cents a cwt. Trade this morning was more settled, and the market had a better undertone. A few good export steers sold at $8.50 a cwt., and export heifers at $7.25 a cwt. Export bulls were distinctly steady from $5 to $5.75 a cwt. Choice handyweight butchers' heifers sold at $7.25 a cwt. Good butchers were $6.50 to $7 a cwt. There were not many cows on sale, and these sold steady. There was fair activity on the market today, and there will be a smaller carry over.

One load of calves was shipped from here to Buffalo on Monday. Top calves are just a little easier, but today's supply is not too good in quality. Good calves sold from 11 to 12 cents, and mediums, 9 to 10 cents a pound.

Lamb buyers were not anxious to do business today, and prices cased 50 cents a cwt. The average price on good ewes and wethers was 14½ cents a pound. One small package sold at 14¾ cents.

The continued light run of hogs has favored the sellers, and they are asking an advance of 25 cents a cwt. today at $12.75 a cwt. f.o.b., with fair prospects of getting it.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press). — Active buying brought about brisk late upturns in the wheat market today after an early decline. Wheat available here for immediate use was in better request, and was able to command a higher premium. With stormy weather in Argentina and a reduced estimate of the Australian surplus reported Chicago wheat prices closed irregular, ranging from 5-8c net lower to 1-4c advance, new style, May $1.74 3-4 to $1.75, and July $1.51 to $1.51 1-8. Corn finished 1-8 to 3-8c up, oats about unchanged, and provisions showing 12 to 42 cents gain.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was extremely dull.

The feature of the local egg situation was the further weakness that developed in the market for strictly fresh eggs and prices scored a decline of 2c per dozen. This was attributed to the continued liberal supplies coming forward and the accumulation of stocks on spot owing to the fact that they were not going into consumption as fast as they should which was due to retailers in many cases demanding a profit of 15c to 20c per dozen. A fair amount of business was done in a wholesale jobbing way.

Owing to the above, the market for storage eggs has also been under some pressure owing to the fact that holders are commencing to get anxious and in order to encourage purchases prices were reduced 1c to 2c per dozen. The receipts were 894 cases, as against 1,777 for the same day last week, and 163 for the corresponding day a year ago.

Sales of New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes were made at $3.50 per bag, and Quebec varieties at $3 to $3.25 per bag of 90 lbs, ex-track.

Butter in a jobbing way was reported fair and prices were unchanged at 44c per lb for finest creamery in solid packages, and at 45c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

The receipts of cheese were 744 boxes, as compared with 110 for the same day last week, and 1,481 for the corresponding day a year ago. The trade was without any new feature to note, business being reported slow in all directions, and prices on spot for early makes were nominally unchanged at 20c to 20 1-2c per lb., and current receipts at 17c to 17 1-2c per lb.

STERLING RATES

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL

North Monaghan Township Council held its first meeting of the year 1926 at the Court House, Peterboro, on Monday. As it was the inaugural meeting, each member was called upon to take the declaration of office as a member for 1926.

John McIntosh made application for the position of Assessor for the year 1926. A resolution was passed that the Clerk advertise for applicants for this position, and that the township pay $225.00 per annum salary. The applicants must be residents of the township and thoroughly qualified.

The position of Sanitary Inspector was then dealt with. W. D. Anderson resigned. It was decided that Frank Pratt be appointed to the three positions of Township Relief Officer, School Attendance Officer and Sanitary Inspector, at a salary of $160.00 per annum, to be paid half yearly.

John Whitfield, Tax Collector, was present and handed in $20.00 poll tax, bringing the total for the year up to $175.00. The Tax Collector also asked the Council to apportion the taxes on lots 50, 59 and 60, so that the estate of M. Carton might pay the taxes on lots 50 and 60. He stated that he did not know who owned lot 59. A resolution was passed that the Tax Collector be paid $17.50, being 10 per cent. allowed him for collecting the poll tax.

Bylaw 878 was passed appointing E. B. Fowler, Auditor of the township accounts for the year 1925, at a salary of $50.00.

Bylaw 879 was passed appointing Frank Pratt to his three positions.

A petition was received from F. C. Wallwork and others residing on Western avenue asking the Council to gravel Western avenue during 1926.

The following bills were passed for payment: W. R. Turner, ballot boxes, $8.70; the Treasurer, war tax and postage stamps, 77.55; the Examiner, $23.26.

A resolution was passed that the deputy returning officers, poll clerks and the allowances for polling booths be passed and paid as follows:

Andrew Kent, D.R.O., $3; John Shaughnessy, poll clerk, $3; Mrs. Alice Andrews, D.R.O., $3; J. H. Alexander, poll clerk, $3; W. B. Anderson, D.R.O., $3; U. E. Waterman, poll clerk, $3; K. M. Denoon, D.R.O., $3; Ernest Adamson, poll clerk, $3; William J. Laing, D.R.O., $3; Clarence Laing, poll clerk, $3; George Campbell, polling booth, $4; Treasurer, May's School, polling booth, $4; Treasurer, S. S. 3, $4; Mrs. Kelly, Chamberlain street, $4; Mrs. Farr, polling booth, $4.

It was decided that the Clerk forward a resolution to the Clerk of the county of Peterboro requesting him, through the County Council, the co-operation of the counties of the Province of Ontario, in asking the Provincial Legislature to have an amendment passed to the qualification of municipal candidates as it now stands in the Municipal Act as revised in 1922, and that the qualification be as it was previous to the amendment of that Act.

Formerly it was necessary that a candidate own property assessed at $400:00 or leasehold property assessed at $800.00, but now the qualification is the same as that for a voter or juror, i.e., the holding, either freehold or leasehold, of property assessed for $100.00.

WORKERS MUST CONTROL FRANCE

Leon Blum, Socialist Leader, Says Illegal Means May Be Employed.

CAN'T SHARE POWER.

PARIS, Jan. 13 — The workers of France must gain control of the government either by legal or illegal means, Leon Blum, leader of the Socialist party, declared Monday at the resumption of the Socialist National Congress.

The Congress was expected to vote late Monday on the question of Socialist participation in future governments. A non-official count Sunday showed a majority against such participation.

"Socialist participation in power cannot be shared." M. Blum declared in his address. "There must be complete possession of power by the working classes—a conquest which cannot be limited to legal means, but achieved by revolutionary methods if needs be."

BROAD HIGHWAY OVER RICE LAKE FOR MOTOR CARS

No "Speed Cops" to Bother Drivers—Traffic Often Brisk.

TWO ACCIDENTS

Bakers Deliver Bread Twice a Week to Farm Homes.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 13.—On Sunday the first motor car of the season to make its tour on Rice Lake, made its way from Gore's Landing to Bewdley, travelling at a brisk speed, and apparently without difficulty.

During the last two or three years Rice Lake has afforded a splendid outlet for car traffic in the blustery months of winter, as a number of the residents residing near the lake have been able to get their cars on to the ice, where they can quite easily drive them to Bewdley, and there the road is usually in a fit condition for a car to get through to Port Hope and Peterboro. On some days, when the weather is bright, one can notice quite a heavy car traffic on the ice, where the road is good and wide and traffic cops do not hinder the speeders.

On Tuesday evening last, while W. Caswell was driving his touring car down the main street of the village, the car skidded on the icy street and before the driver could stop the car it had landed in the deep ditch on the west side of the street. Fortunately the car stayed right side up, and with the help of a number of the villagers it was pushed back onto the street, apparently without having received any damage.

Gashed Own Head.

While Jas. Whittington was cutting wood in his woods last week, he had the misfortunt to cut his head to the skull with the axe. Mr. Whittington cannot account how the axe happened to hit his head, but it gave him quite a serious injury. An infection set into the wound and he has been under the doctor's care for some days, but is now on the road to recovery.

Bread Deliveries.

For the first time in local history the farmers' wives are enjoying the privilege of having the bread vendors bring the bread twice a week during the winter right to their doors. This is quite an advantage to the farmers who live a considerable distance from the stores. This privilege has influenced many of the farmers' wives to cease baking their own bread.

The members of the Guild of the Anglican Church are practising for a play which will be given during the winter. The annual play given by the friends of the Anglican Church is an event which is always looked forward to by the people of this community.

On Tuesday evening, the members of the Union Epworth League are looking ahead with great interest to having a returned missionary from West Africa, in the person of Rev. J. B. Steed, who will address the young folks upon his mission in Africa. The young peoples' league from Bensford will also be present to enjoy the meeting.

A Few Doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup May Stop That Cough

Mr. Frank D. Comeau, West Bathurst, N.B., writes:—"I had a very bad cold and cough that settled on my lungs, and I thought that I would never get rid of it.

One day a friend spoke to me about your wonderful remedy, so I sent and got a bottle of it, and after the first dose I took I got relief, and by the time I had finished the bottle I was completely relieved of all my trouble."

A THOUGHT.

In our happiness we are building a foundation that we may better withstand the sorrows when they come. Happiness is the foundation and then sorrows are the test. What good we have taken from life will be shown in how well we weather the many griefs and disappointments. Fair weather is never a test of the staunchness of a craft. It's the gale that tries the timber.—The Silent Partner.

FUND TO SECURE RUBBER SUPPLY

Appropriation of $10,000,000 For Plantations in Far Corners of World.

FIGHT MONOPOLY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce yesterday authorized the appropriation of $10,000,000 to assure the public and the motor vehicle manufacturers of adequate supplies of rubber at reasonable prices. It was decided to apply for a charter enabling the organization to produce, purchase and deal in rubber.

The plan provides that all automobile manufacturers will be permitted to take stock in the Corporation on the basis of their production in 1925.

The action, Alfred Reeves, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said, was the result of the abnormal price of rubber which ultimately is paid for by the United States consumer, as 70 per cent. of the world's production is used in this country. Safeguarding the future supply of rubber to meet the normal increasing demand for motor transportation and prevention of excessive prices will result, Mr. Reeves said.

It was likely, he said, that some plantations in far corners of the world would be acquired. Small producers of rubber, not held by the British monopoly, he said, could be reached and would sell their rubber if assured of a centralized shipping point where the material could be pooled.

Just where the plantations will be bought or started, Mr. Reeves was not able to say. He asserted that the future supply of rubber must be assured and that the plan probably would be the entering wedge that would aid in the final break-up of the existing exorbitant prices and monopoly by foreign agencies.

COLLAPSE OF ANTHRACITE PEACE CONFERENCE ABRUPT AND BITTER

Every Proposal Toward Solution Rejected— Recrimination By Miners' Leader and Owners For Failure of Negotiations.

158,000 MINERS IDLE FIVE MONTHS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press)—Fruitless discussion for many days on ways to draft a new wage contract brought an end to the anthracite conference Tuesday and indicated the continuation of the strike of 158,000 men and boys for an indefinite period.

At present there appears to be no way out unless the federal government steps in and tries its hand at mediation. Outwardly there has not been the slightest indication that Washington is ready to step in.

The negotiations that came to an abrupt end yesterday were initiated by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, through the mayors and burgesses of the anthracite regions. Today the Governor is expected to lay before the Pennsylvania legislature in extraordinary session his views on the strike situation as it now exists.

The miners and operators left for their homes, and no move will be made by either side to end the industrial struggle that is now in its fifth month. The next step, both sides indicated, must come from the "outside."

The miners before separating issued a call for a meeting of the anthracite scale committee at Hazleton Thursday afternoon. A report of the sub-committee that has been negotiating with the conducting of the strike and the policy of the United Mine Workers will be considered.

Unexpected End

The disruption of the conference, which had been imminent for a week came rather unexpectedly. There appeared to be a better feeling despite the fact that the operators Monday indicated that they had said their last word when they presented a new plan as the "utmost concession" they could make.

When the conferees met yesterday Chairman Alvan Markle, who has no vote in the conference, submitted some communications giving suggestions for ending the strike. Letters and telegrams of this character have been streaming into the conference for days. It was soon evident that neither side had anything further to present.

Finally Gorge Hadesty, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, the largest producing company in the anthracite fields, made the motion to adjourn without day (sine die). The miners refused to second it, stating later to newspapermen that they were present to make a contract, and the motion was seconded by Thomas Thomas, of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. The motion was put and was unanimously adopted. Thus came to an end negotiations that were started in Atlantic City on July 9, broken off on August 4 and resumed in New York on December 29.

The announcement of the break came in a dramatic way. A large force of newspapermen were waiting for word from the conference room when the Rev. J. J. Curren, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., appeared and announced that he was submitting a new plan to the miners and operators. As he was writing a note to the conference requesting an audience, the operators' representative suddenly appeared and simply said: "The conference has adjourned without day."

Instantly the news was flashed in all directions and Father Curren threw up his hands and exclaimed: "This is terribble."

Opponents Recriminate

John L. Lewis then appeared and with his stenographer at his side dictated a statement to the newspapermen placing the responsibility for the failure of the conference to agree and for the continuance of the strike on the operators. Then the operators issued a statement in which all the blame for failure to settle was heaped upon the shoulders of the mine leader, the employers stating that his position was one of "rule or ruin," and that he wanted his "own way or nothing."

The statement of President Lewis was supplemented last night by a more detailed explanation of the miners' position. In this statement Mr. Lewis stated that the settlement of the strike is being resisted by a very small minority of the anthracite producing companies.

Mr. Lewis in his supplemental staement said the operators "stood upon their arbitration rock and mocked our prayers for peace."

Indigestion

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments.

What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easy by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13.—At the inaugural meeting of the Seymour Council the following appointments were made for this year: W. A. Winn, sheep valuator; George Anderson, school attendance officer; J. W. Johnston, member Board of Health; William Cock, school trustee. A road overseer will be appointed at the next meeting of the Council on February 1st.

Mayor Kingston appeared before the Council and notified the members that Reeve Grills had been appointed a member of the War Memorial Committee and that he was supposed to sign the contract for the monument which it is proposed to erect, the other signers being the Mayor and the Regent of the I.O. D.E. On motion of Councillors Innis and Linn, the reeve was authorized to affix his signature as soon as satisfied that the terms of the contract were acceptable.

Percy Oddie was granted $50 to work on Concession 4 and Robert Miller a like amount for improving Concession 7. The usual budget of accounts were passed.

The Council has a dispute with the Belmont Municipal Telephone company over the extension of the latter's line into Seymour township at Trent River, the amount at issue being $30. On motion of Councillors Linn and Innis it was decided to withhold this amount from the sum now due Belmont Township.

PLAN IMPROVEMENT AT TRENT RESORT

Fish and Game Association Members Making Playground at Trent River.

They purpose making a tennis court, ball grounds, bowling green and a general place of amusement for the hundreds of tourists visiting this famous resort annually. There has been a real estate company formed whose work will be to buy and sell property offered for sale, especially some of the many beauty spots up and down main channel of the Trent Valley Canal. Communications have already been received from American tourists wishing to purchase property a short distance down the canal, who plan to erect several large resorts during the near future. Suffered with rheumatism for years

GOT RELIEF FROM RHEUMATISM AT LAST

Spent more than $100 for remedies before help was found

How an obstinate case of rheumatism was given relief by a simple home treatment is told by a man in Los Angeles, California, who suffered for years with rheumatic pain in the feet and back.

"I spent more than $100 for liniments and medicines in twenty-four years," he writes. "Then I used Sloan's Liniment and it gave me complete relief."

And it is amazing—the quick, genuine comfort that Sloan's gives to even the most long-standing rheumatic aches. Sloan's doesn't just deaden pain—it helps your body to throw off the cause.

No need to rub even. A little Sloan's patted lightly on—and a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood begins tingling through the aching place. Before you can believe it, the pain, swelling and stiffness are relieved. Try it! All druggists—35 cents.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS RENEW WAR ON FINANCE MINISTER'S PROGRAM AS MOVE TO UPSET THE CABINET

Definitely Oppose Government Plans and Acclaims Ex-Premier M. Herriot.

EARLY HOSTILITY.

Finance Committee Decide Against M. Doumer's Budget Policy.

PARIS, Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press). — The war between the Government and the principal group of its majority in the Chamber of Deputies broke out again Tuesday even before the Chamber organized for its new session. The Radical group, whose representatives in the Cabinet approved M. Doumer's financial measures just before New Year's, repudiated them yesterday morning and declared they would support the substitute measures unless the Minister of Finance abandoned his bill applying a stamp tax to all business transactions.

The Finance Committee, which is dominated by the Radicals and Socialists, rallied to this declaration of hostilities by deciding to report in favor of maintaining the provisions of the Loucheur bill whereby the three billion francs new taxes levied in the measures adopted just before M. Loucheur resigned were to be held strictly as a guarantee for the retirement of the new bank notes issued at that time. M. Doumer had proposed that this revenue be applied to the regular budget.

Are Definitely Opposed.

Besides taking issue with the Government on these important features of its financial bills, the Finance Committee rejected M. Doumer's idea of balancing the budget and renovating finances at the same time. The committee voted to defer action on the bill for a sinking fund until the budget is out of the way. The coalition which has furnished the Government majority since June, 1924, is thus squarely lined up against its own Government.

The significance of the attitude of the Radicals and Socialists was emphasized by the ovation given M. Herriot when he was declared re-elected President of the Chamber yesterday afternoon. The manoeuvre, as commented on in the Chamber lobbies, appears to be to tire Premier Briand out by opposition on the details of the important measures endorsed by the Cabinet and oblige him to resign and make way for the return of M. Herriot.

Promise Aid to Herriot.

This plan is rendered more difficult by the refusal of the Socialists to go into a coalition government, but it is understood that M. Herriot has the promise of the Socialist leaders to give him the same support in the Chamber as during his first Ministry.

M. Doumer, it is expected, will refuse to be overthrown by the Finance Committee of the Chamber, and, with the backing of M. Briand, will insist that the issue be fought on the floor of the House. The Socialists, who at an early hour on Tuesday morning voted against participation in the Government, felt the first re-action from their decision in the afternoon when one of their vice-presidents of the Chamber, M. Mistral, Mayor of Grenoble, was defeated for re-election.

General Work.

Madam President and members of the Local Branch of the Red Cross Society, I beg to present the following report of the work of the year 1925.

In accordance with the Red Cross peace time policy, this branch has, during the past twelve months, endeavored to educate public opinion to the importance of public health work and to a more general knowledge of public health laws, as well as to aid existing Societies in the carrying out of their programme of health or charitable work by money donations.

Under the able direction of Miss McNaughton, an experienced public health nurse, who was engaged and whose services were paid for by this society, to organize and carry on home nursing classes during the first four months of the year, nine home nursing classes were held at the Public Library, while a tenth successful auxiliary class was conducted at the Y.W.C.A., with Mrs. E. H. Wood as the competent directress. The total enrolment at these classes was 162; of these, 65 per cent. attended over 75 per cent. of the classes, and, accordingly, at an open public meeting and exhibition held in the Public Library Hall on the evening of April 16th, received certificates of proficiency.

To the Women's Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. a donation of $100 was given to further their efforts in charitable work, while to the Well Babies' Clinic, the sum of fifty dollars was contributed.

Once again at Christmas time, at the request of the director of the home nursing service of the Red Cross Society, attractive and substantial boxes were packed and sent to two families of ex-service men living in remote districts of Northern Ontario. New and substantial articles of clothing for the various members of the families as well as staple articles of food and Christmas luxuries were included in the parcels. An appreciative acknowledgment from one of the recipients at Quebell, Ont., has testified to the safe arrival and satisfying nature of the contents.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

Mary I. Kenner,
Recording Secretary.

Connemara was half stunned by the words. Were they spoken through chance, or by a wild guess, or because her head had become uncovered in the furious struggle? She raised searching fingers and found that the bathing-cap effect was still firmly in place. Sweetie asked no greater advantage of the gods of war than this instantaneous truce. She dragged both hands free. One she clapped over Connemara's mouth; the other she reached up to the great key of the front door and turned it. The door swung slightly open with a pathetic squeak.

As far back as Connemara could remember, it had always creaked that way. A cool draft of air laden with the odor of whiskey fanned her nostrils. She sensed some imminent danger more horrible than any that had gone before. The rough, iron fingers of a man encircled her throat and began slowly to tighten. She heard Doc's raucous voice whisper, "Gimme something, Sweetie, to tie her up. This dame has made trouble enough for a while."

CHAPTER XIX.
By John V. A. Weaver.

Sweetie moved quickly, flipped the belt from Connemara's raincoat, and thrust it into Doc's free hand. At the same time, she held out a decidedly grimy handkerchief. Connemara's reeling brain received another jolt. Chloroform!

"Use this," Sweetie was saying rapidly, "we don't want that hell-cat of an aunt she's got to come bouncin' down here with those other dumb eggs. This is just a little private party"—and she leered malevolently at Connemara.

The girl mustered her strength for one last desperate effort. A sickening-sweet odor stole into her nostrils. The pressure upon her windpipe was suddenly freed. She opened her mouth to gasp for the breath which would be expelled in a shriek—and found herself chewing upon the filthy piece of cambric. A strangled snicker shook her. Chloroform—well, hardly. She recognized the odor now—"Quelques Fleurs"—and evidently Sweetie had earlier poured half a bottle upon it. Sweetie would. That was her idea of subtle attraction. Connemara was overcome by the weakness of relief.

Meanwhile Doc was taking advantage of her limpness to truss her hands neatly behind her back. Sweetie dragged a wicker chair up behind the helpless girl, and pushed her firmly into it. Then, with hands on hips, she stood, grimly humorous, surveying the victim.

Connemara gulped. Her throat ached from the choking, her pride was in tatters from the realization of how easily she had been put hors de combat, and the stale perfume was rapidly making her very ill. A large, round tear rolled from each lovely eye and slid quickly down each symmetrical cheek.

Sweetie, beholding the tears, suddenly exchanged her sardonic expression for one of pity. She leaned over, and with the sleeve of her own blouse gently wiped the tears away. Again Connemara was surprised by the complex character of this strange girl of another caste. Two minutes before, nails, teeth and feet used frantically in a desperate struggle; and now—this genuine tenderness.

She listened to what Sweetie was saying: "Don't you fret, dearie. As long as you keep still, nobody's goin' to hurt you. Why can't you mind your own business? That's the only reason you keep gettin' into jams. Some day you're goin' to get into some real trouble."

Connemara, ill as she was becoming, was still capable of a flash of amused wonder. So she hadn't yet been in any real trouble! No, of course not. Such events as those of the last twenty-four hours were mere everyday occurrences in the life of persons like Sweetie and her pleasant companions.

Sweetie continued staring at her thoughtfully. "Listen, Sister. You been pretty square with me. I bet I can trust you if you make a promise. Will you keep your trap shut if I take the hankie out of it? Nod your he if you mean yes."

Connemara's beturbaned head ve ged violently up and down. Swee removed the gag.

Connemara used her first gaspin breath to say, in a low tone, somewhat incoherent with an hysterical giggle, "Just for that I'm going to give you a bottle of decent perfume." Then, before Sweetie could interrupt, "You said I've been pretty square with you. What made you turn on me like this?"

"What did you butt in and try to stop me leavin' for?" the other countered sullenly.

"Well—but you were sneaking off, and I don't understand—" Connemara searched her pseudo maid's face for some explanation.

What she saw in the pursed lips and the cold eyes renewed her apprehension. For, following the girl's glance, she took in the huge form of Doc, who was staring fixedly in the direction of the heavy shrubbery bordering the drive. There was everything in that alert tension, that gorilla-like hunching of the shoulders, to bring the swift thought to her mind: "That 'real trouble' Sweetie was speaking about—this is it, this is it!"

Connemara turned so that she too could focus her gaze upon the dark, overgrown thicket. There—a ghostly figure. No—two! Crouching in the shadows, deathly still.

At a step behind her she jumped and stifled a scream. Twisting around, she beheld the unbeautiful visage of the Swede, who, paying scant attention to her was grinning insolently at Sweetie. What could the return of this ham actor in the all-star cast forebode? She decided to attempt facetiousness.

"Dear, dear," she said, "how jolly! I was afraid I'd never have the pleasure of seeing your funny old face again."

The Swede vouchsafed her hardly a glance. "Shut your face," he growled, without, however, any malice in his voice. He was surveying the open front door as if a new plan were just forming in his mind.

"It's the fifty thousand, of course," drawled Connemara. "What a nice game we're having. Button, button, who's got the money? Sweetie found some way to send word to you, didn't she? I ought to have thought of that."

The Swede allowed himself another baleful grin. "You shoud get a.l worked up about that fifty grand. That's all safe and sound. But, gee—this is some swell dump, I'll tell the cock-eyed world. I think we ought to have a look inside."

He took a step toward the open door. In the same second Sweetie was upon him, clutching his wrist, spinning him around facing her. "You big boob!" she flung at him, "if brains was hooch, what you got is Bevo!"

The Swede jerked his arm angrily. "What's eatin' you? I just thought we might go in and look around—you never can tell——"

Sweetie strengthened her hold upon his arm. "And I used to think 'sap' meant somethin' in a tree," came her scornful insistence. "We got the dough, ain't we? What more do we want? That house is full of people. We got to make our get-away quick."

"Well," began the Swede, "maybe you're right, but I just thought——"

"The next time you start to think—don't," Sweetie finished scathingly. "Come on, Doc. Let's pull our freight. Poochie ain't in on this, I take it. He's a great one for dodgin' the rough stuff. A'wri, we'll be on our way."

QUEEN IS ILL.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 12.—(Canadian Press.)—The health of Queen Victoria of Sweden, has taken a turn for the worse it was announced semi-officially to-day and the court physicians have advised an early trip to a warmer climate.

"Why, Uncle Jim! You look ten years younger!"

"When I saw you a couple of months ago, I made up my mind you were getting old. At least you looked it."

"Yes, Billie, and I felt old. No appetite, couldn't sleep nights—one day just like another, and none of them any good. I knew constipation was at the bottom of it but it seemed the more laxatives I took the worse I got. Then one day I saw Nell giving Nujol to my little grandson. The doctor had prescribed it for the baby, but I found out it's just the thing for old fellows like me, too.

"I tell you, Billie, it keeps me feeling fine all the time. My appetite's back and I sleep like a child. If I look any younger, Nujol gets the credit."

QUEBEC OBJECTS TO INCREASING FEDERAL DEBT BY POWER SCHEME ON ST. LAWRENCE PREMIER SAYS

Would Be Called Upon To Pay Large Part Of It.

REVIEWS PROGRESS.

Canadians Attracted From United States By Quebec Industrial Growth.

QUEBEC, Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press). — Following a few complimentary remarks wherein he welcomed into the House the new members elected last November, Premier Taschereau yesterday made reference to the absence of Hon. E. L. Patenaude. He twitted the leader of the Opposition, Arthur Sauve, with losing his henchman, and said that Mr. Patenaude, "deserting the mandate which had been confided to him by his electors, hoisted to the leadership of a new party, provided with electoral funds by some one whom I don't know—certainly not by Mr. Monty—repudiating in company with his candidates a chief whom they are now all ready to accept, suffered obliteration of himself and his party, witnessed the spectacle of those who had acclaimed him leaving him to his solitude and loneliness, and he delivered his county to the enemy as the crown of his exile."

The Premier turned to the past achievements of the Government and pointed to the roads policy as one that had contributed considerably to the development of the province. Quebec, he said, was on the way to becoming the Switzerland of the American continent. "Automobiles bring to the Provincial treasury over $3,000,000, which is equal to the entire revenue of the province in the early days of Confederation." The multiplication of steel bridges, of hotels, garages and of a thousand new industries had followed on the execution of the roads policy.

Hon. Mr. Taschereau dwelt at length on the liquor laws and believed that half a century from now they would be pointed out as some of the fine accomplishments of the Liberal party.

Less Drunkenness.

"A revenue of $5,000,000 a year, a considerable decrease in drunkenness, the much-desired and substitution of the good wines of France for strong liquors, a model system which our sister provinces are adopting one after the other, and which the highest authorities of the United States proclaim to be the ideal state in face of the bankruptcy of the Volstead Act — this is the balance-sheet of our work," said the Premier.

"Establish total prohibition?" he asked. "Our people will not have it under any circumstances, and, furthermore, experiences of our neighbors have demonstrated the fundamental vice of prohibition."

Hon. Mr. Taschereau quoted the approval with which Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, N.Y., viewed Quebec's liquor law, that "where the United States has failed, Quebec has triumphantly succeeded."

The Premier outlined the success that had attended the Government's social legislation with respect to hospitals and other institutions, and then turned to the question of Hydro-Electric power.

Conserve Water Power.

"Only a few months ago the Government let it be known that it had determined definitely to keep for ourselves this immense natural wealth of our province: namely, electrical energy. Taking note of the marvellous results achieved at Shawinigan Falls and Grandmere, at Three Rivers and La Tuque, at Kenogami and at Jonquieres, on the St. Lawrence and in the eastern townships, we believed that this source of power and riches should be developed and utilized at home.

Criticism has not been lacking, but events have already commenced to show that we were correct. I wonder if it is fully realized what is taking place at the present time on the Saguenay River. American capitalists are about to spend $100,000,000 there, and the greatest aluminum factory in the world will rise there shortly."

There were 2,000 men working on the project at present, and 10,000 houses would shortly be erected for factory workers. A city of 25,000 souls would rise on the borders of the Saguenay in several years. The whole 400,000 h.p. at Ile Maligne was ready for use and 600,000 h.p. more was being developed at Chute a Caron.

Canadians Return.

One effect of these developments was seen in the return of French Canadians who had gone to the United States. "I know of no better repatriation agent than the highway to the factory, attracting our emigrants to return by offering them precisely that which has taken them from us," adder the premier.

Hon. Mr. Taschereau scoffed at the suggestion that the employment of United States capital in Canada would have for its effect the Americanization of the country. He also cited the activities of Lord Rothermere, proprietor of The London Daily Mail, who is undertaking a $12,000,000 paper manufacturing development in Quebec.

"Despite all this activity, there are still some who believe in exporting our electric power to the United States, and this at a time when the Americans are making efforts to come to us for the purpose of joining their capital with ours. So that there may be no misunderstanding on this point, the Speech from the Throne announces the clearly determined policy of the Government, and I have hopes it will receive the approval of the House. However, though we wish to keep this wealth for ourselves, that does not mean that we are afflicted with a provincialism à l'outrance.' We are Canadians and will always be disposed to permit the exportation of our electric energy to the sister provinces, so that they also may benefit and develop from its use. In a short time we will come to an understanding with them, and we are disposed to develop all hydraulic power on bordering waters for the mutual advantages of the two provinces. We especially invite the Province of Ontario to rap at our door. It will be opened to them widely."

Vision of Prosperity.

The Premier predicted a period of glowing prosperity for Quebec due to the Government's policy of conservation of resources.

Dealing with the St. Lawrence waterway project, the Premier insisted that, while not desiring to harm the other provinces, the Quebec Government had nevertheless the "imperious duty of protecting our Quebec patrimony." The last Privy Council judgment on ownership of beds of rivers had given the government "a formidable arm." Quebec did not wish to see additional millions added to the heavy Federal debt, which debt Quebec was called on to meet in large measure.

He touched on the administration's project for obtaining increased grants for education from the natural resources, and asked for the support of the House in giving effect to it.

The Premier concluded:

"In 25 years we have raised the revenue of Quebec from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000; we ave built a network of roads throughout the province; our dams are the best in the world, and commerce and industry have taken an unhoped for flight. We have incorporated 779 companies this year, with an aggregate capital of $134,939,918. We may claim for ourselves the evidence of having created confidence among our people, or having inspired them with an optimism of a high standard, of having awakened energies that were slumbering and with having opened up new horizons."

Why He Succeeded

From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated in 1862, was the course which Dr. R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new oil fields near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus early moved to Buffalo, N.Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, barks and herbs and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During the last sixty years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, in Bridgeburg, Ont.

BRITAIN SPARED A RAIL STRIKE

National Wages Board Gives Award Accepted By Men.

COMPANIES ALSO.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The threatened British railway strike will not materialize. There are those who profess to see in this favorable signs for other industries as well, for the dispute between the railway management and the employes has been carried out with every evidence of moderation and self-control.

A year ago the situation was not promising and the prediction was freely offered that the outcome would be a general tie-up of transportation which would be aggravated by a simultaneous strike of mineworkers, who were known to be dissatisfied not only with their wage scale, but with their working conditions as well.

In December, 1924, the National Union of Railwaymen and the Railway Clerks' Association made a demand for increase of wages. This was refused by the companies, who claimed that such an increase of expenses would wipe out all dividends and make necessary retrenchments which would cripple the transportation services of the country. In addition, the railway general managers, after conference on the subject, submitted a counter-proposal for material reduction of wages. Thus the gap between the opposing forces seemed to widen hopelessly.

The Other Role.

Curiously enough, the railways now took up the role of the aggrieved party. A statement issued by the Stockholders' Association of one of the largest corporations pointed out that wages had been increased to meet the high cost of living, but railway dividends were kept at the old rate, being subject to Government control. "Railway shareholders," said the statement, "are mostly poor people with small holdings, and nothing is done for them to meet the increased cost of living. It is in the general interest that capital invested in railways should be remunerative, as there are large schemes in prospect, among them the electrification of the systems, which will involve heavy capital expenditure. This capital can not be raised if railway investments are unremunerative."

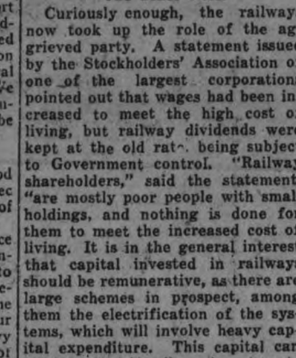
Fortunately the Government has machinery for dealing with such matters and the dispute was referred to the National Wages Board. After long deliberation and careful investigation, the board's finding was in favor of a reduction of wages for all new employes, but against any reduction of pay for those already in the service.

Backed by Men.

The leaders of the railwaymen responded to this with good will. A message was issued by the national executives which read in part: "With a full sense of our responsibility, we recommend our members to accept the findings of the National Wages Board. We urge every member to co-operate whole-heartedly with the management so to promote the efficiency of the railway service as to attract to the railways the maximum amount of potential traffic in the country and so assist to restore in the most natural way the prosperity of the industry on which members depend to provide them with the means of livelihood."

The settlement of this vexed question is received as good augury for the revival of industry in Great Britain during the coming year.

Miss Elsie Hurst, who only a few months ago was working as a skirt-maker in a sweat-shop, has just scored a sensational success as a concert singer in London.



ALTERATION IN SCHOOL RIGHTS LAWYER AVERS

I. F. Hellmuth Opens Argument in Separate School Claims.

$95,000 SOUGHT.

Mr. Tilley Represents Ontario Government in Test Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—In seeking a declaration based on petition of rights presented in the non-jury assize recently on behalf of the Tiny separate school board, the suit is being entered on behalf of all the separate schools of the province, according to I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for the suppliants. Mr. Hellmuth declared that for 43 years, from confederation to 1906, the rights of the separate school supporters remained unchanged, but from 1906 to 1924 there had been a steady alteration made until the original rights granted under confederation had been quite obscured.

In suing, among other things, for the balance of certain moneys of the school grants claimed for the Tiny separate school the suppliants have as further objective the sum of $95,000 paid in to court in 1922 as moneys of the schools' grant which the act said should go into consolidated revenue fund. The provincial authorities were doubtful themselves, so the money went into court, where it remains until a decision is arrived at.

The separate school supporters claim exemption from certain taxes, but also claim a larger proportion of the school grants, which they allege are incorrectly divided.

The money in past days was divided as they thought it should be divided. The reports might be nice to read as history but everything must get back to the statutes. The reports would only embarrass the case.

Mr. Hellmuth claimed the statutes did not need to be put in as evidence —they proved themselves.

Entitled to Share.

"I do not agree we have to look only to the statutes of 1863," he said. "Our rights are by law and the whole body of law. For 43 years the division of these grants was according to the plain meaning of the statute. I submit I am entitled to show what was done and how the grants were apportioned and when first the legislature began to vary the practice."

Mr. Justice Rose: "I understand, Mr. Tilley, you say that if you have a statutory law by right you have it and it is not necessary to go outside the statute to prove that right."

Mr. Hellmuth pointed out that he wished to show what was actually done in the 43 years he was referring to. He then quoted chapter 64 of the act of 1859 as being the separate school act.

Mr. Tilley pointed out that parts of this act were repealed as they affected Protestant schools but not as affecting separate schools.

Mr. Hellmuth went on to trace the evolution of this section to section 20 of the act of 1863—when to this section granting the separate school a share of all common school grants was added a clause, "and of all public grants." This, he claimed, was the law by which the separate schools were entitled to their share.

On Population Basis.

By the common school act of 1859 it was the duty of the superintendent of education to apportion the grants to the common schools on a population basis as compared with the whole population of Upper Canada. Thus with section 20 of the act of 1863, a method was provided for the apportionment of the grants to the municipalities.

Mr. Tilley referred to section 3 of this act by which the common school fund of the township was distributed but Mr. Hellmuth said that this referred to the amount which must be raised by the township equal to its legislative grant. Both these formed the common school fund. There was no obligation, however, on the separate schools to raise this township fund. They were to get their share of the common school fund without this obligation.

It was clear that no township, city, town or village common school could get its share of the legislative grant unless it had raised an equal sum locally, but the separate schools were under no such obligation. This was provided by an act of 1853, but any separate school supporter contributing to the separate school a sum equal to that of common school supporters they were exempt from special taxation with reference to the sum for the legislative grant. Other separate school obligations were dropped by the Tache act.

Section Repeated.

Mr. Tilley stated that these provisions of 1853 were dropped in the acts of 1859 or 1863. Mr. Hellmuth said he did not intend to refer further to the act of 1853 but to an act of 1862.

In the consolidation acts of 1877, 1887 and 1897 no change was made in the method of distributing the fund and he intended to show when this change came.

Mr. Justice Rose: "At what date subsequently to confederation was there an act dealing with the method of distribution?"

Mr. Hellmuth: "Not until 1877. In chapter 206 of the revised statutes of 1897 the clause was practically in the identical words of 1863, 'That all public schools shall be entitled to a share in all public grants, investments and allotments,' except that the word 'public' succeeded the word 'common.'"

In 1887 the act repeated verbatim the section in the statutes of 1877. In 1897 again there was the identical repetition.

Was Missing Comma.

In 1874 there was a clause corresponding to the one in the act of 1859 providing for the division of the grants by the superintendent of education. In the act of 1887 the minister of education was named in the act to supervise the distribution.

Mr. Tilley drew attention to the house in this clause dealing with moneys "not otherwise appropriated by law to the courts, etc." A missing comma after law was taken for granted, but Mr. Hellmuth stated he would have more to say about the phrase "not otherwise appropriated by law" as he believed it was appropriated in behalf of the separate schools.

Mr. Tilley claimed the act of 1863 didn't limit the amount given the township, but did insist each school got a share of township money.

Mr. Hellmuth quoted from the act of 1863 a clause providing for returns as to attendance of separate schools and that the superintendent of education had to apportion to them the moneys due. He determined the amount due to both common and separate schools.

The first statute subsequent to 1863 which varied the apportionment of the grants was the department of education act of 1906.

Mr. Hellmuth then read at length from his brief with reference to the present practise of apportioning the grant.

"But I submit," he said emphatically, "that no regulations they make can affect our grant. That is fixed. They may compel us by mandamus to follow certain regulations, but they cannot take away our grant."

The change in the system of distribution had been gradual since 1906, said counsel. In 1907 provision was made for the apportionment on a more complicated basis having regard to teachers' salaries, equipment and many other things. In this act the money was made payable to the treasurer of the municipality, whereas by the act of 1863 it was payable direct to the trustees of the separate schools.

In 1909, the Education Act repealed the act of 1906 and the amendment of 1907. By this act it was the duty of the minister of education to apportion the general grant on a basis of population, making, however, a subdivision as between urban and rural populations. The amount was to be divided in the townships and as between public and separate schools on an average attendance basis. Counsel claimed the separate schools were entitled to a higher average than at present computed.

Were Special Grants

There were also special grants provided by this act on a basis of the grade of the teachers and their length of experience. The grants were also to be paid to the rural separate schools on the warrant of the inspector of separate schools. Also the amount of the municipal school taxation was taken into account and counsel claimed this latter had nothing whatever to do with the separate schools.

The act of 1910 amended the act of 1909 providing that the appointment should be so divided that a sum should be given the separate school on a basis of the ratio of the separate school attendance to the total attendance of both public and separate schools, the residue to go to the public schools.

"Thus there has been wiped out any territorial basis of division," said Mr. Hellmuth. "There might be a section that had no separate school. Under the old act the money was given to a separate school as one in a district or township."

Just as Objectionable.

Provision was made that such money not required to be paid public and separate schools as the basis given should lapse into the consolidated fund. This was what happened to the $95,000 in 1922 about which there is questioning. But as there was a dispute it was paid into court instead of the consolidated revenue fund.

In 1914 the act was consolidated and in 1922 other conditions were added providing that the assessment of the property of the separate school supporters was to be taken into consideration. The act had been amended since but the act of 1922 was in effect when this action was started.

"The act of 1924 is just as objectionable to my clients," said Mr. Hellmuth, "but it does not effect this specific petition."

Mr. Tilley pointed out that the act of 1924 would have to be taken into consideration. The main purpose of this action was to have the legislation now in effect passed upon. Mr. Hellmuth agreed to this but had been in doubt as to whether it could be brought in with reference to the claims of 1922.

Mr. Justice Rose pointed out that the act of 1924 was mentioned in the petition of rights and must be considered.

Mr. Hellmuth quoted the provisions act of 1924 with reference to making the appointments of the grants. While the Tiny school was a rural school the present suit was on behalf of all the separate schools in the province. There were references in the act to special grants and counsel claimed there couldn't be any special grants.

MANITOBA FARM WOMEN AGAINST CADET TRAINING

Declare Their Unalterable Support of Prohibition at Convention.

PROVINCE IS WET.

Illicit Sale of Liquor in Every Manitoba Town.

BRANDON, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—The United Farm Women of Manitoba met in annual convention here Tuesday and expressed their opinions on reforms demanded in the interests of home life, education, immigration and other matters.

The women expressed their unalterable support of the total prohibition movement, declared for equal rights with men as regards succession duties, expressed themselves opposed to the cadet training system in the schools and asked the Dominion Government to alter the naturalization laws to make them fairer to women.

At the conclusion of the day's sessions the delegates re-elected Mrs. S. E. Gee, Virden, president, for a second term, and accorded a like honor to Mrs. Albert McGregor, Keys, Man., vice president. Mrs. Gee was re-elected by acclamation. Mrs. E. J. Blow, Winnipeg, was defeated when she contested the re-election of Mrs. McGregor.

The first action taken by the convention came at the morning session after an address by W. R. Wood, secretary of the Manitoba Prohibition Alliance, in which he charged that the illicit sale of liquor had reached to every town in the province and that as a result the young people of both sexes were taking part in drunken parties and debauchery.

The convention unanimously passed a resolution re-affirming the stand of the united farm women for complete prohibition.

Succession Duties.

The report on legislation resulted in the passage or resolutions urging an inter-provincial arrangement to prevent over-lapping of succession duties in the various provinces and recommended that succession duties be graded according to the number of dependents in the family. Mrs. Gee, in making the report, pointed out that at present succession duties may be collected in two and even more provinces, and that the duty is the same whether there is one dependent or ten. She also reported that steps were being taken to rectify the inequality in the law whereby if a man dies, the wife pays succession duties, but in the case where the wife dies first, the husband has no such responsibility.

From Cabin Boy to Fleet Manager

One of the best known authorities in marine circles, Captain John Thomas Walsh, manager of the Canadian Pacific Steamships in Montreal, has retired after twenty-two years of service with the Company. He will be retained only in an advisory capacity while Captain W. J. McGiffin, who has been marine superintendent, becomes general superintendent.

Starting out as an apprentice at the age of 16 on an old windjammer, some fifty years later Captain Walsh had risen to the position of manager of one of the principal Atlantic steamship companies at one of its most important ports. He came to Canada in 1904 a year after the Canadian Pacific service absorbed the Elder Dempster lines by whom the captain had been employed. The latter became manager at Montreal in July 1919.

Captain McGiffin, successor of Captain Walsh, joined the Canadian Pacific service in 1908 and resigned seven years later to enter the service of the Allan line. He returned to the Canadian Pacific when the Allan Line was absorbed by the Canadian Pacific.

The legislation report indicated the advance in the past year in divorce legislation, naturalization laws and laws effecting child welfare and juvenile delinquency.

The separate women's convention ended last night, and this morning the women and men delegates will unite in the annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba. The sessions of the convention will continue until Saturday night.

Fitch Fur Trims This Wine Color Woolen Suit.

Wine color has come in for a large share of popularity this season.

The model above chooses wine for its color, and the lines of the garment follow the lines of the two-piece suit. The skirt is a plain affair with seams at the sides. The coat is marked by its unusual collar, and its sleeves which flare ever so slightly at the wrists.

Fitch, the fur whose black and yellow tones contrast perfectly with the rich wine of the woolen material, is used for the narrow band trimming.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A LOVELY EVENING FROCK.

Pam confided to me yesterday that she had had some lovely flesh-colored velvet given to her for a Christmas present and that she had not yet made it up.

"Granny always gives me some kind of material for Christmas," she added. "She has done it ever since I was quite young, to encourage me in designing."

"Then why wait till next year to make it up, if you are sure of another such gift next Christmas?" I asked.

"I'm not waiting, silly," Pam returned. "I'm telling you about it so you can help me plan a party frock."

"I shall be delighted to do so immediately," I assured her. "You should make it as soon as possible, because you ought to wear a velvet as much as you can during Winter months," I reminded her.

"Thats true, admitted Pam. "However, people seem to wear light-colored velvets late into the Spring.

"How about a bustle frock?' I asked.

"Funny thing, I was thinking of that, Pam answered. "From all indications I think it should be a bustle model.

We decided that the smartest bustle frocks simply indicated a bustle at the back without really having one there, and then we fell to work on our idea.

We had such fun planning the frock that I am going to preserve this copy of it here in my diary.

Pam started out by saying:

"You know I m feeling very poor this season, and I simply can t afford more than an ounce of trimming for this dress.

"How about a string of pink roses?' I suggested.

"If I can buy them at cost from the stock-room I could go that much,' Pam answered.

"Sure, Madame will let you do that," I assured her.

The result is the model I'm showing, plus a bit of delicate gold lace at the back that Pam produced from nowhere.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

It is true that the busy woman has not much time to put into taking personal care of herself. I have noticed that it is also true that the so-called busy woman often is the one who never lets down her standard of personal grooming.

It seems to me that this is because the woman who is busiest must systematize her time, and in this system of things she allows just so much time for taking care of her own looks, of which she realizes the importance. She allows a certain amount of time for it morning and evening, and she spends this time taking beauty measures to improve herself.

I have often heard young women who have jobs remark that they get so much more done in every way when they are working so many hours a day, than when they stayed at home and did not go out to business.

The secret of this, I am convinced, lies in the fact that they systematize their activities. When they must be on the job during the day, they find it necessary to think ahead and plan out their home activities and their beautifying methods. Thus they have a definite time for each thing, and they do it at that definite time, realizing that it would be some time before they could again plan a moment for the neglected duty.

In this system of planning which I recommend most highly, one must employ a certain amount of discrimination. For instance, there may be a certain Saturday afternoon when you want very much to go to the movies, but you know it is the best time possible for you to stay at home and wash your hair. The discrimination comes in when you decide whether it is best for you to go to the movie, or stay at home and make your hair lovely so you will appear at your best at the evening party you are going to.

Then again, you may want to finish that fascinating novel you are reading some evening, instead of grooming your nails and getting your allotted time of beauty sleep.

It's up to you to decide which pursuit will give the best returns. If you decide to finish the novel, be sure the loss of an hour or so of beauty sleep is worth the pleasure that the book gives you.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

By S. T. Williamson.

For forty-eight years she lived, apparently, a blameless life. One of her ancestors was a blind hymn writer; another was a great dictionary maker. She was born when President Andrew Jackson was turning the rascals out and when one of her relatives, a professor, was experimenting with the transmission of signals along an electric wire, which brought him honor and a bust in the Hall of Fame.

While she was completing her schooling, General Scott's soldiers were returning from Mexico, and other adventurers, roaring forth "Oh, Suzannah," crowded into ships and prairie schooners bound for California gold fields. And while a great Civil War loomed on the horizon and a man named Lincoln had the effrontery to debate with Stephen A. Douglas she was teaching Latin to prim New England schoolgirls.

But in the days of Rutherford B. Hayes and his temperance wife, when hoopskirts were shrinking into bustles and when even furniture was not respectable unless covered with haircloth or red plush, she went wrong. She was 48, and her real career was ahead of her.

A wealthy but innocent soapmaker had been swindled out of half a million dollars by some of his employees. He knew where the money had gone, but he lacked evidence sufficient to cause the arrest of the guilty ones. One day, a middle-aged woman of th New England school teacher type called, and, representing herself as a detective, assured the honest soapmaker that she could get the information he wanted if he advanced enough money for her expenses.

The outcome proved to both the soapmaker and the descendant of the blind hymn writer the truth of Barnum's business maxim about the high birth rate among suckers. The former was out $19,000 more and it was not by a coincidence that the latter was richer by the same amount.

What followed sounds more like a typical case in modern criminal jurisprudence. When the soapmaker caused the woman's arrest a lunacy commission discovered that she was a raving maniac and she was committed to an asylum. But when the plaintiff dropped the case a remarkable cure was effected. The patient recovered her reason and her freedom.

Her late experience was a great lesson to her as well as an encouragement. When she left the asylum it was with the evident resolution not to have business relations with honest men when there were swindlers who could be deceived by a pedantic, elderly woman in sober black bombazine. That resolution was frequently broken, for some chances were too good to be missed—but they were dangerous. When a crook is fleeced he hesitates to go to court about it.

A case in point was that of a receiver of stolen goods. Despite the fact that he was one of the keenest men in his profession he was completely taken in by her apparent honesty, and without hesitation advanced her several thousand dollars on the security of a receipt for a safe deposit vault, in which, she said, she kept her family diamonds.

She took considerable satisfaction in the exploit and once said that willingly would she have given up half her profits from the affair to see the face of the fence when he opened the empty vault.

Another of her achievements was the taking in of a patent medicine manufacturer—a true instance of gilding the lily. She convinced this individual that in Jay Gould's office had a friend who knew every financial move of that wily stock operator. The maker of cure-alls saw the point immediately, as well as riches before Wall Street speculation, based on inside information. He invested several thousand dollars before he discovered that the stocks Gould sold were the ones he had been advised to buy.

But her most altruistic adventure was her assistance in the capture of Julius Columbani, a notorious forger, an episode in which she employed some of her best confidence game methods. This brought her the appreciation of Inspector Byrnes, originator of the third degree.

"When I say that she was a good woman," he explained, "I mean that she was good in the sense that men like Johnny Hope, the burglar, George Wilkes, the international forger, were good men in their lines. In that sense I don't think I ever knew a better man. A harder worker or a woman in her profession than she don't believe ever lived."

It was only natural that such endorsement was instrumental in crowning her the "Confidence Queen," although there was an age when other queens were doddering dowagers.

She succeeded in keeping out of jail for seven years after the adventure with the gullible soap maker, but in 1885 went to Auburn for four years. After another seven-year stretch of freedom, in which she left a trail of swindling operations that reads like a record of business failures, she was sent up again.

She was 72 when she came out, and well merited the emeritus rank of Dowager Confidence Queen. The cunning hand had not lost its cunning, however, for in 1909 she stood up in a New York City court before Judge Crain, who sentenced her to ten years in prison, as she was nearly 80 at the time, presumably to death. A kind-hearted Governor pardened her when she was 82 under the impression that at that age she had learned her lesson. Nevertheless, she was back in a cell again at the ripe old age of 84.

Then she retired and did not appear in the news again for ten years. One night the fire department of a village a few miles up the Hudson was celebrating the eighty-fifth birthday of its chief and the seventieth year of his fire-fighting service. An alarm was turned in and the celebration adjourned to the outskirts of the village, where, amid the flames from a burning cottage, the aged chief directed the rescue of the building's sole occupant, a 95-year-old woman.

Mrs. Ellen Peck, 95 years old, once called the "world's most dangerous woman swindler," was carried unconscious from her burning cottage at Sparkill, N.Y., by firemen. Mrs. Peck first attracted attention in 1878 when she was charged with having fleeced B. T. Babbitt, a millionaire soap manufacturer, of $19,000. The fire destroyed valuable relics that once belonged to Noah Webster and Samuel F. B. Morse, both of whom were relatives of Mrs. Peck.

A STORY WITHOUT WORDS

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid" indigestion.

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Coolness often results from hot words.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Every week or so some young mother writes to ask advice about weaning her baby. She wants to know how to decide when it is time to take the infant off the breast and to give it the bottle.

The best sign is the baby himself. If he is prospering and the mother is well, the breast feeding may continue.

A normal, healthy infant gains from six ounces to a half pound in weight every week for the first year. Later, the gain is not so great. It may be from three ounces to six ounces every week. So long as the child makes consistent gain, to about this extent, there is no occasion for worry.

A healthy child sleeps most of the time. He is apt to fall asleep during his feeding, or immediately afterward. During the first half year of life he will be likely to sleep twenty hours every day.

If the feeding is ample and of good quality, the bowels act regularly. There is no gas formation and no distress. Vomiting and severe crying are absent.

I wouldn't give a cent for a baby that never cried. There is something wrong with a vocally silent infant, just as there is with one that cries most of the time. The usual allowance for crying in a healthy child is a sum total of an hour a day.

I have told you how to tell whether or not the infant is prospering. The reverse of these good signs and symptoms will warn you that the child is not doing well. Then, of course, bottle feeding must be considered.

Fretfulness, crying, moaning and vocal protests for hours at a time are signs of trouble. Whining and crying during nursing are pretty sure signs of the lack of a nourishing supply of milk.

Vomiting, infrequent or over-frequent stools, and general appearance of ill-health are other evidences of the need of better feeding.

Perhaps the best reason for taking the child off the breast and placing him on the bottle, is loss of weight, or failure to gain in weight.

Just as gain in weight and strength is a sign of well-being, so the reverse is a sure reason for suspecting that the quality or quantity may not be right. When the baby fails to progress physically it is time for bottle feeding.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

PEGGY HAS A CHAT WITH MOTHER DEER.

Peggy stopped to look at the lovely deer imprisoned behind the fence in the zoo.

"Oh, you poor thing!" she said out loud. "I hate to see them cage you up alone this way," and Peggy's eyes filled with tears. "Don't you ever get lonesome for your wild life?"

"Gracious me! No," laughed the lovely deer. "Why should I, with my two babies with me?" She made a whining noise and out from under the bushes bounded two of the prettiest little deer Peggy had ever seen.

The color of their dresses was just the same light tan as that of their mother, but they were spotted where their mother's gown was a plain tan.

"Oh, you dear little fellows!" exclaimed Peggy. "But what's the idea of the spotted dresses, Mrs. Deer?"

"For their own protection, my dear," answered Mrs. Deer, kissing each youngster in turn. "You see, the spots look like sunlight and shadows when they are lying down on the ground, so they often fool the hunter."

"But will they always dress that way?" asked Peggy. "Why don't you wear a spotted dress?"

"Because I rather like a plain dress," replied Mrs. Deer. "You see, when these youngsters get to the age they are able to take care of themselves, their suits will change to a plain dress like mine. Now, when I go away and tell them to lie still until I come home, they lie under the trees. The sunlight, through the leaves of the trees, casts yellow patches on the ground and you can't tell the patches of real sunlight from the spots on my babies' backs. One thing I can say, they mind beautifully and never move until I come back."

"I Like a Plain Dress."

"But don't you get homesick sometimes, for the wilds?" asked Peggy.

"I never do," replied Mrs. Deer. "Here, when it snows, we have our food brought to us. Out in our wild life, when it snows, we have to go out and hunt for food. Of course, then we live in what we call a yard. This is a space we make by tramping down the snow, all around our home, so we can get to the twigs and evergreen leaves, that we eat during the cold season. Here we don't have to be wondering if we'll get back to the house safely when we go out.

"In my old home, we never knew, when any of us went out in search of food whether we'd get home alive or not. Of course, we can run and swim pretty fast, but we have to watch for the hunters and their dogs. Besides, there are wolves, panthers and bears that certainly do love to catch us napping.

"No, I'm perfectly happy here. I know when people stop beside my fence that they stop in a friendly spirit. Now if you'll excuse me, I'll go about my work." Then nodding her pretty head, Mrs. Deer and her babies ran off across the fields out of sight.

Peggy waited some time for them to return, then she ran on to visit with the other folks of the Zoo.

Three-Minute Journeys

Temple Manning

WHERE THE AIRPLANE TAKES THE PLACE OF THE DOG.

Today They Fly Over Mountains.

The frozen North has always been a most intriguing spot to anybody who has the spark of curiosity about strange places. There is something fascinating in this land, shut off by the merciless forces of nature from contact with the rest of the world.

It takes all the ingenuity and courage of the modern explorer, to tackle the vast stretches of tightly locked ice that block the way to the land of the Eskimos.

But now that the airplane is taking its recognized place in the equipment of the explorer, it is becoming a simpler matter to visit the Polar regions even though it is still a matter of courage and stress to attempt a trip of that sort. It was only a matter of a few years ago that the explorers in this region had to push their way laboriously through the waist-deep snow on dog-sledges, yelling at the dogs and pushing at the sleds until they were hoarse and worn out. And at that they made very little progress.

But today they can fly over the snow-capped mountains and look down into the valleys where they struggled along so bravely a few short years before. It is not smooth sailing, of course. There is a great deal of danger attached to the venture. For if something should go wrong with their machines the aviators may be lost for weeks and weeks without any chance of aid.

The people of Eskimo Land are most colorful in their warm costumes. Sealskin, fox and eider-duck breast skins form their costumes. A blouse of sealskin with its necessary hood at the back in which the babies are carried, serves to keep out the snow and rain. Under that is another blouse of the eider duck breast skins for warmth. Then there are short trousers of fox skin almost completely covered by boots of frost-bleached sealskin which cover the entire legs.

It is the women's duty to provide clothing in the Northlands. They must prepare the skins which their hunters bring them. They must treat them and sew them into the necessary garments. Even the boots are the products of their deft fingers and when the boots wear through the women must know how to repair them.

One of the interesting things about the way the Eskimo women sew is the fact that they use their jaws to such a large extent. It is difficult, of course, to sew on skins and one must have a firm grip on the thread. Since the jaw gives the firmest possible grip, they utilize this implement of nature to make their sowing firm and lasting.

SAFETY COMMITTEE DOES GOOD WORK

Appeals for Support of Employees of Deloro Plant.

MARMORA, Jan. 13.—The Safety First Committee at Deloro has accomplished much in the comparatively short time it has been in existence. The number of minor accidents has greatly diminished and good use is made of the suggestion box in each of the various plants so that the elimination of many risks has been brought about. Sub committees meet with utmost regularity and suggestions for the safer working of machinery receive fullest consideration. The management has unsparingly co-operated with the committee in bringing about desired improvements. The continued co-operation of the employees in this humanitarian work is further solicited in the following New Year's letter, addressed to each of the staff and employees:

The Safety First Committee wishes you a Happy New Year, and as wish that all your experiences in 1926 may tend to insure your welfare and happiness we are, therefore, wishing you a safe New Year—free from sickness and from any injury by accident.

This letter addressed to all employees of the Company, is part of a plan to bring home to each employee just how important the Safety First idea is to him. If each individual workman can be convinced that he has an important part to play in making the working conditions of the plant free from any menace to safety—and if each workman will do his part—our objective will be gained.

Please ask yourself these questions:

Am I careful of my personal safety in everything I do?

Does my work—or my way of working—ever put other in danger?

Am I liable to accident, in any way, from the wrong methods of others.

Am I taking proper care of my helath?

Are both my hearing and eyesight good, or can they be improved by medical attention?

What can I do for the Safety First movement?

Fellow workman you are asked to help in this good cause. Think about it. Work for it. Do your part.

Again wishing you a Happy and Safe New Year.

THE DELORO SMELTING & REFINING CO. SAFETY FIRST COMMITTEE.

P.S.—If you have any suggestion or recommendations to make at this time, please write them on the attached sheet and drop them into the "Suggestion Box."

ARTICLE No. 26

In the great majority of hands the proper lead is not difficult. Every now and then, however, a player will hold a hand that puzzles him as to the lead. The correct decision in such cases means a game saved or at least a trick or so. The writer noted three such hands the other evening and in every one of them the correct opening lead made a tremendous difference.

Hand No. 1

Hearts — K, J, 7, 2
Clubs — Q, J, 8, 4
Diamonds — 4
Spades — A, Q, 9, 4

Y
A B
Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one diamond, A doubled, Y bid three diamonds, and B three spades. Z bid four diamonds, A four spades, Y five diamonds and B and Z passed. A doubled and all passed. What should A open? This is certainly a difficult hand. If he hadn't forced his partner to bid by his informatory double of one diamond, the ace of spades would be the logical opening, but as B's bid is in answer to A's double, A is not justified in assuming that B holds the king of spades. Both the club and heart leads are questionable so the proper lead seems to be the four of diamonds. The fact that A holds three suits, all of which he would prefer to have led to him, makes the trump opening with this hand the ideal one. As a matter of fact, it was the only opening that would have saved game. With this opening the five diamond bid was defeated one trick.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — K, J, 6, 2
Clubs — 8, 3, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 10, 6
Spades — Q, 6

A B
Z

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one club, A and Y passed and B bid one spade. Z and A passed and Y bid four clubs. B bid four spades, Z doubled, A passed, Y bid five clubs, B and Z passed. A doubled and all passed. What should A open? In this hand the trump opening seems the ideal one. With the trump opening, the five club bid can be defeated two tricks. With any other opening, it can be defeated only one trick. Note that in both of these hands the bidding of both opponents indicated very clearly that they held practically all of the trump strength, so that a trump opening would not cause A's partner to lose a trump trick. Don't make trump openings unless having three suits well protected and unless you know that the opening will not make your partner lose a trump trick. They are perfect in hands as just given out, but should be used with great discretion.

Hand No. 3

Hearts — none
Clubs — 6, 5
Diamonds — K, J, 10, 8, 4, 3
Spades — K, 10, 9, 8, 2

A B
Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid four hearts, A and Y passed, B doubled and all passed. What should A open? A should open the spade suit. If Z's preemptive bid of four hearts is correct, it should indicate weakness in spades, the other major suit. If that is correct, A would be leading up to weakness in Z's hand, always a good play. The only other choice A has is the diamond lead and that seems a bad opening. A has a minor tenace in diamonds and should wait for a lead in that suit from B. There really seems no choice but for A to lead spades. The lead should be either the eight of spades, fourth best, or the ten of spades, the top of the intermediate sequence. The spade opening will defeat the four heart bid by two tricks but the diamond opening will enable YZ to make five odd in hearts, quite a difference.

Problem No. 13

Hearts — J
Clubs — 4, 2
Diamonds — 10, 7, 3
Spades — A, Q, 9

Hearts — none Clubs — 6, 5, 3 Diamonds — K, 8, 6 Spades — 10, 6, 5	Y A B Z	Hearts — none Clubs — K, J, 9, 7 Diamonds — J, 9, 5 Spades — J, 8

Hearts — none
Clubs — A, Q, 10, 8
Diamonds — A, Q, 2
Spades — K, 7

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can YZ win eight of the nine tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

JOHN WARNE GATES—THE WALL STREET PLUNGER.

When John Warne Gates retired from Wall Street there was a long sigh of relief in many circles—but it made newspaper columns less exciting.

When old-timers on the Street tried to tie him up as they did again and again, they never caught him napping. Gates had an elaborate system of getting advance information of things that would affect Wall Street, and he played the game with dash and courage and a certain barbaric splendor and freedom that caused other speculators many a mauvais quart d'heure.

It was not unusual for him to carry twenty-five and thirty millions of dollars' worth of stock on a margin in an active market.

"Life is a gamble," said he. But as he amassed a huge fortune while living up to his philosophy it is possible that his battlecry, "Bet you a million!" was only his way of concealing his shrewdness.

Gates was born in 1855 on a farm at Turner's Junction, Ill., where his father owned a hardware store. Young Gates' first venture was a contract to husk corn for a neighbor, the second a timber contract. And when we see the lad measuring the cubic contents of the trees in that tract we glimpse the real Gates and know the secret of his success.

At the store he observed the increasing demand for barbed wire, then a new-fangled fence just put on the market. After a lot of hard thinking he bought the State rights from the manufacturer, went to San Antonio, Tex., where he put up a barbed wire corral and turned twenty-five range steers into it. When the show was over he got more orders than Elwood's factory could fill.

Gates then began manufacturing wire, but deciding that it was more profitable to create stock companies, he organized The Southern Wire Co. with a capitalization of $50,000. After several reorganizations it was sold to the Federal Steel Co. in 1898 for $4,000,000. With the organization of the United States Steel Corporation in 1901, the American Steel & Wire Co., a Gates concern, was one of its chief subsidiaries.

The rest of his career was a story of consolidations and speculations, daily growing bigger and broader. He was identified with numerous industrial enterprises, railroads, steamship companies and banks.

INCREASED BUSINESS REPORTED BY GENERAL MOTORS COMPANY

Industry at Oshawa Reveals Growth During Last Year.

VALUE TO CANADA

Company Has Become Important Factor in Economic Life.

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 13.—A summary of the year's operations of General Motors Company of Canada, Limited, shows a marked stepping up in the business, compared with 1924. During the year just closed, the amount paid by the customers of the General Motors for the purchase in Canada of the various types of cars and parts produced by this company ran to $34,044,048, while the corresponding figures for the year previous were $26,000,000. The sums in each year include the freight and taxes, and they represent the amounts which the company's dealers received from their customers who live in Canada, either in the form of cash or in old cars turned in on the purchase of new ones.

But perhaps the most interesting feature of the year's operations of General Motors is the fact that this company left more money in Canada than it took out. The amount received from customers, in cash or used cars, was the $34,044,048 mentioned above, while the actual money which the company left in the country reached $35,733,390. This, however, does not represent a loss on operations, but is due to the fact that 40 per cent. of the manufacturing done in Canada is for the export trade, and that, in turn, means that General Motors carried on a manufacturing business here which meant the purchase of material and labor in Canada for articles sold in the export market, to an extent which offsets the materials imported for the cars sold in the domestic market.

Value of the Industry.

The outline of the year's operations, as presented by Mr. R. S. McLaughlin, president of the company, is interesting from the standpoint of showing how the standpoint of showing how the $35,733,390 was distributed. And it shows at the same time the value to Canada of industries of this scope. The $35,733,390 was made up as follows: Money paid for material purchased from Canadian manufacturers, $9,942,369; money paid to employes, $5,187,859; dealers' gross profit, from which they paid their mechanics, salesmen, rent, taxes, and from which they took their net profits, $8,289,243; money paid to the Government for duty on imported parts, sales tax, excise tax and other taxes, $5,498,463; money paid to the railways, etc., for freight, express and cartage, $2,664,204; money spent in Canada in plant or factory improvements, tools, jigs, supplies, etc., $1,201,244; amount spent in Canada for advertising, branch operations, service parts, depots, etc., $1,564,544. This makes a total of $34,647,926, but in addition, there was the matter of dividends. There are 1,243 people living in Canada who own stock in General Motors, and the dividends declared in 1925 by the international corporation known as General Motors Corporation, and which stock is held by the 1,243 Canadian stockholders, amounted to $1,085,464, thus making up the grand total of $35,733,390 which the General Motors put into Canada during the year which has just closed, or $1,689,342 more than was taken from the Canadian public for the products sold in the Dominion.

So far as the materials purchased in Canada were concerned, Mr. McLaughlin pointed out that they fall into two classes, raw materials and fabricated goods. In the raw material class there are such articles as lumber, steel, copper and brass, while a few of the fabricated lines purchased from manufacturing plants in Canada were tires, wheels springs, sheet metal stampings and pressings, leather, plush, cloth, coated fabrics, paint, body hardware, glass, windshields mufflers, axles, nuts, screws, bolts, etc.

Large Wage Bill.

From the standpoint of furnishing employment in Canada, the operations of General Motors are exceedingly important. The wage bill, as will be noted from the above figures, reached $5,187,859, which money was spread over an average of 3,900 employes. The employment story does not end there, as will be appreciated from the above list of fabricated goods purchased in Canada. But apart from that, there is the fact that the General Motors is responsible for maintaining a large number of distributing organizations. There are 1,708 automobile dealers in Canada, from coast to coast, who handle the products of General Motors, and 85 per cent. of these handle the General Motors products exclusively. The employment roll of these distributing agencies runs between 4,000 and 5,000. On top of that, there is the small army of salesmen, approximating 2,500, who sell the products of General Motors, and 75 per cent. of whom make their living solely through those agencies.

General Motors has undoubtedly become an important factor in the economic life of Canada, and Mr. McLaughlin hopes that the success of the past will be improved upon from year to year, and that the company, of which he is president, will go on playing an increasingly important part in the life of Canada, and that it will continue to contribute its share towards the prosperity of the big army of workers who depend upon it, either wholly or in part.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

APRIL FARM DESERTED.

Founder Out on Bail on Charges of Adultery.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—April Farm, alleged free love colony sponsored by Charles Garland, eccentric New England millionaire, was virtually deserted by its women members today and Garland was at liberty on $1,000 bail, on a charge involving the parentage of a child born to one of the women members. The flight of the women was revealed yesterday, when the sheriff went to the colony to arrest Garland and subpoenae Bettina Hovey, mother of the infant. The child was born last July 4 and died of suffocation, due to a throat affliction, October 17. The death certificate named Garland as the father and Miss Hovey as the mother. Charges against Garland are those of adultery.

...MINUTES' OVERTIME ...DED TO REACH A DECISION IN LINDSAY-PETERBORO' GAME

Final Score of Exciting Game Was 4-3 For Lindsay.

PENALTIES FEATURE.

Total of 21 Handed Out By the Referee, Who Was Lenient.

More excitement than the peaceful citizens of Lindsay had seen in years was packed into 80 minutes of hockey last night, and at the end the Midgets skated off victorious by 4 goals to 3. A fluke goal in the second period sent the game into overtime, as earned goals gave the Petes the edge.

Small ice surface and penalties cost the Petes the game. Having the greater part of the play, they were not nearly so effective as in Markham, as their passes went astray and they bunched on the narrow rink. A few heavy checks and trips which Referee Albert let get away aroused their ire, while the sly butt-ends of the Lindsay boys brought more penalties to the Petes than to the home team. With 13 penalties, totalling 27 minutes, the Petes were short a man for one-third of the game.

There were no stars on the Peterborough lineup. Every man worked his head off against the heavy and often illegal checking of the Lindsay boys. Referee Albert was not inclined to penalize body-checks in mid ice and the home team was quite willing to hand them out. Hall, in goal, played a stellar game and those that passed him were all well earned but one.

On the Lindsay team, Reeves led the attack. The boys, all chunky, used their weight with abandon, and served eight penalties, mostly for illegal checking.

A couple disputes added to the fun. Referee Albert came near clearing the penalty box when his decisions were challenged, and feeling ran high for a while. Then at the middle of the second overtime period Tony Bakogeorge, the Lindsay timekeeper, rang the gong during a Peterborough rush, while Jimmy McMartin's timepiece indicated 20 seconds to go. Ex-Mayor Frank Carew was appointed sole timekeeper for the rest of the game, being satisfactory to both teams.

Lineup

Lindsay—Hargrove, goal; Cook and Board, defence; Forbert, centre; Reeves l wing; Tripp, r wing; Moran and Switzer, subs.

Peterboro. — Hall, goal; Woods and Le Barr, defence; Kennealey, centre; Chambers, l wing; Calladine, r wing; Cripps and Thirnbeck, subs.

Referee—Norman Albert of Toronto.

First Period.

The first period was scoreless, although only good goalkeeping by Hall and Hargrove kept the tally sheet blank. Both teams had many good chances, but the Petes ruined theirs by shooting high while the Lindsay forwards were putting their shots outside the posts.

Board had the best chance, going right in on Hall while the Petes were short a man, only to have the goalie outguess him and block a wicked shot. Referee Albert was lenient on heavy work in centre ice and on interference. There were six penalties.

Second Period.

This was the big scoring session and, with the boys devoting their energies to the puck instead of the man, was the freest from offences. The three penalties were all for trips and cross checks, caused by reaching in front of a player for the puck.

Moran opened the scoring on a short from a scrimmage in front of the nets. Almost three minutes later R. C. Johnson the count 2 to 0 on the Wilson, Saskatoon of the night. He slid son, New Westg the ice from the left H. E. Maple at just as Hall stopped to shove it aside with his stick it hopped up over his shoulder into the net.

For six minutes the lead was held and then was wiped out in less than one minute. Le Barr cut it in half on a backhand shot, which fooled Hargrove. From the face-off the Petes attacked, and Inky Woods made no mistake when he took a pass from the corner and bored one at the net from 20 feet out.

During this period, as in the first, Lindsay showed most of the combination, and the next goal was the prettiest of the night. Cook and Reeves went down together and passed the Peterborough defence by perfect combination which let Reeves right in on top of Hall to score.

Third Period.

Fight was the middle name of the last regular period. The Midgets were fighting to hold their slender lead, and the Petes were trying hard to cut it down and win out. With the game so close play became strenuous and eight penalties were dished out, with two men in the coop at several times.

Thirnbeck, on a good rush, scored the only goal produced in the hectic end-to-end play of the period, fooling Hargrove on a fast cross corner drive which nestled in the corner of the net and sewed up the game.

First Overtime.

Both teams missed many chances in the first ten minutes of extra time. The Lindsay goal umpire raised his flag once and the rink fairly shook, but Referee Albert saw that the wish had been father to the thought and that the puck had not crossed the red line.

Anxiety to score affected the boys' nerves and neither team could locate anything but the ends of the rinks or the goalkeepers' pads.

Second Overtime

The deciding goal was speedily counted in this session. A little over two minutes had gone when Reeves whipped in a fast one from the side to beat Hall. From that moment the play was all Peterborough but Hargrove was in wonderful form, batting the puck out from all angles, and being equally good on long shots and short ones. On one occsion the puck rolled along his goal line but stayed just outside and was cleared before a Peterborough forward could slam it in.

BRITISH MEMBERS PROTEST MESSIAH

Say Dr. Besant is Leading Credulous Astray—Proclaimed Yesterday.

LONDON, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—The Daily Sketch this morning refers to J. Krishnamurti, a young Hindu, as having been proclaimed, "The Second Messiah," at Adyar, British India, yesterday (Monday). It does not, however, print any direct statement to this effect. The newspaper say that while Dr. Annie Besant, head of the International Theosophical Society, and her co-leaders were proclaiming Krishnamurti yesterday in India, other members of the society in England were registering indignant protests. It quotes William Hare, a member of the National Council of the Society with charging Mrs. Besant and her apostles of leading the credulous astray.

BOXER PUNCHED REFEREE HALEY

Unscheduled Bout in N. Y. Commission's Office.

MANY SUSPENDED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—A one-round battle not sanctioned by the State Athletic Commission, was staged in the offices of the commission Tuesday, when Patsey Haley, veteran referee, and Johnny Reisler, a lightweight boxer, came to blows after Reisler had been suspended for 60 days on charges preferred by Haley.

Reisler, son of John Reisler, Sr., the latter familiarly known in the boxing world as "John the Barber" and a former manager of Jack Dempsey, punched Haley on the jaw as the referee came out of the inner office of the commission. Deputy Commissioner Eddie Curry and Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, separated the two after Reisler had landed with a right-hand punch and Haley had countered with a kick at his antagonist.

Leo P. Flynn and his entire stable of more than 20 boxers were suspended for 30 days for violating contract rules by signing two sets of contracts for the match between Charley Goodman, one of Flynn's fighters, and Edouard Mascart, of France, at a local club last week.

Jimmy Johnston, manager of Mike McTigue, former world's light heavyweight champion, and Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, were told to appear at the commission next week to arrange for a bout between McTigue and Paul Berlenbach, light heavyweight champion.

DRAW MADE FOR NEXT CUP ROUND

Many Teams Draw Ground Advantage Again in Fourth Round.

FINAL APRIL 24.

In soccer, as in other kinds of sport, some of the clubs have a big slice of luck, for a time at least. In the draw for the fourth round of the English Cup made yesterday no fewer than twelve of the sixteen clubs fortunate to be elected to play at home held ground advantage in the third round. The total, of course, includes Wolves, who have yet to settle their affair with Arsenal. Everton, who are still in grips with Fulham, and Corinthians, who must replay Manchester City this week. On January 30, the date set for the fourth round games, the fireworks in the competition will start, for there are several good battles assured. If Cardiff City can get the better of Burnley, and it is the general opinion they will, although the replay will be staged in Lancashide the Welshmen will take on Newcastle at Ninian Park. Tottenham will be at home to Manchester United. West Bromwich Albions will play hosts in Aston Villa, and Sunderland travel to Sheffield United. The winner of the Corinthians-Manchester City bout will play Huddersfield at London if the amateurs win and at Manchester if the "Citizens" finish on top. It has been definitely decided to stage the final at Wembley Park on April 24, which may be taken to read that the soccer classic will be played at the London stadium for a few years to come, as the F.A. had declined to pay the $50,000 levy if it was the intention to close Wembley.

The Draw

Swansea v. Stoke.
Cardiff or Burnley v. Newcastle
Everton or Fulham v. Southampton.
Notts County v. New Brighton
Tottenhm v. Manchester United
Notts Forest v. Swindon
South Shields v. Birmingham
Wolverhampton or Arsenal v. Blackburn or Preston North End.
West Bromwich v. Aston Villa
Sheffield United v. Sunderland
Bournemouth v. Bolton Wanderers.
Southend v. Derby or Portsmouth

Jack Wiley of Peterboro picked up a rink at the last moment to replace a Norwood entry that failed to register. Monday night's storm made the roads so heavy that curlers expected from other clubs evidently cancelled the trip when their cars were tied up.

Refreshments were served last night and the visiting curlers fraternized with their hosts at the close of a strenuous day.

CAMPBELLFORD STAR.

T. B. Horkins of Toronto St. Mary's Team.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13 — T. B. Horkins, a member of the St. Mary's hockey team of Toronto, and who received favorable mention in a Toronto paper recently, is the youngest son of T. J. Horkins of town. The young man is a law student with the firm of Foy, Knox and Monaghan. MAROONS WON LISTLESS GAME

Beat St. Pats 5-2 in Montreal —Were Never Pressed.

STEWART STAR.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.— (Canadian Press.)— Montreal scored an easy 5 to 2 victory over Toronto St. Pats in a listless pro hockey contest here last night. Nelson Stuart, the tricky centre player of the Maroons, was the outstanding star of the game. Stewart accounted for four of Montreal's five goals, all of them following smart displays of stick handling. Montreal were never pressed and seldom exerted by the Irish combination.

PETES FAVORED TO WIN TO-NIGHT

Win For Parkdale Would Be Very Popular in Toronto.

HAVE GOOD CHANCE.

TORONTO, January 13. Canadian Press. — Two undefeated teams meet at the Arena to-night, Parkdale Canoe Club and Peterborough, last season's finalists, being scheduled to play an O.H.A. senior game, and a win for the Paddlers will mark their third successive victory. Last season Parkdale won in Peterboro, but fell before the Petes on the arena ice.

Peterboro players apparently play their best hockey in Toronto, but while they are logical favorites to win to-night Parkdale have a good chance to secure a victory, one that is sure to be popular.

BILL PHILLIPS WITH MAROONS

Soo Greyhound Star Has at Last Signed With Pros.

DONNELLY TO GO.

SAULT STE. MARIE, January 13 —Canadian Press. — After six seasons with the Soo Greyhoonds "Bill" Phillips has listened to the money call, and leaves this week to join the Montreal Maroons. Bill will get $7,000 for finishing the present season with the Montreal team ,and his contract includes two more seasons, three in all, for a total of $16,000. It is strongly rumored in the city that Babe Donnelly is to follow Phillips in the course of a week, but Babe will neither deny nor confirm the report.

PARKDALE WON FAST JUNIOR GAME

Came From Behind To Win 4-2 at the Toronto Arena.

TORONTO, January 13. — Canadian Press. — Parkdale Canoe Club and Toronto, provided a wild finish to the feature game of last night's double header in the big four junior scrap and Parkdale won out 4 to 2, scoring three goals in the last nine minutes. Red Ringers had the game won half way through the final period but allowed it to slip away.

BASKETBALL

By THE CAPTAIN

NO. 1—SHOOTING AT THE BASKET

If you read the announcement of the series of articles dealing with basket-ball, of which this is the first, you know my aim. It is to show the correct way to play the game, knowledge which will prove of interest to basket-ball fans as well as players.

To start properly means to start with fundamentals and under that heading first comes shooting a ball for the basket.

The easiest way to toss any kind of a sphere is by an underhand throw. But because the underhand shot is the easiest, it doesn't necessarily mean that it is the best. We also have the overhand shot. It is best to explain both.

The underhand shot is more of a lift than anything, as indicated by the figure at the left. The ball is held between the fingers of both hands, the feet of necessity must be spread and the knees bent. The shot starts with the ball below the hips and ends with the arms level with the shoulders or the face.

In the overhand shot the ball is grasped much the same, except that the fingers are spread slightly and the shot starts with the ball on a higher plane than the elbow. The ball leaves the hands at practically the same position in both underhand and overhand shots, as shown by the figure on the right.

The underhand toss is natural for the beginner and is usually used by inexperienced players. Its greatest fault is that it can be blocked easily. Greater accuracy can be gained with the overhand shot and the ball travels a shorter distance while in the hand. Thus it is to be preferred. But if you find you get a better start by using the underhand toss use it until such time as you become accustomed to the more scientific style and in the end the best manner of shooting for basket—the overhand shot.

CANADIENS WON GAME IN BOSTON

Scored Three Goals in the Last Period To Win Out, 4-2.

HECTIC GAME.

BOSTON, Jan. 13.— (Canadian Press.)— Canadiens won a hectic game from the Boston Bruins here last night 4 to 2 before a crowd of 7,000 that packed the arena. It was the fastest exhibition of the current National Hockey League season and the brilliant Frenchmen deserved their victory. Boston was in the lead at the close of the first and second periods, but the visitors came from the rear in the final chapter and netted three goals. There was not a dull minute in the entire game.

OSHAWA VICTORIOUS.

Beat Bowmanville 6-4 in Good Intermediate Game.

OSHAWA, Jan. 13 (Special)—Oshawa Intermediates defeated Bowmanville six to four in a section C game of group No. 1 and with the win they pulled up on even terms with the Edgerites for second place in the first half of group standing. The game was the cleanest seen in Oshawa for years, only three penalties being handed out, Caldwell the Bowmanville goaler going off for a trip, while Avery, of Bowmanville and Johnston of Oshawa, were sent to the pen for exhibiting a desire to mix it behind the nets in the last period. The teams were:

Bowmanville—Goal, Caldwell; defence, Benson and A. Piper; centre, Avery; wings, Moise and I. Piper; subs, Luxton and Crossey.

Oshawa—Goal, Smith; defence, Carter and Johnson; centre, Lott; wings, Rowden and Houck; subs, Palmer and Stevens; sub goaler, Fletcher.

Referee—Smith, Whitby.

SHOOTING MATCH

Good Shooting at Match Conducted by Harry Milburn.

Quite a number of marksmen from the neighborhood demonstrated their skill on Saturday at the third shooting contest held this season by Harry Milburn at his home on Chemong Road. The shooting was good and some remarkably fine hits were made. The successful competitors who carried home geese as trophies of their skill were: R. Blade (2), P. Blade (2), E. McManus (2), M. Dobson (2), W. Moore (1), W. Evans (1), G. Merduff (1), E. Milburn (1), H. Woods (1), H. Milburn (1), V. Milburn (1). Jock McManus also distinguished himself by some fine shots.

DELORO HOCKEY.

Oxide-Silver Plant Defeat Engineers 7-5.

MARMORA, January 11. — Interdepartmental hockey commenced at Deloro on Saturday evening last with a game between the Engineers and Oxide-Silver plants.

Following were the teams:

Oxide-Silver: Goal, R. Murray, however, who assumed that they constituted the Government. Not one member of the present House though, had the right to approach His Excellency the Governor-General to discuss and advise on affairs of State. Mr. Guthrie thought that the reason for the fact that the Prime Minister had not resigned was apparent. "Resignation at that time would have cost him the leadership of the Liberal party, and he knew it," stated Mr. Guthrie.

Hon. Chas. Stewart, Minister of the Interior, declared the paramount issue in the last election was the tariff. Having this in mind, he would point out that in the last election the "combined vote of Liberals and Progressives" showed a plurality of 80,000 over that of the Conservatives. "The vote of the people, in his opinion, was not an adverse vote to the Government."

"The Prime Minister will secure a seat and will be in this House at the earliest date possible," declared Mr. Stewart.

right defence, J. N. Doyle; l. defence, F. Robertson; centre, V. Jack; right wing, A. G. Berry; left wing, W. Sweet; subs, E. Belanger, H. A. McNally.

Goal umpires, A. S. Robertson and W. Simmons.

Referee, R. A. Elliott.

There was a good attendance present. The ice permitted fast hockey and the game was utterly devoid of roughness. At the end of the first period the score was 3 to 2 in the Engineers' favor. In the second period matters were reversed through the Smelters netting thrice to their opponents' once. The game ended with a win for the Oxide-Silver plant by the margin of 7-5. Goal scorers were Engineers, C. Brady 2, J. Brady 1, F. Seal 1. R. Reynolds 1.

Oxide-Silver Plants: A. G. Berry 3, V. Jack 2, F. Robertson 1, J. N. Doyle 1.

Murray in goal turned in the better game of the two.

The next game will be played on the Deloro rink next Wednesday evening.

GUTHRIE ASSURES

at the time Sir Mackenzie Bowell gave place to Sir Charles Tupper was a precedent to the present situation.

One opinion was quoted that the temporary absence of the Prime Minister from the House did not greatly affect the propriety of such a procedure.

Mr. Guthrie promptly asked: "Who can assure this House that the absence of the Prime Minister is only temporary" He is a stranger to this Parliament and the two members who interrupted on his behalf yesterday had not the right to do so.

"No one can assure this House that the Prime Minister will come back—he cannot do it himself," declared Mr. Guthrie.

Mr. Guthrie contended that the King government was no longer in existence. There was a body of men, however, who assumed that they constituted the government. Not one member of the present house though had the right to approach his Excellency the Governor-General, to discuss and advise on affairs of state.

Should have Resigned.

Premier King should have followed the course pursued by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in 1921 and resigned as soon as it became evident that the popular vote of the people of Canada was against his administration. The present group known as the government was not entitled to function under the existing circumstances.

Mr. Guthrie thought that the reason for the fact that the Minister had not resigned was apparent. "Resignation at that time would have cost him the leadership of the Liberal party, and he knew it." stated Mr. Guthrie.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13. — (Canadian Press).—This declaration of the Conservative attitude came in the evening of the day's debating which had not been productive of startling developments.

The Speech from the Throne, Mr. Guthrie thought, was prepared as a sort of pre-election manifesto for the purpose of gaining Progressive and Independent votes. It was, he said, the bait on the hook of the Lapointe motion of confidence. If the House swallowed the bait, it would also swallow the hook. The point taken by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Mr. Guthrie said, was that in the last 80 years there had been no precedent for the retention of power and calling of Parliament by a Prime Minister who had no seat in either House of Parliament. Mr. Guthrie asked. "Who can assure this House that the absence of the Prime Minister is only temporary? He is a stranger to this Parliament."

Mr. Guthrie contended that the King Government was no longer in existence. There was a body of men, however, who assumed that they

MARMORA WINS RIGHT IN MADOC

Defeats Home Team 2-1 in a Fast Game of Hockey.

GOOD GOALKEEPING.

MADOC, Jan. 13.— Madoc lost a hard, fast game to Marmora by the score of 2 to 1 here last night. Lenahan starred for Madoc and Pudge Moon played a great game at centre—checking Marmora's speed-merchant, Bond.

The game started fast, with two Madoc men in the penalty box in quick time, and Lenahan made great saves in goal. With Madoc shooting from outside the defence, Rupert drifted one on goal, but Neal cleared nicely. The game continued fast, the play being about even. Moon at the centre broke up the rushes nicely, Blue and Rupert playing a good defence. Lenahan, in goal, furnished thrill after thrill with his great saves. Both teams tried combination but without much success. The period ended with out a score.

Second Period

The second period started slow, Marmora bottling Madoc. Madoc forwards broke away with a rush. In a scrimmage in front of Marmora goal, Neal was hit with the puck in the face, but after being patched up he returned to the game. Marmora scored the first goal from a scrimmage in front of the net, Bond being the lucky man. With Madoc forcing play, Blue made a lone rush, but failed to score. The Madoc defence rushed well, but shots were wild. The period ended Marmora 1, Madoc 0.

The third period opened with Madoc keeping the puck in the Marmora end of the rink. Smith evening the count for Madoc after five minutes' play. Marmora then scored again, McWilliams doing the trick. Madoc tried hard in the dying minutes of the game, but could not succeed in scoring again. Bond of Marmora showed his best work in this period. The game ended with Madoc crowded around the Marmora net, the score being Marmora 2, Madoc 1.

A large crowd attended the game, and reported it as being good, clean, fast hockey. Mr. Jackson of Peterboro acted as referee.

A variety of types and grades of tobacco are grown in the United States. Some are suitable for use in the manufacture of two or more kinds of product. The bright flue-cured type grown mostly in Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia, is the principal cigarette tobacco. More of this type of leaf than any other is exported. Burley, grown chiefly in Kentucky, is used mainly in the manufacture of smoking and chewing tobacco, but largely also in cigarette production. The dark-fired type, produced for the most part in Kentucky and Tennessee, is used in the manufacture of snuff and smoking and chewing tobacco.

LIFE IN RUSSIA WAS DESCRIBED

Canadian Club Hears Lecture About Days of Tsars.

LADY SPEAKER.

Madame Anna de Lozina, daughter of the Minister of Justice under the late Tsar of Russia, spoke to the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon in the Public Library Hall, on 'Court and Private Life in Russia," basing her talk on the life under the old Tsarist regime, with which she was familiar during her father's tenure of office. Her talk, delivered with simplicity and earnestness, and colored by an attractive foreign accent, was listened to with keen interest by a large audience present in the auditorium. She was introduced by the president, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, who also voiced a hearty appreciation of her address at its conclusion.

Madame Lozina, gowned in black and silver, with a metallic band in her reddish hair, her features and figure of the somewhat heavy Russian type, speaks very attractively, striving to bring to her audience a mind picture of the state of her native land prior to the overthrow of the Tsarist regime.

She spoke of the divisions of classes in the older Russia, the five sections of society that ranged from the nobility, the clergy, the merchants, the class between the merchant and the peasant, and the peasant himself. The clergy were a separate and distinct type, living almost exclusively to themselves. Their priests married, their daughters married priests and their sons became priests.

The speaker gave an interesting analysi of the character of the Russian peasant, the tiller of the soil, the dweller on the land to which he looks with a real religious feeling. The earth is not to him so much a landscape, but a holy bosom that feeds him, and to it he looks, not so much for money, as for the bread of life for himself and his family. Slavery in Russia, abolished only about 65 years ago, resulted from the indebtedness of many of these peasants to the large land-owners and resulting conditions of peonage. The "Going-into-the-People" movement, instituted by Count Tolstoi many years ago, a movement which induced many of the land-owners to go among the peasants and strive to live their lives, was not an absolute success. When the Revolution came, it was the estates of these land owners who had striven to become companions of their people, that were first demolished, while the nobles who had remained aloof were left unmolested until later.

Madame Lozina's personal experiences centred mainly in the life of the nobility in the cities, where they lived for the most part in luxurious apartments, without our conveniences of gas and electricity, it is true, but surrounded by servants who ministered to every want. Court life under the late Tsar and Tsarina, the speaker asserted, was practically dead, owing to the extreme shyness of both the Imperial personages. The Tsar himself, Nicholas Second, was hampered by extreme timidity, which made him doubt and fear outside influences, striving to combat them and finally falling under their spell. The Empress had a cold exterior, which in reality covered a warm heart, according to the speaker, but her people knew her only as an aloof and proud woman. The Imperial family lived in their own suites of rooms, much in the English fashion, and were intensely wrapped up in each other. The eldest daughter, at the time of the first Revolution, might have escaped the fate which overtook her later, by marrying a Rumanian price, had she not refused and chosen instead to remain with her own family.

In their palace in the Crimea, said Madame Lozina, the Imperial rulers were understood better by their people. The Tsar took much interest in his soldiers and wold walk for miles with their munitions and packs strapped to his back, in an effort to find out if their load was too heavy for them.

Rasputin was alluded to, the man who exerted such an influence over the life of the Imperial rulers in their last days. This man was not a monk or priest, but a simple peasant who took up a life familiar to the Russia of that time, the life of a wandering religious devotee, going from shrine to shrine with heavy wooden staff and rough dress, being entertained on the way by people who were glad to listen to mystical tales. Rasputin, described as a man with a black beard and wonderful, disagreeable eyes, piercing and magnetic, had a healing power that brought him to the notice of the Tsarina at a time when her son was troubled with a painful malady. Rasputin cured the child and was thereafter made an inmate of Imperial Palace. Here his position brought to him many hangers-on, who strove through him to gain favors, and he lapsed gradually into a life of immortality and drunkenness. His relations with the Tsarina were solely those of a man who had had power to help her sick child, and the Tsar looked on him as one, a rough peasant, through whom he might be able to gain the truth, rather than from the nobles of his court, and glean some knowledge of the mind of the peasants whom he loved better than his nobility. He was not a German spy, the speaker asserted.

Rasputin developed at this time a curious religious cult, which had its essence in the belief that to achieve holinss, one must first sin, because throuhg sin and consequent suffering salvation might be reached. The Russian mind, said Madame Lozina, leaned always towards the idea of suffering as a means to salvation, and she herself, she said, had made pilgrimage to holy shrines barefoot, over forty miles of rough road.

The speaker attempted to bring to the mind of her hearers some idea of the Russian character, particularly that of the higher classes, characterizing it as one of many words, rather than of action, and this from childish environment. She repeated a favorite saying of her country, "One Russian is a genius, two are a misunderstanding, and three or more are a scandal." The average Russian was fond enough of formulating theories as to how the world should be governed, but he wanted to be individual and would not agree with others' theories along the same lines. He was a visionary, a dreamer, living in a make-believe world of his own, and so, when the Revolution came, which overturned existing conditions, he failed as a man of action and left the way open to the Bolsheviks, men of deeds rather than of speech. This theoretical conception of life and world of fantastic dreaming was caused to a great extent, Madame Lozina thought, by the childish education of the nobility, whose nurses were women unlettered but very wise in the old-time tales of fable places and wonderful worlds, instilling in the minds of their young charges these conceptions of fantastic, unreal lives. Added to this was the quiet, safe life of the estates, where there were no worries and life for the noble owners flowed placidly on. It was bad manners in Russia, even among the poorer classes, to talk of money or money-making, and so the people lived in their dreams until the Revolution came and shattered their theories forever. Even the "Intelligentzia", the cultured classes, looked at life through this colored haze of unreal imagery.

A glimpse of the country life, the simple, romantic, merry making of the peasants and the nobles, was given by the speaker, in referring to many of the customs of that time. Returning to the estates from the cities, the owners were met by peasants clad in bright garments, singing songs comparing the owner and his wife and children to the sun and the moon and the stars, and kneeling to offer them bread and salt on embroidered napkins. The Christmas festivities were preceded by a carnival in which the peasants dressed up as devils of all sorts, recalling the old legends that Christ came to drive the devils away, and their reign must end on Christmas Day. Going to the village church with lighted candles at Easter time was another pretty ceremony referred to. But that dreamy, impractical, romantic existence was gone forever, said the speaker, who closed her address with a translation of a verse by a Russian poet, in which he tells his hearers that a realization of the real Russian character cannot be made by the mind, but must come through faith alone.

AT THE CAPITOL

SEVEN MOUNTS IN THE HOLT STABLES.

Screen Star Has Six Polo Ponies and Jumper of Movie Fame.

King Lear and Jesse James may have loved their horses in the same sense that a bank robber loves his fast car, but for sheer adoration of the steeds there is no one who has ever exhibited a more ardent love for the animals than Jack Holt.

In the Holt stables are seven ponies. Six of them are polo ponies, the seventh is a jumping horse. Red Chief is one of the string. He played the chief supporting role for Jack in the Paramount production, "Wild Horse Mesa," working throughout the picture with the star.

None of the other horses in the Holt string has appeared before the camera. They are the small polo type of ponies, and as the casting directors would say, they haven't the "stage presence."

Horses and Holt are inseparable not only in private life but on the screen. Jack practically has staked his way into the films. He started a cinematic career as a daredevil jumping a horse off a thirty-foot cliff into a river. He did this scene twice because the first attempt was unsuccessful from the cameraman's standpoint. The film buckled in the camera.

Jack's film escapades with horses could be written into a true western story. As long as western pictures are made Holt will continue as one of the real star horsemen of the films.

Jack's one regret was that his latest Paramount picture, "The Ancient Highway," a James Oliver Curwood story which comes to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow, did not call for him to ride in any scenes. But on location, with the beautiful hills before him, the call of the road "got him" and each evening after the day's work was finished Jack and his horse would disappear into the mountains.

AT THE REGENT

CHARLES (BUCK) JONES FINDS MEANEST MAN.

Star in "Lazybones" Tells How a Newsboy Handed Him a Jolt.

During a rest between "shots" during the making of "Lazybones," now at the Regent Theatre, Charles (Buck) Jones, William Fox cowboy star, told this one:

"Hollywood, like most other places in this country, has its meanest cuss. He's a landlord with lots of money, but how he does hate to part with any of it! His one weakness, however, is an occasional bet on a horse race.

"The other day he approached a newsboy and, not wishing to buy a newspaper, he asked the kid, 'Say, sonny, who won the fourth race?'

"'A horse! What do yer tink was running—fish?'"

MADGE BELLAMY TRIES PIPE SMOKING.

Smoking a pipe was a little too much for Madge Bellamy, who appears as Kit in the William Fox production of 'Lazy Bones,' especially when someone substituted one of Director Frank Borzage's pet pipes for a new one the prop man had bought for the scene.

Miss Bellamy was as game as any girl could be over the whole thing and complained only of a slight headache. Her opinion of pipes, however, has changed considerably for the worse. The one thing for which she is devoutly thankful is that no one asked for a retake of the sequence in which her "Uncle Steve's pipe played such a prominent part. "Lazybones" is now at the Regent Theatre.

The man who thought a buggy was good enough

In the old days, a solid, conservative citizen might sniff and tell you he didn't read advertising.

He didn't think so much of the horseless carriage, either. The telephone was newfangled, and an insult to the United States mails.

As for radio, aeroplanes, wireless photography—if they had been born then, he probably would have thought them a bit immoral.

But he's changed. He's been educated. His point of view has been made broader and more modern. He has been civilized—by the automobile, the telephone, radio, advertising.

Every single one has opened up new paths for him, taught him new things. Advertising, especially. Advertising tells him the newest things to wear, the best things to eat. Advertising tells his wife how to make a home up to date and attractive. Advertising tells him the prices to pay for things he buys, saves him from the old-fashioned ways of doing business—helps him live well, keeps him modern.

Advertising can help you. The advertisements in this newspaper are here to tell you many things that make life more comfortable, more interesting, happier. Read them faithfully. They'll keep you abreast of the times. They'll prevent you from becoming the type of old fogy who—sniff!—doesn't read advertising.

Advertising is the key to modernity

MEASURES HUMOR

Father C. M. De Heredia, a Jesuit priest at St. Francis Xavier's church in New York city, has perfected a machine called the "microvibroscope," which, he says, measures the infinitesimal vibrations of the human body. The markings made by the machine, he asserts, analyze moods and personalities and detect ailments, according to Popular Science Monthly. Two persons suffering from the same disease, he says, will produce similar curves on their charts.

Electric power recently was transmitted from British Columbia to the state of Washington, says the February Popular Science Monthly, to help make up a shortage of power due to lack of rain in the Pacific Northwest.

WOMEN PROTEST LOOSE RELATIONS

Revised Soviet Code Would Equalize Forms of Co-habitation.

RIGA (United Press) — The expected passage of the revised code of Soviet marriage laws which was to place all forms of cohabitation on an equal basis whether registered or unregistered, has received a setback at the hands of Russian women.

The law had already passed the Central Committee of the Soviet Party, and several other government departments and when introduced before the Central Executive or "Red Parliament" as it is sometimes called, it was presupposed that its passage would be but a matter of ordinary routine.

But the reading of the revised code was greeted with cries of protest on the part of many women present. They pointed out that the revised code permitted even looser relations than now existed in the family ties, and that present conditions were bad enough.

Loose marriage regulations together with the facilities and inducements for divorce, they argued, had filled the country with vagrant(outcast children and produced a multitude of deserted and divorced wives. Although under the present code some men had married and divorced as many as ten women in one year, all legally, they felt, they said, that the present law afforded the women more protection than that provided under the new law.

In the face of this unexpected storm of protest the Executive Committee found itself unable to muster enough votes to pass the revised code. President Kalinin then announced that the measure would for the time being be withdrawn and not reintroduced until it has been thoroughly discussed in the lower village Soviets, districts Soviets, Women's departments and in the Press.

APPRECIATES CONCERT.

Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Those who were fortunate enough to be present at the concert given by the St. John's Choir in their schoolhouse last evening enjoyed a great treat. Every number was excellent and reflected the greatest credit on the leadership of Mr. Mann. The numbers given by the Peterboro Orchestral Trio were also extremely well rendered. Altogether the evening's entertainment was quite up to if it did not surpass any event of the same kind that has ever been held in Peterboro. It is a pity that a larger audience was not present to cheer the choir and show an appreciation of their work.

CLERK AT WORK WITH SUNRISE

What He Had To Do a Century Ago Revealed in Maine.

NO EIGHT HOUR DAY.

BELFAST, Me., Jan. 13.—The clerk who thinks he is having a hard time today, and that his boss is a hard taskmaster, should take notice of what was expected of the young men 100 years ago and be glad he is alive today.

An old manuscript has been unearthed here, which shows very plainly that the young man of olden days had no easy task or bed of roses. Listen to what was expected of him back in 1829, in the store of the late Paul R. Hazeltine, whose store is still standing and occupied. In 1829 he posted the following rules:

"Rule I.—This store must be opened at sunrise. No mistake.

"Rule II.—Store to be dusted, swept, lamps trimmed, pens made and a pail of water brought, before breakfast, if there is time to do it and attend to all customers who call."

Rule IV. states that "the store is not to be opened on the Sabbath day unless absolutely necessary and then only for a few minutes."

Rule XI. admonishes the clerk that "Barrooms, confectionery shops, livery stables and similar places should be but seldom visited, more especially on the Sabbath day, unless one has unavoidable business there. The reasons will suggest themselves to an ingenious mind, to say nothing of economy."

On Way to Ruin.

Rule XVI. states that "the clerk who is in the habit of spending his time and leisure hours in the evening or Sabbath day in the tavern, or barrooms, and also in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barber's, going to all dancing parties and sleighrides and all other places of amusement in the village, being out late at night, occasionally sleeping away from home or his boarding house, and being otherwise extravagant in his expenses, such a clerk is on the broad way to ruin. Such practices in a clerk will assuredly destroy all confidence of his employer and give him a reason to be ever suspicious of his integrity and honesty."

Possibly the gem of the whole list of rules is No. XIX., for it advises the young man that "A clerk's leisure hours out of the store should be mostly spent in reading. First, and occasionally the Life of Washington, Franklin, Chesterfield, Men and Manners, Histories of United States, England, Greece and Rome, also newspapers and periodicals of the day, etc., that they may know something of the world in which they live and what is going on about them, and this will give them a taste for more extensive reading."

One rule suggests that clerks carrying money of their own in their pockets put it in a wallet in order that, "Should money belonging to the firm accidentally get into their pockets, as it occasionally does, he may know to whom it belongs."

"Good Advice."

The clerks were admonished to "give exact weight and measure, neither deceive nor cheat nor wrong any man, unless you would do violence to your own conscience, ruin your character for honesty and injure your employer."

He is also advised to "always wear a smile no matter how he may feel internally," and the salesmanship of this century-old store is summed up in the following "good advices":

"If you would be a good salesman (and you must be to get a living by trade) you must be active, prompt, social and good-natured, exceedingly accommodating, always wear a smiling face, always fair in all your dealing, doing exactly as you agree; in short, strive to ingratiate yourself with all who call to trade. If you succeed, you will not want for customers."

MUSSOLINI MEETS SETBACK TO PLAN

Church and State Are Not Yet Joined—Concessions Are Refused.

ROME, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press) —Premier Mussolini manoeuvering with the object of healing the historic breach between Church and state constituting one of Fascisms most important policies, and one of Mussolini's pet ambitions, has suddenly encountered an unexpected, and perhaps serious, obstacle.

The Vatican statement apparently expressing the Pope's attitude and indignation that the Holy See would not be satisfied with anything short of absolute freedom of action, has brought forth a storm of controversy in which is clearly seen that the Fascists will refuse concession of such magnitude. The government remains silent, bbut the Fascist press "regrets" that the statement remains silent, but the Fascist Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, declares: "The Government must provide for the Holy See that condition of full liberty of independence, real and apparent, to the whole world, to which it is entitled; it then must proceed to reform all unjust laws by agreement between the two authorities."

ST. JOHN'S W.A.

Annual Business and Devotional Gathering—Encouraging Reports Presented.

There was a large attendance when St. John's W. A. held their annual business and devotional meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 12.

Dr. Blagrave opened the meeting with missionary prayers and a Bible reading.

All the officials with one exception have agreed to take office for another year so there was no formal ballot taken.

The reports for the year were most encouraging, the president's address especially so. The financial report was the largest on record and all obligations have been met during the past year.

The following were the reports read by the respective officials: Presidents' report, Mrs. A. W. Turner; Secretary's report, Mrs. G. Evans, Treasurer's report, Mrs. Holloway; "Living Message," Mrs. R. Ross; "Extra Cent a Day Fund," Mrs. Knight; "United Thank Offering," Mrs. Cameron; "Little Helpers," Mrs. J. Rigden; Visiting Committee, Mrs. Preston; Junior Branch, Mrs. Deyman; Teen Age, Mrs. J. Cridland; Literature, Mrs. Dela Fosse; Dorcas, Mrs. J. J. Howden.

Tea was served by the Refreshment Committee under the leadership of Mrs. Budd during which Miss Quartermaine charmed the audience with some delightful vocal music.

The meeting closed with the member's prayer and benediction.

playing the violin; a selection on the mouth organ and auto-harp, played by Elijah Forbes; vocal duets by the Misses Winifred Bethune and Velma Scott, and readings by Mr. J. John. Rev. J. D. Paterson, rector of All Soints' Church, also gave a very interesting address entitled "Our Gift to the New Age," stressing the importance of study by the parents of the child and its aptitude for particular life work. "You should not attempt to make a banker out of a boy who is naturally fitted to be a farmer," said Mr. Patterson.

Y.W.C.A. DRIVE.

Great Advantages Offered To Girls in "Y" Gymnasium.

The drive for new members being made by the Gynasium committee of the Young Women's Christian Association is progressing very favorably.

The gymnasium of the Peterboro "Y" offers exception advantages to girls seeking the physical exercise which keeps them in condition. To the office worker, the factory and the shop assistant, a certain amount of physical exercise is absolutely necessary, for mind, body and spirit alike, to obviate the toil of the day at desk or machine or behind the counter. Combined with every opportunity to gain physical well-being in the many appliances and games arranged at the "Y" is the social contact that results from meeting and mingling with so many other girls. This, to many of the members, is the nicest part of the "Y" programme.

CHINESE PRINCESS RENOUNCES HER SEX

Declares She is Sick of Being a Girl—Wants to Lead Armies.

By MOTO TAKATA
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

OSAKA, Jan. 12 (United Press.) —Tired of romantic reports of suits for her hand, Princess Yoshiko, daughter of a great Chinese house, has cut off her hair, donned boy's clothing and sworn never again to dress as a girl.

"I am sick of being a girl; so I have become a boy myself," she declared.

She is the daughter of the late Prince Chun of China, one of the highest members of the Chin dynasty up to the appearance of the present Chinese republic, but has been adopted by Kawashima, who had been an adviser to the late Prince, and lived for many years as a Japanese girl.

Miss Yoshiko is a pretty girl in her teens, but has boyish ambitions and dreams. She once had an ambition to become the queen to Ex-Emperor of China and a brave heroine of the present-day China, leading an army to restore Chinese Empire for the Ex-Emperor, and several times attempted to join the mounted bandits in Manchuria.

Recently suits for her hand in marriage which resulted in romantic reports caused her the greatest displeasure. She thought that she would be the centre of such 'romances" so long as she remained a girl, so she determined to become a boy at least in appearance.

"Hereafter, I shall be called Mr. Yoshimora Kawashima and not Miss Yoshiko," she said, "I am going to China to dispose of the real estate Empire, but now have given that up political significance. I had an ambition to restore the old Chinese Empire, but nwo have given that up and will live as a private citizen in Japan. But I am now firmly determined that I will never wear a girl's dress again."

QUEBEC POWER TO BE RETAINED

Premier Declares No Hydro-Electric Energy May Go To States.

BENEFITS SEEN.

QUEBEC, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press)—There will be no export of hydro electric energy to the United States from the Province of Quebec, although Quebec stands ready to co-operate with the other provinces for the development of power. But this co-operation is subject to the terms of the local administration's policy and these absolutely prohibit the United States from getting hydro power from Quebec sources. This was re affirmed last evening in the Quebec Legislature when Premier Taschereau, speaking during the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, dwelt at great length on the advantages accruing to the Province through conservation of its natural resources and pointed to the fact that the Aluminum Corporation of America was spending $100,000,000 on the Saguenay river as justifying the Government's policy in this connection.

BLAZING MINE HOLDS ITS HUNDRED DEAD

92 Perish in Mine Explosion; Flames Halt Rescue Efforts; Women Weep Thoughout Night

Twelve Bodies Recovered To-day and Eighty Remain—One Man Crawled Out Alive Over the Body of His Father Who Perished.

VICTIMS WERE BURNED TO DEATH.

Forty-five Coffins Ready and Funerals Start To-night—People in Town Little Excited By Tragedy—Women Haunt Pit Head.

WILBURTON, Okla., Jan. 14 (Canadian Press)—Fire again halted the removal of bodies from the Degnan-McConnell Mine near here, after twelve had been brought to the surface.

An explosion yesterday entombed 101 miners, eight of whom were taken out alive not long afterward. This morning another man, Cecil McKinney, emerged alive after groping his way about the mine for 23 hours. Little hope is held that any of the 80 men left in the mine workings are alive.

McKinney had crawled over the body of his father and recognized him he said, when he walked from the mine apparently suffering little except nervous exhaustion.

The first body taken out today was that of B. A. Thomas, an engineer, who had gone into the mine shortly before the blast to make a survey. He was not employed there regularly.

There followed five others, and as the bodies were hauled up each was identfied by his fellow workers. It was a subdued, grim, group of men who brought the bodies up and put them on trucks to be taken to the morgue.

A record of the bodies recovered was kept in crude chalk marks on the timbers of the tipple, a mark for each body checked off in groups of five.

Jim McConnell, owner of the mine, issued a statement denying the declaration last night of Ed. Boyle, State Mine Commissioner, that the catastrophe was the result of having inexperienced men in the mine, which is being operated on a non-union basis.

"Every gas man in the mine held a certificate," Mr. McConnell declared.

McKinney's escape reduced the number believed to be dead to 92.

Insurance Carried.

It became known to-day that the company carried its own insurance on the miners who were killed. The State Industrial Commission has adopted the policy of allowing a flat compensation of $9,000 for loss of life in industrial accidents and at this rate the deaths of the 92 men would cost the company $828,000.

Forty-five coffins arrived to-day, and three understakers worked at top speed to prepare the bodies for furial, with the first funerals due late to-day.

The interior of the mine is a scene of destruction, rescue workers said, although they declared there was little damage below the slope outside of cave-ins and burned timbers. A string of coal cars in the main passage-way was found pat-

Convicts Escape On Ice; Welcomed On Going Ashore

Church Would Accept Proof Of Evolution From Scientists But Would Hold Belief In Creation Of Soul, Says Priest

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (United Press).—The Catholic Church would not refuse to recognize proof of scientists that man descended from an animal, but this discovery would not affect the certitude that the soul of each and every man was the divine creation of God, Mgr. Joseph P. McMahon said in an address here on "Ignorance and Evolution."

"No one has a right to discuss evolution unless he knows first of all what is the evidence adduced by botany and paleontology tending to confirm the theory of general evolution in a mitigated guise," Mgr. McMahon said.

"There are many living men with less cranial capacity than the ape, yet such evidence found in fossil remains is used to support theories of the existence of an ape-man," he continued.

"Dogmatic assertion by laymen of the truth of the evolutionary theory," he said, "was due to ignorance of those departments of Science upon which it is postulated."

Where did this animal come from?

One day last week, as Mr. Robert Hickson, who lives out on the Chemong Road, a mile from the city was going into his barn in the evening, he was surprised to see an animal about the size of a small mink. He thought its mission was of course to kill fowl, and killed it with a fork.

He showed the skin to different people and no one seemed to know what it was.

He brought it to the city and disposed of it to Wm. Lech & Sons, Ltd., where he was told it was a genuine German Fitch, an animal never known to have been in either the States or in Canada. However, it is the real article, and killed right close to the city.

Efforts have been made by the Lech firm to find out if anyone has ever had a pair imported, and a letter was sent to the Department of Game and Fisheries, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, regarding this unknown animal found in Canada, but as yet no reply has been received. The strange point seems to be that it is a fitch that has been born this year, as it is not a real large fitch, and it may be that no light may ever be thrown on this mystery. It is not a very valuable animal, but no doubt would thrive in this country if many were imported.

Can anyone explain?

Derailed Freight at Keene Holds Up Belleville Passenger Train.

Forty passengers destined for Peterborough were summarily halted last night, when the Canadian National train en route from Belleville to this city was held up at the Keene crossing by a derailed freight train. After much parading of the tracks and flapping of the arms to maintain circulation, the stranded wayfarers were rescued by a corps of Peterborough taxi drivers and arrived none the worse for their adventure at 11.30. The obstruction was cleared and the tracks were repaired early this morning so that the service was interrupted for a very brief period.

Alpine McNab, local agent, when interviewed this morning, stated that the primary cause of the interruption was a wheel, the flange of which had been broken. From marks observable along the track the wheel had followed a very uncertain course being on and off the rail at frequent intervals. This wheel was on one of the cars which made up a westbound freight. After it had passed an east-bound freight came upon the scene and at a point known as the Keene crossing, a spread rail, caused by the vagrant wheel diverted the freight train from the track.

Soon afterward came the Belleville-Peterborough train, due here at 8.10, and carrying a number of anxious passengers. It was flagged and when no immediate relief was evident, one of them hit upon the happy thought of summoning taxis from the city. This suggestion was acted upon, and the passengers finished their journey in the more independent motor vehicles.

AUSTRALIA WILL GUARD SHIPPING

Reflection of Experience in Seamen's Strike Shown in Throne Speech.

PARLIAMENT OPENS.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's) — His Excellency Lord Stonehaven, Governor-General of Australia, opened the tenth Federal Parliament yesterday afternoon with all the customary pomp and ceremony of British parliaments. The speech from the Throne contained no intimation of legislation other than that which has been forecast before.

The speech welcomed the conclusion of the Locarno agreement and stated that the Government was providing the greatest measure of defence compatible with Australia's man power and financial resources. Acting on the people's mandate, the Government intended, the speech said, to submit a proposal forbidding the establishment of associations which had for their object the forcible disturbance or overthrow of constitutional government. Legislation would also be introduced dealing with the unjustifiable interference in the transport of goods or passengers.

Arrangements will be made, the speech stated, to transfer the seat of Government to Canbera early in 1927. A subsidy of £450,000 will be granted to Western Australia in 1926 in accordance with the recommendation of the royal commission.

The control of overseas marketing having proved so beneficial to the dairy produce and dried fruits industries, the Government proposes extending this control to other industries.

Sir Littleton Groom, former Attorney-General of Australia, was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives.

GREAT BRITAIN FALLING BEHIND IN PRODUCTION

Even Lord Beaverbrook's Optimism Dulled By Last Year's Trade.

BUT TIDE TURNED.

Britain Tightening Financial Hold on World—Need Labor Peace.

LONDON, Jan. 14 — Britain is steadily losing its productive capacity, even though it is increasing its financial hold on the world. This is the deduction which pessimists to-day draw from the trade report which was issued Tuesday.

The report shows that except the invisible exports such as shipping and various services, there is a trade deficit of £395,360,790, compared with £341,000,000 deficit in 1924 and £203,000,000 in 1923. The volume of foreign trade was greater last year, but imports rose by £45,000,000 and exports fell by £23,000,000, yet according to the report of the Midland Bank, Britain loaned £84,000,000 abroad last year.

Tide Has Turned.

Even Lord Beaverbrook, who has been Britain's greatest optimist in regard to trade conditions, is forced to confess that the trade figures for the year are disappointing. He says that there are encouraging signs in the improvement during the preceding year and he asserts that the tide has turned for the better.

Operations Abroad.

The pessimists, however, are predicting for Britain a fate similar to that of Venice and Holland if she persist in the policy which converts the country into the financial headquarters of the world and leaves production out in the cold. To the government's subserviency to the bankers in their disregard of the necessities of the producers, is blamed the increasing tendency among Englishmen to make money by financial operations abroad rather than by engaging in production at home. One bright spot in the trade outlook is the sale of 17,000 autos of British manufacture abroad and it is certain that the new industries in the country are flourishing, but the coal business is in the worst state and the old staple industries generally are suffering. Optimists assert that this year will see a change for the better, but only if trouble is avoided when the mining crisis is revived next April.

Before the trap was sprung Baker said "Good-bye" to those about him, while Sowash merely admonished Hangman Arthur Ellis to "step on it, kid."

Warfare With Germans Must Be Forbidden, Says German

(By Frederick Kuh, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Predicting that Germany would participate in the League of Nations forthcoming preliminary meeting to arrange an arms parley, Defence Minister Geisler told the United Press today that Germany, disarmed, waited to see if other nations would follow her example.

In an exclusive interview he strongly advocated banning all poison gas and bacteria warfare, pointing out that Germany last year proposed the banishment of poison gas warfare before the Arms Traffic Conference at Geneva.

"Bacteriological warfare," he said, "must remain in the limbs of fantasy and according to my opinion could be forbidden like gases, thereby preventing even toying with such inhuman notions."

Telephone Operator at Hadley, Mich., Suspected Four Strangers Entering Bank.

ALL PRISONERS

Rushed From Bank Into Shower of Lead—Bank Customer Shot.

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Thirteen minutes after two o'clock in the afternoon, on the thirteenth day of January should have been a warning to four Toledo, Ohio, bank robbers, if they had been more attentive to the study of superstition. Scoffing at the thirteen superstition, the quartet robbed the bank of Hadley (capitalized at $4,000) at Hadley, a town of 300 population near here, stepped out of the front door with bags of gold and currency in their hands —and were greeted with a storm of lead.

Three of the men fell wounded in the snow, dropping their money bags. The fourth reached the waiting automobile and escaped from Hadley only to drive into the hands of state police from Flint.

The robbers' car appeared in Hadley telephone exchange mana- afternoon and drove through the main street slowly several times. It was 2:13 p.m. according to B. F. Hadley, telephone exhange manager, when the car stopped in front of the bank and the four got out.

Suspicions Aroused

Mr. Hadley's suspicions were aroused. The men were all strangers to him, and he wondered what business they had with the bank. He watched.

A moment later, one of the men appeared at the bank window and pulled down the shade. Hadley's suspicion crystallized into certainty and he quickly went to storekeepers of the town, telling what he had seen and organized a posse.

Meantime, inside the bank, the robbers were busy. They held up E. H. Potter, cashier, and Newman Barber, who is blind and who formerly was cashier of the bank. Potter and Barber were bound hand and foot and tossed into a corner. The robbers then began looking about for the money. Failing at first search to find it, they returned to Potter and demanded that he tell them where the currency was kept.

Potter refused to talk. The robbers became insistent and one of them produced a knife, which he threatened to use, but Potter would not speak. The man then slashed Potter's leg. By that time, the other robbers had located the bank's cash—between $2,500 and $3,000—and it was gathered into bags.

Outside, the posse of Hadley citizens had been organized and armed with rifles, shotguns and revolvers. Carefully the posse men advanced on the bank from every side. They were close to the entrance when the unsuspecting robbers stepped from the door.

Citizen Seriously Wounded

Fire opened without ceremony. The first volley dropped three of the men. The fourth reached the waiting car and drove out of gunshot range. Ira Jones, 50 years old, a Hadley citizen, who was just entering the bank when the firing started, was wounded, possibly mortally.

Telephone wires had been cut, but Hadley finally was able to reach Flint with news of the holdup. State police immediately started for the village, meeting the escaping robber enroute. A quick exchange of shots and this member of the robber band was wounded and captured. He said he was William Willard, 35 years old. The officers said he had been drinking.

The other robbers were: Harold Anderson, 23 years old; Fred Williams, 24 years old, and Andrew Barry, 25 years old. All were shot in the legs and their wounds were said to be not serious.

SHAREHOLDERS OF HOME BANK MUST PAY DOUBLE LIABILITY RULING OF OFFICIAL REFEREE

Master of Supreme Court Orders Shares Paid Up As Well.

APPEAL EXPECTED.

Contestations Filed When Proceedings Taken in 1924 —Two Year Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—The shareholders of the Home Bank of Canada, which collapsed Aug. 17, 1923, with liabilities approximating $10,000,000, must pay double liability on their shares if fully paid and also contribute the balance unpaid as well as the double liability if not fully paid up, according to the judgment today of Charles Garrow, K.C., Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario, acting as official referee under the Winding Up Act. This decision, which is given after a hearing of the case extending over a period of two years, affect about 1,700 shareholders of the bank in various parts of Canada and elsewhere. The only exceptions to the Master's ruling as to double liability are certain stock subscribers who paid ten per cent of the stock price but were allotted no stock and drew no dividends. The capital stock of the defunct bank was $2,000,000 of which $1,960,000 was reported as paid up. At a conference some time ago, the liquidator, G. T. Clarkson, reported that 40 of the smaller shareholders had contributed to the extent of their double liability.

Proceedings to compel the shareholders of the bank to contribute to the extent of their double liability were commenced January 12, 1924. "Contestations" were filed by 350 shareholders, and the cases were grouped into one on which judgment was given today. It is expected that the Master's decision will be appealed to a higher tribunal.

DEAD MAN CHARGED.

TORONTO, January 14. — Canadian Press. — F. J. Daly, who was president of the Home Bank when it closed its doors, and who died before the charges on conspiracy in connection with the failure came to trial, is accused in the judgment of Official Referee Garrow, given out to-day on double liability case, of trafficking in shares, with the bank's money, "to secure the commanding position which he afterwards obtained."

The judgment said: "I am quite satisfied that if there was money to be made out of it, it was Daly's intention that the profits should be his and not the bank's."

THE WEATHER.

There was another cold dip last night, the temperature going down to 12 degrees below zero. The air was perfectly calm and but little inconvenience was caused, nor was the cold severely felt.—W. P.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press) — Thirteen hundred Arabs were lodged in the jails of Aleppo the second largest city of Syria, following the tumultuous riots in that city during Sunday's elections for the Syrian National Assembly, according to advices received by the Jewish telegraphic agency here.

The riots grew out of demonstrations by Arab Nationalist groups who advocated a boycott of the elections. The disorders made it necessary to close the polls.

NATURE'S ARM

The fizz in the pop bottle has gone up in the world, says Popular Science Monthly, for surgeons are considering seriously its use as an anesthetic in the operating room. At a clinic recently held in Philadelphia, Dr. Ben Morgan of Chicago demonstrated its use before the Eastern Society of Anesthetists. Carbon dioxide, Dr. Morgan explained, is the non-poisonous anesthetic used by nature itself. If you are hurt badly in an accident your breathing is lessened, and an excess quantity of carbon dioxide in your blood makes you fall asleep.

PILES DISAPPEAR

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at McDermid and Jury, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

CUTICURA HEALS RED PIMPLES

On Face, Scaled Over and Itched and Burned Terribly. Could Not Sleep.

"My face broke out with small pimples which later grew larger and were very red. The pimples scaled over and itched and burned terribly, and I could not sleep at night because of the irritation. The trouble lasted about six weeks.

"My mother recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Stella Dudley, Stratford, Wash., June 7, 1924.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health often when all else fails.

MANY ATTENDED FUNERAL OF BOY

High School Was Closed and Cadets Attended in a Body.

COMFORTING ADDRESS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14—The High School was closed Wednesday afternoon to give the students an opportunity to attend the funeral of one of their number, Fred Lawrence Sergeant, who met with a tragic death on Monday when he fell from the balcony of his parent's residence on Tice street. Fred was in the third form and was one of the brightest and most promising members of his class.

The cadets to which Fred also belonged, turned out over 60 strong and marched from the High School to the home of the deceased under the leadership of Principal Greig and Messrs. Stephens and Groh, the other two male members of the staff. The Boy Scouts were also represented at the obsequies although they did not parade. The floral tributes sent in by fellow students and other friends, were many and beautiful.

"It Is Well."

Christ Church, where the funeral services were conducted by the Rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke, was crowded to the doors, and a large number were turned away, being unable to find either standing room on main floor or in the gallery. Mr. Clarke chose as the subject of his discourse, the words found in the 26th verse of the fourth chapter of the 2nd Book of Kings: "It is well with the child It is well," the answer to the query being given by the grief stricken mother whose only son lay dead in her home.

It was well, the speaker said, with the youth, to pay a tribute to the memory of whom the friends had gathere, well with him in relation to the church, for he had been baptized in accordance with divine command, and had been brought up to discharge all his religious duties. It was well with him in relation to his school, for although he was only 15 years old he was in the Third Form in the High School. It was well with him in relation to his home, where his parents had always been willing to make sacrifices in order to give their children every advantage.

"In my Father's house are many mansions, I go to prepare a place for you." It was well with the child with relation to the future life. "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not," said the Saviour.

The choir, of which the deceased had for some time been a member, sang the hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee," "Safely Gathered in," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

The pall bearers, all members of the Sunday School class to which the deceased had belonged, were: James Heptonstall, Milton Mainprize, Morley Baker, William Hollings, Jack Bygott, and Harry Lambert.

Her Face Was Covered With Large, Red Pimples

Miss Greta Carlisle, 23 Leonard St., Brantford, Ont., writes:—"A short while ago, my face was completely covered with large red pimples, and it seemed that it was almost impossible for me to get rid of them, as nothing I took seemed to do me any good.

One day I noticed an advertisement of

and I will never regret the day I bought it, as, now, my face is entirely cleared up of blotches and pimples of every kind."

BACKYARD SILK FACTORY

Thousands of school children in the United States owe their first hand knowledge of the industrious silkworm to T. A. Keleher, an amateur entomologist of Washington, D.C., who for 26 years has been experimenting with silkworm culture in his own back yard. On half a dozen mulberry trees he raises from 10,000 to 20,000 of the creatures a year, says Popular Science Monthly, distributing them among schools as living exhibits. Every cocoon contains from 750 to 1,000 yards of silk.

STAGE SET FOR DECIDING VOTE DURING THE DAY

Vote on Meighen Amendment Expected Before Today's Session Ends.

BOTH CONFIDENT.

Each Party Claims Certain Majority of About Six.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press) — When parliament meets this afternoon the stage will be set for the deciding vote on the question of confidence in Mackenzie King Government. The question which has occupied the House of Commons during the four strenuous working days since Parliament was assembled last week. The vote is expected before today's sitting is concluded, even though it may not come until the small hours of Friday. What the vote will be is not indicated. The motion to give the Government's motion for the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne before all other business is opposed by an amendment submitted by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative Party, expressing want of confidence in the government. The deciding vote lies with the Progressives, and that group is still an uncertain quantity with those of its members who have participated in the debate for the most part expressing dissatisfaction with the government's record but all expressing reluctance to vote the Government out if the Conservative party is automatically to assume the task of forming a government. Both Liberals and Conservatives claim a certain majority of about half a dozen on the vote. If every member voted, and if all the Progressives and Independents supported Government it would be sustained by a majority of a dozen. There is a possibility that some of these may abstain from voting so that the result is bound to be very close. Predictions as to the exact result of the vote are many and varied. There is little of solid fact on which to base a prophecy. The result of what is probably the most interesting vote ever taken in the Canadian House of Commons remains to be seen.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM SPENCER.

WARSAW, Jan. 14.—The funeral of the late William Spencer on Saturday afternoon was very largely attended. The service was held in the United Church. Rev. H. B. Herrington conducted the services at the home, in the church, and at the Warsaw cemetery.

Mr. Herrington preached a very earnest sermon from "He being dead yet liveth." He had known Mr. Spencer only a short time, and that had been as a sick man.

The hymns were: "The Morning Light is Breaking", "Rock of Ages" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus". The choir sang a suitable anthem, and Mr. Henry Batten sang "There Shall No Night There." There were some beautiful flowers.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. T. Clements, Arthur Carveth, H. Digweed, E. R. Hamblin, Rork and Richard Ferguson.

GARRET MCMURRAY.

FIR AND LARCH TO REPLACE OAK

Canadian Woodmen Will Hack Down Trees in Robin Hood's Domain.

1,000 ACRES EXTENT.

BEWDLEY, Worcestershire, Eng Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—Wyre Forest, an area of 1000 acres of ancient oaks, which in the days of Robin Hood was the Royal Hunting ground, is to be cleared by modern woodmen, and the ground replanted in fir and larch. Authorities decided that the old oak, while picturesque, were useless and occupied altogether too much space for practical purposes. Canadian foresters are to have charge of reforestation.

LAKEFIELD A.Y.P.A. HELD JOLLY PARTY

Christmas Social, Which Had Been Postponed, Was Much Enjoyed.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14. — The postponed Christmas party of the A.Y.P.A. took place on Monday evening with an attendance of about thirty-five. The committee in charge were Rev. W. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Woodhouse and Mr. Stenner and they spared no pains to provide a varied programme of amusements. Each lady took supper for two and each gentleman a favor for his partner. Partners were drawn for about 10 o'clock. The evening was very jolly and lost none of its pleasure by being postponed.

The next meeting will take the form of a sleigh drive.

Rev. W. H. Howard has handed in his resignation as pastor of the Lakefield Baptist Church and leaves shortly to take charge of the Baptist church at Forest, Lambton county. Mr. and Mrs. Howard have been in the village about thirteen months and their departure after this short term does not in any way reflect on their relations with their people as there has been the greatest harmony between pastor and people and there are deep regrets on both sides at the severing of the ties which have bound them together.

Two small boys with home made snow ploughs did a kind act on Monday evening by making paths around several streets in their neighborhood, among other streets, Chippewa avenue, Colborne street, were made passable for pedestrians. The fall of snow beginning lightly in the afternoon became heavier and heavier till by night a great quantity had fallen.

Mr. Sidney Hunter has sold his residence on Chippewa avenue to Mr. W. W. Yale, the C.N.R. agent. Mr. Hunter will remove to the house on Katherine street owned by his brother, Mr. Josiah Hunter.

Mr. B. Q. Dench who made the high score at the regular shoots of the Lakefield Rifle Association during the past summer was the recipient of a handsomely embossed silver plate, 12 inches in diameter with the following engraved inscription: "Presented by the Dominion of Canada to members of Civilian Rifle Associations for skill in rifle shooting, won by B. Q. Dench of the Lakefield Rifle Association 1925." Mr. Dench's average in the four shoots was 88 per cent.

Mr. Walter Trude, who made the highest score in the team shoot last year, received a silver cup.

At the annual meeting of the Sunbeam Mission Band of the United (Presbyterian) church held recently these officers were elected:

Superintendent—Mrs. S. W. McKibbin.
President—Miss Reba Preston.
Vice-President—Miss Helen Porter.
Secretary—Miss Phyllis Morrison.
Treasurer—Miss Margaret Tanner.
Roll Secretary—Alex Sutton.
Lookout Secretary — Miss Ethel Blakely.
Pianists—Misses Dorothy Sutton and Mary Hendren.

Misses Helen Porter and Margaret Tanner procured Junior Life Memberships during the past year.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1926.

STILL CARRYING ON.

Although the Canadian Red Cross Society is not before the public so prominently as in the days when it was doing so much to help Canada's overseas forces, it is evident from the reports presented at the annual meeting of the local branch the other day that there is still a great deal of useful work being done by the organization.

Wisely, during the past year the efforts of the society have been directed toward interesting and educating the citizens in public health work, and it is obvious that such a course is decidedly valuable.

The home nursing classes, of which ten were held during 1925, attracted a good deal of interest, as is shown by the fact that the total enrolment was 162, and that 65 per cent. of those who attended the classes were awarded certificates of proficiency.

Other social service organizations have received substantial financial assistance from the Red Cross Society during the year, and the local branch is to be congratulated upon the completion of twelve months' excellent service in the public interest.

LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENTS.

Although no general record covering the number of level crossing accidents throughout the continent is available, figures compiled in the State of New York for the Public Service Commission enable the drawing of conclusions that are applicable to the conditions elsewhere and are eloquent to the need of greater care on the part of drivers.

In that State, Examiner readers will be surprised to learn that grade crossing accidents increased from 242 in 1914 to 1,093 in 1925.

Reckless driving is the chief reason for the increase, according to the report, and in verification of this charge is the astonishing fact that one-third of the accidents resulted from side collisions of trains and motor cars.

In other words, some 350 cars actually ran into trains.

One-tenth of the accidents were the result of stalled motors, and out of the 1,093 reported automobiles were concerned in 940.

In many cases warning signals were neglected—in fact, a large number of accidents resulted from motor cars smashing through crossing gates and piling into passing trains.

Safety campaigns, having as their object the education of the motoring public to the need of great care in approaching grade crossings, have evidently not yet succeeded, and the efforts will have to be repeated with increased vigour in view of the growing total of victims of level crossing accidents.

THE INCOME TAX.

Hon. George H. Boivin, Minister of Customs and Excise, has been quoted as "having declared war on a reported lobby being engineered in Toronto and Montreal for the abolition of the income tax, and on the main argument of these alleged lobbyists that it costs the Federal Government 62 1-2 per cent. to collect the tax."

The last contention is, of course, absurd, and Mr. Boivin is perfectly justified in correcting it by pointing out that the actual cost of collection is only 2 2-3 per cent.

But if the Minister is going to declare war on all those who favour the abolition of the income tax he is going to cross swords with a very large proportion of the people of this Dominion.

It is true that Mr. Forke and most of the Progressives favour the income tax, but their admiration for it is not shared by anybody else, least of all by the workers who realize that from them at least every cent of the income tax is levied, no matter who else may escape.

The workers pay a big share of the total tax, and there is no way for them to dodge it; the amount of their yearly earnings is known and they are compelled to pay.

Naturally they regard a levy that is evaded by other people with resentment.

In addition, there is the fact that the United States income tax has been so materially reduced that the people of this country are justified in demanding that the example set across the border shall be followed.

FLASK-TOTING.

The Examiner has no apologies to make for its references to the increasing habit of carrying liquor to public dances.

It is a condition that exists not only here, but generally through the Province.

By many people the Ontario Temperance Act is blamed for the beginning of this practice, but whatever the cause there is no doubt that the habit is on the increase.

What is to be the end of it all?

If dances cannot be held without a liberal supply of hip-flasks and without the consequences that follow the consumption of the contents thereof, there is quite likely to be a demand from many citizens that dances shall not be held at all.

For strange as it may seem, there are many people who like dancing for dancing's sake, and they are beginning to resent the conduct of those who seek to use a public dance merely as an excuse for a drinking party.

Many of the offenders carry liquor to such places, not because they particularly want to drink, but because they have become obsessed with the idea that such conduct is smart.

If they would realise that instead of being smart it is at its best foolish and at its worst an affront to every decent man and women in attendance at public dances, the Examiner fancies that the habit of flask-toting on such occasions would soon fall into disfavour.

But if it doesn't and those in charge of such dances have not the moral courage to deal with the offenders, there is no reason why the police should not take a hand in the game.

It may come to that yet.

BREAKING THE BANK.

To those who take the purely gambling view of stock market speculation there is some interest in the recent death of "the man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo," says Barron's. Nobody really ever broke the bank there, or any bank like it. In the days when Captain Bower was credited with that feat the bank "limit" was a million francs, that being £40,000, or $200,000 at the stable rates of exchange prevailing thirty years ago. That was the limit that the bank permitted itself to lose at any session, afternoon or evening. At baccarat, roulette or the "little horses" the bank's percentage looks small, but, given as large a turnover as that of Monte Carlo, the profits are enormous, and the occasional player who goes away a winner is an advertisement cheap at the price.

But the small tape-gambler in the stock market, who thinks he can make quick profits by getting in and out of the market, is giving away a far higher percentage. He is betting heavy odds on what is, theoretically at least, an even money chance. Suppose he is content with a two-point turn? He not only pays the broker's commission of an eighth of one per cent. He starts with the turn of the market against him, assuming such a price as 74 1-4 bid, 74 1-2 asked. He pays the latter price, and can only sell immediately at the former, or a loss of a quarter of one per cent., with another commission to the broker for selling. The stock has, therefore, to advance two and a half points to let him make his two points, while a decline of one and one-half points wipes out his two per cent. stop-loss order. He is, therefore, betting five to three on an even money chance. It will be seen that if he is buying, after careful study of the major trend of the market, on value for as much of the upward movement as he can secure, the market turn and broker's commission are a far less considerable item. Their importance diminishes as the market rises. This is the one true advantage of the floor trader, who pays no commissions to himself and can often eliminate the market turn. In other ways he is at a positive disadvantage, for, in a sense, he cannot see the forest for the trees.

MR. HUME CRONYN'S APPEAL.

Two reports have been issued from the board inquiring into coal mining conditions in Nova Scotia. The first contains the recommendations by the whole commission regarding wages, living conditions of the men, the recognition of the miners' union by the company, etc. The second report is made by Major Hume Cronyn of London, with the approval of the other members, and comes in the nature of an appeal particularly to Ontario and Quebec to consider the condition of a sister Province that has a very serious problem to deal with. It touches tariffs, not so much as a medium for protecting an industry as for providing work for a large number of men who need it, and sets forth in very plain words the inability of Nova Scotia coal to compete in the Montreal and Ontario markets with importations from the south.

There is nothing stated about these causes that is not a well-known and established fact. West Virginia soft coal is readily secured from the mines at a lower cost than can be secured in Nova Scotia. The coal is more easily taken from the mine to the pit mouth; there is an absence of the gas with which Nova Scotia miners have to contend. There are many other causes which so add to the cost of the Nova Scotia coal that it is not able to compete with the U. S. article when the two meet in the Canadian market.

Major Cronyn's appeal deals directly with these and with suggested solutions, so that it really takes precedence over the other report because it comes to grips with the very important point of how to secure an outlet for the product of the Nova Scotia miners and this means the providing of steady work for the miners. Were that accomplished many of the other troubles would disappear, because employment at a fair wage is the greatest medium yet devised to promote industrial peace.

The provisions asked for are Federal aid for the establishing of coking ovens; an increase in the duty on bituminous coal and screenings from United States, or, failing this, a bounty on coal shipped from the Maritimes to Montreal or beyond. Mr. Cronyn also suggests a treaty between United States and Canada to do away with duties on coal by both countries, the idea in this no doubt being to provide a market for Nova Scotia in the New England States. He states his preference for the first-mentioned method—coking plants and an import duty on soft coal and screenings.

No one will accuse Major Cronyn of being an advocate of tariffs for the sake of tariff. He admits himself that he is an adherent of the Manchester school of as free a trade as possible, yet in this instance he finds something which to his mind "transcends cold-blooded political economy or even the losses which may fall on the more thickly settled portions of Canada." It concerns the saving of an industry on which twenty per cent. of the people of Nova Scotia depend for their existence, and this Major Cronyn considers sufficiently important to warrant a departure from any trade theories he may have previously held.

Coke is a good substitute for hard coal. There are many homes burning it this winter for the first time and they have found it satisfactory. Not only is it possible to produce coke, but the coking process recovers a large number of very valuable commercial articles, such as gas, tar, oil, and from these come benzol, sulphur, cyanide, carbolic acid, lampblack, dyestuffs of many varieties, disinfectants, graphite, roofing materials, lubricants, ammonium sulphate. In all there must be 150 by-products that are recovered in an up-to-date coking process, and these should go a long way in nullifying the first cost of installation and other temporary disadvantages that must be incident to any plan that seeks to replace an established U. S. industry with an all-Canadian process.

Major Cronyn has presented the case for the consideration of Nova Scotia on the highest possible grounds—that of stronger and richer Provinces, particularly Ontario and Quebec, making concessions to assist a weaker Province solve a problem that has been and still is a formidable stumbling block to its progress and to the useful employment of many of its wage-earners.—London Advertiser.

A THOUGHT.

FRIENDSHIP A REWARD, NOT A GIFT.

Writing of friendship, Emerson says: "Make yourself useful to someone." As we live and learn, we come to know that service is the very foundation of friendship.

Reciprocal service rather than a habit of dependence is friendship's only sure foundation. Who can deny the magical power of a friendship that gives and takes, bears and forbears, leans and supports.

True, the price of friendship has been known to be self-sacrifice, but to the thinking soul who thus earns friendship, the memory of so permanently beautiful an experience is worth the price of placing another above self.

Soul inspiring is the knowledge of beautiful friendships made and sustained by mutual help and inspiration, personal discipline, generosity of thought and action, and interchangeable confidence, respect and esteem.

Judge a man by his friendships and you will not go wrong in your deduction; kindred souls turn to coach ther by instinct as surely as a needle turns toward a magnet.

I shall always contend that friendship is a reward, a compensation—not a gift. Not that we should strive for renumeration from friendship as though it were something to be bought or sold, but that we must always respect friendship as something to be earned.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — A few choice export steers brought $8.50 a cwt. Butchers' cattle have made a full recovery from Monday's decline, and choice butchers' heifers sold up to $7.50 a cwt. this morning. Heifers, which sold on Monday at $6.50, are bringing $7 a cwt. today. Trade in cows was satisfactory at steady prices. Two loads of Western stockers, 800 and 850 pounds each, sold well at $5.25 and $5.50 a cwt. These were the only ones on the market. All the butchers on sale were in enquiry today, and the afternoon will see the pens cleaned out.

Calves are maintaining a steady market with not too high a quality. Top calves are selling at 13½ cents a pound. The market is too high to allow of any Buffalo arbitrage today.

Some lambs sold as low as 14 cents a pound on Tuesday, but the market was quite steady this morning at 14½ cents for good ewes and wethers. Choice butchers' sheep brought 7½ cents a pound.

The run of hogs was heavier today, but not sufficient to give the packers a preferred position. Sellers are asking another quarter higher at $13 a cwt. f.o.b., and packers' bids are $12.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan 13 (Canadian Press).—With Argentina and Australia represented as pressing their surplus wheat for sale, the market here could muster no sufficient buying power today to overcome fully the effect of recurring declines. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 1-2 to 1 1-8c net loss, May, new, 1.73 3-4 to 1.73 7-8 and July 1.60 5-8 to 1.50 3-4. Corn finished 1 to 1 1-4 cents off, oats unchanged to 1-8c to 1-4c down, and provisions varying from a shade lower to 7 cents advance.

Unlooked for weakness of values at Liverpool and Buenos Aires started a downward trend early in the Chicago wheat pit, and led to selling out on the part of many holders of future deliveries. On the declines numerous standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits were forced into operation and May went nearly 3 cents under yesterday's latest figures.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Jan 13 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows: Sterling demand $4.86 3-8 sterling cables $4.86 7-8.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Storage holdings of eggs in Canada on January 1, 1926, were 3,439,788 dozens, as compared with 6,311,000 dozens on Dec. 1, 1925, and 2,318,053 on Jan. 1, 1925.

Continued heavy receipts are still depressing the Canadian egg markets. The present condition is due entirely to local production with American eggs not entering into consideration. Local eggs can be bought now for six cents less than American eggs can be laid down. Toronto production this winter has reached a greater volume than ever before.

Toronto — The situation is weak and a sharp break in storage prices is expected. Officially, prices are unchanged, but they are being shaded to effect sales.

Montreal—Egg market took a further 2 cent drop today, with consumption still remaining light and retailers not having yet reduced prices. There was considerable activity in the poultry market witih many shipments of dressed poultry to the States.

Winnipeg—Unchanged.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market today showed no improvement.

Owing to the continued downward tendency of cash wheat prices in the Winnipeg market, an easy feeling continues to prevail in the local market for spring wheat flour, but there was no further change in prices announced.

A moderate amount of business was done in standard grades of rolled oats at $3.40 to $3.50 per bag of 90 pounds, delivered to the trade.

A very firm feeling prevails in the market for potatoes and prices were unchanged but the volume of business was not large owing to the fact that buyers seem to be fairly well supplied for the time being and in sequence there were only sales of odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains at $3.50 per bag, and Quebec varieties at $3.00 to $3.25 per bag of 90 pounds ex track.

The receipts of butter today were 96 packages as compared with 68 for the same day last week, and 108 for the corresponding day a year ago. The tone of the market remains steady under a fair demand from all sources for small lots and a moderate amount of business was done.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal were 684 boxes, as against 359 for the same day last week, and 103 for the corresponding day a year ago. Business generally was reported dull. There being little or no demand from any source for supplies and prices on spot were nominally unchanged.

SMITH COUNCIL

The inaugural meeting of the 1926 Municipal Council of the township of Smith was held on Monday in the County Chambers, Peterboro. All the members were present. At 11 a.m. the oath of declaration of office was taken, after which the members took seats, as follows: J. A. Middleton, Reeve; G. H. Simpson, Deputy-Reeve, and Councillors H. B. Cooms, A. B. Mann and Gordon Fitzgerald.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A motion was passed raising the property qualification of Councillors to $600 and that of Reeves and Deputy-Reeves to $2,000. The Clerk was instructed to notify the County Clerk of the passing of this motion.

By-laws were passed making the following appointments: T. H. Graham, Road Superintendent; J. A. Young and Alexander Edmison, Auditors; Dr. J. A. Morgan, Medical Officer of Health; C. O. Northey, Assessor; J. Middleton, Collector, and J. A. Jobe to be Sanitary Inspector, School Attendance Officer, Relief Officer and Sheep Valuator. Walter Young was appointed to co-operate with Mr. Jobe in his capacity of Sheep Valuator. A bylaw was passed authorizing the formation of a local Board of Health, consisting of Reeve Middleton, Deputy-Reeve Simpson and Dr. J. A. Morgan, the Township Clerk, Mr. P. T. Udy, to act as Secretary.

On motion, the Clerk was instructed to order six copies of the publication, "Municipal World," to order 400 dog tags and to rebate $4 to Mr. Robert Cox in connection of an error in assessment. A motion was also passed instructing the Collector to retain his roll until February 6. The Collector reported that the sum of $2,601.15 was collected in taxes during 1925.

The Reeve, the Deputy-Reeve and Councillor Mann were appointed as a committee to interview the Chemong Park Association re collection of garbage and were asked to report at the next Council meeting.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid: Dr. King, $6, for services rendered; Aaron Comstock & Sons, $3, for use of ambulance; D. Belleghem & Son, $68, funeral charges of Mrs. Lancaster; P. T. Udy, $3, attendance at nomination; Walter Young, $1.50, work of Sheep Valuator; J. A. Jobe, $20, services as Sanitary Inspector, School Attendance Officer and Relief Officer; Nelson Cooms, $2.50, work of moving grader; Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Co., $6.50, wood.

The Council adjourned until Feb. 6.

GUIDE AVIATORS

Following a suggestion of the Army Air Servie, the Standard Oil Company of California recently ordered the names of towns and cities to be painted on the roofs of its warehouses as a guide to aviators, says Popular Science Monthly. The names will be painted in 12 foot letters, so that a pilot can ascertain his location at a glance.

A Healthy Appetite

Breakfast is the finest meal of the day—if you've an appetite for it.

Some people, of course, crawl into the breakfast-room with leaden feet, nibble half-heartedly at a bit of toast, glance mournfully at the paper and wonder why on earth they were born.

Others are ready for breakfast even before breakfast is ready for them. The fragrance of sizzling eggs and bacon is heaven in their nostrils. For what they are about to receive they are truly thankful.

A healthy appetite comes from a healthy body. That is why people who religiously keep up the Kruschen habit — the habit of the "little daily dimeful"—tackle their breakfast just as heartily as any other meal.

Not One Salt but Six

If Kruschen is the secret of a healthy appetite, what is the secret of Kruschen? The answer lies in the analysis, which shows it to be a blend of six different salts. There are some people who imagine there is little difference between Kruschen Salts and Epsom or Glauber. Actually there is all the difference in the world, because Epsom and Glauber contain each but a single salt, and therefore perform but a single function. They are aperients — and nothing more, they can't give you that famous "Kruschen feeling."

But Kruschen, with its six salts, not only clears the body of all clogging waste matter and purifies the blood: it has also a most valuable tonic action on the whole system, thrilling every fibre of you with a delightful sense of vitality and well-being.

After taking a few "little daily dimefuls" — tasteless in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea — you begin to feel a different person. Gone is that early-morning feeling of depression, of disinclination for food. Gone, too, are your headaches, your "nerves," your tiredness, and your internal troubles. You are healthier and happier in every way.

Remember — it's the little daily dimeful that does it. Start right away by getting a 75c bottle at your druggist's, begin the healthy Kruschen habit to-morrow morning, and you'll soon wonder how you ever existed in the days before you discovered this royal road to happiness.

NO ENTANGLING ALLIANCE, SAYS PROGRESSIVE MEMBER WEIGHING RESULT OF DESERTING LIBERALS

J. L. Brown of Lisgar Declares Freedom of Action on Legislation.

SHORT SESSION

Alternative Ballot Would Have Prevented Uncertainty, Brown Affirmed.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14. — (Canadian Press).—A fourth day of debate in the House on the Conservative amendment of non-confidence closed without a division. J. L. Brown, of Lisgar, was the only Progressive speaker and, like previous Progressives, he made no positive statement how he would vote. During Mr. Brown's speech there was reference to the announcement of Hon Hugh Guthrie the night before.

Mr. Brown referred to Mr. Guthrie's statement as clearly a bid for support. "I have no objection," Mr. Brown hastened, "to either party placing before us the claims they have to advance."

"It is a legitimate bid," interrupted Mr. Chaplin, Conservative, of Lincoln.

"Yes," agreed Mr. Brown. "It is a legitimate bid. And it is just as legitimate——"

Here Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, broke in: "The honorable gentleman argues that it is a bid for support," said Mr. Meighen. "What could come to the Progressives by virtue of that bid that certainly would not come to them if the bid were never made."

"It is not a bid. It is a statement of fact," commented Mr. Stewart, Conservative, of Leeds.

Mr. Brown replied: "A statement of that kind, when coupled with the assurance that they would be able to carry on for five years without another election, is undoubtedly a bid."

"Let Majority Rule."

During the afternoon, Major C. C. Power, Liberal, of Quebec South, remarked that Progressives sat in judgment now. But they should remember that perhaps to-morrow the Liberal members from Quebec might be judges. Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative, of Fort William, declared that the whole speech from the throne was a complete bid for Progressive support. Dr. Manion asserted that for Premier King to continue to occupy his position after being "discredited by the people" was a "brazen contempt of popular will." He appealed to Progressives to support the Conservative amendment "on the high ground of Canadianism." "Let them support us on the ground of majority rule," he exclaimed, and they would be assured of fair play when a Conservative Government came into power.

"No Entangling Alliance."

Mr. Brown said that he had been endeavoring to support that legislation which he thought good and just and to oppose legislation of which he disapproved. As to his attitude to the motion and the amendment before the House, he would discuss the matter at the present time no further than this: In case the amendment carried and the Conservative party is called on to form a Government, "I would have to support them on legislation which was satisfactory to me, and that is the only position I could take."

Mr. Brown contended that the debate so far had been greatly encumbered by irrevelancies. If the right of the Prime Minister to advise the Governor-General on the course to be taken in any political crisis was recognized then the Premier had as much right to carry on and assemble Parliament as to advise His Excellency to call in the leader of the Opposition. Mr. Brown thought that the real source of the political difficulty which confronted Canada was the absence of the alternative ballot. If that system of taking a vote had been in vogue he thought the country would have been able to express more clearly its will in Parliament.

Canada Needs Peace.

J. J. Denis (Liberal, Joliette) said that the Government was making no threat of a general election as Dr. Manion had said. On the Government side there was no fear of a general election. What the country needed was peace, and it was in the interests of Canada to retain that peace.

Dr. Manion had said that the people were the highest tribunal. This was true only at general elections. Between such times Parliament was supreme in the affairs of the country, Governments did not need a majority of the popular vote in order to carry on. There were frequent instances, such as that of Ramsay MacDonald, of Governments in power without a plurality. Dr. Manion, he said, had no right to use the term of "effrontery" referring to the Prime Minister of this country.

After claiming for two months that the Government had usurped power, when the House had an opportunity to make a decision, the Conservatives had begun to hedge with the result that procedure had been delayed up to the present time. The Government's action had been clear, honest and justified.

The Government, if sustained on the amendment, stated Mr. Denis, would remain in power only so long as desired by Parliament. Parliament was the master of the situation.

The people of Quebec in the past had been prepared to make concessions to the other provinces in the interests of unity and goodwill for the Dominion. This policy would in the future be pursued by Quebec Province.

Mr. Denis had not completed his speech when the House adjourned at six o'clock.

Grumbling under his breath, the Swede turned toward the steps, when Doc stepped violently back, with a savage "Hell!"

Connemara's heart leaped with a thrill as the two shadows in the shrubbery suddenly took on clear outlines and stepped full into the moonlight. One was short and stocky, the other tall and graceful. In the hand of each something silvery glistened.

Then a voice that Connemara had last heard as she was struggling to kick off a pair of silver slippers in the dark waters of Long Island Sound grated upon the air: "Stick up your arms! Stick 'em up! Or maybe the two o' ye'd like to get shot full o' nice leetle round holes?"

"McTish," Connemara whispered, on a rising hysterical note.

"I told you so, you poor fish," snapped Sweetie, promptly elevating her hands, and turned at the same time to blast the Swede with fury. But in that moment, with an agility which startled Connemara almost out of her wits, the big blond Swede had stooped behind the wicker chair in which she was helplessly bound, and was dragging her, chair and all, toward the open door of the house.

"Go on and shoot!" he yelled, mockingly. "Maybe you could miss her!" The flop of the Swede's flat-iron shoes diminished. A window was flung up, and she knew that he had leaped out.

As she fought to right herself, she heard the noises of unmistakable conflict upon the porch. Why didn't McTish shoot? But of course—he was afraid of hitting her. And already the Swede must be creeping through the bushes; at any moment he would hurl himself from the rear upon the two unwitting rescuers.

With desperate heave she toppled the wicker chair from her back and rolled over facing the porch. One glance took in the situation. Scarcely a yard from her, Doc and the slim, tall man were locked in what looked like some new dance step—only there was a silent grimness about the dance which froze her blood. McTish, holding out his revolver, was leaping ridiculously about the locked figures, obviously unable to make a decision between keeping Sweetie covered with the gun and bringing it down upon Doc's head. Sweetie, meanwhile, with infinitesimal steps was edging toward the very doorway through which the Swede had escaped, and within which Connemara was sprawled.

Then it happened.

"Look out!" Connemara shrieked. But already the Swede, like a gigantic rug thrown by an invisible hand, had sailed out of the darkness and completely enveloped McTish. Down they went. And at the thud Sweetie dashed for the doorway.

Connemara kicked out. Sweetie, caught up shaply in mid-flight, yelled, "Owd! My shin!" and her whole body fell across Connemara's chest. Connemara collapsed limply, but even as she felt that the breath would never return to her lungs, a voice inside her head kept insisting, "You must hang on! You must!"

Sweetie was losing no time in regaining her feet. Shaken though she was by her fall, she managed to grasp the chair, and had already pulled herself up to a standing position, one foot upon Connemara's shoulder, the other close by the prostrate girl's nose.

"Now she's going to dash through the door! Stop her," flashed that new, insistent command through Connemara's brain. Her answering action was purely automatic. She was a lady—all well and good. But there are times when being ladylike has its disadvantages. What would Saltonstall Cabot Adams, heir of all the codfish kings, have said if he could have seen his Cayenne Pairy suddenly dart her head in the direction of Sweetie's foot, and sink her practically incomparable teeth into that young woman's plump calf?

Speculation upon such a question is idle. Nor shall it be recorded here what Sweetie, stricken with anguish, announced in a loud voice to high heaven. Backward she tumbled, and again Connemara received the whole weight of a one-hundred-and-thirty-pound girl across her diaphragm. And this time blackness followed. For (she will never know in what manner) not only Sweetie, but Swede and McTish, Lacy and Doc, as if by some pre-arranged signal, tripped over the two recumbent females, and formed one of those quaint masses of humanity known to youngsters as a "niggerpile."

To the eternal credit of her red hair be it written that, upon opening her eyes some five minutes later she did not utter those time-honored words, "Where am I?" What she said was, "Well, for cryin' out loud!"—a phrase which her Aunt Celimena would have recognized as a euphemism. It was an exclamation denoting surprise; a surprise not due to the vision of Salt and Bing, in bathrobes, now on the scene and engaged in an apparently violent altercation with the red-headed McTish not far away; nor to the sigh of Sweetie, binding the familiar perfumed handkerchief around her own calf and weeping gently the while; nor, again, was it a purple and swelling eye, staring anxiously at her from a foot away, an eye whose pleasant twinkling had captured considerable of her interest when she had first climbed into a strange motor car many hours before. No, what startled her was the fact that the owner of the eye was encircling her waist with strong tenderness, and his voice was whispering, "Sweetheart, Sweetheart!"

She found the sensation singularly pleasurable. Why hadn't she fought down the impulse to cry out? Too late. For Lacy, reddening, started back, relaxed his hold upon her waist, and burbled, "Oh, Lord, I was afraid—Thank Heaven, you're all right!"

She sat up, felt herself gingerly, then smiled coolly. "Quite all right, thank you."

Quickly she got to her feet, serene despite the consciousness that there would be, before many minutes, numerous painful spots upon her ribs which would take on the color of Lacy's eye. What a peach he was! And so fearless. And so very strong! That steel arm of his about her waist—

But this was not yet the time for sentimentality. The fifty thousand—that must be accounted for first. She turned to McTish.

"You didn't find the money on those men, did you?" she asked. Her glance strayed past him and scrutinized the shadows of the porch curiously. "Why—why, where are they? The Swede, I mean, and Doc. Oh, McTish," she wailed, "they didn't get away after all?"

"They did thot," the diminutive Scotsman growled in disgust. "These gentlemen"—a nod indicated the bathrobed figures at his side—"heard the noise, an' figured maybe they might be needed. So they cam' doon, juist in time to mix up in that wedge in the doorway, wi' the result that when things quieted doon a bit, an' somebody had presence o' mind to strike a light, Mr. Lacy, here, was holdin' on to you Adams feller, an Mr. Carrington had me in a clinch, an' the gang was gane—clean. Naturally. An' a pretty endin' for twa nichts o' harrd worrk."

He glared at the unlucky Bing and Salt, whose unasked assistance had so unexpectedly and neatly defeated his careful planning.

"An' the fifty thousand's gane too," he added drearily. "We'll never see a ha'penny o't now. We'd 'a' had that an' the gang likewise if busybodies 'd only kept their hands aff. It wasn't hard to figure out if Sweetie an' the money was baith in the house the nicht, the rest o' the creatures'd be hangin' roond somewheres."

CANADIAN GRAIN HELD IN U.S. BOATS

Winter Storage at Canadian Posts Until Spring.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press) — Protests were made at a meeting of the Dominion Marine Association yesterday against the action of the Dominion Government in suspending the coastal laws. Condemnation was directed chiefly against the practice of permitting United States boats to hold grain in storage during the winter at Canadian ports.

Last November the Government passed an order-in-council permitting United States boats to load grain at Canadian ports for winter storage, providing the grain was unloaded at Canadian ports. This was done, it was claimed, on the advice of the board of grain commissioners, which asserted it would increase storage facilities.

It was asserted at the meeting that boats load grain before navigation closes, stay in a Canadian port and then unload at a United States port in the spring. A case was cited of twenty such boats which loaded in the early winter and left in the spring for Buffalo. It was declared that the Government was powerless to prevent them.

The order-in-council was condemned in principle by the association and also because it fails to enforce the avowed intention of the board of grain commissioners.

DUKE CLAIMING HUGE ESTATES

Would Be One of Richest Land Owners in Germany.

AN ENGLISHMAN.

BERLIN, Jan. 14 — (Canadian Press). — Prince Charles Edward, former Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, whom one Berlin newspaper describes as "an out and out Englishman, who has never renounced his British nationality," will be one of the richest landowners in Germany if he is awarded the estates he is now claiming from his former realms. This was revealed in yesterday's hearing before the judiciary committee of the Reichstag, which is considering the claims of former royal families of indemnification.

During this hearing a Socialist deputy made the charge that the duke has applied for a foreign loan to be secured on his German possessions.

A supreme court decision already has awarded him 30,000,000 gold marks and extensive estates, but he is making further claims for compensation from the Thuringian Government.

The duke is a nephew of King Edward VII. of England. Before the war he held the British title of Duke of Albany, and was colonel-in-chief of the famous Seaforth Highlanders.

THIRD OPERATION ON FORMER KAISER

Villagers Gossip About Death of Ear Specialist.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press)—The former kaiser of Germany has been confined to his chateau for the last ten days following his third operation for ear trouble. Member of his suite maintain a guarded silence about his condition, but workmen on the estate report that they have seen his familiar figure, topped with a black skull cap, at the windows of the chateau.

There has been much gossip in the Doorn village about the death of Dr. Passow, the eminent German ear specialist, shortly after he had operated on Wilhelm. The villagers profess to see in this a "strange coincidence." Dr. Passow was seized by a fatal illness shortly after the operation and rushed in the middle of the night to a hospital at Utrecht where he died on January 8.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF AXE MURDER TELLS OF CRIME

Bound and Gagged, She "Dialed" Operator on Automatic Telephone.

SHE HEARD THUD

Knew Nothing of Attack—Husband Never Regained Consciousness.

SASKATOON, Sask., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press). — Mrs. Laura Johnson was formally arraigned in city police court yesterday on a charge of murdering her husband, James E. Johnson, 36, railway mail clerk. She was remanded until Jan. 20.

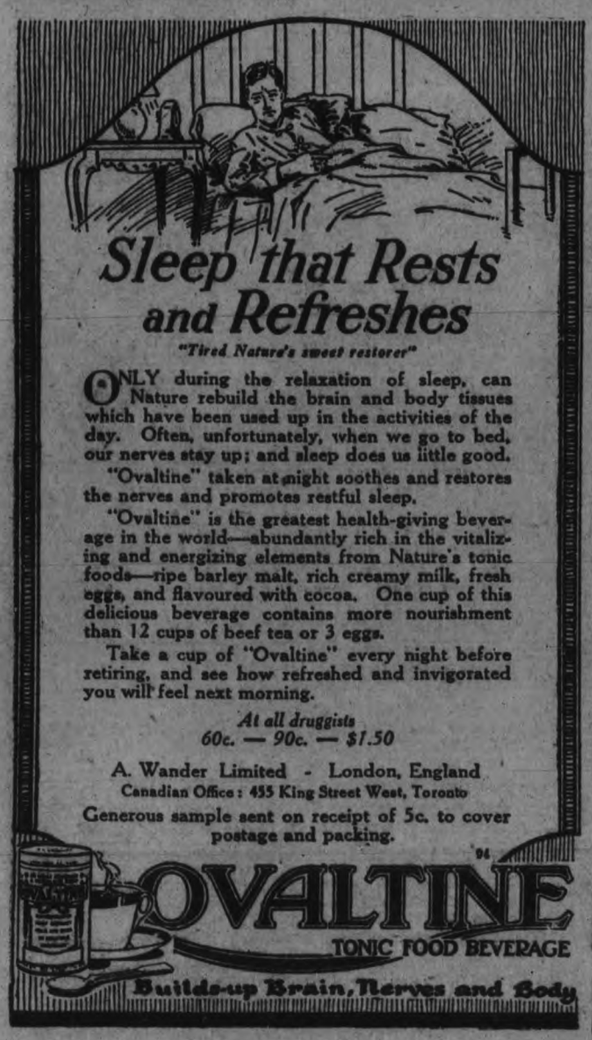
Just after midnight Tuesday, after being grilled for an hour and a half by J. W. Estey, agent of the attorney-general, at the inquest into her husband's death, Mrs. Johnson was placed under arrest and spent the night in the cells. No plea was taken Wednesday and it is not expected an application for bail will be made.

Johnson was terribly battered about the head with an axe or hatchet as he lay in bed Christmas night. He died nine days later without having regained consciousness. His wife had called the police, she said, after finding herself bound and gagged, by hobbling to the telephone, lifting off the receiver with her teeth, getting a tooth brush in her teeth and dialing number "O", which called the long distance operator, whom she told to call the police. All this time her hands were tied behind her back and her feet were hobbled, she said.

She said at the inquest Tuesday night that she had moved the dial of the telephone two or three times before manging to swing it all the way round to "O", but said she had not touched the receiver hook, which would have cleared the automatic so that "O" would ring through. Mrs. Johnson also said she knew nothing of what happened before she found herself on the floor, bound, except that once she heard a thud, saw a flash of light and saw blood on her husband's face. When she came to, she was lying bound in the next room, she said. She admitted having four glasses of beer on Christmas Day, but said she was not intoxicated on going to bed at 9 p.m.

The attack occurred some time between then and 10.30 or 10.40 p.m. when her cry for help came over the telephone. Her evidence was given under protection of the Canada Evidence Act.

The Johnsons were well off, Mrs. Johnson having brought to their marriage four years ago two farms and heavy life insurance left by her deceased first husband, who was killed overseas. She is about 35 years of age.



EIGHT BANDITS ROBBED DINERS

$8,000 Booty From 200 Patrons of Restaurant.

NEW YORK EPISODE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Between $8,000 and $10,000 in cash was taken from 200 diners in an east side restaurant early yesterday by a gang of at least eight bandits.

Echoes of the wild west came in the daring and leisurely holdup. Six of the bandits carried two guns each. And, typical of the mining camp "bad men," the leader of the gang, by way of introduction, fired three shots into the floor.

The victims were largely owners and waiters of other east side restaurants. This accounted for the large amount of money obtained, since many had in their pockets the night's receipts.

After firing the shots the patrons were lined up against two walls. The leader inspected the victims much as an officer might review his army.

Spurned Jewelry.

The bandits went carefully over the crowd, spurning all jewelry, but extracting fat bankrolls. One waiter, after yielding up $40, told the gunmen that it represented his week's wages, and that his children were ill. The money was returned.

The bandits, warning their victims what might be expected if any outcry was raised too soon, retired to an automobile, in which it is believed there were at least two confederates and drove off without molestation.

NEW DEVICE FOR CLEARING SNOW

Chemong Roadmaster Attaches Long Board to Road Grader.

IS SUCCESSFUL

A new idea has been introduced by Bruce Bell, Roadmaster of Chemong Road, in his work of clearing away the snow. This consists of a long board fastened to the grader and makes a clean, smooth path available for automobiles. Tuesday this idea was given a fair test under ordinary conditions and excellent results were speedily apparent. Many predictions are made in this neighborhood to the effect that there will be less snow than in recent years. If this hope is realized, it is possible that Mr. Bell, with the aid of his new device, will be enabled to keep the road open for all kinds of motor traffic throughout the winter.

Arrested German Plays Farewell Solo on Violin Before Going To Prison.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—"Please let me say good-bye to my violin," pleaded Hans Maly, who allegdly divides his time between shoplifting and playing in cafes, when arrested last evening.

Permission was granted and he rendered Handel's "Largo" so feelingly that one policeman began to weep. Then, without a word of protest, he entered the Black Maria.

Fretful, fidgety children usually have trouble in the digestive tract. Happy dispositions are largely the result of proper nourishment.

Balanced food helps to make nervous children healthy, because it satisfies every craving of the appetite. Quaker Oats contains many essential food elements in correct proportion . . . carbohydrates, which give energy . . . proteins, which build bone and muscle . . . vitamines, which are vital aids to food assimilation.

WINTER SCHOOL HAS GOOD START

Annual Bay of Quinte Study Classes Convene at Cobourg.

INSPIRING LECTURES

COBOURG, Jan. 14.—Delegates arrived all day Monday at Bay of Quinte Winter School, and the attendance is large. There have been some disappointments, because of the inability of some of the teachers and leaders coming, mostly because of illness, but their places have been most efficiently filled.

The Quinte School this year has a larger territory to draw from as the bounds of the conference have been enlarged, and also because of the larger United Church.

Rev. R. T. Richards, Peterborough, opened the sessions with devotional services that were inspiring and uplifting. This is Mr. Richards big task each day to start the proceedings off with inspiration during the worship period.

Bible Study Groups

"Jesus' Way of Life" is the general theme, which was taken up by the three study groups that assembled in different rooms at the same hour, to derive inspiration, stimulation for service and admiration by a study of the life of Christ. These studies are being continued each morning during the week. They are being led by Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Brighton, a former Cobourg pastor and ex-president of Bay of Quinte conference; Rev. R. T. Richards, Peterborough, and Rev. E. Harston, Woodville, the instigator and organizer of the first Bay of Quinte school. These are proving to be seasons of uplifting thought.

It is a matter of regret to the students that Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, Wellington, formerly of Omemee, where he has many friends, who was to have taken part in the Bible study group, is unable to be present. Rev. W. R. Tanton, Napanee, is detained by illness in his family, and Rev. J. E. Griffith is also unable to be present.

Following the Bible study, the delegates spent an inspirational half hour in the study of religious education, under the leadership of Rev. Roy H. Rickard, of Northfirst, who took a course in this subject and received the degree of Master of Religious Education. He is an able leader.

Mission Study

The study of missions and missionary work are always given outstanding prominence on the curriculum of Bay of Quinte Winter School.

With Rev. F. W. Anderson, associate pastor of the Port Hope United Church, as their leader, the delegates assembled for the last period of the morning for mission study, their theme being "Marks of a World Christian."

The delegates are billeted in the homes of the people of Cobourg, and these have been so freely opened that there is plenty of accommodation. They pay for board and room, $7 for a week, and a corresponding amount per day for less than a week. A registration fee of $2 is also charged to meet the expenses of the school.

Afternoon Session

Rev. Alfred Brown, D.D., pastor of the convention church, led the worship period when the school assembled at two o'clock Monday afternoon.

The school had the inspiration and help of Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, B.D., Toronto, who dealt with the first subdivision of the great theme, "The United Church of Canada at Work," speaking upon the interesting subject of home missions in the United church. The theme was one of interest and virility in its wide resume of the efforts that are being made to Christianize and nationalize the diverse Canadian population.

After this there was the leadership training groups.

Rev. E. Harston, L.L.B., took up the big work of the C. S. E. T. (Canadian Standard Efficiency Test), in its connection with boys' work. Mrs. Elsie R. Smith was expected to have charge of the Canadian Girls in Training groups, but she was not able to come. Her place is being ably filled by Miss Bonna Mills of Nova Scotia, who arrived Monday afternoon from the Maritime Province for this important duty.

Another group was teacher training, and this was ably presided over by Rev. Harold Neall of Wooler. Rev. Archie McLaughlin, Keene, was to have taken up this work, but was prevented from coming by illness in his family.

The Inaugural Address.

Monday night at seven o'clock the delegates assembled in the schoolroom of Division Street United Church, for the Vesper service. Rev. F. J. Horwood, president, warmly greeted all to this fifth session of the school.

The president's greetings were followed by an inspiring address by Rev. D. C. Ramsay, M.A., pastor of St. John's church, Belleville, which was listened to with much pleasure and profit.

A Splendid Meeting.

It had been announced that Rev. R. ruce Taylor, D.D., principal of Queen's University, Kingston, would give an address on "Professor Henry Drummond," but Dr. Taylor was called away to New York by college duties. The committee, however, could not have been more fortunate, than they were, in obtaining the presence and help of Rev. Harold Young, Toronto, a former Peterborough minister, who gave a wonderful address, taking for his theme "Youth in the Seats of Power." The meeting was opened with Rev. F. J. Horwood presiding, and after singing and prayer, Mr. Everett Winter sang, with Mr. Frank Parkinson, organist accompanying. Other delightful musical numbers were given also, including solos by Mrs. W. Sparling, Cobourg, and Rev. Roy Rickard, Northport. Rev. H. A. Bant, secretary, made the announcements, and outlined the program for the following day.

To Rev. E. Harston, Woodville, was relegated the pleasant duty of introducing Rev. W. Harold Young to the audience, which embraced the members of the school, and quite a large number of their friends and of the Cobourg congregation. After kindly and felicitious words, Mr. Harston said that Mr. Young had been with them at three winter schools and needed no introduction and they all knew just what to expect. But to those who did not know Mr. Young he would say that "when Mr. Young speaks everybody listens. When Mr. Young speaks he has something to say. When Mr. Young has nothing more to say he sits down."

Mr. Young said in opening that the really big landmarks are the birthdays of new powers that have come into life to transform it and mould it. It was not the turning of a new page in the calendar. He referred to the middle ages and to the transformation of life and customs, the birth of new power by the advent of the printing presses, the use of gun powder, and other things. It was the birth of a new power in national life. The significant things are there that mark the beginning of better things, the coming of new forces.

The power of youth today is the most tremendous, the most significant thing in the world's affairs.

The Boys' Parliament.

Mr. Young said he attended the Older Boys' Parliament in Queen's Park, Toronto, and was much impressed with the dignified manner in which their leader and the members walked in and took their seats. Those seats were the ones which were soon to be occupied by those who control the destinies of Ontario. The world is paying more attention than ever today to what youth is saying. Youth is doing things which it never did before. "Don't think," he said to the young people, "that the world is not taking you seriously. Youth is occupying places which it never did before in the crusade against antiquity.

Would Change Places With Youth.

"There is not a person here over forty," said Mr. Young, "who would not change places with you at this time—at the opening of an era of so much importance. The world is being re-made in its religions and moral life. The world of tomorrow will be just what youth makes it. God pity you, God forgive you, you do not do your best to rebuild the world. You must make some contribution. You must address yourself to the task of giving the world a better supply of moral and religious power." Mr. Young referred to the advancement in material things, the advancement made in science and invention. He spoke of the airplane, the first venture made in 1903. When reported by a cub reporter, that the aircraft had remained suspended in the air for a few seconds, the story cost him his position, it was so unbelievable. Now, scarcely any person turns to look at an airplane. So with radio, wireless telegraphy, the X-ray and other things. The last twenty-five years have seen material progress unparalled before.

The Cruelty of Material Power

"What has man done with this magnificent, significant material power? With it man was able to destroy, to kill, to main, to torture his fellow men, and to hang a millstone of death around the nations of the world. Will war come again?" asked Mr. Young. He then showed how the deadly arts had been perfected and improved upon, until should this happen, the material weapons and defences of another war would be far more deadly, more diabolically cruel.

"Humanity today," he said, "is in a position that it never was in before. It has the forces to commit suicide and will unless there comes a baptism of moral and spiritual power. The world must learn self-control, the bridling of passion. The only hope for humanity is a baptism of high character from men of high ideals—from men who have gone to school with the Christ of Galilee." Mr. Young strongly impressed upon the young people their responsiiblity in giving to the world a baptism of spiritual power and moral character.

Honest Criticism Needed.

As a second point Mr. Young emphasized the world's need of honest criticism. "Only you," he said to the youth present, 'have the eyes to see, to see fearlessly and to see deep. There are plenty of things masquerading that are hollow to the core although pleasant to look upon. I plead with you not to be complacent about such things," he said. "Do not be afraid to be destructive in your criticism. Our forefathers, the pioneers, did destructive work with an axe clearing away the brush, chopping down trees, before they could do constructive work. Raise on uncomprising war," he said, "against everything that is not built up in the spirit of Christ. Go forth and relentlessly attack all that is evil.

"To do this, to do right is the glorious task of which God has called the youth of our day and age. The one thing that youth owes the world is new life to everything that means a larger life for humanity." He referred to the exploitation of those who are weak by those who have the power over them. "There are two kinds of music constantly in the air," said the speaker, "that of those who have gone pleasure made, and the still sad music of humanity tht comes from wrecked and ruined lives. Lend a hand wherever there are the weak and wavering, beaten down by the strong. The great question for us to answer is whether Jesus Christ is to be elected to Lordship in the lives of men. The challenge is to you," he said, "that Jesus Christ may be made Lord of Lords, and King of Kings.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

ICHRISTIAN SCIENCE ANSWERS REVEREND WILLIAM ALLEN.

To the Editor of the "Examiner."

Sir:

May I be allowed to correct a misstatement appearing in a report of a sermon delivered by the Rev. William Allen in St. Paul's Church, which only recently came to my attention. The subject was admirable in showing the necessity of deep thinking. While the statement was somewhat abrupt that Christian Science "Starts off with the lie that there is no pain, but people who have sat up all night with pain know that there is," I agree that it takes more than superficial thinking to prove the statement to be not a lie, but demonstrably true.

Pain, discomfort, and distress, are now uniformly conceded to be mental. Matter of itself, without mind, is sensationless. Being mental, one is thereby liberated from its bondage by the process "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

If Truth destroys it, it must be error—to be logical. This mental condition, calling itself pain, is of the mortal, carnal, mind, which is "enmity against God." This seeming opposition to God, also called "devil" and "evil," is destroyed for us and for all humanity when it is known that there is but one infinite Mind, Truth, which is God, good, filling all space, and having all power. This leaves no room for any opposite reality or existence.

May I assure the Rev. Mr. Allen that logical, deep thinking, of which he approves, applied to Christianity, is responsible for filling Christian Science Temples throughout the world, with scholarly and cultured people, who drive there in "fine automobiles, without a Ford car among them." I might also say that many come otherwise, because God is no respector of persons, and freedom from pain, suffering, and sickness are for all of God's children as Christ Jesus the great Wayshower preached, and practised, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. Heal the sick."

Mexican Officials Refuse To Divulge Information on Bandit Case.

MEXICO City, January 14. Canadian Press. — The Mexican authorities are not divulging any details of the reported capture or execution of the bandits who massacred the passengers and the guards aboard the Guadalajara-Mexico City train on Saturday night. So far as official information is concerned the case continues to be shrouded in mystery. Unconfirmed unofficial reports indicate that some of the bandits were captured and some were killed.

Bronchitis More Than a Cold

Often develops rapidly into pneumonia—relief is found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Any cold is serious enough when its dreadful possibilities are considered, but when there is soreness or tightness in the chest and a dry hard cough you can look for bronchitis, which is often confused with an ordinary cold.

It is usually known by aching limbs and body pains, chilly feelings, weariness and weakness, pain in the chest and a tight, tearing cough. Fever, dry skin, thirst, coated tongue and constipation are other symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine seems almost like a specific for bronchitis because it is so successful in loosening up the cough, aiding expectoration and preventing the inflammation from reaching the lungs.

No Paint Used, But Colors Brought Back by Using Chemicals.

By GUY E. RHOADES.

During the past summer the National Gallery of Canada was fortunate in securing, under peculiar circumstances, an extremely valuable addition to its collections of paintings by famous artists. It came in the form of a large canvas, once a unit in a set of three, by one of the most famous old masters, Paolo Veronese, of the old Venetian school of painters.

Had it not been for an unusual accident Canada never would have acquired the picture. And had it not been for the fact that Mr. C. W. Colley is one of the most skilful restorers in the world, the painting would have been lost altogether.

The previous owner of the Veronese was bringing it over from England with the intention of selling it to one of the larger and richer galleries in New York City. But when he reached this side of the Atlantic he found to his dismay that the picture had been placed head down in the bottom of the ship's hold, where it had lain for fifteen days in the bilge water.

Two weeks of soaking in the sea water had done it no good. Indeed, that half of the painting which had been submerged was crusted over with about half an inch of salt and other sediment which to all appearances had totally destroyed the color. Restoration seemed to be beyond hope, so the would-be salesman claimed insurance.

This caused a delay, for the insurance company had its headquarters on the other side; and it was not until the picture had been sent back for examination that the company finally came to a decision. But when the officials saw the stained and apparently deteriorated canvas they paid the insurance without protest.

Usually an insurance concern will have a picture restored if there is any hope at all, and will attempt to sell it for whatever price it will bring. In this case, however, no such attempt was made. The Veronese was simply given up as lost.

It was at this time that Mr. Eric Brown, director of the National Gallery, and Mr. C. W. Colley, a well-known free-lance restorer, saw the picture. Mr. Colley examined it and at once advised Mr. Brown to buy it if possible, guaranteeing that he would be able to restore it to its original condition.

Mr. Brown approached the insurance company accordingly and got the canvas for a price ridiculously below the actual value of the picture, which would have been prohibitive so far as our National Gallery was concerned.

Adding New Paint a Mistake.

So it was that the Veronese found its way to Ottawa, about three months after the accident had happened to it. Mr. Colley in a comparatively short time completely restored the picture, so that now it is hung among the important paintings in the National Gallery.

No detailed account of Mr. Colley's methods can be given, as his processes are unique and secret. Nevertheless he readily consented to give a general outline of the work done.

"When first I got hold of the picture it was in a frightful state," said Mr. Colley. "The whole upper half was so thickly crusted over with salt that nothing could be seen of the paint.

"My first task was to take off this coating of injurious matter. And when I had done so I found that the action of the chemicals in the sea water had been so strong as apparently to obscure or kill the colors entirely. And that portion of the picture which had been damaged was about the color of grey marble.

"The next operation was feeding the colors, as I call it. That is, I gave the picture such treatment as would remove all the impurities and foreig.. matter from the print, leaving it as it had been originally. This part of the process was entirely a matter of chemistry. It was necessary for me to know just what the salt water had left in the canvas and to use such chemicals as would counteract the action of those already present. My task really was to arrest decay and to remove its cause, which amounts to the same thing as bringing the colors back to their original strengtn and brilliance.

"After that the picture had to be relined with new canvas which would give strength to the backing. Indeed, the original canvas was scarcely strong enough to carry the paint.

"The point which I should like to stress particularly," said Mr. Colley, "is the fact that throughout all the work of restoring this picture there was no paint used. It would have been no trick at all to have added a daub of color here and there where there was a bruise or a weakness. But such work does not last for long."

Mr. Colley told me that there are a great many restorers of the more mercenary order who will not hesitate to touch up a damaged picture with paint and brushes, giving it brilliance where it is faded. Yet, he said, this mode of procedure does more harm than good, for in a year or so the spots of new paint stand out like scars all over the face of the old.

The strength of the new patch, the paint in this case, is so different from that of the old picture that it builds up unequal stresses which tend to strain and crack the old surface around the patch. This picture should now be good for another four hundred years.

Actually Lifting Paint Film.

"The whole secret of my ability lies in the fact that I have studied," explained Mr. Colley. "I intended to become a painter myself, and started as an art student; but later I became interested in the restoration and preservation of the old masters which are in danger of passing out of the world. And I have stuck to that for about twenty-five years.

"The work has become more of a science than an art. Everything I do must be the result of exact knowledge.

"I must know exactly what I am going to do and how I am going to do it before I begin. Otherwise I might ruin a picture. This is particularly so in the case of transferring, when the actual film of paint must be detached from its original base and moved on to another safer and more solid."

Mr. Colley then showed me an old oil which he had taken from a decaying canvas and transferred on to a slab of marble. Had it been left on the canvas it would undoubtedly have been lost, whereas now it will last, comparatively speaking, forever.

"A thorough knowledge of the old masters is essential to the successful restorer," Mr. Colley said. "In order that I should become competent it was necessary for me to learn all I could about the methods employed by the various old schools of painting whose works I restore. In this way I know almost exactly how a picture was painted. That is, when I know who painted a picture I know the chemistry of the colors, the probable quality of the canvas and just how thick I may expect to find the paint."

He then told of some work he had done on old paintings which had wooden bases in place of the usual canvas. The wood itself was decayed and it was necessary to transfer the film of paint to something else.

The nature and condition of the wood made it extremely treacherous to work with. Mr. Colley could not chip it off with a chisel even though it was about two inches thick. There was only one thing which could be done with any degree of safety. He had to begin at the back and remove the old base, powdering it off till he got down to the paint. This he had to place on marble or aluminum backing, taking care all the while not to break or crack it.

This should be enough to show that restoring pictures must be a nerve racking occupation.

The restorer spoke of the old masters, the durability of their work, and the so-called secrets which have made them last so long. It seems that actually their secrets were very few indeed. They had a few formulae, it is true, and each artist had his pet colors which he made himself. But there was nothing mysterious about it.

These old painters lived in an age of handicrafts when everything was made to last. They wove their own canvases, ground their own paints and then painted their pictures with the intention that they should live long after they themselves had gone.

RUM RUNNERS FIND GOLDEN AGE IS GONE

Vigilance of Coast Guard and Speedy Justice Disheartens Smugglers.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press).—The financial troubles of Sir Roderick Hartwell, the British rum-running baronet, are not without their counterpart on the Pacific Coast, where litigation following the seizure of several of the largest vessels in the liquor smuggling business has proved exceedingly costly to their operators.

Activity of the United States coastguard, coupled with the operation of the new treaty agreed upon by the Canadian and United States governments to curb the traffic in contraband has made the life of the professional rum runner along the coast anything but the prosperous and pleasant existence it was some months ago, when it appeared comparatively easy to successfully run blockade and land liquor on the California coast at top prices.

Those days are gone, and nothing illustrates the fact more completely than the fate of the steamer Quadra, which had a long and honorable career as a Canadian government lighthouse ship and in the legitimate coastwise trade before taking on evil days as flagship of one of the most enterprising rum-running outfits in Pacific waters.

The Quadra was seized with 15,000 cases of whiskey valued at close of a million dollars while cruising off the Farralon Islands, west of the Golden Gate, late in the summer of 1924. The vessel's master and crew and her owners were charged as conspirators against the Volstead Act and were given sentences varying from fines to two years' imprisonment. The sentences were appealed, and now the California Circuit Court has upheld the sentences. Further appeals are hinted at, but it is all very disheartening to the bootlegging gentry.

The decision sustains the contention that vessels do not have to be within the twelve mile limit to become the lawful prize of the coastguard.

ENGLAND PLANS GREATEST SHIPS IN NEW DESIGNS

Sea Fighters Making Effort To Maintain Marine Supremacy of World.

NEW SUBMARINE.

Japan Building Undersea Craft to Cross Pacific and Return.

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 8 (United Press.) —Despite European proposals for further naval disarmament England's foremost designer of battleships is at work on plans for an amazing new airplane carrier armed with 16 inch guns.

At the same time that a concerted move for the abolition of the submarine is being organized, naval writers have revealed for the first time the performance figures of the British X 1, the world's largest submarine.

From these counter moves, it is obvious according to naval experts, that the sea-fighters of England are not going to sit back and see the power of their navy stripped from them without a bitter fight to retain it. The revelations of the capacities of the latest submarines, together with the outline of plans for the newest type of fighting ship — "the Warship of the Future it is called—it is believed are but the first moves in a strategic warfare against naval disarmament.

In the newest of fighting ships projected by Sir George Thurston, the well known naval architect, it is proposed to supercede all existing battleships and aircraft carriers, by combining in one ship the function of each.

Among the outstanding features of the proposed new ship are:

Thirty airplanes to be carried.
Six 16 inch guns.
Armor, 10 and 12 inches thick,
Displacement 28,000 tons.
Speed 26 1-2 knots.
No masts and no smokestacks.
Upper "deck" to consists of a flat landing platform.

This platform would extend nearly two-thirds the length of the boat which is proposed at 750 feet.

According to the designer, this new ship would hav call the fighting capacity of the battleship "Nelson" with the aircraft carrying capacity of the carrier "Eagle," whose combined displacement is 58,000 tons. The great defect of the aircraft carrier "Eagle" it was pointed out by Sir George Thurston lay in its inability to fight back if attacked, due to its lack of formidable guns or heavy protective armor. Though the "Eagle" has tremendous speed it was pointed out that a single light cruiser cutting across the "Eagle's" line of fiight could probably sink her with a few well directed shells. But the proposed carrier with its battery of six 16-inch guns and thick protective armor would be able to stay in line and fight it out with any battleship afloat.

Regarding the British submarine X1, it is declared that this new craft which is 350 feet in length, and whose displacement is 3,600 tons, can remain submerged two and one-half days. A complement of 121 officers and men is required to operate the X1. It is armed with a 16-inch gun, and provision is made for carrying a small flight airplane which can be used as "eyes" for the submarine when it is on the surface of the water.

Japan, it is said here, is also now constructing some remarkable submarines of about 2,000 tons displacement. These it is understood are designed to cross the Pacific and return—a distance of about 16,000 miles—without refueling. They have also been designed to carry a small airplane for scouting purposes when the submarine is on the surface. By the building into the armor of the submarine of a "bulge" that has been developed by designers, newest of these draft it is said have been rendered so far as possible, proof against depth charges, which are the most feared by submarines of all forms of under-water attack.

'How To Cook a Man' Advice By Papuan Chef

LONDON, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press). — Sir Hubert Murray, Governor of Papua, a British Island possession, north of Austarlia, in which cannibalism still is practised, has just published a new book, "Papua of Today," in which he gives a sidelight on cannibalistic cooking.

While Sir Hubert was investigating the case of cannibalism the question of cooking methods arose. One Papuan witness objected to the testimony of another native, because, he said, "Jazi, Jazi is a poor cook. If you cook a man on an open fire I agree that he will be tough," this witness continued, "but cooked on hot stones and covered with leaves the stringiest old man will be tender. Why should he be any tougher than a bush pig?"

Sir Hubert is a brother of Sir Gilbert Murray, noted as a classical scholar.

HENRY CLAY FRICK—THE "COKE KING."

"I recal that by running barefooted most of the year I was able to make a pair of boots last two Winters," said Henry Clay Frick, unashamed. It seems incredible that a man starting out so poor in life, with a limited education, should be employing thousands of men and worth thousands of dollars in his early thirties. A few years later he was classed as one of the six greatest business men in America, the largest owner of land and buildings, with a 250-acre park in Pittsburgh and a costly palace in New York containing one of the world's finest private collections of paintings, statuary and other priceless treasures of art.

His career, typically American, illustrates what a combination of brains, hard work, courage and concentration can accomplish without a college education or "pull."

"Hard work is the thing," said he "From 1889 to 1895 I did not have a day's vacation." Think of the man who was already the "Coke King" of the world and chairman of the Carnegie Steel Co. working from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. for six years without rest!

Because he took hold of the unsystematized company earning less than $2,000,000 a year, brought order out of chaos and in twelve years had an organization earning $40,000,000 a year, many steel men say of him, "Frick did more to make the Carnegie Steel Co. than Carnegie himself did."

Henry Clay Frick was born in 1849 on a farm in Pennsylvania which he left at fourteen to find employment in a village store. But while measuring calico and weighing sugar his eyes held dreams of bigger things.

For a time he worked in Allegheny and Pittsburgh stores. Then a kind fate led him to the very heart of the Connelsville coal region, where he started in a flour mill and distillery until an opportunity came to buy an interest in a piece of land and start the new enterprise of coke-making. He went to Pittsburgh and persuaded banker Mellon to loan him $10,000 to finance the infant industry.

He Bought an Interest in Fifty Coke Ovens.

From fifty ovens it expanded to 12,000, owning three water plants, several short railroads, 1,200 cars and 35,000 acres of coal land. Frick became the owner of nearly the whole Connellsville coal region, which yearly supplied enough coke to load a train long enough to girdle the globe.

In the panic of 1873 his partners went under, but Frick determined to stand by his guns. Though called a lunatic for doing so he borrowed money enough to buy out his partners' interests and to gather in other bankrupt coal and coke properties. Before he was thirty years old he was a millionaire.

In 1882 he sold Carnegie one-half interest in his coke company, and in 1889 the "Coke King" became a partner in the Carnegie Company.

Every check that Frick gave for benevolent purposes—and they were many—bore the pictured likeness of his little lost daughter. He died December 2, 1919.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BETTY HAS A PEEK INTO A QUEER MARKET PLACE.

Betty took the pennies her Daddy had given her and ran to put them in her bank.

"I wish I could take them all down town and spend them," she mused. "But Daddy says he worked hard for those pennies and I must take care of them and save them."

"Just the thing to do," chirped a tiny voice. Betty turned around to see Gocomeback, the happy elfin of Travel Land smiling at her. "You should live where a little brown friend of mine lives," he laughed. "There they don't have to buy with money, they——"

"Why, what in the world do they use?" asked the excited Betty. "Oh, please, Gocomeback, let's go there, where-ever-it-is. I do so want to go shopping just once. Mother wouldn't take me this morning. Daddy gave me some pennies to stay at home."

"Sure, we'll go," said Gocomeback; "in fact, I was on my way there when I heard you rattling the pennies in your hand." Before Betty could ask where they were going, Gocomeback set her down in the queerest market place Betty had ever seen, saying, "Here you are in Central Africa."

The market place was in a great big grove. There were no shops. Here everyone had a mat upon which he sat and another mat spread out in front of him, with the wares he had for sale. Hardly anyone wore any clothes to speak of — just shawls draped from their shoulders, and their legs and feet were bare; but their brown faces were all smiles to Betty and Gocomeback.

They stopped at a peanut mat where a little brown boy was selling peanuts.

Betty wanted some, and when she asked how much they were, the little brown boy picked up two white shells from a pile of shells on one end of his mat counter and showed them to Betty.

"But I don't want to buy shells," declared Betty. "I want peanuts."

"That's what he means, laughed Gocomeback. "You see, in this section of Central Africa, they don't use money like we do, they use these little white money shells. Now for instance, those twelve peanuts will cost you two white shells. Shells are used instead of money."

"Isn't that funny?" returned Betty. "My, but when I get home I'm going to gather a lot of those shells and then will come marketing again some time. Do they all pay in shells?"

"Oh, no; in some sections they use beads," replied Gocomeback. "Then in other locailties they use brass rods. Now these fellows will exchange their shells for your pennies. You can get twelve shells for one penny."

"That's funny, I'll tell Mama——" began Betty when a hand touched her cheek and Betty looked up into her mother's face.

"Wake up, honey, or your Daddy will be ready for town before you are," she said. "You must have had a funny dream, you were laughing in your sleep."

Betty jumped up and told her Mama of her queer dream. She dressed so fast she was all ready before her Daddy was. Then Betty went on a real shopping trip.

A fairly lively and enterprising day is the augury read from the prevailing lunar operations. Business as well as the professions may feel the spur of the lunar sextile to Mars, sustained by the semi-sextile to Mercury—both angles making for activity and an alert spirit which may forge on to success in any bold measures adopted. It is advisable that some precaution be observed in new ventures and that changes of importance may be considered

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a lively and progressive year, but they are enjoined to use some precaution in new ventures and in the matter of making changes. A child born on this day should be versatile, enterprising and lively in all directions and should make a success of its undertakings.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Builds Up Weight in Three Weeks

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight—or how much under-weight you are, "ironized yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.60 for a large 60-tablet package. Harold F. Ritchie & Co. Ltd. Toronto, Canada.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A few days ago I had occasion to visit a hospital to call on a sick friend. As I passed down the corridor, somebody called to me through an open door. I found the voice to be that of another friend whom I have not seen for several years.

This lady looked so pretty with her beautiful hair, sparkling eyes and fair skin, that I immediately said: "What in the world are you doing in a hospital? You look too charming and healthy to be in a sick bed!"

It turned out she had pernicious anemia. Of course it must be admitted this is a serious ailment. The victim may look well but the disease cannot be regarded lightly.

Various forms of treatment have been recommended. The friend I have just mentioned was using radium.

A short time ago I saw the report of a paper read before the Pittsburgh Allegheny County Medical Society by Dr. Frederick M. Allen. Whenever my old friend Dr. Allen says something I listen. He is an able scientist, with a long record of achievement.

This paper reported hopeful results in the treatment of pernicious anemia. I am anxious to get a complete copy of what was said because the press dispatch is so encouraging.

Dr. Allen very properly classifies pernicious anemia with those diseases which interfere with or pervert the assimilation of food. On this account he places the ailment in the group with kidney diseases and diabetes.

According to Dr. Allen's theory, the cause of pernicious anemia "is conceived to be some infection which has damaged the blood-forming organs, chief of which is the bone marrow, and upset the normal equilibrium between blood formation and blood destruction."

This statement may seem rather technical, but it can be explained this way: The body is all the time being torn down, as the gasoline is all the time being burned up in the automobile.

The body must be built constantly just as the supply of gasoline must be renewed. New blood which supplies the body fuel, must be formed just as fast as it is exhausted by use.

In pernicious anemia, something interferes with this balance between blood formation and blood destruction. Dr. Allen thinks the chief organism causing the trouble is the blood-destroying pus-germ. He would seek out and remove every pus centre, like bad teeth or an infected gall-bladder.

Then he recommends a diet to protect the blood corpuscles. To make them live and function as they should he regulates the mineral salts in the diet.

Another interesting feature of the treatment is the doing away with blood transfusions and powerful drugs, except in emergencies. The whole theory is interesting and hopeful. I trust the treatment may do the good it promises.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words being formed by numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

Solution will appear in to-morrow's issue of this paper.

BURNBRAE W.M.S. ANNUAL MEETING

All Officers Were Re-elected —Reports Show Good Condition.

BURNBRAE, Jan. 14.—A business meeting of the Ladies Aid of the Burnbrae Presbyterian church was held in the basement on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance considering the unfavorable weather and the meeting opened by the singing of hymn 254. The treasurer gave her report which showed that the society is on a good financial basis.

The election of officers came after the general business was disposed of. It was moved by Mrs. Thomas Watson and seconded by Mrs. (Rev.) D. A. McKenzie, that the present officers be re-elected for the current year and this was carried unanimously. On motion of Mrs. McKenzie a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the officers of the society who had so successfully performed their duties, encouraging them to similar effort this year not only financially but spiritually.

The ladies decided to serve lunch at the annual congregational meeting of the society in the basement of the church. Miss Nettie Hay and Miss Pearl Donald were appointed a programme committee. A short programme was then given and the meeting was brought to a close with the singing of hymn 521 and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Following is a list of the officers: Mrs. John Oddie, president; Mrs. Fry, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Taylor, 2nd vice-president; Miss Alice Milne, secretary; Mrs. Jane Stewart, treasurer; Miss Dorothy Watson, press secretary; Miss Pearl Donald, and Miss Mary Wilson, auditors.

A Fashion Model's Diary

TELLING ABOUT A SMART AFTERNOON FROCK.

Madame has a large clientele among people on the stage. She loves to design frocks for the various plays, and takes the greatest interest in having the things she designs suit the people and the part they have in the play.

"It's very interesting to help interpret a person's character in the clothes they wear," Madame replied to me, in answer to some questions about the designing she had in hand.

"For instance," Madame continued, "this velvet frock I am doing now is for a girl who plays the part of a secretary in one act, and is seen at home in the second act, after we learn that she is really an heiress in disguise."

"The dress looks simple and rich," I remarked.

"That's the feeling I want to portray exactly," Madame answered. "The young lady is the type who would choose frocks that are marked by smart simplicity, and I am sure this modish wine velvet is true to type."

The dress was straight in the back and fastened with a diagonal line across the front, leaving the skirt with soft rippling fulness. Very narrow gold braid followed the diagonal line of the front closing, and there were also gilt ball buttons along the closing side.

"The scarf collar gives a very smart touch," Madame said, "and how do you like the gold-dyed fur at the cuffs?"

"I like it very much. The gold color gives the necessary touch of richness, to my way of thinking," I assured her.

"The vogue for dyed furs has helped a lot this season," Madame remarked. "So many times when a frock I was designing needed a touch of richness, I've solved the problem by a touch of dyed fur in some lovely color."

"I saw an actress on the Avenue the other day, wearing a green mole coat and a small green mole hat to match," I remarked. "The effect was so striking that many people turned to look admiringly at her."

This Simple Wine Velvet Is Trimmed With Braid and Buttons.

United Church Service

The Sunday School was responsible on Monday evening for the opening service for the week of prayer, in connection with the United Church, the superintendent, Mr. W. Fred Fallis, taking charge.

A song service gave fitting introduction to the gathering, and Mr. Fallis led in prayer after which Rev. Joseph Wilks read the Scripture lesson and delivered the address.

"Is the Sunday School worth praying for?" was the arresting question which the speaker proceeded to answer. "The Sunday School aims to develop the religious education of its scholars, using as its text-book the Bible, which reveals the Father through the Son, Jesus Christ. Faithful teaching will lead to the acceptance of Christ as a personal Saviour, providing faith, patience, study and prayer are its accompaniments."

The Sunday School is a connecting link with the home, and instances could be multiplied proving this fact, the speaker relating one from personal knowledge where an infidel father was led to accept Christ through his little daughter, who induced him to go with her to the school. "A little child shall lead them."

It is not usually spoken of as the Church School, and no longer as the nursery of the church, since its members range from the cradle roll to the sometimes white-haired folk who through age, home ties, of infirmity, cannot attend school in person and unite with the Home Department. From birth to death the church school keeps in touch with its scholars, seeking to build Christian character and enrich the life by personal contact with God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit. "Yes, the Sunday school is worth praying for."

A season of prayer in which a number of the Sunday school teachers took part, following the hymn, "Where He leads me I will follow," brought the meeting to a close, Rev. F. H. Howard pronouncing the benediction.

Chicken Hatchery Has Capacity of 1,600 Eggs—Is Model Plant.

HARMSWORTH, B.C., Jan. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—What is claimed to be the largest incubator in Canada is now being operated here by F. G. Rump and E. E. Sandall, two returned soldier settlers. Their incubator has a capacity of 1,600 eggs and is electrically operated.

Rump and Sandall established their poultry farm on a twenty-acre clearing five years ago and now have a model egg plant. Their big incubator is housed in a 22 by 1... foot compartment of a 65 by 2... foot incubator house. It has its own switchboard. The trays to hold the eggs fit into a cylinder or drum. The eggs are turned twice daily and this process is accomplished by the application of a lever in less time than it takes to describe it.

LAYING TRACK BY ELECTRICITY

A new record for speed in track laying was established recently by a gang of 45 men on a railroad in the Ozarks, in Missouri, when they put down 130 rails, or about half a mile of new track, in one hour. This was made possible, says Popular Science Monthly, by a new electric rail laying machine, which tears up the old rails, lifts them out of the way, then puts new ones down bolts and spikes them.

What Causes the Sink to Chap?

RUMORS RUN RIOT AT OTTAWA AS CRUCIAL VOTE APPROACHES

One Knows Outcome of Momentous Day in Parliament.

HOUSE PACKED.

Predicted Now That Government Will Be Sustained on Division.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—Jammed galleries, hourly consultations of Progressive bargain-hunters, whispered interviews in corridors, members' rooms and restaurant and hushed attention to some speeches, which at any other time would be delivered to scores of empty seats, are all impressive testimony to the momentous character of the present Parliamentary crisis. The situation is tense and it is baffling. Anyone who is dogmatic about its outcome or about what will develop a few hours from now causes cynical amusement. It is not fashionable to know anything about it. Everybody knows, though, that it is fateful.

Almost at hourly periods yesterday there came varying voices about what would happen. First, the Government was safe, then Mr. Meighen was "in sure." Then some of the few Progressives who had promised him support were wavering. On Wednesday eight Progressives were counted on to help Mr. Meighen into power. They were said to be Miss MacPhail of Ontario, L. P. Beaubien of Manitoba, John Evans, A. M. Carmichael, M. N. Campbell and R. Fansher of Saskatchewan, W. T. Lucas and A. M. Boutillier of Alberta. Well-founded stories have considerably lessened that number —so much so that it is predicted freely in Liberal circles that the Government will be sustained in the crucial division, that the change is said to have come about as the result of another Progressive caucus on Wednesday morning and of subsequent conferences.

Some details of Mr. Meighen's tariff compromise to the small band of Progressives are now available. It is learned on good authority that the Conservative leader gave an understanding not to essay any general upward revision of the tariff, but to confine his alterations to raising the Canadian tariff on agricultural products up to the level of the United States tariff and to raise the tariff on agricultural implements, to the point from which Premier King made his reduction in 1924.

Great Britain May Abandon Plans For Imperial Conference.

HERTZOG OPPOSED.

LONDON, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—The Union of South Africa will not join the Mother Country in her plans for the security and peace of Europe as represented by the Locarno Treaty, and refused to take part in the projected imperial conference this autumn which would have under discussion the Dominions' responsibility in the Locarno Pact, it is stated in quarters close to the British Government.

General Hertzog, South Africa Premier, is understood to have informed the Colonial Office that his government has decided not to send a representative to the conference on the ground that the Dominion does not wan to participate in European affairs with which it is not directly concerned. Because of the attitude of the South African Goverment, Great Britain may not call a conference for this year.

"God Save the King" was then sung.

ITALIANS REFUSE TO BE SERVILE

Seek World Friendship on the Basis Of Equality.

IS PEACEFUL.

ROME, Jan. 14 (United Press).—Italy's "Imperialist spirit" means according to the Messagero, that 40,000,000 Italians refused to be placed beneath the economic tutelage of other countries.

This reply was elicited to a statement of Lloyd George, declaring that it was hard to say what the spirit meant.

The friendship which Italy seeks in the world will be on the basis of collaboration and equality, not on the basis of servility and dependency, says the paper. Furthermore, Italy wants to obtain thorough peaceful manifestations what the tenure of creed of other countries has denied her.

B.N.A. ACT QUOTED IN SCHOOL QUESTION

Separate Schools Counsel Contends Grants Should Be Given Without Restrictions.

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press)—That the separate schools of Ontario were entitled to public grants without any of the restrictions imposed on public schools receiving grants was the contention presentd by I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for the Separate Schools, when the hearing of the petition of the rights of the school board of the township of Tiny was continued today before Mr. Justice Rose.

The rights of Separate Schools to grants without having to fulfil any of the conditions, were based on section 93 of the British North America Act which prohibited any prejudice being done to rights of minorities where such rights were recognized at the Confederation. These rights were in perpetuity, Mr. Hellmuth claimed.

The bodies of the men brought to the surface indicated that they had been burned to death, relief men said.

Little Hysteria.

Despite the tragedy that touched many of its homes, an air of calmness prevailed generally throughout Wilburton, and there was little hysteria. Small crowds on the main street of the city did not talk much of the disaster.

A large part of the citizens spent a sleepless night, but were ready to resume the efforts this morning that were halted by the flames. Early this morning approximately 1,000 of the town's 2,000 inhabitants were at the mine or near by.

While Women Weep.

Many relatives remained at the mouth of the mine throughout the night, huddled about the scattered fires, awaiting recovery of the bodies of their loved ones. As the night wore on, almost dead silence settled upon the expectant group, broken now and then by the cries of women. One young woman, a sleeping baby on either knee, sat throughout most of the night. With no word she kept her place, on an old nail keg, warming the children before one of the flickering fires. Only with the approach of dawn and the announcement that no bodies were to be brought out immediately did she end her watch.

Miner Tells Story

WILBURTON, Okla., Jan. 14 (United Press)—Fire which burned all night in the Degnan-McConnell mine No. 21, where 101 were entombed yesterday, was brought under control early this morning and preparations were started to remove the bodies of the 92 miners known to be dead in the mine.

All night long rescue teams worked in peril of their lives. Parts of the mine were still filleld with gas but nevertheless workers went down, curtained off the gas filled chambers and fought the flames. Most of the bodies will be brought up today but some which are covered with debris in remote passages can not be reached for a week, it is estimated.

A re-check established definite 101 men had entered the mine just before the explosion occurred early yesterday morning, 25 white men and 76 negroes.

Four Sons Entombed.

Henry Phillips, who escaped alive, has four sons still in the mine. They are all dead. One of the rescued negroes is crippled and he hobbled out of the mine with a rude cane after the explosion.

Roy Gray, one of the eight, told his story of the disaster to-day. "I had just gotten down to the thirteenth level west and pulled off my coat to go to work," he said. "I didn't notice anything unusual. was in one of the rooms; suddenly the ground seemed to rise up and hit me. I don't remember hearing the explosion. I knew vaguely what had happened and I started to get out like everything.

After Damp in Shaft.

"Just then a little after dam came into West 13. I forget what did, but I remained crawling toward the shaft and yelling. It must have took me 45 minutes to get there, for I was unconscious part of the time.

"They told me afterwards, that it was my yelling that let them know that eight of us were alive.

"I didn't know what all had happened until I got out and they told me there had been an explosion on Level 16, which is the bottom level.

Improvised Stretchers.

Henry Johnson, a negro, after being rescued alive from the mine drank a cup of coffee and joined the rescue team. Improvised stretchers were made out of two by four and canvas and trucks supplement the ambulances in removing the dead.

JUNOR GAME TO BE HARD FIGHT

Young Petes Must Win To Stay in Running For This Group.

PLAYING LINDSAY.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, the Young Petes meet Lindsay Juniors here tomorrow night in what promises to be the most exciting game of the season. Aided by the narrow ice box, the Lindsay youths had a hard time getting the decision at home on Tuesday, having to go twenty minutes overtime, one of the hardest games played in the Lindsay rink, which has seen many a mighty battle.

The Peterborough kids have gone through two tough games since their opening game here against Markham and have demonstrated that even hard ice, they form a team that will take some beating. Lindsay has a good team, with weight and speed, but how they will get along on the bigger ice surface remains to be seen.

Another tomorrow's game will be a good to miss, and worthy of a larger crowd than usually attends a junior encounter.

BRINTONS BEAT CRESCENTS 2 TO 1 IN CITY LEAGUE

Four Smart Games at Brock Street Rink—Fifth Tie of Season.

SCORES WERE CLOSE

De Laval Romped Away From Raybestos in Second Period.

Four fast games were provided last night for City League hockey fans, and they combined to provide excitement and amusement for the large number of fans who came out. While not all the games were tight, they all provided good hockey.

Raybestos, 4; St. James, 4.

The third tie in five starts was staged in the first game, when Raybestos and St. James juniors played to a 4-4 draw. The game was fast, although Raybestos had the majority of the play. Payne in goal was like a stone wall and turned aside a great many shots. The checking of Heal at centre for the St. James boys was a feature. He broke up many fine rushes and intercepted a number of passes. The O.H.A. players, Chambers and Cripps, were well watched, although Cripps scored all four goals for his teams.

Play in the first period was of the end to end variety and half the period had gone before Chambers bulged the twine back of Payne. The advantage was not retained long as Cripps scored twice within a minute, once on a pass in front of the net and once on a long shot.

Three times in the second period the Raybestos boys tied up the game. On two occasions Cripps came through with the necessary shot to put his team ahead again, but the last goal was scored just as the timer was reaching for the bell.

Goals—Cripps 4, Chambers, Starr and Graham.

Penalties—Cripps 3, Heal, Austin, Corkery, Chambers.

St. James—Goal, Payne; defence, Seabrooke, Ashmore; centre, Heale; wings, Austin, Cripps; subs, Moffatt, Steer, Grose.

Raybestos—Goal, Koster; defence, Graham, Corkery; centre, Starr; wings, Chambers, Williams; subs, Williams, Hatton, Carroll, White.

Referee—McMartin.

St. Andrew's, 4; St. Peter's, 1.

St. Andrew's went into the lead of the Junior City Hockey League by their victory over St. Peter's by four goals to one in the second game. The Scots led all the way and had most of the play. Inability to lift their shots, coupled with good goalkeeping by Gillespie kept the Cathedral score down, while St. Andrew's boys fired vicious drives at Mein, who was distinctly off color.

Sowden and Hall led the winners attack while Rishea and LeBarr were best for the losers.

At the end of the first period the score was 3-0. Rishea cut down the lead by one but Allin got that back by slamming in the rebound of Hall's shot.

Both teams showed some combination but most of the goals were on long drives.

St. Andrew's—Goal, Gillespie; defence, Sowden, Marshall; centre, Hall; wings, Nixon, Allen; subs, Jennings, Mowry, Robertson, Roberts.

St. Peter's—Goal, Mein; defence, LeBarr, Rishea; centre, Carroll; wings, Archambault, Jones; subs, Grady, Wolffe.

Referee—Thirnbeck.

Goals—Sowden, Roberston, Hall, Allen, Rishea.

Penalties—Allen, LeBarr, Hall.

Brinton, 2; Crescents, 1.

A strong finish won for the Brinton Carpet team in the first of the two senior games last night at Brock street rink. Scoring the first goal of the game early in the first period and with Hall in goal doing the "They shall not pass" act, the Crescents' lead looked as big as a house. Toward the end of the second period, however, Pete King stickhandled around the whole Crescent team to go right in on Hall and score. A few minutes later Cripps scored on a short shot from a scrimmage in front of the net, which broke the tie and gave the Carpet makers the necessary goal to win.

For the winners, Lackey and McMartin played a heady game on the defence and were always dangerous on the attack. LeBarr was good in goal, and King was the pick of the forwards. Milloy scored the losers' goal on a shot from a short distance out, and was always one of the leaders. Hall withstood a terrific bombardment from all angles in the second period and played a good game in the net. It was a contest of age and experience against youth and speed and the experienced team won.

Brinton Carpet—Goal, LeBarr; defence, McMartin, Lackey; centre, Rose; wings, Chidley, King; subs, Cripps, White.

Crescents—Goal, Hall; defence, McDonough, Holland; centre, Jones; wings, Maudsley, Milloy; subs, Collins, Richea, Mahood.

Referee—McClorry.

Goals—Milloy, King, Cripps.

Penalties—White 2, Richea, McMartin, Holland.

De Laval, 5; Raybestos, 1.

The De Laval team is on top of the senior series of the City Hockey League, winning last night 5-1 in what had promised until well on in the second period to be a close game. The first period was scoreless, although both teams had many chances. The goalkeepers were right on and were given good protection by their defence men.

In the second all was changed. Twice in a row Dundas and Williams combined to beat the Raybestos defence and scored, Dundas adding the parting shot. McDougall then changed the record, putting in a solo rush for a good goal, which he deserved, as he had been trying hard all night, making rush after rush. Dundas and Williams then combined again, Jack Gillespie saved his team from a shutout by going in on Ward in a lone rush to score, and then Dundas scored again, this time on a pass from McDougall. For the last few minutes of the period the whole Raybestos team except Legros was down around the De Laval net and Ward was as busy as if had been practicing his forwards, but he kept out the opposition.

Goals — Dundas 4, McDougall, Gillespie.

Penalties—E. Williams 2, Miller 2, Thorntop.

Raybestos—Goal, Legros; defence, Coursey, Helson; centre, Butcher; wings, A. Williams, Gillespie; subs, G. Williams, Thornton, Batten, Wright.

Referee—McClory.

SECOND MESSIAH IS WORSHIPPED

Brahmins and Liberal Catholics Joined in Ceremony at Adyar.

MRS. BESANT AWAY?

LONDON, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—The Daily Sketch reasserts that J. Krishnamurti, a young Hindu, was proclaimed the "Second Messiah," by theosophists at Adyar, British India, last Monday. It does not, however, mention Mrs. Annie Besant, head of the International Theosophical Society, in connection with the ceremony. The Sketch says the bishops and priests of the Liberal Catholic Church joined with the Brahmins in the ceremony of proclamation and in common worship in Hindu, with addition made to the service by Krishnamurti.

SNOWSHOE CLUB AT FIRST MEET

Membership is Expected To Reach 200 Mark This Season.

HAPPY YOUTHS.

The local Ski and Snowshoe Club held its first meet last night, a good crowd of rosy cheeked youths, garbed in gay colored toggery being present. Last night being the opening night of the 1926 season, the presence of both members and prospective members was welcomed and many old acquaintances were renewed.

Leaving the Y. W. C. A. at 7.30 p.m., the party journeyed to the Prince of Wales School, where for about two hours the skiers fairly kept the hill hot, sliding and tumbling down it from all angles. From here they proceeded to the old Westclox factory on George Street South, where installation of officers for the present year took place, preceded by refreshments.

One glance at the membership will show the progress the club has made since it was formed two years ago. Last year the paid members numbered 101. This season the membership is expected to reach the two hundred mark, and by the way the application forms are going at present it may be well over that figure. The membership is limited to 200 members, so applications must be in early.

The club is in a good standing as far as finances are concerned, and a very successful season is looked forward to. If anyone is counting on learning to ski, now is the time to learn, when others are learning. This is not just a Ski and Snowshoe Club, but a get-together club, composed of young men and women, who are out to have a jolly time.

Skiing is Canada's most healthful winter sport. Ask those who do it. They will tell you whether it is or not.

George Logan will again occupy the seat of president this year, and he will be ably assisted as in the past by Gerry McClelland, who was again appointed vice-president. Frank White, the faithful secretary-treasurer last year, will look after the books for another term.

Announcement of the next hike will be made early next week.

MY GREAT GOD.

I have a Mighty God, unmeasured is His power,
It doth deliverance bring in each distressing hour;
When tempests hew my path, and fogs obscure my view,
He doth a passage make, and leads me safely through.

I have a Faithful God on whom I can depend,
The One who changes not but guides me to the end;
Oftimes I change and fail, but He remains the same,
Great is His faithfulness, for which I praise His name.

I have a Loving God—the One who seeks the lost,
How great His love appears when measred by the cost;
Exhaustless is His love—though feeble oft is mine,
Yet on His breast of love with joy I do recline.

I have a Patient God—how gently doth He bear,
Though wayward be my will, for Me He still doth care,
He draws my soul along the narrow upward way
That leads from earth's dark night to heaven's eternal day.

I have a Glorious God—nought shall His glory dim,
That glory I shall share and ever live with Him;
My God, give me the strength to make Thy glory known,
Until, through grace I share the honours of Thy throne.

Mr. Kane, who is conducting special meetings in the Gospel Hall, wrote the above poem since coming to Peterboro. Evidently he is both a preacher and a poet.

DISCUSSION OF THE NEW PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

A Resident of Peterborough Points Out Where There is a Fertile Field For Business.

A question in which a number of Peterborough people are interesting themselves is the building of the new provincial highway from Newcastle to Lindsay, and how Peterborough will be reached from the latter town.

One idea is that the provincial highway be built from Newcastle to Lindsay, there continue from Lindsay to Peterborough, striking the Chemong Road about three miles out.

The residents of Manvers offer an alternative suggestion. That is from the Newcastle to Lindsay highway the road to Peterborough be started on the 8th line, Manvers, running through to the boundary of Manvers and Cavan, then following the 10th line of Cavan to the middle road, to Coe's Corners and north to the 12th line, then coming along Scott's Corners on the Provincial highway, on into Peterborough.

This gentleman, a former resident of Manvers, who is now residing in Peterborough, states that this would open up a very fertile field for shoppers who desire to come to Peterborough now living in Manvers and Cavan, that it will shorten the distance to be built by ten or twelve miles, and would be a very serviceable road.

It is understood that Mr. Fallis, the Provincial member for Durham and Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P. West Peterborough, have been interested in the matter, and that the Chamber of Commerce of the city are also giving the matter considerable attention, and that a meeting will be called shortly to discuss the whole affair from the business standpoint of the city.

AT THE REGENT

NOVEL PLOT IN NEW THOMPSON PICTURE.

"The Wild Bull's Lair," a strange story by Marion Jackson, who has written so many of the Fred Thompson successes, is proving one of the athletic star's most popular vehicles at the Regent Theatre where it is now being shown; and certainly it is the most original plot which has been flashed on the screen in a "western" setting within memory. Supported by an excellent cast and mounted on his noted co-star, Silver King, Thomson sweeps through this story of superstition, mystery and the supernatural in whirlwind fashion; finally conquering a full grown bull in a thrilling fight at the close of the picture. Plenty of fine comedy keeps the story from becoming too "heavy" at times, and the direction is superb. Thomson is gaining histrionic ability to such a point that he will soon have to be seriously considered when the "champion actors" are up for ranking, as well as the head of the list of champion athletes.

AT THE CAPITOL

ON SCREEN FOR TEN YEARS; NEVER BEEN IN HOLLYWOOD

A movie actor of ten years' standing and he'd never been to Hollywood.

Strange as it may sound, this was true of Montague Love until the popular "heavy" player was cast in a featured role in the Paramount picture, "The Ancient Highway," a screen version of James Oliver Curwood's story directed by Irvin Willat and due for a run of 3 days at Capitol Theatre starting today.

Love, who at the time had just finished a vaudeville tour of 55 consecutive weeks, claims that he was placed in an embarrassing position many times during his vaudeville tour when, in the course of interviews for the press, he was naturally asked all sorts of questions about Hollywood and had to admit he had never even seen the place.

When he returned to the east, following the completion of his work in "The Ancient Highway," he was able to converse more knowingly of the "home of the movies."

Jack Holt and Billie Dove complete the trio of players featured in the picture, an outdoor romance with scenes laid in the logging country around Quebec.

COUNTRY BURDENED WITH GOVERNMENT

Resolution Will Be Submitted to Commons By Member For Comox-Alberni.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.— (Canadian Press.) — Sir Herbert Holt, President of the Royal Bank of Canada, addressed the shareholders of the institution at their annual meeting to-day made the following declarations:

"After several years of business depression there are beginning to emerge definite indications of a general improvement.

"Too large a percentage of our national income is being absorbed in taxation, retarding the growth of national wealth.

"The country is overburdened with government. The country simply cannot afford the present rate of expenditures," referring to the Canadian National Railways.

In regard to the tariff: "There is need of a scientific study by a properly constituted board to evolve and keep revised an adequate stable tariff for the protection of those industries which it is in the national interest to foster."

"I am convinced that the consolidation of our two great railway systems for the purpose of administration and operation on a basis that would not penalize the past efficiency and economy on the part of the privately-owned railway is the only practical means of quickly eliminating the present enormous loss," said Mr. Holt.

At nine o'clock Sunday morning, in the Nicholls Hospital, Mrs. Mary Elcome, widow of the late Edwin Elcome passed peacefully on to her heavenly home. During the past four years her health has been far from good, yet with the tender care of her devoted daughters she has been able to be about the home and occasionally at church.

Her patience in sickness, resignation in sorrow, love of the Bible, faith in prayer, and interest in everything pertaining to the spiritual welfare of the community were marked characteristics of her life. She was a faithful member of the Murray Street Baptist Church and a successful teacher for many years in the Sunday School.

Mrs. Elcome came to Canada from Aberdeen, Scotland, with her mother and sisters, forty-five years ago. "The Elcome family" has been well known and esteemed in Peterboro for more than a generation. In the religious activities of the city, the late Mr. Elcome was particularly active.

The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. W. Rose, of Murray Street and Rev. J. E. Todd of George Street, January 12, at 3 o'clock. The address given by Dr. Rose was based upon the words: "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." Rev. 14:13, a fitting tribute in the words of scripture, was also given. The following were the pall-bearers, R. Giddon, J. H. Renwick, A. J. Madill, Roland Merrill, A. W. Wray and A. Robertson.

The daughters and the brother and sisters have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

PATRICK BRICK.

In the death of Patrick Brick, of Lindsay, which occurred on January 7th, there passed away one of the early settlers of Ennismore. Some 84 years ago the deceased gentleman was born in Ennismore township, where he went to school, and then took up the honorable occupation of a tiller of the soil. Some 15 years ago he moved to Lindsay. He was predeceased by his devoted wife some three years ago.

The late Patrick Brick was of a retiring disposition well and favorably known and a good citizen. The funeral on January 9th was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, the pall-bearers being: Messrs. M. Bovey, D. Morrissey, P. J. Clancy, N. Murray, P. O'Neill and E.O'Neill. Very Rev. Dean Whibbs chanted the requiem mass interment taking place in the Catholic cemetery.

Spiritual bouquets were received from the following: Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, of Omemee; Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, Mr. Dan Healey, the Misses Marie and Kathleen Brick, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brick, Mr. and Mrs. Dan. O'Neill, Mrs. Margaret Brick, of Ennismore, Mr. and Mrs. Albert O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford McIlhargey, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill, Frank Brick of Ennismore, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Duffus of Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Brick.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the following members of the family who are left to mourn their father's loss: Frederick Brick, of North Dakota; Patrick Brick of Netherhill, Sask.; Herb. Brick of indsay, Ambrose Brick of Lindsay, Mrs. Wm. O'Neill of King's Wharf, Mrs. Ed. O'Neill of Kinmount, Mrs. W. I. Irwin of Omemee, and Levi Brick, of Lindsay.

Two sisters survive, namely Mrs. Ellen McAuliffe of Ennismore, and Mrs. Simon Perdue of Peterboro. — Lindsay Post.

DECIDE TO-NIGHT KING PARTY FATE

Liberals and Conservatives Both Confident of Obtaining Small Majority.

TORIES NEED 7 VOTES.

OTTAWA, January 14. — Canadian Press. — Robert Forke, leader of the Progressives, it is understood, will not address the House on the Meighen non-confidence amendment, which is expected to come to vote late to-night and decide the fate of the King government.

One Progressive, however, Alfred Speakman, of Red Deer, is listed among the speakers for this afternoon. J. J. Denis (Liberal-Joliette) will continue his speech as soon as the House opens at three o'clock.

There is no certainty just how the balance will swing. Both Liberals and Conservatives are confident they will win on a small majority.

Now that the position of J. W. King of North Huron has been regularized by a substitute return of the returning officer he will be able to vote in the coming division, and the Conservatives will need to get seven Progressive votes to defeat the government.

Seven Progressive votes would give the Conservatives a majority of two in the full house. With six the House would divide equally and the Speaker would have the casting vote.

LIBERAL GOVERNMENT SUSTAINED

Conservative Non-Confidence Measure Defeated When Only Five Progressives Vote for Amendment Meighen Sponsors

Demonstrations Accorded Bourassa, Woodworth, Miss McPhail and Robert Forke as They Cast Votes For the King Government—House Galleries Crowded With Spectators.

VOTE AGAINST AMENDMENT 123 TO 120 AND ONLY TWO MEMBERS DO NOT VOTE

Boivin Declares in Closing Hours of Debate Government Would Resign if Defeated on Division—French Canadians Sing Familiar Quebec Songs Before Voting.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press).—By a vote of 123 to 120, the King Government was sustained on the first test vote in the fifteenth Canadian Parliament. The division came at 12.30 this morning, after one of the most thrilling debates in Canadian history, and was followed by a tumultuous and gleeful demonstration on the part of Liberals.

Whereas eight Progressive votes were required to overthrow the administration, only five were cast in support of the want of confidence amendment of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Meighen's Progressive supporters were M. N. Campbell, W. T. Lucas, A. M. Carmichael, A. M. Boutillier and R. Fansher.

All the rest of them, including the Independents and Laborites, voted against the amendment: Lucas and Boutillier are from Alberta and the others from Saskatchewan.

An immediate consequence of this morning's vote in the House will be that the Prime Minister will seek a seat in the House. Machinery will be set in motion today to get him a constituency, the name of which will be announced almost immediately.

No official statement as to the constituency in which the Prime Minister will seek election is available, but it is rumored that he may contest Arthabaska, the seat made historic in that it was Sir Wilfrid Laurier's riding during crucial times. Another story says it is a Saskatchewan seat, but there is a general disposition to give credence to the first story, about Arthabaska.

A short time later it is probable that the announcement will be made that another minister will seek a seat in the House.

As to the question of appointments it is learned on good authority that no political appointments will be made until the Throne speech has been disposed of. Two or three minor departmental positions will be filled in the meantime but they are regarded as non-political and essential to the governmental business.

Progressives Applauded.

The Conservative members applauded loudly as each of the five Progressive members supporting the Meighen amendment, registered his vote. The Liberals on the other hand applauded even more loudly the nineteen Progressives who voted with the government.

Government supporters also accorded special demonstrations to Henri Bourassa, Independent; J. S. Woodworth, Labor, Winnipeg Centre; Miss Agnes MacPhail, and Robt. Forke, Progressive leader, as they cast votes against the amendment.

Sang "Allouette"

While the members were being called in the French-Canadiens in the Liberal benches struck up old familiar Quebec songs, "Allouette," as usual, being the favorite. They sang with vigor, and finally the English members caught up the strain and joined in with as much French as they knew.

The galleries remained crowded right up to the finish.

In the whole house of 245 members there were only two votes not cast; these were the votes of Speaker Lemieur and A. D. Chaplin (Conservative, Kent, Ont.) who is sick in the hospital.

The House adjourned until Monday, when the address in reply to the speech from the throne will be moved.

January Thaws in the West Confound Weather Prophets

WINNIPEG, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Western Canada is enjoying its warmest winter in several years, shattering prediction of "weather experts" that the Dominion was in for a bitterly cold season. January thaws have been general throughout the Prairies and in Winnipeg. A flock of 18 wild geese were observed Thursday flying to their spring haunts in the north.

CONFIDENCE VOTED

whose party was supported in a vote of confidence this morning.

The Motion Which was Defeated

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press) — The following is the text of the want of confidence amendment moved by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the house yesterday. That in the late general election the candidates of His Excellency's then advisers, at whose instance the appeal to the country was made, were defeated in a large majority of the constituencies.

That nine ministers of the crown, including the prime minister, were rejected at the polls and have no seats in parliament.

"That the party represented in the last parliament by His Majesty's opposition secured in the said election by far the largest support in the popular vote, and has substantially the largest number of members of any party in the present House of Commons.

"That those who now assume to be His Excellency's advisors have among them no Prime Minister with a seat in either House of Parliament, and under such circumstances are not competent to act as, or become, the committee of parliament, commonly known as the government, or to address parliament through His Excellency, and their attempted continuance in office is a violation of the principles and practice of British constitutional government."

HOLD SPEEDER FOR HOMICIDE

Passengers in Car Killed When Merill Drove Into Pole.

SHOWS DISREGARD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. — (United Press).—The State Supreme Court here has held that an indictment charging first degree murder can be returned by a grand jury against a speeder in whose car persons have lost their lives. This unusual decision, which is expected to have its effect on drunken joy-rides in the future, was made by Justice Stephen Callaghan to a grand jury hearing testimony in the case of Eugene Merrill, former Lieutenant Commander in the United States Navy, in whose car four were killed on Saturday when the automobile crashed into a telephone pole.

Merrill, who escaped with only a few bruises, is being held on a technical homicide charge.

The basis for Justice Callaghan's decision, it was learned, was that a speeder shows disregard for the consequences of his act.

LOSES HIS ARM IN CITY PLANT

NOT LONG HERE.

Robert Townsley, 105 Auburn Street, met with a serious accident at the Auburn plant of the Canadian Woollens, Limited, yesterday. His arm, by some means, became entangled in a machine, resulting in it being so badly damaged that it had to be amputated.

He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, and reports this morning state that he is progressing favorably.

A regrettable feature about the accident is the fact that Mr. Townsley had just recently come to the city, having arrived in this country from Ireland some two or three months ago.

"Parliament Has Spoken; Parliament Is Supreme," Is Premier MacKenzie King's Comment On Victory

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press). — "Parliament has spoken, and Parliament is supreme." This was the comment of Premier Mackenzie King today on the result of the division in the House of Commons last night.

Premier King was on his way to attend a meeting of the Cabinet when asked wheat he thought of the result. He said that he had not felt free to speak since the election. Now, however, the verdict of Parliament has been given, and he was free to comment.

"There will probably be a statement on Monday in the House of Commons," Mr. King said, when asked if he would seek a seat immediately. The Debate on the Address would be proceeded with until it was disposed of, and then there probably would be an adjournment of Parliament. Mr. King would say nothing as to his intentions with regard to his defeated ministers, but it is now practically certain that there will be a reduction of departments with consequent elimination of ministrieal heads. It is stated on good authority that the number of departments will be reduced by at least three.

'OUT IT GOES' WARNS FORKE IF KING GOVERNMENT FAILS TO CARRY OUT ITS PROMISES

May Count on Support of Progresisves So Long as Guarantees Are Kept—Farm Leader Looks For Some Measure of Co-opertaion.

HOPES FOR AMITY BUT READY FOR WAR IS ATTITUDE OF PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Possibility of Another Crisis Heightened By Necessity of King's Gaining Seat Shortly — If Member Resigns Snap Vote May Cause Reversal of Vote.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press) — The outstanding development in the political situation this morning is the statement from the Progressive leader, Robert Forke, indicating that the King Government may count on the support of the Farmers' party in carrying out its programme of legislation.

"There will have to be some means of co-operation," he said this morning when asked what the position of the Progressive party would be in relation to the Government. "We can't sit on the fence and simply pass judgment," said the Progressive leader. "We will have to agree to cooperate with the Government in putting through that legislation which they have promised." said Mr. Forke, who made it clear that with the votes of last night in opposition to the non confidence amendment the Progressive party had assumed certain definite responsibilities.

"If the Government does not bring down the legislation it has promised," said Mr. Forke later, "then out it goes."

Rumor Is Busy.

When the House meets on Monday the Speech from the Throne will have the right of way. The address will be moved by J. S. Elliott of West Middlesex, and seconded by Liguori Lacombe of Laval-Two Mountains. There is talk to-day that the debate on the address will be prolonged.

Before the House adjourned this morning, Mr. Lapointe intimated that it was intended to proceed with the address on Monday. This precludes until the debate is over the proposed recess of several weeks to permit Cabinet readjustment and the holding of by-elections. Premier King, according to current gossip, is likely to run in Prescott, but the sitting member has first either to resign or accept a disqualifying office, and if he did that before the division, the Government majority would be reduced by his vote. The same situation applies to the other defeated members of the Cabinet who intend to run in by-elections. A

Small Majority Recalls Few Still Closer Votes

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press).—The majority of three cast against the Conservative amendment is one of the slimmest on record, but there have been majorities still narrower. Last session, the Speaker's casting vote was needed in one division, although it was only on a private member's motion. One of the budgets in the last Parliament carried with only a majority of eight. There is also the tradition of one famous division years ago when the balance was swung on one vote—that of a sick member carried into the Chamber in blankets.

At Westminster, the Melbourne Government was defeated on a non-confidence motion by only one vote. The Government went to the polls and was defeated.

MRS. FALLIS AGAIN ELECTED LEADER CONSERVATIVE WOMEN AT AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Tells Gathering at Luncheon That Right Hon. Arthur Meighen Will be Recognized National Leader Within Few Days—Things Promising at Ottawa.

HER PARTY IS NOT INFALLIBLE BUT BEST THERE IS OFFERED

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Says He Has No Notice of Provincial Election in June—Association to Affiliate With the Local Council of Women.

A spirit of quiet confidence in the ultimate outcome, mingled with tension which would naturally result from the uncertainty prevailing in the Federal House, formed the dominant note of the annual meeting, held yesterday, of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough.

The Palm Room of Hooper's Confectionery Parlors was filled to capacity with the leading feminine exponents of Conservatism, who heard with interest the report by Mrs. Fallis of conditions prevailing in Ottawa, and dispatched in a business-like manner the election of officers for the current year. Mrs. Howard T. Fallis was unanimously elected as president for the third consecutive year.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., called during the course of the meeting and congratulated the association upon the work which they had done during the recent campaign.

Resolutions of confidence in the ability of Arthur Meighen and G. Howard Ferguson were presented and passed.

The secretary's reports of the last monthly and annual meetings were presented; a report of the treasurer showed a balance of some $21.00.

Officers Elected.

President—Mrs. H. T. Fallis.

First Vice-President — Mrs. J. Mills.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. A. E. Stinson.

RE-ELECTED.

MRS. HOWARD FALLIS,
yesterday re-elected President of the Women's Liberal Conservative Association of West Peterborough.

CHATEAU FRONTENAC MENACED BY STUBBORN FIRE IN OLD WING

Quebec's Entire Fire Department Battled Blaze for Hours Last Night.

SIX CASUALTIES.

$2,000,000 Damage Done and Five Firemen and Guest Are Injured.

QUEBEC, Jan. 15.— (Canadian Press.)—With a loss that is unofficially estimated around two million dollars, with five firemen taken to hospitals, and a commercial traveller named Boyd suffering from partial asphyxiation, the Chateau Frontenac Hotel, one of the premier hostelries in Canada, was the victim last night of a conflagration that raged for nearly five hours before it was finally controlled. The principal damage was sustained by the older portion of the building, that wing which overlooks the St. Lawrence river, and which contained the ancient drawing room and old tower. The new portion which houses guests and in which is situated the lofty, eighteen-storey central tower, was saved and did not suffer damage, beyond that of smoke and water. The north and south walls were destroyed, the roof falling in.

Fire Fell.

The blaze started around 5.30 in the old tower and made great headway. Five firemen were injured and had to be sent to hospitals when the ladder which they were rearing to combat the conflagration toppled, crashing them to the ground. The whole fire-fighting equipment of the city was summoned to aid, but despite their efforts the conflagration burned fiercely.

The upper part of the rotunda facing east was totally demolished, while the roof of the old wing fell in. The centre tower was invaded by smoke, but the flames were for the most part confined to the portion in which they originated.

The wing, including the tower where the fire started, was one of the first sections of the hotel to be built and contained very few guest rooms. It had, in a measure, been superseded by later additions to the building, each section of which had been shut off from the others by fire walls and fire doors.

These were closed when the fire was discovered and the flames were isolated.

Firemen Recovering

Fireman Bolduc, who was injured and had to be removed to the hospital as the result of a fall, was reported as recovering today. The four other members of the brigade who sustained minor burns about the hands and face were also reported to be recovering satisfactorily.

C. E. E. Ussher, general passenger traffice manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived in the city this morning, made an examination of the hotel, together with A. B. Neal, manager, and after estimating the damage, made the declaration that the hotel would be functioning again by Monday of next week.

GLOBE FLAYS POLITICIANS AND DEMANDS NEW ELECTION

Says Four Years of Last Week's Actions Unthinkable.

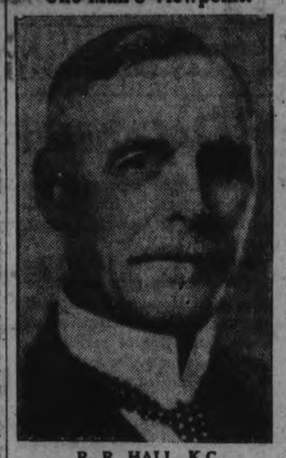
WANTS STABILITY.

TORONTO, Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The Globe says this morning in a leading editorial: "The fifteenth parliament of Canada has been in session for six days. If we do not mistake the public temper, the vast majority of Canadians, irrespective of party or group allegiance, have enough of it. As soon as the necessary routine— the voting of supply and the transaction of imperative business—is concluded, the people are prepared to face the inconvenience and cost of another general election in the hope of securing a stable government and a house of commons which is prepared to devote its energies to the service of the country.

Six days of political jockeying, wire pulling, buttonholeing, gumshoeing, pussyfooting, side-stepping, manipulating and intrigueing are more than sufficient. The sordid spectacle of representatives of two historic parties crowding one another at the counter, eager to pawn their professed principles and policies for office has sickened the public. The cynical way in which a supposedly unsophisticated group that finds itself possessed of power to make or break has trotted from camp to camp inviting overtures if not soliciting considerations, has disgusted the people. The orgy of barter and bargain—Dohertys peddling their wares in corridors, Guthries offering their bribes in the house—has startled and shocked the electorate.

Folk now realize how little platform promises and professions of policy matter to politicians with personal proferement at stake. It has become evident that all that counts is to get in or to keep in. Four years of the sort of thing Canadians have been witnessing for six days is unthinkable."

One Man's Viewpoint.



R. R. HALL, K.C.

The statement made by R. R. Tall, K.C., is as follows:

"The bid that the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, with the approval of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, made for Progressive support was most unseemly and in fact it savored of a brazen attempt at bribery on the floor of the house. I had anticipated that every self-respecting Progressive member of Parliament would have resented it, and more particularly as the high protection policy of the Opposition is clearly the very opposite to the profession of the Progressives."

RUMOR HAS GORDON NEW GRIT LEADER

But Comment Refused By Ex-Peterborough Member —Plans Being Made.

In connection with a persistent rumor that the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., would be appointed leader of the Ontario Liberals, and that the present leader, W. E. N. Sinclair would be promoted to the Bench, when interviewed this morning, Mr. Gordon stated that he had heard the rumor himself in several quarters, but beyond that, he had nothing to say. He stated that he and W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., M.P.P., had had a conference regarding political matters some time ago, but the question of leadership was not discussed. Some plans, he said, were made, at least the question of organization was considered and plan towards that end are being developed for the next Provincial general election.

U.F.Y.P.O. CLUB HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Gordon Hancock Was Elected President — Had Reports Read.

The regular meeting of the District U.F.Y.P.O. Club held recently in the Club's rooms on Simcoe street, was featured by reports of the year's activities, and election of officers for the ensuing term, as follows:

Leaders, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shield, President; Gordon Hancock, vice-president; James Shield, secretary, Miss Hazel Ackison, assistant secretary; Miss Evelyn Gillies, auditors, the Misses Eulah Hancock and Rosanna Tully.

After the business session was concluded a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. and Mrs. Shield for their work in encouraging the efforts of the club during the past year. Mr. Shield replied, thanking the club heartily for himself and Mrs. Shield, for the gift of a silver cake dish presented their leaders by the Club members at Christmas time.

The evening concluded with a very jolly picture contest of some of the prominent men and women of the day. This was conducted by Mrs. Shield, and the most correct placing was done by the youngest member present, Arthur Hancock, who placed correctly 23 out of 30 subjects. A treat of home made candy was then enjoyed.

FREAK WINTER ON CONTINENT

Weather Frigid in Lands Usually Balmy—Shetlands Summery.

DAMAGE IN SPAIN.

LONDON, Jan. 15—Winter has laid its frigid hand across a vast sweep of Europe, haunting even spots where its touch is mostly unknown.

Some hundreds of thousands of square miles were visited yesterday by clear, cold weather. The cold belt embraces Russia, Poland, Germany, France, Britain and Ireland, and reaches down southward to Toulon, Rome and Naples. In the otherwise sunny Italy, snow has dropped an unaccustomed mantle even to the southward, where its visitations are rare.

The Riviera—Europe's Florida or California—is hilly. On the other hand, the Shetland islands, kissed by a vagrant sea current, are unusually warm.

Western Ireland reports that on Tuesday it enjoyed almost summery weather—the warmest of any winter in 55 years—only to be swept by freezing temperature.

England, too, is experiencing icy winds. Skating is prevalent in lowlands, where pools from recent floods have frozen over.

Gales in Spain

From Barcelona comes word of a violent gale and rain, reaching out to sea and forcing ships to seek shelter of the ports. An Exchange Telegraph report from Madrid claims that 400 houses have been destroyed, that the quays are flooded and telegraphic communication disturbed.

Paris reports sevre cold throughout France, with snow in the south. The thermometer there and in Berlin is flirting with zero, an unusually low mark for these capitals, while to the east of the Elbe actual zero weather prevails.

Rome's palm trees are decked with snow, and a white cover lies on the land from Turin to Naples.

Vesuvius, say Naples despatches, continues to bubble, casting out a soot against the snow like the puffing of a soft coal chimney. Genoa reports a hurricane-like wind, with the thermometer at 23 above — the coldest in 40 years.

BERLINS DODGE NEWSPAPER MEN

Refuse To Leave Cabin When Liner Docks at Cherbourg.

CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 15 (Canadian Press).—A swarm of British, French and United States newspapermen boarded the Leviathan as she came into Cherbourg Roads today, for the purpose of interviewing Irving Berlin, song writer, and his bride, the former Elin MacKay, daughter of Clarence H. MacKay.

The reporters were doomed to disappointment, however, as Captain Hartley informed them that the couple were in their cabin; refused to be disturbed, and would see no one.

They are the most unobstrusive passengers we have had aboard in a long time; I only saw them on deck a few times," the captain volunteered.

CONSERVATIVE NON-CONFIDENCE MEASURE DEFEATED BY THREE

How Doubtfuls Voted.

The following Progressives, Laborites and Independents cast their votes against the Meighen want of confidence amendment:

Progressives' Forke, MacPhail, Coote, Brown, Garland (Bow River), Kennedy (Peace River), Millar, King Jelliff, Evans, Reid, Spencer, Gardiner, Ward, Speakman, Beaubien, Steedsman, Lovie and Johnston (Long Lake.)

Labor: Woodsworth and Heaps.

Independents: Neill and Bourassa.

When Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, had concluded his speech at the evening session the House members and the crowed press gallery all apparently accepted that juncture as the cessation of the debate proper.

Although it dragged along afterwards the members regarded the issue as drawn, obviously accepting the view that everything that could be said had been said, and there was a general exodus to the lobbies to await the division bells.

Outstanding speeches were delivered during yesterday's culmination of of the momentous debate, but the most noteworthy were those of M. Boivin and C. H. Cahan, K.C., conqueror of Hon. Herbert M. Marler in St. Lawrence-George, Montreal.

Continuing the debate on the Conservative amendment of non-confidence last night, C. H. Cahan, Conservative, of Montreal, declared Hon. Mr. Boivin's contention that the adoption of the amendment would mean dissolution could be refuted by any two-year-old student in constitutional practice. Mr. Cahan claimed that if the amendment were adopted there was nothing to prevent a new government from bringing down a new address.

It was "puerile and nonsensical," said Mr. Cahan, to say that the adoption of the amendment meant dissolution. Mr. Cahan protested against parliamentary institutions, Canada being overridden by attempts at Mussolinism. He appealed that, by voting for the amendment, the House should crush the head of an autocratic and despotic form of government.

Mr. Cahan stressed the vital importance of parliamentary precedents which, he said, should largely guide parliament in settling the right of the King government to govern. "If the government of the day or any future government," he said, "refuse to abide by the precedents governing parliamentary government there are only three ways by which they may be kept in office if the verdict is against them. That is, by bribery of those who are selected to oppose them; by intimidation if bribery does not succeed. And when those two fail we are on the eve of revolution."

Mr. Cahan asked parliament to survey the actions of Premier King since the election and inquired whether it measured up to the high proprieties claimed for Mr. King by Mr. Boivin.

Perusing the verbiage of the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Cahan was sure that he could identify the handwriting of his late election opponent, Mr. Marler, and the programme was essentially different from their election programme.

Mr. Cahan regarded the action of the government as not only a violation of constitutional practice, "but it is a moral delinquency" in that, as admitted by speaker after speaker, the speech was prepared as a South American autocrat might prepare it, to induce by corrupt inducement and methods."

Appeals to Progressives.

Turning to the Progressives Mr. Cahan shouted in stentorian tones, "You stand to-day as never before, in the glaring light of public life, and the whole country is watching the Progressive group to know whether such inducements as these, presented as they are, will be accepted. If they are the general estimation of the Progressive group will, I think, sink to a very low level in public opinion of the whole country."

Suggests Common Sense.

Alfred Speakman (Progressive, Red Deer), said that the only method of considering the vital issues before parliament was to bring ordinary common sense to bear upon them. He criticized the apparent unanimty among the 116 Conservatives and 101 Liberals, and asked if that indicated that the matter of predominant importance was being considered without political considerations.

Mr. Speakman expressed the conviction that acceptance of the amendment meant the establishment for all time in Canada of a precedent that, axiomatically the largest group emerging from an election must take over the reins of power irrespective of other considerations.

He believed that the time had passed when the ruling party must have a majority over all. In future Canadian Government must govern by co-operation with other groups.

Between Two Fires

"I say now," said Mr. Speakman, "That I intend to vote against the amendment. I would have voted against the motion of the Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe) because it would have prevented Parliament from functioning. But I am not voting confidence or lack of confidence. I would not like to vote confidence in Liberals or Conservatives, because I am afraid from past experience, that the Liberal party would not carry out its programme, and I am afraid the Conservative party would."

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Fisheries, analyzing Mr. Cahan's utterances, declared that the desire of the Conservatives "is not to get the will of the majority in this House, but to have the chance to get on the treasury benches."

Mr. Cardin maintained that Mr. Cahan was in error when he said the speech heralded a programme entirely at variance with the King Government's election platform. The Hudson Bay Railway, for instance, was an item for annual expenditure toward its completion. The time had come for the realization of many hopes of the people of the West.

"It is no use at all," he said, "if we want to help our country, to help only a few manufacturers in Montreal. Nor can we develop Canada by helping one or two provinces.

"We have to help all our provinces." ....

Would Resign If Defeated.

The Government's position respecting the non-confidence amendment of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was summarized in the House late Thursday afternoon by Hon. George Boivin, Minister of Customs.

The position as stated by Mr. Boivin was as follows:

"The Government regards the amendment moved by the Right Hon. the Leader of the Opposition as a challenge to its right to ask Parliament to consider the speech of His Excellency the Governor-General, and to continue in office without violating the principles and practice of British constitutional government. If the amendment is adopted by a majority vote of this House, the duty of the Government will be to resign and the Prime Minister will advise His Excellency to call upon some other person to form a Government. If the amendment is defeated by a majority vote of this House, the Government will consider that the House, reserving to itself the right to subsequently take whatever course it may desire, does not at the present moment desire that His Excellency should be advised to call upon the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition, but that it prefers that the present Government continue to function as a Government until such time as it has been defeated, either upon a motion to present an address to His Excellency in reply to the Speech from the Throne or upon some important measure which it may submit to this House, and to which the members of this House, by a majority vote, will refuse to give their approval.

Approval Not Mandate.

"Let me add that the Government will not consider a vote upon this motion to be an approval of all or any of its past policies nor a mandate from the House of Commons to enact the legislation mentioned in the Speech from the Throne. In other words, no member voting against the amendment will be considered as approving the legislation introduced by this Government during the past four years, nor will he be considered as giving any blanket authorization to this Government to carry on for any indefinite period. Those who vote against the amendment will be only proclaiming to their constituents and to the people of Canada, that they consider that the Prime Minister did the proper thing in refraining from advising His Excellency to call upon the Hon. Leader of the Opposition to form a Government, that he did right in remaining in office and in advising His Excellency to summon Parliament at the earliest practicable moment, in order that Parliament itself might determine, after an intelligent discussion of the policies set forth in the Speech from the Throne and the policies which might be submitted by the Hon. Leader of the Opposition, in the form of an amendment, which party or group of members in this House should be charged with the duty of initiating legislation and submitting it to this Parliament for its rejection or its approval. No man who supports the Government upon this vote is binding himself by that vote to support the Government upon any other, and, in the words of the motion submitted by the Hon. Minister of Justice, who is now leading this House, the Government will only have the right to carry on and function as a Government unless and until it is defeated by a vote of this House, equivalent to a vote of want of confidence.

Parliament to Decide.

"The amendment proposed by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition says nothing else. It asks the members of this House to declare that those who now assume to be His Excellency's advisers, are not competent to act as the Government nor to address Parliament through His Excellency, two things which they were obliged to do in order to carry out, what the Prime Minister believed to be the wishes of the Canadian people and to allow the duly elected representatives of the Canadian people to decide for themselves, what group of men they would support and what policies they would approve."

Election Not Wanted.

Canada does not want and does not need a general election, asserted the Minister of Customs. Without a general election, it would not be possible for Mr. Meighen to carry on the Government unless the Progressives were willing to knuckle under.

Mr. Meighen—"They have been doing quite a lot of that already."

Mr. Boivin—"Possibly they have. But if they ever get under the thumb of my right hon. friend opposite, they will realize that they have not been doing very much. They will realize what knuckling under means."

As for the contention that Premier King was not sincere in his intention to seek re-election to the House, Mr. Boivin said that if the Prime Minister really felt that way, he would not have been justified in asking Parliament to give his Government a mandate. The question might be asked, Why had not Premier King sought re-election before this? Mr. Boivin said that he might have followed the example of Mr. Meighen in 1921. Defeated in one province, he might have sought re-election in another. He might have appointed an elected member to a position of emolument under the Crown in order to create a vacancy, but it must be remembered that Mr. King as well as a number of his Ministers, were defeated in the Province of Ontario.

"Why did he not run in the constituency of Bagot?" interjected a member.

Mr. Boivin replied that Premier King had been defeated in North York; but did not want to take the opportunity to secure a "safe seat" for the purpose of "securing a strangle hold on the leadership of the Liberal party." Mr. King wanted the Liberals to come back at the opening of Parliament and say whether or not they had confidence in his leadership.

Stand Behind Principles.

"We are not here," stated Mr. H. H. Stevens (Conservative), "offering policy for policy, a quid pro quo, for something offered by the other side. We are here standing behind our principles, standing behind our policies, standing where we have always stood as constitutionalists" and in favor of a reasonable tariff.

The popular vote and majority opinion of the people of the country should be respected. If called to office, the Conservatives would follow constitutional practice.

"Whether the Government is sustained or defeated, and a new Government called, the constitutional duty of such a Government, whatever it may be, is to carry on the affairs of the country in this Parliament," so long as it commanded a majority, with one proviso only, and that one only in the case of a great emergency for which the present Parliament had no mandate.

"Why did the Government continue in office? It is the consciousness of this Government that the moment they relinquish office, the moment they surrender their seals, the moment others have access to the files and secret information of the departments, there will be revealed a condition which they, if they can cling to office, would feign hide."

"My hon. friend," interjected Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, "has either said too much or not enough. It seems to me he should pursue a little further."

Mr. Stevens retorted that he had not in mind the Minister of Finance or his Department. Mr. Stevens added that "at the earliest opportunity he will say more."

The country had lost confidence in the King Government which had no mandate to assume the role of advisers to the Governor-General.

Montreal Conservative.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative, St Lawrence-St. George) quoted Todd, the Parliamentary authority, who referred to the "precepts of the constitution" as those unwritten maxims which had developed parallel with the written law. It was departure from these precepts that imperilled civil liberties of the people.

Mr. Cahan was proceeding to describe the Speech from the Throne and expressed the hope that he might not be tempted to use unparliamentary language. He thought it was an attempt worthy of a "South American autocrat" to "induce by corrupt inducements and methods"—he was interrupted by a chorus of protests from the Liberal benches, which did not abate until Mr. Speaker intervened. Speaker Lemieux ruled that Mr. Cahan's language was not within the scope of Parliamentary debate. Mr. Cahan agreed to withdraw. The Speech from the Throne, he said, was framed so as to convey to a Progressive group which largely was elected to oppose the Government, an offer of certain inducements which the Prime Minister had not dared to offer during the election campaign. Such inducements, Mr. Cahan thought, should have been offered, not to a small political group, but to the whole electorate for its verdict. The Speech from the Throne was not only a reflection upon the Government, but a reflection on Parliament.

If the Progressives were willing to accept such a speech, then Mr. Cahan thought that the general estimation of the Progressive party would sink very low.

John Millar (Progressive, Qu'Appelle) interrupted to ask if Mr. Cahan, as a member from the Island of Montreal, would be willing to have freight rates reduced from a point on the Canadian National Railways due north of Fort William to the port of Montreal.

Mr. Cahan replied that he did not know enough about it to give Mr. Millar an answer, but he was prepared to confer with any member on the subject and to assist in finding a solution of such a problem, so long as the solution did not involve a sacrifice of the general interests of the whole country.

The Yukon Speaks

George Black, Conservative member from far away Yukon, said that since October 29 last, Canada had had neither Government head nor Government.

At this stage of the debate the Liberal and Progressive benches were half empty, the members taking to the lobbies, there to await the bell which would call them for the division vote.

MUNICIPAL FINANCE.

The Municipal Review of Canada, in a new year's review of the question of municipal finance, says that it is in a more hopeful condition than it was a year ago, although the effect of boom times is still found in some municipalities in Canada.

Financing is the big problem of every Canadian municipality with two distinct aspects: (1) how to secure the money in the easiest and less criticized way, and (2) how to spend it judiciously.

The Review in its article suggests that one essential feature is the regular and systematic auditing of all municipal financial records by a professional auditor and the bonding of all financial officials in a guarantee company.

The number of municipalities that has neglected these simple and effective precautions is surprising—and their neglect explains to some extent the cases of misappropriation of funds by public officials.

THE COAL SITUATION.

With Alberta coal coming into Ontario, increased interest in the importation of Welsh anthracite, the use of coke becoming more general in households where anthracite has hitherto been used, and a proposal at Ottawa that a special committee of Parliament be appointed to look into the question of Canada's fuel supply, the failure of the United States operators and miners to come to terms does not cause the same shock in this country that it would formerly have done.

Ontario is beginning to feel that she is not so dependent upon the anthracite fields across the border as she once thought she was.

There are many people who are now using coke who declare that they no longer want anthracite, and the Alberta coal tried out in this Province has given every satisfaction.

The development of more coking facilities and the importation on a larger scale of both Alberta, Nova Scotia and Welsh coal may eventually lead to a large part of the Ontario market slipping away from the United States operators.

If these labour disputes are to continue Ontario will be left in a much happier position if this Province does not have to look across the border for all its fuel.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

"We are here not to study history, but to make it," declared Major Power, member for Quebec South, in the House of Commons the other day, and his conception of the unprecedented situation in which Parliament finds itself is undoubtedly accurate.

No political crisis approaching that presented by the present session has been seen in Canada, and every day's proceedings should be full of interest.

The newspapers are carrying comprehensive reports of the speeches and long stories of the developments at Ottawa.

It is to be hoped that Canadians generally are reading these reports and following the proceedings closely.

History is being made at Ottawa, and if there ever was a time when it was the duty of the people of this country to study the words and actions of their representatives in Parliament that time is surely now.

All newspaper readers should read the reports from Ottawa with the same avidity and interest that many of them show in the sporting page or other feature departments, for the present political deadlock is a new situation in Canada, and Canadians should familiarize themselves with all the details.

That is the duty of the hour as the Examiner sees it.

THE REMEDY IS AVAILABLE.

Will it come to this in Peterboro?

Wednesday night a public dance was held in a Western Ontario town, and in the local newspaper that afternoon a notice appeared warning all guests who proposed to attend the dance that a vigilance committee would be on duty to guard against the smuggling in of liquor and all offenders found carrying flasks would be summarily ejected.

That may strike some people as rather summary treatment, but after all the evil cannot be corrected by pussyfooting methods.

With liquor drinking at public dances on the increase, as it undoubtedly is, the situation calls for the backbone displayed by this particular committee who showed their moral courage by issuing a public warning and backing it up.

If a form of recreation that is enjoyed by very many people is to be injured by the callous disregard of ordinary decency by a few persistent offenders, then it is high time local organizations followed the example set them in this case and made it impossible for this interference with the enjoyment of others to go on.

The Examiner has stressed this matter because it feels that the time has come for plain speaking, but now that the issue has been brought before the jury of public opinion hopes that it will not be necessary to prolong the discussion.

The evil is one that can be handled by an exhibition of backbone.

The cure has been shown.

Dance committees have the remedy in their own hands; if they don't choose to act they cannot complain if dancing comes into disrepute.

MAKING GOOD.

Every time Canadians pick up a newspaper, it seems, they read about one more native son of this Dominion who has made good in the great Republic that lies next door to us, says the Border Cities Star. In the business world, in the professional world, in the artistic world, in the political world, the story is the same.

In no line of American activity have Canadians shone more brightly than in that of the theatre and the screen. Margaret Anglin, Julia Arthur, Edward Johnson, Ruby Gordon, Mary Pickford, Norma Shearer, John S. Robertson, Pauline Garon, George Primrose, the Christie Brothers—these are only a few of the many Canadians who have done famously in dramatic or musical art in the United States. There are many of whom we cannot know. Only last week, for instance, the famous Mack Sennett, of film comedy fame, applied for American naturalization papers in Los Angeles. Questions asked by the court revealed that his real name is Michael Sinnott and that he was born in Danville, Que.

Some year Canada should stage an old boys' and old girls' reunion. Invite them all to come back for a week or so and see the changes and improvements that have taken place in the old home land. Make it an old home week in a national way. And perhaps a good many of the boys and girls would like to stay.

THE FOUNDER OF HANSARD.

Now that Parliament is once more in session and the editor of Hansard and his subordinates are busy chronicling the utterances of our statesmen, it is perhaps fitting to recall that the real founder of this admirable institution spent nearly a century and a half ago seven years within the bounds of this Dominion. William Cobbett (1763-1835) was in his day and generation something of a man; he began life as the son of a small farmer in Surrey and ended it as the most powerful journalist in England and Radical member for Oldham in the British Parliament. Indeed by many he is regarded as the real father of modern journalism and his Political Register, which was from its foundation in 1802 the most effective organ of the Reform movement in Britain, was the prototype and and pathfinder for modern political weeklies like the Spectator and New Statesman.

But Cobbett's first choice of a career was soldiering; enlisting as a private soldier in 1783, he was drafted abroad in the following year and spent most of the next seven years in New Brunswick where his regiment was stationed usually at St. John or Fredericton. He was a good soldier and within a year of his arrival in New Brunswick had become sergeant-major over the heads of fifty older sergeants; he enjoyed his sojourn in the infant colony where he found a wife, and frequent references in his life in New Brunswick are scattered through his writings.

However, in his position of trust he got an insight into many abuses which then existed in military administration to the detriment of the interests of the rank and file and as soon as he returned to England, having failed to arouse the interest of the War Office in reforms, he made his public debut as a writer by exposing them in a pamphlet entitled "The Soldier's Friend." Its contents naturally got Cobbett into trouble with the ruling powers and he decided that the United States was a more congenial atmosphere. Settling at Wilmington, there he earned a livelihood as a tutor, but he soon became involved in political controversies touching the French Revolution in which he took the side of his native country, and after eight years of a stormy existence under the Stars and Stripes, he returned in disgust to Britain in 1800.

There his reputation as a writer had preceded him and his championship of the British case had endeared him to the Government of the day which was headed by William Pitt. They happened to be in sore need of able writers to defend their policies and the services of Cobbett were promptly enlisted. For some time he wrote freely for different Government organs and William Windham, the Whig statesman, helped him to found the Porcupine, which proved a financial failure and perished.

But in 1802 Cobbett started on his own account the Political Register and thenceforth found his life-work in its pages. It began its career as an independent supporter of the ruling administration, but in a few years its editor's views experienced a swift change and he came one of the most formidable critics of the existing order, so formidable indeed that the Government found it necessary to put him in prison for two years.

Editing the Register was only one of Cobbett's activities. Before his day the debates in Parliament had been very inefficiently reported; some of Lord Chatham's greatest speeches for instance survive only in a very mutilated form. With some justice Cobbett regarded Parliament, which was then at the height of its unreformed glory, as the wicked instrument of most of the abuses against which he was crusading, and he conceived the notion that full publicity for its proceedings would advance the cause of its reform. So in 1804 there appeared the first volume of Cobbett's Parliamentary Debates, an accurate verbatim report of the speeches in Parliament.

It was the first attempt at a complete report of Parliamentary proceedings, and its utility being at once realized, it has survived without a break until the present time. Cobbett left most of the actual reporting and editing to a certain John Wright, who acted as a sub-editor of the Political Register and other subordinates, but he kept a careful eye upon the new enterprise. At first the "Debates" were printed in the office of the Political Register, but in 1807 the work was entrusted to a printer called T. C. Hansard, and four years later, when Cobbett got into financial difficulties, Hansard bought out all his interest in them. He forthwith proceeded to confer a sort of immortality on himself by changing the title to "Hansard's Parliamentary Debates," and when in the course of time the state properly took over the work of reporting the words and work of Parliament, the name Hansard was retained and survives in all British countries. But although Hansard the printer gets the titular commemoration, the whole credit for the initiation of this valuable institution and the provision of a full and reliable record of Parliament's proceedings properly belongs to William Cobbett, the great Radical journalist.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Quebec is arranging an exhibition of ice eculpture for the benefit of United States visitors. Always thought the only ice they were interested in was cracked and in glasses.

There is a strong Progressive tinge to the proceedings at Ottawa—albeit there is little progress in evidence.

By the time the coal strike is settled the operators may find they have lost a large part of their Canadian market. The strike indeed is likely to prove a blessing in disguise for this country.

COUNCIL SWORN AT ROSENEATH

First Meeting of Township Fathers Disposes of Routine Business.

TAXES UNPAID

ROSENEATH, Jan. 15.—The township council held its first meeting of the new year in the Town Hall, Roseneath on Saturday. After the reeve and councillors were duly sworn in by Clerk McMillan, short addresses were delivered, Reeve Mouncey asking everyone to do his part to the best of his ability and stick strictly to business, omitting visiting.

Communications were received from Cobourg General Hospital informing them that Albert Speirs had been admitted as an indigent patient and also enclosing a bill of $33.50, payment for Mrs. George Hogg, who was also an indigent patient. This was laid on the table.

A letter from the Sick Childrens Hospital, Toronto, asked for a grant.

James Timlin and Silas Sherwin were appointed auditors and Chas. Grigg as member of the local Board of Health and sanitary inspector, while George Mouncey was named guardian of the peace for the coming year, at a salary of $15.00.

The appointment of an assessor and tax collector, received much discussion and finally the clerk was authorized to post notices asking for tenders for these positions, up until Saturday, January 23rd at 8 o'clock. p.m., also for 500 feet white pine, 14 feet long and 3 inches thick, and 500 feet, 9 feet long and 3 inches thick for the same date.

Mr. Davey was present with the collectors' roll, showing a balance of $214.19 of uncalled taxes. His time was extended until February 27th.

Refund Refused.

Mr. Thos. Coleman sent his taxes, but asked for a refund. Mr. Coleman was assessed last spring but moved out of the township during the summer and did not think he should have to pay taxes, but the council thought he should have appealed at the court of revision and so refused to refund him his money.

Mr. M. Cunnis was present asking for pay for putting up fences on his farm last spring which had been torn down during the winter to make a road. He was refused but the Council agreed to look into the matter. He offered the Council 10 feet in width, the length of his farm, to set the fence back, providing they paid for the wire and fence it. No conclusion was arrived at.

The treasurer was authorized to pay the follow accounts:

John MMillan, election expenses, $38.25; Municipal World, 6 copies, $6.00.

A THOUGHT.

THE UNDEVELOPED CREATION OF "WON'T"

You have within you the strong support of self-reliance, the ever-confident, always resourceful, irresistible force to accomplish any reasonable purpose.

You probably regard many things as impossible for you to accomplish when, as a matter of fact, men of much less ability have already achieved the very thing you would like to do.

The trouble with you is that you have sold yourself the negative idea. You lack the positive creed.

You have decided you cannot and therefore you will not.

When you decide that you can, you probably will; but so long as you think you can't, you certainly won't.

Can is the offspring of Will. Can't is the undeveloped creation of Won't.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—For next week nothing but finished steers and heifers are required for export, and no short keeps should be sent in.

There were less than 50 cattle for sale this morning, and these were sold at steady prices. Some feeding steers for export brought $7.25 a cwt. A few good baby beeves went at $9 and $9.50 a cwt. Two choice cows sold at $5.75, and good cows were $5 to $5.25 a cwt. Medium handyweight butchers were $6.10, and three common butchers' heifers sold at $5.25 a cwt. And export bulls brought $5.25, and bologna bulls, $3.75 a cwt.

With only a handful of calves on sale there was little market this morning. Choice calves were 13½ cents, and good calves 11½ and 12 cents a pound.

A few sheep and lambs comprised this market, and no change was made in prices. Common lambs sold at 13½ cents, and a choice butchers' sheep at 8 cents a pound.

One local butcher set the pace on hogs on Wednesday by taking a shipment at $13 a cwt. f.o.b. The packers took all the balance at the same price, and this figure is quoted today. Unless shipments increase lower prices are not likely to be witnessed next week.

Montreal—Fresh eggs unchanged. Storage extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 25.

Winnipeg—Unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—Broad buying power became evident in the wheat market today, with big speculators taking an active part helping to advance prices. Improved export demand, together with higher premiums at St. Louis, Omaha, and Kansas City for immediate delivery of wheat was a bullish factor. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm at about the day's top figures, 1 7-8 to 3 cents net higher, new style, May $1.76 1-2 to $1.76 3-4 and July $1.52 5-8 to $1.52 7-8, with corn 3-8 to 5-8c off, oats varying from 1-4c decline to 18c gain, and provisions 12 to 35c up.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—The feature of the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was the improved demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Manitoba spring wheat and fair volume of business was worked.

The feature of the local egg trade was the weakness that developed in the market for storage grades and wholesale jobbing prices scored another decline of 1c to 3c per dozen, which was attributed to the pressure on the part of holders to liquidate. The offerings of car lots where liberal and prices also broke several cents per dozen with sales of seconds at 25c per dozen, cases included, while firsts were offered at 30c, and extras at 32c per dozen.

There was no further change in prices announced for strictly fresh eggs, but the undertone to the market was easy on account of the continued liberal supplies coming forward. There was a steady demand and a moderate amount of business was done. The receipts were 443 cases, as against 870 for the same day last week, and 226 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The demand for potatoes showed no improvement, and the market was rather quiet, but the undertone remains very firm and prices were unchanged.

The receipts of butter were 112 packages, as against 315 for the same day last week, and 125 for the corresponding day a year ago. The feature of the trade was the demand for New Zealand creamery butter and sales aggregating 2,000 packages were made at 41c per lb. here for delivery next week. There was no change in the condition of the market for Canadian creamery butter, prices being steady for the time being, with a moderate amount of business passing for local and outside account. A steady trade was reported in wholesale jobbing way and prices were unchanged with sales of finest creamery at 44c per lb in solid packages, and at 45c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

The receipts of cheese were 145 boxes, as compared with 159 for the same day last week, and 475 for the corresponding day a year ago. The demand showed no improvement from any source and the market in consequence was very quiet with spot prices nominally quoted at 20c to 20 1-2c per lb. for early makes.

SOCIALISTS TO FORCE HERRIOT BACK TO POWER

Premier Briand's Tenure of Office Appears More Precarious.

WILL FORCE ISSUE

Needs Support of Conservatives Whom He Alienated During War.

PARIS, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press)—M. Herriot's opening speech as President of the Chamber of Deputies Thursday furnished an occasion for the coalition of the Left to give him another ovation. Immediately afterward the finance committee rejected M. Doumer's stamp tax on business transactions.

The political situation can be judged by these acts. The Left coalition is pressing its campaign again Finance Minister Doumer and Premier Briand, while putting former Premier Herriot forward at every opportunity and making no secret of its intention to force him back into the premiership.

It is admitted by M. Briand's friends now that his Government can be saved from disaster only by the votes of the Moderate Conservative opposition. M. Briand says, nevertheless, he will insist on a public debate rather than allow the action of the finance committee, which has already rejected three important provisions of M. Doumr's bill, to force the resignation of the Minister or the Cabinet without a discussion in the open Chamber.

Right Groups Hesitant.

The Premier may force the question to an issue today unless the finance committee withdraws some of its decisions, which now appears impossible. The Moderates and Conservatives, to whom M. Briand must look for his majority to defeat the campaign of the coalition, remain hesitant.

Several of the leaders of the Right declare that they would permit themselves to be duped if they aided the Briand Cabinet now, as the Premier was one of the first to break the "sacred union" of the parties that existed throughout the war, and that even if saved by the Conservative votes, he would again cast his lot in with the coalition of the Left.

M. Briand's courage in fighting against his own coalition appeals to many, however, and his argument that something must be done before the end of the month, or the bank printing presses must be set going again to issue more paper money, has taken a strong hold, and there is confidence in Government circles that after a fair debate in the Chamber, the Cabinet will win by a small majority.

Will Insist On Plan.

M. Doumer went before the Chamber finance committee last evening and announced the Government's decision to maintain the chief lines of its financial proposals. He demanded that the committee choose between the Government's and the Left cartel's bills, and added that in no case would he withdraw his plan.

The committee, after examining the cartel counter-project, decided to present its report to the Chamber Saturday, after which the debate on the floor of the House will be begun, with a vote likely on Sunday.

MINERS AFFIRM CONFIDENCE IN UNION LEADERS

Approve Plans and Policies of President John L. Lewis in Strike.

COMMITTEE MEETS

HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The scale committee of the anthracite miners representing every local union in the hard coal fields yesterday adopted a resolution reaffirming "to the world our sanction, approval and support of the plans and policies" of the union leaders.

Thus was summed up in a long resolution approving of every action so far taken by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, and other leaders in conducting the hard coal strike now in its fifth month.

The scale committee, called to hear the report of its sub-committee which carried on the negotiations in New York with the operators, also adopted a resolution thanking the American Federation of Labor for its appeal for funds in behalf of the striking mine workers, and commended the movement in the Pennsylvania legislature for the repeal of the miners' certificate law.

Wilburton Disaster.

In connection with the attemped repeal of this law, President Lewis read to the scale committee a telegram from international representatives of the union at McAlester, Okla., stating that the explosion at Wilburton, where nearly one hundred miners were killed, was said to have been "caused by green, inexperienced men."

The telegram, signed by Joe Angelo and Lawrence Dwyer, was as follows:—

"Explosion at mine of Dargnen-McConnell Company operating under 1917 scale at Wilburton, Okla., ninety-seven men killed, eight rescued alive. It is said explosion caused by green, inexperienced men."

HUDSON BAY GRAIN ROUTE EXPENSIVE

Brief Shipping Season, Says Alberta Professor.

EDMONTON, Alta., January 15.—Canadian Press. — An attack on the economic value of the Hudson Bay route for grain, was made by Dr. D. A. McGibbon, Professor of Political Economy University of Alberta, addressing the Saskatchewan Agricultural Societies Association convention yesterday.

He declared that the Hudson's Bay Route would necessarily be expensive to ship by; that there would be a short open season, while capital and upkeep costs on port equipment would continue the year around; insurance rates would be high, and vessels of a type to withstand ice would be hard to find and costly to operate. The route he said would not take vessels of over 17 foot draft, and the most economical freighters had draft of 27 to 30 feet. He considered that the value of the Hudson's Bay Railway would be largely in the development of natural resources.

He thought the Maritimes' proposal for low rates on grain to Saint John and Halifax should be accepted, as the facilities were already there.

DOUKHOBOR QUEEN AIDS IMMIGRATION

60 Years of Age, Yet Made Arduous Journey to Russia —Met Her Son.

BRILLIANT, B. C., January 14.—Canadian Press. — Mrs. Eudoxia Verigin, "Queen of the Doukhobors, has reached here after her visit to Russia where she met her son, Peter, from whom she had been separated for 17 years. She was also engaged in an attempt to induce the 4000 Doukhobors still remaining in Russia to emigrate to Canada and there join the settlement of the sect now existent at Verigin, Sask., in Alberta and at Brilliant, B.C.

For a woman 60 years of age Mrs. Verigin showed no trace of the arduous journey of close on 20,000 miles out of and back to Canada.

Nicholas Plathikoff, who interpreted for the "Queen," she being unable to speak English, said their trip had been successful. They had been well treated in Russia and their plans for the expatriation of Peter Vergan and the Doukhobors in that country had not been refused.

Mrs. Dick Burge, the only woman boxing promoter in the world, has not missed a big fight for years in London—excepting only those staged at the National Sporting Club. Everywhere else she was to be seen at the ringside years before it was fashionable for women to attend boxing matches. Women, however, are barred from entering the National Sporting Club, although there is a legend that one did actually get in and watch a thrilling contest—disguised in male attire, complete with moustache.

INTERESTING LECTURE ON AFRICA HEARD BY CAMPBELLFORD PEOPLE

Rev. Dr. Gabriel Maguire Lectured Under Auspices of Bowling Club.

TOLD EXPERIENCES.

Gave Vivid Picture of Life of Natives of Dark Continent.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15. — Rev. Dr. Gabriel Maguire, a Fellow of one of the leading scientific societies in England, missionary and exporer, the man who has traversed the trails in darkest Africa that were blazed by Livingstone and Stanely, unfoided to a large audience in the Regent Theatre last night, a vivid picture of native human and animal life in the country of which nothing is known save what is told by intrepid men who have lifted the veil that hides it from the rest of the world. The lecture, which was given under the auspices of the Lawn Bowling club, proved one of the most successful entertainments ever staged in Campbellford. The famous doctor came here with a reputation which he fully justified. His address, delivered in a sonorous voice and with a rich Hibernian tongue, sparkled with wit, and from beginning to end there was not a dull moment, not one passage in which the interest of the large audience flagged. The speaker took his hearers on a realistic canoe trip up the Congo River, and then on a long overland journey, that abounded with liwe-like pictures of that mysterious country.

Samples of the native language were given with a facility that shows that the doctor has mastered the strange conglomeration of consonants, the sound of which varies from that of the patter of hail on a roof to the howling of a storm at sea and to the report of a German shell bursting in a rocky cavern.

The lecturer was introduced with a brief complimentary reference by Dr. O. C. Watson of the bowling club, who said that this was the second appearance of Dr. Maguire in Campbellford, and that he had been requested to give his best lecture, the one relating the experience of an Irishman in Central Africa. Winning the attention of his audience right at the start with a characteristic Irish anecdate, the doctor then led them up the Congo River for 90 miles in a canoe trip, and then on an overland journey into the interior. On a table before him were trophies of his exploration,—native idols, costumes, skins of the large snakes that are found in that country, from the python that lacks poison fangs and the flesh of which is eaten by the natives, to the cobras and other vemonous reptiles, the bite of which means certain death. The roads in that portion of Africa are mere trails and the loads of baggage are carried by men, on their heads, 60 or 70 pounds to a man. The African elephant cannot be tamed like those seen in circuses in this country and which come from India.

A Delusion Shattered.

Dr. Maguire said he often smiles when he thinks of what he was taught at school, that lions and tigers and other such animals are naturally dangerous to man. The Creator has given man dominion over the beasts of the fields and the fowls of the air. Life in the African jungle has taught the doctor thata these wild animals are afraid of man, of the blance of his eye, of his scent and of the sound of his voice.

Stanley and Livingstone

Following in the steps of Livingstone and Stanley and Livingstone, the doctor said that he had been forced to the conclusion that Stanley had left a trail of blood and broken hearts behind him while Livingstone's pathway had been marked with blessings. The one forced, while the other tried to win his way.

"Might is not right," declared the speaker, "either in the hands of capital or labor." Stanley had little regard for native life when it stood in his way but Livingstone travelled 30,000 miles in Africa without violence.

Dr. Maguire told how in one town he had won the natives by playing his accordion for three hours without ceasing. In that country marriage is regarded as the normal condition of humanity and if a man does not select a wife for himself the people will choose one for him.. The speaker believes that the custom could be introduced into civilized countries with profit as it would tend to do away with bachelors.

With true Irish gallantry and polished speech, the doctor declared that there are no old maids in the land of the Maple Leaf but that they are simply ladies in waiting. His crowning tribute to the fair sex was that the arm of a woman around a man's neck was like a life belt sent from heaven.

The Jungle Dances

Dr. Maguire had something to say about the turkey trot and other popular dances of the day, when he referred to the hootchy kootchy pirouetting of the dusky swains and damsels in the jungle.. He is of the opinion that those who indulge in the modern dances have not advanced very far in civilization and that the young men and women of Canada would be well advised to send these dances back to the jungle where they apparently originated.

Making Peace

A vivid description was given of how the lecturer, with the help of an interpreter made peace with a chief who was pining for war. After the situation was discussed the pact of amity was sealed by the joint eating of a dish comosed of the bodies of rats. The accountrements of a warrior were desribed. Each man has a knife for all imaginable purposes, from cutting the heart out of to decapitating his victim. All the weapons with which he is equipped, the knives, the battle axe and the tomahawk were shown and the use to which each is put was graphically described. Each warrior wears a necklace on which a record is kept of the number of his victims, male and female.

Some Barbarous Customs.

There were some instances given of the barbarous customs which prevail and of the horrible death to which some unfortunates are put for trivial offences. When a couple are married the groom is presented with a whip with which to punish his wife, and is advised never to use it unless he draws blood. The witch doctors hold the natives in a constant state of terror and in that country stealing is all right provided you are not caught.

"Army and Navy."

The doctor told an amusing story of when on one occasion Bishop Taylor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, asked the doctor to act as interpreter while the bishop addressed a meeting of the natives.

"There we were," said the speaker, "the bishop as a Methodist representing the Army and I, as a Baptist, the navy of the Lord."

Early in the meeting the congregation broke as one man and uncontentdly fled into the woods shrieking that the man who was addressing them had lost his head. The bishop wore a wig and warming up with his subject, had removed that covering to wipe the perspiration from his cranium. He caused further consternation among the people next day when a native going into the room found the episcopal false teeth in a glass of water.

A Brighter Side.

"I realize," said Dr. Maguire, "that I have been painting a gloomy picture for you to-night. I do not wish to take leave of you without presenting something brighter."

The speaker then in choice phrases described a church that has been established in the country of which he had been speaking, where the natives gather to worship and where the outward sign of the civilization that has been brought to them is the modest attire they have learned to adopt. The women in that church have been emancipated, they are no longer the broken creatures, skulking through life, afraid to raise their eyes lest they encounter the baleful glare of the witch doctor. The hymn that is sung in that church is the first one that the doctor ever translated into the native language, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and the doctor sang a verse of it as it is rendered by the native converts.

The Musical Programme.

The musical part of the programme was furnished by Mrs. F. de F. Free and her sister, Miss Margaret Dickson, who sang a duet, "In the Springtime," and responded to an insistent encore. Miss Gertrude Maynard accompanied on the piano. Herb Leonard sang two of the sentimental songs for which he is famous, R. T. Cowell playing the accompaniment.

COULD HARDLY MOVE FROM STIFFNESS AND PAIN

Simple home treatment made short work of crick in neck

Don't let muscular pain disable you and cause you hours of suffering. You can get rid of it quickly with a simple and easy home treatment.

Here is a letter telling how one woman treated successfully a very severe case of crick in the neck.

"I could hardly move from stiffness and pain," she writes. "I used Sloan's Liniment and that was the end of it."

It is amazing how quickly and surely Sloan's takes the pain and stiffness out of any aching muscle. Just a few drops patted on lightly—and pain and stiffness must yield.

The fresh healing blood that Sloan's sends to the sick tissues washes out poisons, breaks up congestion, drives out pain. Relief is then immediate and complete.

So clean, pleasant, and easy to use too! You don't even have to rub it in—the medicine itself does the work. Try it! All druggists—35 cents.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BOBBY HAS A CHAT WITH MR. MARMOT.

"M-a-r-m-o-t. Bobby spelled each letter on the sign out very slowly. "Marmot, that s rather a pretty name. I wonder what——

"Did I hear someone calling my name?' asked a whistling voice, and a little furry fellow rounded the pile of rocks and waddled out towards Bobby. "Why, good morning, little boy. Did you call me?'

"Are you Mr. Marmot?' asked Bobby, his eyes twinkling with merriment. It was the first time he had ever been able to understand what any of the animals in the zoo said to him. "You surely are a pretty fellow in your handsome suit.

"Thank you, laughed Mr. Marmot. "I rather like the way the brown and white hairs on my back mix. Makes my suit look gray from a distance. I tell you, I wouldn t change the black on the top of my head, my feet and nails for anything. Some of the fellows, in the zoo here, think I m foolish about that, but black never shows the dirt and I do despise a dirty suit on any animal. Don t you?'

"I certainly do, replied Bobby. "I admire the black band that runs from each ear down to your neck and your little white chin and nose.

"And my light, rusty-colored vest and bushy tail, chuckled Mr. Marmot. "I don t look much like my cousin, Johnny Chuck, do I?'

"Well, yes, you do in shape, replied Bobby. "I believe you are quite a wee bit larger. Where is your home, Mr. Marmot?'

"Are You Mr. Marmot?"

"In the zoo here at present, laughed Mr. Marmot. "But before I was brought here, I lived far away in the West. My, those were terrible times, and Mr. Marmot sighed, as he thought of the old days. "Why, you never knew when you were safe from Grizzly Bear and his relatives. You see Mother Marmot and I lived in a burrow under some rocks.

"I should think a home under the rocks would be perfectly safe, said Bobby. "Who in the world could dig you out of there?'

"No home is safe against Grizzly Bear, said Mr. Marmot. "Why, with his great strong claws and heavy arms, he can uproot any of those rocks and dig us right out of our homes. And it wouldn t take him very long to devour a whole family of Marmots, either.

"Were your homes ever disturbed? asked Bobby.

"Many a time, replied Mr. Marmot. "But I m glad to say, we escaped him, and I'm glad I'm right here in this zoo. Here, I'm fed every day, so I never am hungry and I never tihnk about my old enemies. The only thing, sometimes, I'd like to go back and tell all my friends how nice this place is, so they would all come and live here."

"Some day I'll bring a little elfin friend of mine over, Mr. Marmot and he'll take you back on a visit," laughed Bobby. "But I must run to the store now for mother. I'll see you again real soon," and waving goodby, Bobby ran on his errand.

WHERE THE "QUEEN'S KEYS" HAVE RIGHT OF WAY.

The famous Yeoman of the Guards have for centuries been regarded as the flower of the British army. They are the picked men of the regular army.

The corps was organized in 1485 by Henry VII. He used them for personal protection on the day of his coronation. And since that day they have served as the bodyguard of the British sovereign.

At the beginning this royal guard was composed of two hundred members and it usually consisted of wealthy young noblemen. The commissions could be purchased. But when it was reorganized in 1861 and the number was reduced to one hundred, this system was changed. The commissions were awarded as the result of long and good service in the army.

The captain of the Yeomen is always a peer. He loses his office with a change in the ministry. The lieutenant is one who was a colonel or lieutenant-colonel in the regular army; the ensign and the clerk of the cheque must have been lieutenant-colonel or majors; the axons must have been captains and the privates and non-commissioned officers below the rank of sergeant.

One of the most elaborate of the customs of the Yeomen of the Guard is that of the nightly closing of the Tower of London. There is a special organization known as the Yeomen Warders of the Tower, the members of which are honorary members of the Yeomen of the Guard. It is the duty of this group to watch over the famous old Tower.

Each night, a few minutes before the Tower is closed, the head warden appears at the main guard and asks for the "Escort for the Keys." A party of six privates, headed by a sergeant, appears and eoscrts him to the outer gate. When the gate is locked, the warden returns with the keys and his escort.

Costume of a Beef-Eater.

As he passes the sentries on the way back, each of them halts him with the challenge, "Who goes there?" He replies, "The keys." The sentry replies, "What keys?" to which the answer, "The Queen's keys" is given. They are then permitted to pass until they reach the main guard. The latter turns out and after the same questions have been repeated and the answers given, the officer presents arms to the "Queen's keys." The keys are then taken to the Governor's house by the warden.

This elaborate ceremony sprang up as a result of the many plots which were hatched for the seizing of the Tower. Any serious disturbance or uprising in London usually begins by an attempt to seize the Tower and so the precautions taken to guard it are intricate and endless.

SUBWAY GARAGES.

Plans for a system of underground garages and subterranean streets as a means of relieving traffic congestion in Paris were announced recently by M. Morain, the prefect of police. For further relief of surface traffic congestion, says Popular Science Monthly, moving pavements have been suggested. The first of these pavements, according to the plan, probably would be elevated and would run along the boulevards having the heaviest traffic.

Federal Penitentiaries Had Population of 2,373 in Previous Year.

COST ABOUT NORMAL

Administration Expense $1,683,193 for Last Fiscal Year.

OTTAWA, Jan. 15. — (Canadian Press).—The average daily population of Canada's penitentiaries is decreasing, judging from the report of the Superintendent of Federal Jails for the last fiscal year. It was tabled in the House of Commons Thursday. In that year there were 2,217 unwilling guests of the Federal Government on any average day. In the previous year there were [illegible], and in the year before that 2,582.

The cost per capita per diem was lower last year than in 1923, but higher than in 1924. The figures are: 1925, $1.48; in 1924, $1.30; and in 1923, $1.53.

The general cost of administration of the seven Federal penitentiaries administered under the Superintendent of Penitentiaries for the Dominion was $1,683,193 for the last fiscal year. From this is deducted $168,323, revenue earned by the work of the prisoners.

Majority Young Men.

Of the 2,345 prisoners in all the penitentiaries on the last day of the fiscal year, 150 were serving life sentences. The majority, or 1,051, to be exact, were between 20 and 30 years old. Forty-five were over 60.

Referring to the habits of the prisoners before their incarceration, the report says that 464 were "intemperate," while 507 were total abstainers; there was only one divorced person in the number, 1,411 were single, 823 married and 110 widowed.

Canadian and British born constituted 1,693 of the number; 652 were foreigners. Only one native of India was included in the roster, 54 were negroid, 50 North American Indians, 40 were Mongolians and 2 were Eskimos.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A correspondent has sent me a long list of questions asking that they be answered in a paper printed within four or five days of the date of this letter. It takes several weeks to get these articles into type and distributed throughout the country. On this account my correspondent may think I am neglecting him. He will understand the delay when he gets this explanation.

His question relates to the problem of vaccination—in this case, vaccination against typhoid fever. He does not make clear the circumstances associated with an epidemic, but I assume them to be as follows:

The water supply of a given town was polluted. Because of imperfect chlorination, the germs of typhoid were not killed. In spite of the fact that "practically every occupant of the town, including the village doctor, received the necessary vaccination," there were many cases of typhoid.

Then follows the question: "Is not the vaccination supposed to serve as a protector and when it was given a chance, didn't it fail?"

So we may be on common ground, permit me to admit at once:

1. Because of a natural immunity possessed by many persons, not everybody in the world is susceptible to a given infectious disease, typhoid fever for instance. Some of the claims for vaccination should be discounted a little on this account, because such persons would not have the disease anyway.

2. Out of a given number of susceptible persons some will be very much more susceptible than others. On this account, the dosage or number of treatments given may produce the desired protection in most of the group, but not in all. Likewise, the treatment may be given too late—after the disease has become seated.

I have no knowledge of the facts in the town mentioned by my correspondent, but if he will apply my two axioms to the case it will help him to form an opinion. undoubtedly some persons had the disease who had been inoculated against it. Others did not have it because they were naturally immune. But study of all the facts involved will convince him beyond all doubt that vaccination is a reasonable means of protection against the disease.

Even though vaccination does not completely ward off the disease it much modifies it. The attack is much milder and unlikely to be fatal.

I was in Glasgow a few years ago during an epidemic of smallpox. In a given week eighty-two children under fifteen years of age were reported with the disease. Twenty-one of them had been vaccinated, too long before to offer complete protection. Of the twenty-one, not one died of the disease. Of the sixty-one, eighteen died. These are significant figures.

My correspondent inquires further: "Is it not fair to assume that if the water was not polluted there would have been no typhoid? Would it not be wise to figure that sanitation is more to be relied upon than vaccination?"

To both of these questions, I answer yes. But since we are never free from the dangers of pollution or contact with an unsuspected carrier, to make assurance doubly sure, let us insist on sanitation for the public good and let us practice vaccination for our individual good.

AFRICAN WOMEN SLAVES OF MEN

Account of Missionary Work in Darkest Continent By Rev. J. A. Steed.

AT BAILIEBORO.

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 15. — On Tuesday evening the Young People's League of the United Church held one of the most instructive and interesting meetings of the year.

The pastor, Rev. Foley, occupied the chair, and after the conclusion of the devotional exercises the meeting was given entirely over to Rev. J. A. Steed, a returned missionary from West Africa, formerly a missionary sent out by the Congregational Church, but now by the United Church of Canada. Rev. Mr. Steed spoke for almost two hours to more than one hundred of a congregation, and the silence which reigned throughout the address was sufficient to prove the appreciation of the attentive listeners.

The missionary chose for his text "Watchman, what of the night?" and compared the darkness of the coal mines, of which he himself as a boy worked in in Wales, previous to his entering the ministry, to the darkness of the heathen countries. One can never understand the inky blackness of a coal mine, stated the speaker, until your lantern goes out while in a mine, and we are left in the inky blackness. I never could until this happened to me. It is the worst blackness that one can imagine, "and this darkness is Africa." I have been sent out to Africa to preach and teach the Gospel by you people, and I feel as though I am the watchman, and now that I have returned home for a short period, back again out of the darkness into the light, I feel as though you Christian people are asking me, "Watchman! what of the night?" out there in Africa, and so I have come home with abundance of news to tell you of the advancement of Christianity in Africa since I first started my mission there.

Natives Superstitious.

Thirty-nine years ago the first missionary went out to Angora, and to-day the speaker tells of his wonderful prayer meetings which he holds during the evenings of the week, and has an attendance of fifteen hundred natives at these meetings. Africa, he stated, is cursed with four of the worst kind of darknesses, and they are, "the darkness of superstition," "the darkness of witchcraft," "darkness of envy," and "darkness of jealousy." The natives of Africa are more superstitious, than one could realize. Witchcraft rules the people of that land. They are envious of well-doers, and jealousy exists to a great extent. If one of a family dies, the natives believe that this has been an evil spirit that has caused this death, and usually before it is settled three or four others are put to death by the witch doctor, as they are supposed to be possessed with an evil spirit, and so the witch doctor controls the lives of the natives of Africa.

Women Do the Work.

Mr. Steed stated that the life of an African woman was a life of slavery. Some of the men there will have as many as nine wives, and these women will have to work in the fields and support their families. But there was one thing that was noticeable, that the natives took special pride in trying to follow the habits of the white folks. Once they begin to have confidence in a white man they are their dearest friends, and he is like a great chief among them. Mr. Steed said he could go in and out their homes as he liked and do just as he liked in their own town; he was the great chief indeed to his people. They are really a race of people whom one can learn to love, and it is a pleasure to work among these people, where they appreciate so much all that the missionary does for them and their fellow-men. At the end of their third year's work in Africa, his wife stated that if they ever got back to their home country again, that they would never go back to the heathen land again, but now both the missionary and his wife are so bound up in their people of Africa and their great Christian work, that they are anxiously awaiting the day when they can return to their work again in the heathen land.

Hospital Work.

Last year they had twenty-eight thousand patients in their great missionary hospital, and although they are sometimes disappointed in some of their cases, still there are frequently miracles performed on many of their patients, and these miracles are gradually breaking the control of the witch doctors.

There has been a wonderful advancement within the last thirty-nine years, and now there is just the faintest pencil of light gleaming through the darkness of Africa, and Mr. Steed is hoping that ere long, the day may come when there will be no more darkness in Africa, but that the darkness shall all have vanished and light, "gleaming light," shall take its place over in the heathen lands of Africa.

Upon Rev. Mr. Steed's return to his foreign mission he will take back with him a pair of Canadian bacon pigs, two ploughs for the natives how to use them to plough their land instead of digging it with hoes. He will also carry a lantern to show the slides of his work and thus make it more interesting the pictures. [illegible] of the collection Rev. and Mrs. [illegible] to carry [illegible] them, to teach the people and help to win their souls.

At the conclusion of the missionary's address an offering was taken and the total offering was given to Mr. Steed to assist him in buying his provisions to take back with him.

On Wednesday evening Rev. Mr. Steed gave a lecture and showed the picture slides of his work in Africa at Fraserville United Church to the members of the Fraserville Church and members of the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor of Springville United Church. Rev. A. H. McConnachie, their pastor, was also present.

The missionary, in closing his address, stated that although it is quite impossible for everyone to give as heavily as they might wish to the financial part of the missionary work, and although everyone cannot leave their own work in this Christian land and go to the foreign lands to preach the Gospel, still there is something that even the poorest Christian can do, and that is pray with all their soul to God to deliver the heathens from their world of darkness to the way of light. These poor souls are human; and their souls are just as worthy of being saved as the white people.

BETHANY W.M.S. HELD MEETING

Mrs. Jemison Presented Paper on "Going Apart to Pray."

FIRST COUNCIL HELD

BETHANY, Jan. 15—A very pleasant and profitable meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Weatherilt on Tuesday afternoon with eight members and one visitor present. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Jackson and was opened by the use of the missionary watchword, a hymn and the Apostles' Creed repeated by all. Rev. Mr. Poulter then led in prayer.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and the roll called. It was decided to withdraw the usual quarterly tea in February but that the funds might not suffer each member make a free will offering of $1.00. It was decided also to have the annual Sunday anniversary services sometime during the month of March and to have a returned missionary speak, the date to be decided at the next meeting.

CHURCHILL ERRED UNDER TRAFFIC LAW

London Wonders If Prosecution Will Ensue.

LONDON, Jan. 15—Mr. Churchill is again the center of a delightful comedy. Wednesday his name was taken by a traffic policeman because he insisted on driving his automobile along Downing street from near the houses of parliament without conforming to the regulations of going around by Parliament square.

He argued with the policeman, and London is now wondering if the police will prosecute, particularly as on Tuesday at Belfast, Col. Wilfrid Ashley, minister of transportation, stated that this new regulation would make every member of parliament a [illegible] of his activities in that off[illegible]don is speculating what [illegible]llor is saying to Ash[illegible] first victim.

JANUARY POETS WON CONTEST

A.Y.P.A. and Christ Church Congregation "At Home" to Sister Parishes.

FINE PROGRAMME

OMEMEE, Jan. 15.—On Monday evening, the A.Y.P.A. and congregation of Christ Church were "At Home" to the congregation of St. John's and St. James'. The inclemency of the weather prevented the attendance of many from the more distant parts of the parish, and braveing the snow storm, a good representation from St. John's shared in the good fellowship which marked the gathering.

An interesting programme of readings by Miss Carrie McQuade and Mr. Horace Hill, solos by Miss Mildred Magee, Miss Marion Dickson and Mr. W. G. Stephenson and a duet by Miss Dickson and Mr. Stephenson, was followed by instrumental music by the Stephenson trio and community singing. Next came a competition designed to test the poetical abilities of those present who were grouped for the trial according to months in which their birthdays fall. Twelve minutes were given for the writing of a "poem" of which the first line was to be "I had the time of my life." The efforts of most of the competitors seemed to be directed towards the recounting, in more or less measured numbers, of their frantic searches for a life partner. After due consideration the judges decided that the effort of the January group best deserved the box of chocolates which formed the prize.

The large gathering expressed themselves as well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

LOCARNO TREATY EMPIRE PROBLEM

Should Be Submitted To Dominion Parliaments.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 15. (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). —Replying in the House of Representatives on Thursday to a statement by Andrew Charlton, leader of the Labor party, that Australia should be very careful about committing herself to the Locarno pact, and that it was very much better in his opinion to get the nations into the League of Nations, Premier Stanley Bruce stated that the Locarno treaty was one of the most hopeful signs since the war, but it raised the constitutional question of Empire character, namely the question of one part of the Empire entering the pact without all parts being parties to it.

Premier Bruce pointed out that all the Dominions had been kept informed as the negotiations progressed. He thought that after discussion in all parts of the empire, the matter should be submitted to the various parliaments for final decision.
